EXTENDING THEIR TERRITORY.

An Immense Demand for Dodd's Kidney Pills in the United States.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—It is a singular fact, but nevertheless a fact that residents of the United States are peculiarly liable to Bright's disease and other kidney affections. One authority claims that fully 50 per cent. of the total population of America are afflicted with kidney disease in a more less acute stage. About ten months ago, a new specific made its appearance here in the shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills. It speedily came into popular favour and the demand has grown steadily ever since until at the present time its sales exceed those of any other preparation. Many remarkable cures have been recorded in this city which are fully attested by reputable citizens.

WITH FINGER TIPS.

HOW HELEN KELLER WAS TAUGHT THE NAMES OF THINGS.

Something of the Method Explained by Her Tireless Instructress—A Face That Mirrors a Soul Which Knows Naught of the Appearance of Sin.

The most interesting feature of the educational congress was the appearance of Helen Keller under the kind and skillful guidance of Miss Annie M. Sullivan, her teacher. When a babe, Helen Keller became blind, deaf and dumb. When Miss Sullivan, a young woman of unusual beauty of form and feature, stood before the audience beside a girl who, except for the sad sign of blindness in the large eyes, gave promise of still greater beauty, her face glistening with a rapture that painters try to express in the ecstacy of angels, hearts seemed to stand still. It was a face that had never consciously looked on the distortions of passion or pain—the mirror of a soul that could not imagine the outward appearance of sin nor remember any of the discords of life.

In her presence it was hard to appreciate the fact that her world lay within ours, without sun, music or speech. No one who saw it will forget the impulsive fluttering of her young, white hand as it sought her teacher's face or round, white throat; the satisfaction when the contact of her delicate white finger tips gave her what sight gives us; the flash of light over her face when, with her forefinger resting on her teacher's lip, she read the answer to the question she had asked by the twinkling digital movements in her teacher's palm. There were those who wept when she repeated audibly, with a depth of feeling she alone can feel:

Tell me not in mournful numbers
Life is but an empty dream.

All were invited to ask questions, yet not many did so. The occasion seemed sacred.

"How did you teach her the first word?" some one ventured at last.

"Her first word was 'doll,'" was the answer. "I gave her the doll, placed her finger on my lip and spoke the word. When she wearied of the doll, I took it from her, and when I returned it again gave the movement of the lips. The second word was 'mug.' I used the cup from which she drank, but became convinced that she had not a clear idea of the name, but that it meant to her she water or drink. So I one day took her to the pump, and as the water was flowing into her cup had her hold her hand in the stream, and then putting her finger on my lip gave her the word 'water.' Then I again gave her the word 'mug.' The idea that everything had a name, the comprehension of nouns, was a great revelation to her and came then and all at once. She was greatly excited. A nurse, with the baby sister in her arms, was standing near. Helen immediately put her hand on its face to know its name. I told her 'baby,' and she caught it at once. Then she stooped down and patted the ground to know what it was called. She learned many words that day, and those words she never forgot."

"How soon after she learned words did she frame sentences?"

"Immediately."

"Were verbs harder to learn than nouns?"

"Not at all. I began with such words as 'sit,' 'stand' and the like that were easy to illustrate. Prepositions troubled her most."

"How does she get an idea of the abstract?"

"I cannot tell. It seems to be with her, or it comes."

"Has she any distinguishing sense of musical vibrations?"

"Yes, very distinct. She likes music."

"Is her vocabulary large?"

"Very large. She expresses herself fluently and is choice of words."

"What books does she like best?"

Every now and then the white fingers fluttered to the teacher's face for just one delicate touch—a finger look it was—and now they rested on Miss Sullivan's lip:

"Tell—the—people—what—books—you—like—best."

Helen's face was an open book of her mental processes. She repeated each word after Miss Sullivan, but hesitated a little on the words "tell" and "you," the brightness of her face dimming for the instant. As soon as she comprehended the question, which she did in advance of its completion, the flash of intelligence came, and when she turned toward the audience, for she did not seem at any time to lose her location, she said with spirit:

"Oh, I have read so much that it is very hard to say what I like best, but"—waiting a moment—"'Little Lord Fauntleroy'"— And then followed rapidly the names of several works, some of which, it would seem, could hardly be understood by any one who cannot know sound and color.

"How do you read?"

"By raised letters and by my teacher."

"I noticed when you pronounced for her you articulated with an exaggerated motion of the lips," said one. "Is not that necessary?"

"Her teaching was begun in that way. I do not think it is necessary or best. I attribute the peculiarity of her voice to that mechanical action which she uses. I think it would have been better still just as they if she had been spoken to with the usual movement."

In reply to the question of her knowledge of the abstract, General Fairn remarked that the greatest development in the case of Helen Keller was that of the spiritual.—Memphis Appeal-Avalanche.

Lady of the House—Bother the business depression! To my knowledge you haven't done a stroke of work for years.

Transient Individual—Of course. I was merely anticipating the panic, you know—getting used to loafing so I shouldn't mind it when there was no work to be had.—Boston Transcript.

Good Enough For a Beast.

A droll little story is told of Mr. W. S. Gilbert. He put up his horse one day at a small country inn, on the signboard of which was painted conspicuously the notice, "Entertainment for man and beast." When his lunch was brought, he looked dissatisfied, and surprised the waiter by saying, "This is all very well so far, but where is the entertainment for the man?"—London Tit-Bits.

Pigeons Do Not Fly by Sight.

The numerous experiments made by balloonists have proved that pigeons are incapable of flying at any great height. Birds thrown out at 6,000 meters fall like dead, and even at the moderate height of 900 meters pigeons liberated by the balloonist Gaston Tissandier approached the earth in a spiral course. It is evident, hence, that they are not guided wholly by sight. To bring a point 900 miles distant within the range of vision it would be necessary to ascend nearly 20,000 meters. The carrier pigeon, starting on such a journey, must consequently start with faith in the unseen.—Philadelphia Press.

The Fickle and Raging Missouri.

The current of the Mississippi river averages from 2½ to 4 miles an hour in velocity, but a steamboatman on the Missouri would be pretty apt to call this still water, as that stream bowls along under ordinary circumstances at the rate of 8 and 10 miles an hour, and on state occasions it develops the speed of an avalanche. Engineers consider bridging the Missouri a difficult accomplishment, as the swift current is so versatile in its course and ruinous in its velocity that it is impossible to predict where the channel is liable to drift.—Alton Sentinel.

The Term Spinster.

Among our industrial and frugal English forefathers it was a maxim that a young woman should never be married until she had spun herself a set of body, table and bed linen. From this custom all unmarried women were termed spinsters, an appellation they still retain in all our law proceedings.—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Tapping of the Deathwatch.

The so called deathwatch, dreaded by the superstitious, is a small beetle which has a very powerful joint in its neck and calls its mate by tapping with its head on the wall or on any surface where it may happen to be located. The noise is similar to that which may be produced by tapping with the finger nails on a table, and the insect can frequently be made to answer such taps.—New York Evening Sun.

Why They Would Not Kiss the Stone.

A correspondent is guilty of being the originator of the following joke: "Many people would not kiss the Blarney stone at the World's fair if they knew it was merely a shum-rock." — Philadelphia Ledger.

Jules D'Estimanville Clement writes from Montreal:—"I was suffering from skin disease, and after all drugs failed tried Burdock Blood Bitters, of which three bottles restored me to good health. I recommend it also for dyspepsia."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Reasons for Success.

The success of Norway Pine Syrup as a cure for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles is due to the fact that it is the best and pleasantest remedy ever discovered, and because its action is prompt and certain.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognised by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do it work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganisation of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When Carl removed Pete to Heaven,
And Bill was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
He lingering was gone Pa's diseases,
Though full of grief, yet up no despair,
Relatives spoke as kind and fair.
Cousin Jack said that he, for one,
Would help in any way he could be done.
Cousin Ursula, Aunt Anne,
Uncle Ned never came to want
But multiply with help at the best,
A true friend was found the rest.
Many think when they'll take us all,
Only their names were low and small.
We'd promised from Uncle Pete.
To pack us forward when of age.
They then were home, but stop, I miss.

They gape us every one, a kiss,
Ans said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa.
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,
From the Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the long discovery said.
To pay commenced it in stead wards,
And then the grass, it seemed no funny,
To help Mamma, would learn money.

Cattle Trade Increasing.

Cattle market returns, in Toronto, show receipts of cattle during January and February of 13,648 head, as compared with 8,776 for a like period last year. Entries of sheep were 9,199 for January an February, 1895, and 6,436 in 1894; of hogs, 14,686, in 1895; and 14,253 in 1894.

A Peculiar Accident.

A son of Geo. Lyntic, of Bethel, was bringing a load of wood to Peterborough on Tuesday, and was standing on the hind part of a sleigh going through a pitch hole, when the tongue of a sleigh driving close behind them, ran into his back. He was brought to town and being found to being seriously hurt was removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where it was ascertained that although there were no bones broken, a very severe flesh wound had been inflicted. He is now on a fair way to recovery.

Hand Injured by a "Picker."

Mr. Geo. Riddell, of Campbellford, met with an accident on Friday, which will lay him aside from work for a few weeks. He was employed as the picker in Messrs. Ruth's woollen mill, and having occasion to stop the machine he threw off the belt, and soon afterwards put his hand into the opening to clean it out, thinking the cylinder had ceased revolving. He made a mistake, however, as the teeth of the cylinder, which was still moving, came in contact with his hand and tore the flesh. As soon as Riddell shouted, Robert Reynolds, who was in the room, ran to his assistance and stopped the cylinder.

Not the Pride of a Mother's Heart.

On Sunday evening last there was an increase in one of the families of Campbellford in an unexpected way. A fine, plump little baby boy was left upon the doorstep of the dwelling, and it is now being cared for by its alleged grandmother. The little waif, who is about a year and six months old, has been tenderly cared for since its birth by its mother, who is said to reside in the neighbourhood of Frankford. It was comfortably wrapped up, and was none the worse for having had a berth outside the building for a short time. Its mother, who is not in good circumstances, claims that a certain member of the family where the little one was left, has a better right to its care than she has, and she took this means of settling the matter, it is said, after having failed in getting money from the proper source for its support. The child will continue to receive kind treatment.—Herald.

The attention of the EXAMINER has been called to the fact that in the list of contributors to the programme of the George street Ladies' Aid social on Friday night, the names of Mrs. Brodigan and Mrs. Chas. McClelland were omitted. Both acceptably furnished accompaniments, and the former in addition furnished a solo.

—The ice in the Otonabee is unfit for traffic, it having become spongy and rotten. Yesterday at the locks a team broke through and with great difficulty were rescued. At Yankee Bonnet a horse and cutter also broke through. Teamsters using the river for a short cut should be most careful lest more serious accidents may occur.

At a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association—the antechamber to, and the almoner of, the "Red Parlour"—held in Toronto on Wednesday, Peterborough was well represented, by Mr. President W. The lathing of the partitions in the new Cox block has all been placed in position and the plasterers are now busily engaged in finishing up their part of the contract. The wall dividing the new building from the older Cox block on Hunter street has been broken through and the upper stories of both buildings are now connected.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Thursday, Feb. 28th.—Yesterday was a very mild day. In the morning we had 16 degrees above zero at 1 p.m., and continuing for some time at 48 degrees, and at sundown at 40 degrees. And again at this morning's observation the thermometer indicated 35 degrees above zero with every prospect of my rain coming.—THOS. TELFORD.

Extensive Lumbering Operations.

Everything promises well for brisk "driving" on the local waters during the coming spring and summer. Gilmour's drive at Healey Falls will be pushed through as soon as the ice clears the river, and their drive at Lakefield will follow it up shortly afterwards. These in addition to the new drives to be moved by both the Gilmour Co. and Rathbun Co. will make business active the greater part of the summer. The outlook for extensive lumbering operations is the best for a number of years.

Diphtheria Outbreak.

We are informed, says the Campbellford Herald, that the people residing at Rush Point, in the township of Belmont, are considerably alarmed over what appears to be the outbreak of diptheria in that locality. For several days past two children of Mr. Justice Alley, postmaster at that place, have been ill, and it is now reported that Drs. Ford and Jeffs, of Havelock, have pronounced their illness diptheria. The township officials immediately called in session the board of health, to take proper steps for the safety of the community.

A Weapon of War.

A novelty in the shape of a Japanese sword is on exhibition in the window of Mr. Geo. Rubidge, tobacconist. The sheath is in two pieces, about two feet in length, and the weapon itself is evidently only for use at close quarters, when it would without doubt prove a most dangerous instrument in the hands of a lively Jap. The sheath is artistically ornamented with cast plate, stamped with Japanese figures, and the weapon itself is ground to a keen edge. It was sent to Mr. Rubidge from San Francisco by Mr. John Smith, formerly in Mr. Rubidge's employ.

A New Firm.

Miss Hoolihan and Miss Cahill announce the purchase of the millinery business carried on by Miss Delaney and further announce that the business will be carried along on the same lines as heretofore, Miss Hayes retaining her position as head mantle maker and Miss Hoolihan continuing to superintend the trimming of the hats. Misses Hoolihan and Cahill have just returned from the millinery openings in Toronto, where large purchases were made of the newest and most fashionable goods. The old stock having been sold off, everything carried by the new firm will be of the latest design. Miss Hoolihan and Miss Cahill were formerly with Miss Delaney, and both have many friends in town, who will be pleased to accord them their patronage. The store re-opens under the new firm on Saturday next.

HOCKEY.

Lindsay's hockey team arrived in town this afternoon, and to-night, on the rink, will play the Volts. The puck will be faced at 9 o'clock. The Volts' team will be:—Goal, Kelly; point, Knowles; cover point, Wilgar; forwards. Hicks, Thorne, Hall and Claxton.

In regard to the hockey match in Toronto on Tuesday when the Peterboroughs won the Junior Championship of Canada, it has been rumoured that the Granites would protest the match. The uselessness of such a proceeding is apparent in the face of the fact that Mr. Fred Holland, timekeeper for the Granites, and Mr. Geo. J. Horkins, officiating in the same capacity for the Peterboroughs, agree in the following statement:

1st half started at 8.28 and ended at 9.10 —42 minutes, 12 minutes being taken off for lost time repairing goal post.

2nd half started at 9.20 and ended at 9.55. Lost time in this half was five minutes, two of which was caused by loss of puck and three by S. Adam's skate and pad getting loose. The half hour was up by the time the timekeepers got down on the ice to inform the referee. The two timekeepers agreed as to time being up and the Granites had no cause for thinking there was longer time to play.

CURLIANA.

The "Colts" and "Vets" played an interesting match at the rink last evening, when the Colts won a most decisive victory over their opponents, only allowing them to score in four ends out of an eighteen end game. The result was as follows:

Vets.	Colts.
Jno Stanger,	W Thompson.
Jno McClelland,	J S Knapman.
Geo Brown,	C N Brown.
F Rutherford, skip..6	D Davidson, skip 14

There will be a meeting of all the skips of both divisions, at the rink, to-night, at 9 o'clock. This spring-like weather suggests the necessity of making arrangements for running off scheduled matches before the ice fails.

One rink of Lindsay Colts arrived in town at noon to-day and play was started at the rink at about 2 o'clock. When the ninth end had been played the score stood 13—1 in favour of Lindsay. The rinks played in the following order:

Lindsay.	Peterborough.
E Rutherford,	J S Knapman,
R M Fee,	C N Brown,
H Knowlson,	E R Clegg,
W Reesor, sk.	Dickson Davidson, sk.

INCOMPATABLE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

MY DEAR SIR,—When in Toronto some days ago I was shown a little hand book containing "Fifty Facts About Peterborough," setting forth the claims of the "first town of Ontario" as a centre of commercial industrial and social activity.

The following evening I discovered that I was storm bound and would be unable to reach home in time for my Sunday duties, whereupon I entered the G.N.W. telegraph office at the Union Station and wrote out a message explaining the situation, but was informed "Peterborough office closed at 8 p.m."

That there should be no telegraphic communication after 8 p.m. seemed to me rather inconsistent with our claims to be a prosperous centre.

Yours, etc.,
CHARLES W. HENLEY.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

What They Think of the Mail and Empire Encyclopaedia Distribution.

The following letters are samples of many being received by the Mail and Empire representative endorsing the enterprise of that paper in the distribution being made of the Encyclopædia Britannica:—

I have in my possession a copy of the Britannica inferior in style and workmanship to that shown me by the representative of the Mail and Empire. At the price quoted I think their work the cheapest in the market. I have much pleasure in testifying to the great value the Encyclopædia Britannica has been to me and I believe that the library of no man is complete without this work upon its shelves.

FRED. H. BRENNAN, M.D.

The value of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is so well known that little need be said in its favor. To me the more important features are:—

1. Its thoroughness.
2. Its scientific accuracy.

It is reliable because its editors are authorities of the highest standing in their departments.

I think the people of Canada should be grateful to the managers of the Mail and Empire for their enterprise in arranging with the publishers to supply the latest edition of the Encyclopaedia at such low rates and on conditions which make it possible for so many people to purchase it.

JAMES L. HUGHES,
Inspector of Schools, Toronto.

I heartily agree with the above estimate of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE PETERBOROUGH CENTRAL.

Little or no Change Made in the Prize List—Gardners Want More Room.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Central Exhibition, held yesterday afternoon, with President Elliott in the chair, there were present Messrs. Vance, Rutherford, Davidson, Hall, Hunter, Stothart, Braden, Garbutt and Morgan.

Few changes were made in the lists and the prizes awarded for cattle, horses, pigs, sheep and poultry are practically the same as last year. Mr. D. A. Shaw, who is in charge of the Art Department, will, it is understood, make changes reducing the number of prizes awarded and increasing their value.

Mrs. Birdsall and Mrs. Macpherson are in charge of the ladies' department, and will make some few changes in that portion of the prize list attended to by them.

Mr. W. C. Rightmeyer was present at the meeting, and directed the attention of the members to some needed revision in the gardeners' department. He urged the directors strongly to give the gardens more room for display in the building.

A picket fence will in all probability be erected encircling the entire race track.

THE CONVENTION CLOSED.

Conference Conventions Organized—Officers of the Bay of Quinte Section.

The convention of Young Methodists in Toronto was brought to a close Wednesday evening.

At the afternoon session the conference conventions were held. The various districts within the bounds of each conference assembled, organised themselves into conventions and elected officers. The following are the officers of the Bay of Quinte convention: Hon. President, the President of Conference, Rev. S. J. Shorey; President, C. P. Halton, Belleville; First Vice-President, Rev. D. S. Houck, Enniskillen; Second Vice-President, Miss Jonass, Bowmanville; Third Vice-President, Rev. W. B. Tucker, B.A., Coboconk; Fourth Vice-President, J. S. Balnard, Whitby; Fifth Vice-President, Miss L. Kennedy, Peterborough; Secretary, Rev. C. W. Watch, Brighton; Treasurer, Miss Laster, Belleville; representative on Epworth League Board, Rev. S. T. Bartlett, Cobourg.

Better be Early Than Late.

Ladies may rest assured of this fact that Miss Delaney's clearing sale will positively close on the 1st of March. The store must be vacated on that date without fail. To accomplish this the goods must be sold, no matter what the sacrifice. Extra bargains have already been given, and better ones are still to follow. For a few days there will be a special sale of gloves, flowers and veilings—but other bargains will still go on. Prices are lower than the ladies of Peterborough have ever seen attached to high-class millinery. Miss DELANEY.

INAUGURATION OF LENTEN SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. Carl Smith, of Lindsay, Delivers a Sermon on the Bible.

The inauguration of the special Lenten services took place last evening in St. John's church, when Rev. Carl Smith, of Lindsay, was present, and delivered a most interesting and instructive sermon. He took the Bible as the subject of his discourse.

Mr. Smith is a clear and lucid speaker and handled his subject well. In the course of his remarks he dwelt upon the fact that God had spoken to many in many different ways, viz: through the book of nature, through the providential ordering of the world's history, through the person of His Son and

THROUGH HIS SAINTS.

He had also sent a direct message to mankind through the pages of the Bible.

In speaking of the Bible Mr. Smith expressed himself to the effect that it was a book at once human and divine. It was divinely given and inspired but men had the writing of it and the different portions were distinguished by the different characteristics of the writers thereof. These writers were separated by different periods throughout the 2,000 years, which were occupied in writing the Book and therefore all kinds of subjects were dealt with in different ways. Yet the sum total of all these was found to be tuned to the one key and guided by one spirit—the spirit of God.

Many people, he thought,

DERIVED LITTLE BENEFIT

through Bible reading, through regarding their Bibles as charms, but the only way to derive benefit was to bring to bear upon the reading the power of intelligence of spirit and of meditation. One must read for information, understanding the particular character of the individual books.

The central and most important part o the Bible was, of course, the four Gospel histories, in which are recorded the teachings of Christ as heard by his disciples.

The speaker then went on to give instances of great men, whose

LIVES HAD BEEN INFLUENCED

by Bible reading, through which medium lives great and small could be guarded and helped. It had been said to a student, the walls of whose room were decorated with unbecoming pictures, that if he would hang amongst them the divinely beautiful picture of the Virgin Mary and Child, the coarse pictures would have to disappear before it. If we would hang our minds and imagination with pictures from the same historians, many sinful thoughts and ideas would necessarily flee before them.

The sermon at the service next Wednesday evening will be delivered by the venerable and eloquent Rev. Canon Burke, rector of St. Thomas church, Belleville

During the Lenten Season, half hour services will be held every afternoon at St. John's, beginning at five o'clock.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—A leading column in yesterday's Evening Review contains a description of the Balsam Lake section—the dear ("My Dear Onderdonk") section—of the Trent Valley Canal.

I do not believe it was written by a member of the editorial staff. Apart from the crudeness of the description, the writer must indeed have had a very poor appreciation of the people's intelligence when he tells them they are incapable of understanding, without the aid of illustrations, the working and function of a common canal lift lock, and a very little look at that.

It would be a great relief to the people of Peterborough, and to the community at large, if these grand canal men all around were locked into one capacious RAM-BOX, as it is euphemistically called, and kept there until their tongues had ceased wagging about their great doings and achievements, and all the rest of the fudge and nonsense being indulged in ad nauseum over this too much talked of little canal.

Yours truly,
J. W. FITZGERALD.

A RECEPTION TENDERED THE NEW CURATE.

Rev. B. C. Andrews Cordially Welcomed at the Mission.

On Tuesday evening a reception was tendered Rev. B. C. Andrews, the new curate, by the South Ward Mission branch of the Woman's Auxiliary. The interior of the Mission building was profusely and beautifully decorated with flags and bunting for the occasion, and church people from all portions of the parish were in attendance.

Rev. Mr. Andrews took the chair and introduced a short but excellent programme, the numbers in which were kindly contributed by Miss Carrie Clarke, Miss Rankham, Miss Sproule, Mrs. Hibbard, Miss Vink and Rev. Mr. Andrews.

At the conclusion of the rendition of the programme those present were invited to the basement, where under the direction of Mrs. D. J. Lundy, refreshments of a most inviting character had been prepared by the ladies. A spirit of great sociability prevaded the gathering and the informal but most pleasurable nature of the reception was fully appreciated by those present. The evening was brought to a close by an address by the rector.

Rev. Mr. Andrews has got settled down to work under the most favourable auspices and should be indeed encouraged by the very warm and cordial nature of the reception tendered him.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

A Short Sitting of the House—A Temperance Deputation.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—A large number of the members of the Legislature, Liberals, Conservatives and Patrons, accepted an invitation from Hon. Mr. Dryden to visit the Agricultural College at Guelph yesterday, and as a result only a small attendance gathered at the House. A short sitting was held, but nothing of importance was done.

Mr. Alfred Evanturel, the last member to arrive, was at the Parliament buildings yesterday.

A deputation of Royal Templars will wait on the Government to-day.

The Children's Protection Act.

One hundred and five children have been placed out in comfortable homes throughout the province during the past year under the provisions of the Children's Protection Act of 1893. This is the main feature in the report of Mr. Kelso, the superintendent of neglected and dependent children, which has been laid before the House of Assembly. One hundred and forty complaints were received at the office and ninety applications were made for children. Twenty-three children's aid societies were organized, 30 children's visiting committees appointed, 56 meetings addressed and 18,000 pieces of childsaving literature distributed. Indirectly many thousands of dollars have been economized to the regular agencies of charity and philanthropy.

Thinks Dynamite Was Used.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—Mr. Spink, the manager of McLaughlin's aerated water factory, which was wrecked by an explosion, stated yesterday that the excavation had proceeded far enough to show that the boiler is sound, and had not blown up, as was said. Mr. Spink is now of the opinion that the explosion was of dynamite, but he cannot imagine who would put the explosive in the building, or desire to wreck the place.

Chief McKinnon's Suit.

HAMILTON, Feb. 28.—Ex-Chief of Police Hugh McKinnon has instructed his solicitors, Nesbitt & Gould, to issue a writ against the Toronto Star asking $2,000 damages for an alleged libel published in that journal on February 22. The article complained of appeared in the Hamilton special correspondence in relation to the strike on the T. H. & B., and stated that the ex-chief was rolled in the snow and was guyed by the strikers.

Brampton's Crazy Family.

BRAMPTON, Feb. 28.—David and Samuel McClure, two of the family who went crazy over religion, will be sent to the Toronto asylum. John, the younger brother, has almost fully recovered and is at liberty. The mother has also recovered and is at home. The daughters are being treated by Dr. C. Y. Moore. They are making satisfactory improvement and will no doubt are long regain their senses.

Drowned in the Surf.

LOCKEPORT, N. S., Feb. 28.—News of a drowning accident was received from Little Harbor yesterday. Two young men, Jason Swansburg and burns Lewis, were returning from Gunning, when their boat was capsized in the surf and both thrown out. The accident was fatal to Swansburg, whose body was recovered in the evening. He was 18 years of age.

An Expression of Confidence in the Pastorate of Rev. W. R. Young.

At the conclusion of the regular Wednesday evening service in George street church, last evening, the Quarterly Board met and passed the following resolution, which will be laid before the stationing committee:

"This Quarterly Board rejoices in the fact that under the pastorate of Rev. W. R. Young the church has enjoyed great peace and continued prosperity, financial and spiritual. At no time in the history of the congregation has there prevailed greater confidence and love between pastor and people, and at no time has there existed in the congregation a higher spiritual life. This Board gives thanks to the great Head of the church, and tenders to their beloved pastor their congratulations, and offer to him their continued sympathy and support."

The resolution is tantamount to an invitation to Rev. Mr. Young to remain a third year with the congregation.

MOODY AND SANKEY.

STORY OF HOW MOODY DISCOVERED THE MAN TO HELP HIM.

It Was at a Meeting In Indianapolis That the Voice of the Great Singer Was First Heard by the Stirring Evangelist—Their First Work.

It was at Indianapolis in 1870 that these two men first made each other's acquaintance. Mr. Moody was already displaying that zeal in evangelistic work which subsequently made him famous, though then his efforts and his reputation were confined largely to Chicago. Mr. Sankey's home was in Newcastle, Pa., where he was then serving as an internal revenue officer. His father was a banker and active in politics and held under Lincoln's appointment the important position of collector of inland revenue for four large counties in western Pennsylvania. Young Sankey was then a Christian, having been converted a number of years before during a Methodist revival, and his talent of song had already begun to be used for his Master.

Coming to Indianapolis to attend as a delegate from Newcastle the national convention of the Young Men's Christian association, Mr. Sankey attended one morning a 6 o'clock prayer meeting, held in the basement of the First Baptist church, led by Mr. Moody. The singing dragged, and Mr. Sankey, at the suggestion of a minister who was seated beside him, started up the familiar hymn, "There is a fountain filled with blood." It went well and was followed by other songs equally successful, and Mr. Moody became so interested that he looked about to see whence the new impetus in singing came. After the meeting closed, with characteristic quickness of decision, Mr. Moody, hardly waiting for an introduction, said to Mr. Sankey:

"You're the man I have been looking for for the last eight years. Come and lunch with me." The invitation was accepted, and later in the day the two men got together, and the subject of a future combination of forces was talked over in downright earnest. Mr. Moody pressed upon Mr. Sankey the duty of at once joining him in Chicago, but in Sankey's mind there were some practical objections arising from his business and family connections. "I am a government officer," he said to Mr. Moody, "and may find it difficult to get released." "There is a better government to serve than this," was the reply that flashed instantly out. But, persuasive as Mr. Moody was, he did not carry his point then and there. Mr. Sankey took several months in which to consider the matter.

That very afternoon, however, the first Moody and Sankey public meeting was held, with no advertisement except the singing as led by Mr. Moody's newly found friend. It was an outdoor gathering, and the masses were there. Mr. Moody brought out a box from a store to a favorably located street corner, mounted it, and there a short but fervent service of preaching and song was held. At the close of this open air meeting the two evangelists headed a procession for the Academy of Music, where the convention meetings were held, singing as they marched with the crowd into the Academy of Music, the convention having adjourned the discussion of "How to Reach the Masses" and gone to supper. When the delegates got back to the academy building, they found it nearly half full of the very "masses" about whom they had been discussing. Mr. Moody cut short his second address, dismissed the audience and went out with Mr. Sankey to get something to eat. Mr. Sankey was greatly impressed with these two meetings and said to Mr. Moody, "You are reaching the masses while other people are talking about them."

After the convention was over Mr. Sankey went back to Newcastle and talked the question over with his wife and family. He did not see his duty clearly all at once, but Mr. Moody kept writing for him to come to Chicago and at last persuaded him to go out for a week to look the ground over. Arriving in Chicago in the early morning, he went first to Mr. Moody's house, reaching there just as family prayers were being held. Almost before Mr. Moody introduced him to his family he asked him to sing a hymn and thus contribute his part toward the informal service of praise. Then the two men went out into the streets of the city visiting the sick and unfortunate.

That day must have been a notable one in the personal history of the two men, who afterward commanded the eager attention of great audiences on both sides of the sea. On this occasion, as two ordinary missionaries, they went about from house to house, singing and reading the Bible and speaking the word of cheer and hope wherever it was needed. This was their first day's labor together. Evening meetings were held during the week in the Illinois street church, of which Mr. Moody was the head and leader.

On Sunday a large meeting was held in Farwell hall, and as the organist happened to be absent Mr. Sankey had to sing without instrumental accompaniment, not having even a small cabinet organ there. The effect of the service upon the people there was so marked that Mr. Moody turned to the singer and said, "You see I was right." There were that night not less than 100 inquiries. The earnest preaching and consecrated song had gone home to many a heart. From that time until the present these men have been colaborers, and the story of their career here and in Great Britain is so familiar that it need not again be rehearsed.—Congregationalist.

Keeping the Congregation Awake.

Lapenius, chaplain to the Danish court (1692), noticing that a large part of the congregation fell asleep during the sermon, suddenly stopped, and pulling from his pocket a shuttlecock commenced to play with it. This strange device, we are assured, had the effect desired.—Temple Bar.

Dueling In France.

Until within a few years dueling in France was so common that 5,000 such encounters were fought every year. The vast majority of these occurred in the army, but in 1890 M. de Freycinet, the minister of war, discouraged the practice and rendered it optional under circumstances in which it had been considered inperative. Among civilians, however, the game goes merrily on, being chiefly sustained by angry politicians or excited journalists. It was calculated in 1886 that since 1870 847 duels had been fought in France outside the army. In only nine instances were any of the combatants disabled, while 98 per cent of those engaged left the field unscathed. —London Tit-Bits.

The Art of Graceful Walking.

It would seem sometimes that the art of graceful walking might be numbered among the lost sciences, so few women master the accomplishment or even acquire any approach to perfection in this exercise, which is the foundation of all others. Every one succeeds in propelling themselves along by means of their feet, but that is not true walking. An English authority says, "The body should be held erect, the shoulders down, chest extended and the leg moved from the hip, the whole figure above being immovable."—Philadelphia Times.

In Northern Alaska.

Juneau is the most northerly stopping place on the regular Alaska excursion route, and while it is not sufficiently near the pole to meet the midnight sun there is time during the summer season of the year for a good deal of light work.

What most troubles strangers is to know when to go to bed. The sun is apparently unwilling to pass and leaves its halo behind.

Twilight waits for dawn, or if there is an interval between I have not discovered it. It is not difficult to read ordinary print at 11 o'clock, and sitting on the deck at midnight (the ship keeps San Francisco time) watching the shadows cast upon the smooth water and the snowcapped peaks at a few miles distance is not uncomfortable with an overcoat.—Cor. Stealing Ideas.

It must be surprising to the uninitiated to see how soon fashions become generalized in Paris. A "creation," a new fashion, is hardly out of an exclusive house of the Rue de la Paix—hardly out of the workrooms, it might be said—when you see it copied in the show windows of the Louvre and the Bon Marche, where it can be bought for less than one-fourth of the price asked by the great couturiers. At first the rulers of dress thought that some of their workpeople were bribed to give points, but they soon discovered that the pilfering of ideas took place in the showrooms instead of the workrooms. The Louvre and the Bon Marche engaged handsome, distinguished looking young women, dressed them as if they had $30,000 a year and were accustomed from infancy to having and wearing the best, gave them a private carriage and had them go to the great costumers to order garments "just come out."

These afterward served as the models of things which the week after you might buy by the dozens. The large shops resort to this means to obtain novelties not only in the beginning of the season, but all the year round, and the couturiers have no way of avoiding the sales, for their showrooms are open to all who wish to purchase and give orders. To be sure these couturiers make most of their creations for authentic princesses and duchesses, but here also the shops get the best of them.—Cor. New York Tribune.

An Eccentric Washington Woman.

There is a woman in Washington society whose eccentricities in certain lines are so well known as to pass without comment. Her position as a matron of literary proclivities is the motive for sundry gatherings at her house during the season. On one occasion the guests bidden to the literary feast were informed upon arrival that they must enter by a side door, as the morning being rainy they would otherwise track mud over the hall carpet. That the hostess is not so much a respecter of persons as of things is further evidenced by her conduct at an afternoon reception.

Those of her guests whose garments were ornamented with jet were asked during their stay to remain in the second parlor, where the furniture was of mahogany. This sorting out process was explained by the frank announcement that if people would wear sharp ornaments on their clothes she must protect her own property by excluding them from the sacred precincts of the first parlor so that the rosewood furniture could not be scratched.—Kate Field's Washington.

How to Keep a Chameleon.

The Florida chameleon, which also is frequently brought home by the tourist, is a bright and intelligent creature. He requires almost unlimited sunshine to bask in, and flies, which he catches on the end of his long tongue, to eat. A fernery is a comfortable place for him. This fellow, it is said, has a temper, and if not well treated or if teased he will show fight, though he can hardly do much harm. The genuine chameleon, after whom the Florida lizard is named, is one of the quaintest and oddest of pets, but he is a native of the old world and rarely seen in our country.

Another American of the family, often sent from the west and south to pet lovers, is called the horned toad, though he is no toad, but a lizard. He is said to be an interesting pet and capable of being taught. All the small members of this race live on insects and need to be kept in very warm quarters.—Olive Thorne Miller in Harper's Bazar.

The Boomerang Is Not New.

The boomerang, the Australian native's weapon of offense and defense, referred to in all reference works as an instrument unknown until after the discovery of Australia, was doubtless known before the time of Christ. Pliny the elder, a contemporary of our Saviour, writes as follows in his "Natural History" respecting an instrument made of the wood of the aquifolia:

"If a staff made of this wood, when thrown at an animal, from want of strength in the person throwing, falls short of the mark, it will come back toward the thrower of its own accord, so remarkable are the properties of that tree."

It is altogether probable that the learned Pliny did not consider the shape of the "staff" and referred its peculiarities to the nature of the wood of which it was made.—St. Louis Republic.

Economy In Footwear.

The neatest and most economical possible foot wear is a low cut shoe of a special pattern to be worn with gaiters to match each dress. This style of foot clothing has many advantages. The low shoe is easily aired, and the inner sole will retain the odors of the feet with the neatest of persons if not properly aired, especially when one walks much. The gaiter breaks the apparent size of a large foot and forms a very attractive finish when matched to costumes.

Skirts rubbing against the front of high kid boots will wear the seam, while the lower part remains in perfect condition. Gaiters, upon the other hand, can be changed as soon as defaced and worn with the same boot. Many pretty gaiters are possible for different occasions and styles of dress.—Jenness Miller Monthly.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

Effect of Paris Life on American Students.

An American artist of considerable reputation, while speaking the other day with reference to the easy going Bohemian habits so common among men in his profession, said: "It is not a pleasant thing to say, but I believe it is true that a period of two or three years of student life in Paris practically ruins about as many young artists as it benefits. Student life in Europe, and especially in Paris, is full of allurements and temptations which only those capable of great self control are able to resist. It is in its social aspects a delightfully free and easy sort of life, which appeals almost irresistibly to the average young man. It develops the habit of indolence with frightful rapidity, and from indolence it is but a short step to indifference, dissipation and reckless self neglect. Convivial associations and the gay company of a colony made of kindred spirits as bright and magnetic as himself too often put his ambitions to sleep, and he drifts on and on until he becomes a spendthrift and a lounger, if nothing worse. At the end of two or three years he returns to America, his money spent, his health frequently shattered and himself so thoroughly bohemianised that he finds it difficult if not impossible ever to regain anything of the orderly, methodical habit of industry upon which his professional success depends."—New York Herald.

Mr. Labouchere's Fish Story.

If Mr. Henry Labouchere has a habit of getting into trouble, he has also a happy knack of getting out of it. For instance, the other day, after he had printed an important piece of news about the proper way to cook crawfish and a humane reader of Truth expostulated with him about his advice to the cook to cut the live fish in halves, he retorted merrily by expressing the opinion that it is ridiculous sentiment to treat creatures of low or rudimentary organizations as if they had the same susceptibility to pain as a human being, and settled the question finally by telling an anecdote about an angling friend of his who once "caught a perch foul."

The hook pierced the fish's eye. My friend felt that he had not caught the perch according to the rules of the game, so, to compensate him for losing his eye, he put him back into the water. He then baited his hook with the eye and went to work again. Within three minutes he caught that same perch again with his own eye.

This is a capital fish story. We have not heard a better tale in a long while. It is a lie of course, but all fish stories are, and it has the merits of originality and humor. We like Mr. Labouchere the better for such harmless fibs.—New York Times.

Like the Belt of the Summer Girl.

The ancient girdle was used for other material or actual purposes besides that of a receptacle for money. At it were hung the thousand and one odds and ends needed and utilized in every day affairs. The scrivener had his inkhorn and pen attached to it, the scholar his book or books, the monk his crucifix and rosary, the innkeeper his tallies, and everybody his knife. So many and so various were the articles attached to it that the flippant began to poke fun. In an old play there is mention of a merchant who had hanging at his girdle a pouch, a spectacle case, a "punniard," a pen and inkhorn and "a handkercher, with many other trinkets besides, which a merry companion seeing said it was like a haberdasher's shop of small wares." In another early play a lady says to her maid: "Give me my girdle and see that all the furniture be at it. Look that cizars, pincers, the penknife, the knife to close letters with, the bodkin, the earpicker and the scale be in the case."—Chambers' Journal.

A Handle to His Name.

"I understand," said a pompous employer to one of his clerks, "that you are in the habit of speaking of me by my Christian name?"

"It is possible that I have done so, sir," answered the clerk humbly.

"In future you will use the prefix 'Mr.' when alluding to me. I am 'George' only to my friends. Do not forget hereafter that I have a handle to my name."

"I will try to remember," said the clerk. "I know we always say George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Tom Palmer, but these are distinguished men, not everyday people, George—excuse me—Mr. Smythe," and the clerk retired to write out his resignation.—Detroit Free Press.

Considerable Mutuality.

Mrs. Lakeside—You are Mr. Porkchop's second wife, are you not?

Mrs. Porkchop—Yes, he was married once before.

"That's unpleasant. Whenever you have a little row, he can bring up his first wife and brag about her goodness."

"He never tried it but once, and then I told him about what nice men my three other husbands were."—Texas Siftings.

An Illustration.

"There," said Miss Frances E. Willard, closing her fist and presenting it as an object lesson to her interested audience, "is union—and that"—suddenly letting every separate finger fly limply apart, "is diversity. Which is the stronger?"

People who suffer from loss of appetite indigestion, sour stomach, and flatulence, find prompt relief in the use of Ayer's Pills. As an after-dinner pill, they are unequaled causing the digestive and excretory organs to perform their functions as nature requires.

Robert Hewson's Mysterious Death.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The unfortunate death of Robert Hewson on the C.P.R. tracks Monday night, and the veil of mystery still hanging about the cause of his death continues to be much discussed. The theories of murder, suicide an accidental death are each advanced, and all three have a certain amount of facts to support them.

Count-de-Castellane—Gould.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The festivities to the wedding of Miss Anna Gould and Count de Castellane began to-day. The Count gave a farewell bachelor dinner at the Waldorf Hotel this evening to more than twenty persons, among whom were a number of his intimate New York friends. Miss Anna Gould was being entertained at the same time at a dinner given in her honor by Mrs. James Abercrombie Burden, of 908 Fifth avenue. The dinner given by the Count was a formal affair. It was served in the Astor state dining room of the Waldorf.

Brooklyn City Hall Ablaze.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 27.—Fire and water damaged the city hall to the extent of $50,000 yesterday. The tower fell, the bell was melted and every office was flooded. The blaze started at 7.45, but because of frozen hydrants it was 8.15 before water was turned on. Then the hose burst and fifteen minutes later the fire was controlled.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Feb. 26, 1895.

The outlook in grain circles is much better. Prices are firm generally and the tone of the wheat market made a marked improvement.

The barley supply at Buffalo was further reduced by a 10,000 bushel shipment eastward for consumption. The job lots are all cleared up and the market is in stronger shade than at any time this year. Canada is very scarce and the inquiry good. There is good inquiry for Canada lots at prices 1-2 to 1c below the figures given above, but holders of desirable lots make no concessions and talk of farther advances.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs market closed steady for good, slow and weak for common lots. Export sheep, $4 to $4.25; choice to fancy export wethers, $4.40 to $4.85; bulk sold.

A firmer tone characterised the trading at the New York stock exchange until near the close of business, when there was a little shading in prices due to the advance in the posted rates of sterling exchange to 4.88 and 4.90 by one of the leading drawers. The continued strength of the exchanges in keeping operators on the narrow cost and is leading to rumors of gold exports as the actual rates are up to this shipping point. During the greater part of the day operators ignored the firmness of sterling exchange and the stock market ruled strong.

AN AWFUL MINE HORROR.

At Least Thirty-nine Men Killed in an Explosion.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Feb. 28.—A terrific explosion of gas occurred in the White Ash mine of the Santa Fe Railroad Company, three miles from Cerrillos, causing the death of at least 50 miners.

The first intimation of the disaster was a muffled roar and clouds of smoke and dust rolling from the mouth of the mine. Nearly 300 men are employed in the mine, but only 50 were at work when the explosion occurred. Only 11 of them escaped alive and some of them may yet die.

The scene at the mouth of the shaft after the explosion was heartrending. Men cursed while women cried and prayed for fathers, husbands and brothers who were entombed alive or brought up dead.

A bill was introduced in the New Mexican Legislature yesterday afternoon to appropriate $5,000 for the relief of the widows and orphans. It will probably pass. The cause of the explosion is not yet known and facts are hard to get at. All the efforts of men in the vicinity are being put forth to liberate those imprisoned in the mine.

AN EPIDEMIC OF SUICIDE.

Three Cases Occur in Twenty-four Hours in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Feb. 28.—The suicide epidemic seems to be on. At the Carleton hotel, in room 25, was found the body of a man who had registered on Monday as "Harry Brown, Grand Rapids, Mich.," but whose linen was marked "Frank M. Garin." Harry Brown, of Grand Rapids, inherited a large fortune three years ago and has been going it ever since, but his relatives, who were telegraphed to, say the dead man's description does not fit Brown.

At the Crystal hotel, a man about 50 years old, engaged a room. He was not noticed to leave the room yesterday and it was entered, only to find the dead body of the stranger on the bed with a 40-calibre revolver in his lifeless hand. Forty-nine cents and a ticket from Buffalo to Niagara Falls was found on the body and the shirt collar of the dead man bore the name "F. Young." The man was perfectly sober and well behaved during his stay at the hotel.

A report was received at the coroner's office saying that a woman attempted to commit suicide at 339 Cedar street by drinking high wines.

A Woman Cleans Out a Court Room.

BUFFALO, Feb. 28.—Lottie Sakarski, a plump, black-eyed young Polish woman, sued Joseph Heine in the police court yesterday for injury to her affections and failed to make a case, and Heine was discharged. While passing along the aisle he gave a sarcastic smile to the injured maiden who promptly responded with an upper-cut which put Joseph hors de combat. Then she sailed into a few of his male friends whose testimony had helped Joseph to win the case, and in a second a half dozen young men were in full flight, the court room was in uproar and the judge horrified, could hardly gasp in order to clear the court and the court officers were so upset that they could not obey it until Lottie had succeeded in cleaning out her traducers.

De Barry's Latest Deportation.

BUFFALO, Feb. 28.—Daniel Near, of Port Colborne, came to work for his brother in this city, and Walter Gracy came from the vicinity of Brantford to clerk for a produce dealer on the market. Both men having secured employment in advance, were deported by "Exile" De Barry. Walter Cook and Edward McIver, plumbers, who had no work also fell into De Barry's hands at the same time and the persuasionist is now engaged in thinking whether the men's declaration that they intend to remain and become citizens will justify him in exercising his "wise discretion" and permit them to remain.

New Governor at the Cape.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Sir Hercules Robinson, formerly governor of Hong Kong, Ceylon, New South Wales, New Zealand and the Cape of Good Hope, holding the latter position from 1880 to 1889, has been appointed governor and commander-in-chief of Cape Colony and high commissioner for South Africa in succession to Sir Henry Brougham Loch. Sir Henry was recently recalled from Cape Colony on account of his long-standing differences of opinion with the Premier, the Hon. Cecil Rhodes.

Reform Convention in North Simcoe.

STAYNER, Feb. 28.—The Reform convention of North Simcoe was held in Stewart's Hall yesterday afternoon for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the coming election. The attendance was large and much enthusiasm was manifested. Eighteen nominations were made for candidate but all withdrew from the field excepting Mr. E. Stewart of Collingwood and Dr. McAlister of Nottawasaga. When the ballot was cast Mr. Stewart was found to be the minor by about a dozen votes.

Seventeen Years a Pope.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The Morning publishes a despatch from Rome saying the Pope will officiate on Sunday at a special service in the Sistine chapel, in celebration of the seventeenth anniversary of his coronation. On Saturday his holiness will receive the congratulations of the notabilities at Rome, and through the diplomatic corps the congratulations of the governments having representatives at the Vatican.

Lost With All on Board.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Feb. 28.—The schooner Samuel V. Colby sailed from Fortune Bay for this port a number of days before the gale of the eighth inst., and was about due here at the time of the storm. Every other vessel out in that storm has been heard from in some way, but no tidings have been received from the Colby. It is thought she is certainly lost with all on board.

SURPLUS OF OVER FIVE MILLION

A Spirited Debate in Which Government and Opposition Speakers and the Patron Leader Take Part—The Opposition Fail to See a Surplus.

TORONTO, March 1.—The Provincial budget was presented in the Legislature yesterday. The House was crowded when Hon. Richard Harcourt rose to deliver his annual financial statement of the affairs of the Province of Ontario. He promised to be brief and to make his statement in a clear and unpartizan spirit. The estimated receipts for 1895 were placed at $3,149,373, notwithstanding the fact that the estimates call for an expenditure of $3,401,905.

The receipts from liquor licenses had been gradually upon the decrease for the reason that the number of licenses were being constantly reduced. In 1878 one license was issued for every 200 of population, while in 1893 it required 645 of a population to receive a license. In 1893 there were 4,797 people convicted of drunkenness in the province, while in 1894 there were but 3,274, though the population had largely increased. There were only 130 licenses in Toronto, or 1 for every 1,208 of the population. In Montreal there were 621 licenses, or 1 for every 349 of population. He then reviewed the question as to whether brewers should be required to pay for licenses. The matter was before the courts yet, but would probably be settled during the year. Two-thirds of the money that would come from this source would go to the municipalities. He then dealt with the law which had been passed, calling upon the heirs of estates to pay succession duties to the Government. Last year it had been estimated that the amount of revenue that the Government would receive from this source would be $70,000, but the actual receipts were during 1894 $150,754. He predicted that in future this amount would largely increase. He promised that all money received from these duties would be set apart and expanded only upon insane asylums, houses for deaf mutes and institutions for the blind. He thought that within three years at most the money received from these duties would be sufficient in amount to defray all the expenses of hospitals and all other charities. When the Government had proposed to raise a revenue from these succession duties a cry had been raised that it would prevent citizens from making an effort to accumulate. The experience of similar legislation in England and throughout Europe had proved exactly what had been demonstrated in Ontario, namely, that while the government was successful in raising a revenue from a source that was felt but little, men continued to grow rich. The Province of Quebec received last year from these succession duties $149,000; New York State from the same source last year received $1,665,594, or one-tenth the total revenue of the State. The largest sum received from any estate during 1894 came from the county of Perth. The sum of $12,500 was received from the estate of an unmarried man. One-sixth of all the revenues of the province since confederation had been spent for the maintenance of the public institutions. The per capita cost in Ontario for 1894 of inmates in public institutions, including salaries of officers and maintenance of the institutions, was $297.22, while in New York State the per capita cost for similar institutions was $124.77. The salaries of all officials in the American institutions were very much larger than those paid to Canadians holding similar offices. He pointed out that though the Government had increased the grants year by year for education, agriculture, hospitals, charities, and large sums upon the erection of the Brockville asylum, the Government had still been able to reduce materially each year the total expenditure. Last year they had spent $57,000 less for all purposes than they did in 1893. The total receipts during 1894 exceeded the total expenditures by $978,899, notwithstanding the fact that the heavy special expenditure of $160,000 had been made for rebuilding Toronto University and $708,301 to retire railway aid certificates and $981,464 on the new parliament buildings and the Brockville asylum.

Referring to the increased expenditure under the head of legislation, he pointed out that the business had been rapidly growing, more reports were printed, and the cost of printing bills had increased. He claimed that, after paying all debts at present payable, the surplus at the end of 1894 was $5,269,840. He expected to receive during 1895 as revenue from crown lands $995,600, from liquor licenses $980,000, and from succession duties $175,000. He expected to expend $3,401,905, or $13,757 less than last year. The year 1895 was commenced with a credit balance in the banks of $610,674 in cash.

The honorable gentleman was loudly applauded when he resumed his seat.

Mr. Marter's Criticism.

Mr. Marter upon rising to reply was greeted with cheers. He complained that a greater time had not been allowed the members to consider the public accounts before being called upon to answer the statement of the provincial treasurer. He thought that an unfair advantage had been taken by the treasurer when he only gave 36 hours time to look into the accounts, while he had months to review them. He thought the berth of the treasurer of Ontario one of the softest in Canada. All he had to do was to receive a cheque of over a million dollars every year from the Dominion Government and another million from the sale of lands. The balance was but a small amount and but little effort of the brain or body was required to collect it. It was not difficult to collect money when such a rich mine as the crown lands was at hand to draw from. The expenditures had doubled since 1871. He would be told that the population during the same period had increased 80 per cent. He drew attention to the fact that while the population had only increased 80 per cent. the expenditures had increased over 100 per cent. The cost of civil Government had increased during the same period over 500 per cent. This was a very bad showing and the people would hold the Government to account for its extravagance. According to the present rate of expenditure, drawing as the Government did upon crown lands and timber, it would be but a short time before all the timber resources of the country would be demolished and then the Government would have to resort to direct taxation to carry on the affairs of the country. He said that compared with the administration of the John Sandfield Macdonald Government the Mowat Government was most extravagant. The treasurer had gone to the United States to make comparisons. Why had he not confined himself to the administration at Ottawa and the former governments of this province. He blamed the government because they allowed timber speculators to go upon the lands of the settlers and take their timber from them. The result was that settlers were not filling up our northern country. Under the Sandfield Macdonald government settlers were allowed to use all the timber upon their lands. He maintained that though the amount per capita for maintenance of public institutions in Ontario was less than in the United States, yet it was not as small as it should be. He said that the government compelled all purchasers of supplies to go to friends of the government. In this way a large amount of money was uselessly expended. It was not the proper business method. Why did the government not do as the Dominion Government did, secure tenders for all supplies and grant the contracts to the lowest bidders, regardless of politics? The public accounts prove that the supplies furnished the public institutions of the province have all been paid for at a much higher rate than they could be purchased for in an open market. The government gave contracts only to their political friends, paid high prices and in return demanded contributions to the campaign funds. If this system was continued it would result in direct taxation. What was the succession duty but a direct tax? This was the thin edge of the wedge.

He said that the public schools of Ontario were being ruined simply because the government devoted all their money to the high schools. The public schools were not as efficient as they were 10 years ago, they had been continually going down; notwithstanding that 95 per cent. of all the pupils in Ontario went only to these schools. The tendency was to magnify the high schools to the cost of the public schools. The government grant to public schools was only 56 cents per head, while it was $4.38 per head for high schools, notwithstanding that but 5 per cent. of the pupils of the province attended these schools. He wanted to see more money expended on the public schools; he wanted to see better teachers employed in them and more attention paid generally.

He referred to Hon. Mr. Dryden's speech at London, during which he had remarked that while he did not wish to call Mr Marter a liar he would say that if Mr. Marter spoke the truth he (Mr. Dryden) was a liar. He (Mr. Marter) thought that the statement was indecent and unparliamentary and quite unworthy of a man occupying the position of Minister of Agriculture. The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

The Patron Leader Speaks.

Mr. Haycock resumed the debate on the budget when the House met in the evening. There was no applause when the hon. member arose. He said that he considered the effort of the Provincial Treasurers a grand one. The speech did the Treasurer and the Government credit. He thought, however, that the Treasurer should not have used in comparison the expenses of the State of New York as against those of Ontario, since the population of New York State was 6,000,000, while in Ontario we had but 2,000,000 of a population. The Treasurer had said that our expenses were but half those of New York State. According to population the expenses of Ontario should be but one-third those expenses. He blamed the Government for not having reduced the salaries of officials, since within the past fifteen years the cost of living in Ontario had been constantly decreasing. Wages were less and prices were less. Why then should Government officials continue to have their salaries increased?

He had been anxious to hear Mr. Marter's speech, but when it was delivered he found that it was simply a rehash of speeches he had been delivering during the past three years. He agreed with the leader of the Opposition that all supplies should be purchased by tender and contract, unless the Government wished to do as the patrons did, buy direct from the manufacturer. He also agreed with Mr. Marter that the Government was not doing enough for public schools. He thought that the fifth form should be in every school.

He regretted that Hon. Mr. Dryden had had referred to Mr. Marter as he had done at London, but he regretted more that Mr. Marter had seen fit to drag a perfectly personal matter before the House.

There was a pause of several minutes after the Patron leader resumed his seat. The Opposition evidently desired that some Government supporter should speak next, but Sir Oliver wished that the Opposition powder should be quickly exploded and he therefore passed round the word and forced the hand of the Opposition.

The Member for South Lanark.

Mr. Matheson, the new member for South Lanark, then claimed the attention of the Speaker and began his criticism of the finances of the Province. The thought that the Reform party in Ontario had done things that as individuals they would have scorned to do. They had scattered the money of the people in millions among their own political friends and had wasted the timber resources of the country. He pointed out that in the public accounts there were lump sums amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars said to be for meat and fuel supplied public institutions. He said that the accounts of the Dominion Government were in detail, so that any elector could turn up and trace where every dollar spent had gone to. He held that the accounts as presented by the Government failed to show whether or not the expenditure in the Crown Lands Department was on the increase or decrease. The public accounts as presented this year, he held, were simply in a hopeless muddle, designed for the purpose of hoodwinking the electors. He then proceeded to review the history of the Government since 1889. He claimed that since that year the expenditure largely exceeded the receipts. These deficits had been made up by selling Crown lands. During the past six years the deficits has amounted to $3,970,000 and this large amount had been covered up by selling the timber lands of the province, and yet the Government claimed to have a surplus of over $5,000,000. He said that the Provincial Treasurer had claimed that the cost per capita of maintenance in the asylums of Ontario was but $137. This he denied, and quoted from the reports of the inspectors to show that the actual cost was $144.

He condemned the Government for expending $240 per head on boys under sentence in the Penetanguishene reformatory. He said that honest boys, the sons of hard-working citizens, were supported at a much less cost; there was not an honest boy in the province who could not be sent to Upper Canada College, expensive as it was, for less money. Why was it that so much money was expended upon these institutions? Simply that the political friends of the party might become rich by supplying provisions without tender or contract. He claimed that the surplus was a myth. He took the public accounts for his authority, and claimed that they showed that the Government had expended since 1873 $75,508,598, while all their receipts had only amounted to $72,323,360, leaving a deficit of over $3,200,000, and yet they claimed a surplus of over five millions. He defied the Treasurer to show where his surplus was. The increase in the expenditure of the Dominion Government during the past five years had only been one-third of one per cent., while it had been 20 per cent. by the Ontario Government. He gave the Government credit for pushing the settlement of accounts between Quebec and Ontario. He held the Government responsible for the present troubles in the Toronto University, claiming that appointments had been made upon a party basis. He advised the Government to relinquish control of the affairs of the university and allow the governing power to be vested in a board of graduates.

Mr. Conmee in Reply.

Mr. Conmee followed and said that he agreed with the Opposition when they condemned corruption. But where was it found? Was it found in the Mowat Government or was it found at Ottawa? There were no Curran bridge or Caron scandals in Ontario. The members of the Opposition at election times rushed into Algoma and condemned the Government because they did not expend sufficient money there, and then came before the House and blamed the Government for spending the money up there that they had. Referring to public schools he said that if they were to be more efficient the matter rested entirely with the people. It was for them to say whether or not a fifth form should be added. He denied absolutely that the public schools of Ontario were not in as efficient a state as they were fifteen years ago. They would compare favorably with the schools of any State upon this continent.

He also denied that supplies were not bought by contract. He claimed that all large amounts were by contract, but it would not be wise to purchase entirely by tender or contract. The markets might fluctuate and in case they went down, then the Government would lose money by contract. It had been urged that the Government had spent too much money in the northern districts of Ontario. His complaint against the Government was that the Government did not expend sufficient money up there, and he would be surprised if the Patrons did not support his demand that more money should be spent on roads etc., in that district, that agriculturists might be kept at home in Ontario.

Mr. Howland moved the adjournment of the debate, and House adjourned at ten o'clock.

Notes of the House.

Mr. Hardy introduced a bill entitled an Act respecting the verdict of jurors in civil causes. If passed this Act would provide that in civil cases an agreement by ten of the twelve jurors will be sufficient to secure a verdict. The bill passed its first reading.

The Attorney-General has given notice of a bill respecting the consolidation of certain offices in the High Court.

Mr. Stratton will introduce on Monday a bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Fined for Personation in Exams.

MONTREAL, March 1.—In the Police Court yesterday John Collins and Wm. Kelly were arraigned in connection with a civil service examination held on November 14, 1893. Collins had paid Kelly $25 to personate him. Kelly had passed in Collins' name, and Collins had got a position in the postal service. On the fraud being discovered four months ago, Collins was immediately discharged and the prosecution was started. Collins was fined $25 or two months and Kelly $50 or two months.

IN THE IMPERIAL HOUSE.

The Claims of the Sealers—Canada's Cost of the Arbitration.

LONDON, March 1.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for the Foreign Office, replying to Sir George Baden-Powell, acquainted the House of Commons with the fact that the House Representatives at Washington had rejected the appropriation of $425,000 as the compensation named to be given the British Columbia sealers. When pressed for details further by Sir George Baden-Powell, Sir E. Grey said he was not quite sure if this step was final, but if so, the claims would have to be enquired into by a commission in detail as previously arranged.

W. A. Randall Cremer, the Radical Reformer from Shoreditch, asked the Government what part Canada had paid of the costs of the Behring Sea arbitration. Sir. Edward Grey replied that the total expenditure by this country was £36,671. This included the payments shared by Canada, but the accounts with Canada were not yet finally adjusted.

The Welsh Disestablishment bill passed its first reading in the House of Commons last evening without a division. The Irish Land bill will be introduced on March 4.

ALASKA'S GOLD FIELDS.

Another Eldorado and the Best End of It is in Canada.

OTTAWA, March 1.—Ely E. Weare, president, and John J. Healy, manager, of the North American Transportation and Trading Company, doing business in the Yukon River district, are here to see the Government and get post office, custom house and mounted police facilities. They say that the Alaska gold fields are bound to surpass those of California in their palmiest days and that Canada "has the best best end of it if she would only wake up."

Miners can work four months a year and can make $10 to $15 a day. The other eight months work being impossible, carousing is the order of the day and the gambling and the lawlessness bids fair to surpass that of the Western States during the gold fever.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young lady's room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

THE DATE OF THE ELECTIONS.

The Dominion Government act as though they owned the country instead of simply being the servants of the people. The great body of the electorate has certainly some right to know what is going forward—what are the intentions of their employees, the cabinet ministers. Here it is now nearly two months after the proper time of calling parliament together, and we are left completely in the dark as to whether there is to be a session or a dissolution. Some of the ministers intimate by their bearing that the date of a session or of a dissolution is no business of the people, and zealous government organs say that the situation of doubt and uncertainty has no bad influence on business. We know from business men, bankers and others in political sympathy with the government that the uncertainty has a bad and unsettling effect on business. And the N. P. has left mighty little margin to play upon—every little adverse or favourable influence counts largely when it is touch-and-go with hundreds of business men, whether or not they will tide over the crucial Fourth of March. The Montreal Gazette, a sufficiently subservient supporter and organ, to be in the confidence of the Cabinet Ministers, in a late issue fixes the date of the elections at some time in May; but whether or not That is correct, it is evident that there will be no session. The government has certainly some object to serve in thus dallying with so important a question and it may be safely assumed that that object is in their own interests, quite irrespective of the interests of the country. If the object is to gain an advantage over the Liberals and lull them into false security, that object will fall short of its aim. The Liberals are, as a general thing, fully as well prepared for the campaign, come when it may, as their opponents. In fact the indications are that the Liberals are even more advanced in preparation in the way of nominating candidates and promulgating their views than the Conservatives. The wavering front presented by the ministerial leaders seems to infect the rank and file who lack the buoyant spirit with which they used to respond to the battle cry of the dead-and-gone and, alas, unsucceeded "Chieftain." The Ministers have shown plainly that they dare not meet Parliament—with the ogre of a five million deficit confronting them—with the prospect of their shameful record of extravagant, corrupt and corrupting expenditure being investigated—with the certainty of a rigid inquiry into the labyrinthine crookedness that has drawn its trail over every department of administration—with the certainty of a loud-voiced demand from every section and interest for an explanation of the failure of their policy to fulfil its promises of prosperity. And the ministers seem equally afraid to bring on the elections. They see power slipping from their gripe, and they seem determined to suck the sweets of office to the last drop before they bring on a contest that will land them on the shady side of the wall. They are, however, consistent, at least in their present attitude. A straightforward, honest deal with public questions would be, to them, a novel experience.

On Wednesday the members of the Local Legislature, with a few exceptions, paid a visit, on Hon. Mr. Dryden's invitation, to the farmers' college, the Agricultural College, Guelph. It is highly proper that the Legislature should pay such a visit, so that the representatives can see with their own eyes the excellence of the practical work carried on for the benefit of the farmers. The Ontario Legislature is practically a farmers' parliament. Every member of the Legislature, with half a score or so of exceptions, represents a rural riding, and their constituents are directly interested in the prosperity of the Agricultural College, which has been so important a factor in the dissemination of special knowledge in relation to farming and dairying methods, and to whose influence is largely due the foremost position Ontario occupies among the agricultural communities of the world. It is a little remarkable that Dr. Ryerson, M. P.P., the professional adviser of the "calf with a cough," did not visit the College to see how his patient was getting on. Poor Dr. Ryerson! His calf, together with many other election campaign fads, was snowed under last June, in the mid-summer blizzard that struck the faddists.

The Railway Age of Chicago publishes statistics showing that the loss of earnings of one hundred and fifty railways in the United States, in 1894 compared with 1893, amounts to over a hundred million dollars. The same lines in 1893 earned some thirty millions less than in 1892. The loss of all the roads in the United States in 1894 is estimated at one hundred and twenty-five million dollars, and this is in face of a considerable increase of the mileage worked. A large part of this loss has been thrown on the working classes. The Age's estimate is that a hundred millions less was disbursed under the working expenses, that is, chiefly wages, in 1894 than in 1893. There are no figures available that so forcibly show how the rates declined in 1894 or where the decrease made itself sharply felt. The Yankee brand of the N. P. has evidently not made American railways rich any more than the Canadian article has staved off a loss of earnings on Canadian railways.

Norway Pine Syrup strengthens the lungs and cures all throat troubles, coughs, colds, etc.

An exchange ridicules what it calls the "absurd attitude" of the Liberal papers for advocating "unrestricted reciprocity in farm and all other products with a country separated from us only by an imaginary line, and at the same time find elements of grave danger if not ruin in trade relations with another country lying thousands of miles away in a different zone and with a climate the reverse of ours." One example will show the gravity of the situation. In Toronto mutton is selling at 6 cents a pound; in Chicago the price is in excess of that. The Australians say they can put mutton on the Toronto market for 2 cents a pound, while on account of their higher prices at home, the American farmers would not export to the Dominion. The introduction of the Australian meat would have a ruinous effect on the Canadian market. Still we are subsidizing the means of transportation between Australia and Canada and making no honest effort to secure reciprocity with our nearest neighbour.—Stratford Beacon.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETIES' WORK.

The report presented to the Legislature this year by the Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children is one of special interest, and is likely to be greatly in demand among philanthropic workers. It has been carefully prepared by Mr. Kelso, and in addition to other good features, contains a verbatim report of the proceedings of the Provincial Conference on Child-Saving held in Toronto last October. This movement has proved a great success, as is evidenced by the results shown in this report. There are now in existence twenty-three Children's Aid Societies, some thirty visiting committees, and much good work has been done among children, chiefly of a preventive character, which makes it all the more gratifying. Foster homes have been found for nearly one hundred children, and by this process not only is a large expense saved, but the children are much better provided for than they possibly could be in an institution. It is shown clearly that with the development of this work for children thousands of dollars will be saved the community by cutting off the dependent and criminal classes. Good homes are constantly offering for young children, and it hoped that the orphanages will join this movement for placing out dependent children in families, and thus secure the proper care and supervision of their charges. During the year Mr. Kelso found homes for over fifty children, visited all the leading points in the Province, addressed fifty-six meetings, organized fifteen societies, dealt with one hundred reports of neglected and ill-treated children, and distributed eighteen thousand copies of child-saving literature, and all this without office assistance. The statistics of work done by the Children's Aid Societies so far organized show 403 reports concerning children investigated, 90 warnings issued to careless parents, and 56 children placed in foster homes. All who are interested in this important child-saving movement should secure a copy of this report, which is well worth perusing.

VISITING THE FARMERS' COLLEGE.

About sixty members of the Legislature, including all the Patron representatives, together with a few citizens of Toronto, accepted Mr. Dryden's invitation to visit the Experimental Farm, Guelph, on Wednesday. The party left at 8.20 a. m., two special cars having been provided for their accommodation. On reaching Guelph the visitors took conveyances and drove to the farm, where they were received by Prof. Mills and a number of students, the latter of whom greeted the arrivals with hearty cheers. The Dairy Department, which is some distance from the main building, was first inspected, and the cheese and butter-making operations examined with interest. Afterwards a visit was paid to the dairy stables, and subsequently to the barns in which the live stock are housed. At 1.30 a substantial luncheon was served in the main building, which was presided over by Prof. Mills. Speeches, in which the conduct of the farm was referred to in complimentary terms, were delivered. Amongst those who spoke were Prof. Mills, Messrs. O. A. Howland, Haycock, Davis, Cavan, McPherson, Dryden, and Daly, United States Consul at Guelph, Dr. Willoughby and Hon. James Young, Galt. After luncheon, the party visited the horticultural department and the museum. All expressed their enjoyment at what they had seen.

CANADIAN PILLS ABROAD.

A Specific Which is Obtaining a Foothold in Foreign Countries.

Toronto, March 1.—Among the thousands of orders which weekly pour into the offices of the Dodd's Medicine Co., Ltd, in this city are many from Austria, Great Britain, Germany and other countries. The curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills in cases of Bright's disease and concomitant ailments have been brought to the attention of friends abroad by patients who were cured here, they in turn have called the attention of their acquaintances to the marvellous effects resultant from the use of the pills, until now there is a steady and growing demand for the specific and each foreign mail exhibits an increase in the orders.

Worse Than Wicked.

If more people understood that any appearance of haste or carelessness was out of place in formal correspondence, they would not use such expressions as "many thanks" any more than the hardly less objectionable phrase, "thanks," in conversation. Such curtness is like the old story, "Worse than wicked; it's vulgar."—Philadelphia Press.

The Tramp's Loyalty to an Ideal.

HYAMS INVESTIGATION

Miss Latimer, Typewriter for the Brothers, Takes the Stand.

YOUNG WELLS' BICYCLE RIDING

He Was Accustomed to Ride His Wheel Around the Warehouse and at One Time Came Dangerously Near the Elevator—A Servant's Testimony.

TORONTO, March 1.—At the investigation of the charge against the Hyams brothers yesterday Miss Latimer, who was typewriter for the firm at the time of young Wells' death, took the stand and told her story. On Saturday, January 14, she was given three letters by Harry Hyams, with instructions to deliver them before coming down on Monday morning. One letter was addressed to Deer Park, the other to the East End, and the third to a store on Yonge street.

It took her until 11.30 to deliver these letters, and when she reached the warehouse she met Harry Hyams, who told her that there had been an accident and that Willie Wells had been killed. She asked the cause. She was told that they had been fixing the weight and that it had slipped and fell on Wells. She said that she was not at all excited at the time. A new point brought out in the cross-examination of Miss Latimer was that Wells had a habit of riding around the warehouse on his bicycle, and sometimes near the elevator shaft. Re-examined by Mr. Curry, she said that she was a stenographer and typewriter, but did nothing but address envelopes while employed by the Hyams.

Mrs. Lucy Pengilley, a servant employed at the Hyams house, on Gould street, in January, 1893, next took the stand. She said Harry and Dallas went to work together on the Monday of Wells' death. Dallas returned first, arriving at the house between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. He was much troubled and said that Wells had met with an accident. He remained in the house for quite a few days and left orders that he was not to be seen by callers. She had been given a pair of trousers by Harry Hyams—she did not know who owned them—and told to wash them. There were blood spots on them below the knee. She could not wash out the stains and the trousers were sent to the dyer's. In cross-examination she said the Hyams were nervous, timid men, and very easily excited. She had always found them kind-hearted and nice about the house. There was nothing secret about the washing of the trousers. The blood spots on them were very small.

The principal evidence given in the afternoon was that of Joseph Fox, who testified that he had known the prisoners for four or five years and had frequently carted goods for them. On the day of Wells' death he called at the Colborne street warehouse about 10 o'clock in the morning. He saw Harry Hyams, who said: "Fox, there has been a terrible accident. They were fixing the elevator when it broke and killed Wells." He found both doors locked when he first reached the building, but after knocking he was admitted by Harry Hyams. When witness went down in the cellar he saw Wells' body. The head was badly smashed and Wells was lying with the side of his face turned upwards. On the following morning he again went to the warehouse and this time found Harry Hyams with a little boy down in the basement washing up the floor. He replaced the hook in the weight and pulled the elevator up to the top, where he found the rope near the roof badly tangled.

Mr. Johnston informed the witness that the defence would prove that the galvanized hook on the weight in court was put on it since the accident, and that the hook on then was an iron one, and asked him if he would contradict it. Fox said he would not. He also remarked that once when he was in the building the weight fell off and the elevator came down with a crash. Fox always thought in his own mind that "it was a dangerous kind of apparatus." The hoist, he said, often worked badly and on one occasion when he tried to take up two barrels of sugar the hoist went down instead of up and he had to take the barrels separately. One of the Hyams, he thought it was Dallas, had ordered gates to be put on the shaft, because Willie Wells on one occasion while riding around the top flat on his bicycle came near falling down. He had often seen Wells fooling around the elevator.

Although a number of witnesses remain to be heard the case may be finished by to night.

MONTREAL, March 1.—A disastrous fire broke out last night in the premises of S. Harris & Co., furriers, corner of St. Peter and Lemoine streets. A valuable stock of furs was stored on the premises and they were badly damaged. The total damage is estimated at $40,000, which is covered by insurance in several companies.

A Case of Supposed Suicide.

LONDON, Ont., March 1.—Mrs. Barrett, who lived with her husband and five young children at the corner of Oxford and Colborne streets, is supposed to have committed suicide. Circumstances point very strongly to this theory being correct, but a coroner's jury will endeavor to decide the matter to-day. The unfortunate woman died at the hospital on Wednesday, and shortly before death, when asked by a physician if she had taken the muriatic acid by mistake she hesitatingly answered "yes." The Barretts came from England a few months ago and the fact the husband had been out of work recently, compelling them to apply for aid from the city seems to have troubled the poor woman.

Investigating Into Hewson's Death.

WINDSOR, March 1.—Ald. Hewson is making an investigation into the terrible death of his brother Robert at London. While he admits that it might have been an accident he inclines more to the murder theory. Miss Tulett, the young woman to whom Robert was engaged to be married, says he had between $400 and $500 in his pocketbook the day prior to his death. The pocketbook, together with a gold watch and chain, are missing. Detectives are working on the case.

LONDON, March 1.—The inquest on the body of Robert Hewson, the young man found dead on the C.P.R. tracks the early part of this week, was still further adjourned until Tuesday next to await any new developments.

Retail Furniture Dealers Association.

HAMILTON, March 1.—At the meeting of the furniture dealers held at the Royal Hotel the Canadian Retail Furniture Dealers' Association was organized with officers as follows: President, John Hoodless, Hamilton; 1st Vice President, W. Wishart, Toronto; 2nd Vice President, W. Clegg, Peterborough; 3rd Vice President, J. Kilgour, London; Secretary-Treasurer, W. B. Rogers, Toronto. Executive committe—A. Duncan, Brantford; H. F. Nott, Collingwood; W. H. Frast, Belleville; J. Eratt, Ottawa, and W. Renaud, Montreal. A committee was appointed to draft by-laws and a constitution to be submitted at a meeting to be held in Toronto.

Death of a Prominent Jap.

HAMILTON, March 1.—Joshilori C. Saito, a Japanese artist of great ability, who has been living at Dundas since last spring studying and painting Canadian scenery in that vicinity, died here after an illness of two months. Mr. Saito was a cultivated and exceedingly intelligent gentleman and contributed several very interesting articles to the press on the strength and prospects of his country in the struggle with China and his predictions have been largely fulfilled. His father was a colonel in the Japanese army and was killed in an engagement. Deceased was well known and highly thought of by members of the profession in this country.

An Essex Merchant Burglarized.

WINDSOR, March 1.—W. J. Dewar's gents' furnishing store at Essex was broken into last night and goods to the value of about $200 were taken. Several suits of clothes belonging to customers as well as a lot of cloth and furnishings were carried off. Thieves entered by boring a large panel out of a rear door. They left no clue. Detective Campau at once went to work. He sent out an alarm througout the country and offered a reward for the capture of the burglars.

A Lobo Farmer's Rash Deed.

LONDON, March 1.—Arthur Thurwall, a farmer living on Concession 12, Lobo, is at the point of death as a result of injuries inflicted upon himself. On Sunday morning Mr. Thurwell went to the hay mow, where he was found by his wife with a large gash in his throat, and suffering from loss of blood. Thurwall was 45 years of age. The only cause that can be assigned for the act is temporary insanity. A prolonged sickness had left him despondent.

Jules D'Estimanville Clement writes from Montreal: "I was suffering from skin disease, and after all drugs failed tried Burdock Blood Bitters, of which three bottles restored me to good health. I recommend it also for dyspepsia."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Reasons for Success.

The success of Norway Pine Syrup as a cure for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles is due to the fact that it is the best and pleasantest remedy ever discovered, and because its action is prompt and certain.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
Or lingering wee poor Pa's diseases,
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Ma knew spoke so kind and fair.
She reminded said that he; for one,
Should try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Surely they would never come to want
Ma had a brother in the best,
A country full richer than the rest.
She said that home they'd take us all,
Our children numerous few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then were Emma, but step, I miss,

They give us every one a kiss,
Ane said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they came and came,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Once "Manufactured Manufacturer and Life
Which soon the claims adjusters paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A letter will your life insure.
And then the Manufacturers paid
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Who is He?

The Lindsay Watchman says: A young man belonging to Peterborough who had been employed in one of the Howry camps out north, passed through town on Monday on his way home, suffering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

We Have an Abiding Faith

That there are enough users of mucilage and writing ink in Peterborough, who know a good thing when they see it. Any kind of a stove can keep a corrosive, sluggish, dirty, murky sample of these goods; but the infinite superiority and comfort of our ink and mucilage will always induce you to stick to the Peterborough Book Store for your supplies.—A. He is Found.

The meanest man on record is said to live in Port Hope. He sold his sister-in-law one half interest in a cow, and then he refused to divide the milk, maintaining [illegible] that he sold only the front half. The buyer was also required to provide the feed the cow consumed, as I was compelled to carry water to her three times a day. Recently the cow hooked the old man, and he is is suing the son-in-law for damages.

Oddfellowship.

Next Monday night promises to be a great night for Oddfellowship in Lindsay, says the Watchman. The excellent degree team of Otonabee lodge, I.O.O.F., Peterborough, with a number of the members of the order, will visit Lindsay and exemplify the degree work. Large deputations from Bobcaygeon, Manilla, Sunderland, Cannington and Woodville are also expected, and a pleasant evening is guaranteed.

The Delineator for April

Is an excellent specimen of this most popular woman's magazine. Supplementary to the regular issue of patterns there is a timely article on Bicycling, with illustrations of Costumes, that will interest all lovers of the wheel. The papers on the Voice, which were interrupted by the illness of the author, are resumed; and there is begun a most practical series on Preservation and Renovation, the first instalment treating of the Putting Away and Care of Furs. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor writes very entertainingly on the Etiquette of First Calls and Introductions, giving the accepted usages and formulas; and the second paper on the Experiences of a Training School Life increases the interest already felt in the subject. The Dean of Barnard College contributes a charmingly written article on A Girl's Life and Work at the University of Chicago, of which she was a Fellow, 1892—'94; Belle Pierson Springer writes forcibly of Typesetting as an Employment for Women; and Sarah Miller Kirby gives further instruction in Kindergarten Teaching. How to make Dolls' Houses is shown in Crepe and Tissue Papers, new and exceedingly pretty designs are given in Venetian Iron Work, Knitting, Tatting, Netting and Crocheting and the chapter on Burnt Leather Work gives illustrations and information of the necessary tools and implements and advice to beginners. The Cookery article gives recipes for some new dishes. There is a paper on the serving of Pineapples and Grape Fruit, one on Table Decoration and the usual contribution on Floral Culture. Around the Tea Table is bright and entertaining. Mother and Son is earnest and instructive, and a novel Salmagundi Party suggests a delightful evening's amusement. There is also a review of the Newest Books, some Instrumental Music and an Easter Carol. Begin a subscription with this number.

HOCKEY.

One of the most closely contested games of hockey witnessed here this year, was played in the rink last night, when the Volts contested for supremacy with the Lindsay club. The Liddsay boys arrived here at nine o'clock and when the game was called could only muster six men and the game was played with only three men on each of the forward sides. The ice was very poor for a match, being soft and heavy, in fact it was impossible to play good hockey on it and this, no doubt, was the cause of considerable shinny being displayed. Shortly after nine o'clock, the teams lined up before the referee, W. Crossley, as follows:

Volts.		Lindsay.
Kelly	goal	Walton
Thorne	point	Rankin
Knowles	cover point	Shannon
Wilgar	forwards	Barron
Cluxton	forwards	Parkins
McIntosh	forwards	MacGachen
H King	umpire	T Nesbitt

The puck was faced off and the Volts secured it and rushed it down to the Lindsay goal, but Barron secured the rubber and took it down to the Volts' goal. It stayed there for some time with the scrimmaging, and the spectators were loud in their applause of the fine play demonstrated, particularly in the forward line of the Volts. McGachan got the rubber out, and by a neat shot placed the first game to the credit of the Lindsay club. The second game was much longer than the first, and the Volts played much better. The playing of those on the Volts' defence was much admired. Barron and McGhachen on the Lindsay forward line, did excellent work, but they did not seem to have the combination work down as fine as McIntosh, Hicks and Wilgar of the Volts, whose scientific rushes deserve special mention, and after about fifteen minutes play, Hicks placed a goal for the Volts. Before any other game could be scored, half time was called, and in the intermission the ice was scraped. This was a great advantage and the Volts easily showed their superiority in this half by placing three goals more to their credit and they would have scored more only Lindsay had an almost impregnable goal keeper in Walton. When time was called the score stood 4 to 1 in the Volts favour. The summary of the games was as follows:—

	Club	Scored by	Time.
1	Lindsay	McGachan	6 minutes
2	Volts	Hicks	15 minutes
3	Volts	Hicks	16 minutes
4	Volts	McIntosh	13 minutes
5	Volts	Knowles	10 minutes

NOTES.

Cluxton played on the Volts' forward line during the first game. In the second game he broke his skate and was replaced by Hicks.

Knowles played a very fine game at cover point, it being very hard for Lindsay to pass him.

Referee Crossley's decisions were very satisfactory to both clubs.

The battle cry of the Lindsay club was heard during the match.

There is talk of the Collegiate Institute going up to Lindsay to play a friendly game with them.

CURLIANA.

Appended is the result of a game played in Lindsay, between the bankers of that town and the Peterborough bankers:

Lindsay Bankers.	Peterborough Bankers
R Ross,	G L Benedict,
A F D Macgachen,	J W Taylor,
J Cruso,	W D Parker,
T Brodie, skip.....16	T R Billett, skip....11

The Lindsay bankers play the return match here, this evening.

The following match in the Edmison medal series was played off at the rink last night:

C Rutherford,	Chas Matthews,
J S Knapman,	W J Drope,
D Bellegheun,	R T Stevenson,
R H Kells, skip.....13	T P Attrill, skip.....10

The return match in the Lindsay vs. Peterborough trophy series, which was to have been played to-day, has been postponed as the Lindsay rink is reported to be under water.

A meeting of the local skips was called last evening in order to arrange for the playing off of all draws in the Kendry Cup, Edmison Medal and other matches. The weather is breaking up so rapidly that the curlers are apprehensive of losing their ice for the season. The attendance at the meeting being small, no action was taken.

The Peterborough Colts met with their first defeat yesterday on the ice and if the truth were to be known, the veterans are rather tickled over the fact. It was a Lindsay rink of young colts whose lot it was to snow the local men under. The Peterborough Colts, fresh from their decisive victory over the "vets" the evening previous, came upon the rink confident of adding yet more honours to their splendid season's record, but unfortunately it happened to be an off day for every man and the result was that Lindsay won by a score of 18—8. The two rinks were composed as follows:—

Lindsay.	Peterborough.
E Rutherford,	J S Knapman,
R M Fee,	C M Brown,
H Knowlson,	E B Clegg,
W Reesor, skip.....13	Dickson Davinson, sk..8

YACHTING.

The New York cup defender, it is said, will be a keel boat this year. If this prove true in case of victory the Americans will have saved their championship by sacrificing their principle of construction and adopting those of their British opponents. Curiously enough, it is the superiority of the keel over the centreboard in going to to windward that has forced the Americans to drop the latter for good and all and adopt the former, though the defence of the centreboard at first rested on its supposed superiority in windward work. When there ceases to be distinct national types of naval architecture, the international duel which has been so long going on, will have lost much of its interest.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

There was only a fair attendance at the Opera House last night to hear Rev. Dr. Hunter, of Montreal, lecture on "Personal Purity," given under the auspices of the local Y.M.C.A. Mr. W. J. Bennet, president of the local association, presided. After the audience had joined in singing a few familiar hymns, Rev. Mr. Young formally opened the meeting with prayer. The Y.M.C.A. Octette then rendered two very pleasing selections which were fully appreciated by the audience. The speaker of the evening was then introduced and kept the audience deeply interested from the start to finish. The rev. gentleman has made this subject a study of thirty years and elicited some very useful information to those present. He closed by stating that he had prepared a book on the subject, which he claimed should be in the hands of every young man. The book is for sale at the rooms of the Association, and anyone wishing to procure one may do so by calling upon the secretary. Mr. G. W. Mulligan conducted the musical portion of the programme.

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I gave out before half the day was gone. I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any source until, upon recommendation of a friend, I purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which made me feel better at once. I have continued its use, having taken three bottles, and Blunder Worse Than Guilt.

There are some penalties on innocent acts essential to human safety, and the signaler whose failure has destroyed a train must be punished, even though, when he pleads that he was in a "dwam," he is to his own mind telling the simple and sufficient truth. Nature is even harder on blunder than on guilt, and though man has no right to be as stern as nature, which, for example, executed a dynamiter at Madrid—not for his intention to murder, but for his carelessness in dropping his bomb—still, there are points upon which he must be nearly as hard.—London Spectator.

A NORWOOD WEDDING.

The Jory-Ford Nuptials Celebrated on Thursday.

(Norwood Register.)

The residence of Dr. S. P. Ford, Ridge street, was the scene of a very happy event on Thursday evening, it being the occasion of the marriage of his only daughter, Lillian E., to Dr. J. M. Jory, of Bloomfield. The holy ordinance was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Jas. Anderson, pastor of the Methodist church, only a few of the most intimate friends of the contracting parties being present.

The bridesmaid was Miss May Hugill, of Detroit, Mich., a cousin of the bride, and Miss Zella Stevenson acted as maid of honour. Dr. C. M. Kingstone, of Everett, a classmate at Trinity Medical College, assisted the groom. After the ceremony a well appointed repast was served in the dining room. At midnight the happy young couple took their departure for Montreal where they spent a few days, before settling down in their own home at Bloomfield, Prince Edwards county.

The large number of handsome presents received by the bride from friends at home and abroad is a manifestation of the high esteem in which she is held. She has been a faithful and zealous worker in the Sabbath school, Epworth League and Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church here and will be greatly missed. The groom is also well known in Norwood and highly respected by a large circle of friends, having until a few months ago resided here, leaving in the autumn to practice his profession at Bloomfield. That the union so pleasantly inaugurated last Thursday evening may be a long, happy and prosperous one is the sincere wish of all.

RILEY'S FAILING.

The Hoosier Poet Makes Confession of a Troublesome Weakness.

James Whitcomb Riley, the poet, describes himself as a train missor. A friend thus relates how the poet confesses his weakness:

I found him occupying an easy chair in a parlor car that was attached to a train leaving Chicago at 10:20 a. m. for Indianapolis. After the greetings, in that quaintly humorous strain that has made the man and his writing so popular, he described the trial he meets with as a traveler:

"I have been in the depot three hours waiting for this train to start for Indianapolis."

"Why did you come here three hours before train time?—10:30 is its leaving time."

"Well, you know I am a train misser. I can't make a train. It doesn't make any difference what precautions I take, I miss it or take the wrong train. I got my ticket yesterday—bought it over the 'Monon route' because I knew it went right through without change. If I ever have to change cars, I'm lost. I am sure to miss the connection or take the wrong train. I had a messenger boy go with me to the ticket office. Never could have found it myself. When I got to the hotel after the entertainment last night, I asked the clerk what time the 'Monon' train left for Indianapolis.

"'Monon—Monon,' said he: 'hasn't that road got another name?'

"'It probably has. It would be just like these railroads to change the name immediately after I bought my ticket.' Then he looked at one of those brain splitting time cards and said:

"'Yes! yes! Monon route—that's the L., N. A. and A. C. railway, and it leaves at 8 a. m.'

"I left a call for 6:30, so I could have my breakfast and be at the depot at 7:30. I always go to the depot 30 minutes before the train leaves, and then I miss it oftener than I catch it. When I presented my ticket to the gatekeeper, he said: 'Your train leaves at 10:30.' That was so, and here I have been since 7:30.

"Bill Nye says that when my head was built they run out of gray matter when they came to fill my bump of location, and they filled it with mayonnaise dressing, and that's a pretty hard thing for a man to think with."—Detroit Free Press.

A Courageous Corporal.

When Lord Rawdon was in South Carolina, he had to send an express of great importance through a part of the country filled with continental troops.

A corporal of the Seventeenth dragoons, known for his courage and intelligence, was selected to escort it.

They had not proceeded far when they were fired upon, the express was killed and the corporal wounded in the side. Careless of his wound, he thought only of his duty. He snatched the dispatch from the dying man and rode on till, from the loss of blood, he fell. Then fearing the dispatch would be taken by his enemy, he thrust it into his wound until the wound closed upon it and concealed it. He was found next day by a British patrol, with a smile of honorable pride upon his countenance, and with life just sufficient to point to the fatal depository of his secret.

In searching the body the cause of his death was found, for the surgeon declared that the wound in itself was not mortal, but was rendered so by the irritation of the paper.

Thus fell this patriot soldier—in rank a corporal, he was in mind a hero. His name was O'Lavery, and he came from the parish of Moira, in County Down, Ireland.—Youth's Companion.

Appearances May Deceive.

Should you happen to see a girl walking along the street with her face wreathed in placid smiles, don't take it for granted that she feels perfectly contented and happy. For the truth is that—

She may be having a nerve destroying argument with herself as to whether her skirt and waist meet properly in the back.

She may have a tiny hole in her shoe and be perfectly wretched over the thought of getting her silk stocking soiled.

She may be on the verge of insanity because she knows that the one pin with which she fastened her skirt is going to give way.

She may be conscious of a big chunk of soot that has found lodgment on the end of her nose.

She may remember that there is but one hairpin in her hair, and that it would be just her luck if it were all to tumble down.

She may hear a little snap and may know that her garter has broken. That, however, is simply too horrible for words. —New York Advertiser.

HE TELLS A STRAIGHT STORY.

A Farm Which Can be Moved From one End of the Country to the Other.

The following letter appears in Thursdays issue of the Port Hope Guide in reference to the alleged imposter who applied and received aid from Rev. Mr. MacWilliams here last week:

To the Editor of the Guide:

By a paragraph from the Peterborough EXAMINER, just handed to me, I learn that the kindness of the Rev. A. MacWilliams, of Peterborough, had been imposed upon last Saturday by a Scotchman of the name of Thompson, whose tale was that he had been robbed in Port Hope and had no money to take him to his home at Keswick, near Lake Simcoe. I had the pleasure of a call from the same Scotchman last Saturday in Port Hope. He looked a rather rough but honest man. I could detect no smell of whiskey about him. His tale to me was a trifle modified. He said that he came from Orillia to Peterborough the previous evening (Friday), and that in the darkness near the station there, he was suddenly attacked by two powerful men who made him hold up his hands and robbed him of nearly $40. He stated that he had called upon the Rev. Dr. Torrance, of Peterborough, in the early morning, and received from him the sum of $2.75, and that my good ministerial brother had given him my name as one on whom he might call for sympathy. He wanted $3 or $4 to pay his way to Kingston, near which he owned a fine farm of 300 acres. He said that he would willingly send me twice what I might give him. I somewhat doubted, and yet he seemed a sober though rough Scotchman. I now believe him to be an imposter, and write this to put others on their guard.

Yours truly,
J. K. SMITH.

DEATH IN THE STORM.

PITILESS WORK OF THE GIANT TWINS, WIND AND WAVE.

How Cruel at Times Seems the Ocean—The Most Populous Cemetery on the Planet. The Land the Book Tells of Where "There Shall Be No More Sea."

And there was no more sea.—Revelation xxi, 1.

What a strange mystery the ocean is! Sometimes it holds your little craft as tenderly as a mother holds her child, and you wonder that the charge of caprice can be brought against it. At other times it is like an angry ogre who has a tyrant's power and uses it like a tyrant.

It is a marvelous sight, a spectacle of thrilling magnificence which makes the blood tingle, to stand on the beach at such a time and watch the serried columns of white capped rollers dash themselves to pieces on the sands. They remind you of Napoleon's army at Waterloo, which had wandered over Europe with victorious banners, which dreamed of no force which could resist its progress, but suddenly found itself face to face with its master, and then, with uncontrolled madness, threw itself to death as well as to defeat. The huge array of white capped monarchs, thinking themselves invincible, attack the shore with ferocious energy and pound themselves to spray. The heart beats wildly as this great battle between sea and land fills the air with thunder, and poet and painter come from far to witness the conflict and describe its glories with pen and brush.

But how cruel the ocean can be when it catches our craft at a disadvantage! Wind and waves in unholy alliance, a compact of death, make the world's cheek blanch with horror as the work of destruction goes on. These twin giants seem to be moved by a common hatred of whatever floats, and as though every vessel was an intruder on their domain tear it to pieces and doom it to disaster. The sails are cut into tatters, their masts are torn away as though the rigging were made of pack thread, and the huge hull is either sent to the bottom or thrown high on the beach in disdain. The sun in very pity creeps behind the veiling clouds for awhile, and when it shines again, after the waves have subsided and the tempest has spent itself, the coast is strewn with wrecks and many a brave sailor lies with upturned face on the sands.

That was sad news which flashed over the wires one Thursday morning. One story followed on the heels of another until disaster seemed to be multiplied by itself, and each account was more pitiful than the last. A fisherman outrode the gale for awhile and then went down with all hands; a sturdy freighter off Hatteras was dismasted, sprang a leak and sank, leaving only one survivor to tell the tale: scores of lesser craft were torn from their anchorage, and the Jersey shore was literally strewn with wreckage. Other vessels which had managed to outlive the hurricane were towed into harbor, either the captain or part of the crew missing.

The book of Revelation tells us that in that other country from whose bourne no traveler returns "there shall be no more sea," and on this Sunday morning we breathe a sigh of relief over the statement. We can dispense with its magnificence if we may be rid of its dangers. It has devoured millions of property and is the most populous cemetery on the planet. When the sea gives up its dead, a countless multitude of the lost will reappear.

But we are specially impressed with the lesson which the great storm emphasizes—namely, the uncertainty of life. On the ocean the unexpected happens more frequently than elsewhere. At one moment a cloudless sky and a musical ripple along the vessel's side. The long roll lifts the craft, which lazily yields to the rhythmic motion of the waters. But danger is in ambush, and after a little the puff of wind grows stronger, the long roll is plumed with a white crest, the tempest sounds its trumpet, and the rigging, like the strings of an eolian harp, emits a mournful note like that of a dirge. In another half hour the whole artillery of nature is at work, the moaning vessel is thrown on her beam ends and creaks and groans as though crying for mercy. In another hour there is nothing visible except some struggling sailor clinging to a spar.

However, death has many ways of achieving its purpose. Not on the sea alone, but on the land, it does its daily stint, and it behooves us to remember that sooner or later it will have something to say to us. "All men may die, but I shall live," is the dream of heedlessness. "All men must die, and therefore I," is the fact that is to be recognized and prepared for.

But we can become indifferent even to this "last enemy." It is not the glum indifference of desperate despair, but the cheerful indifference of perfect faith. If we have no place to go to, it is hard to contemplate our exit. But if there is a better place, a residence in which will be added happiness, we may even shake hands with Death, tell him that our latchstring is always out and he will be welcome whenever he sees fit to come. It is the fear of taking a leap in the dark that bids us pause. But if we are sure of taking a leap into the light we can easily let go our hold on this rugged life and drop into the life to come. The sea may rage as it pleases if our next port of entry is heaven, and lurking accidents and diseases may come out of their hiding places into the open, for at the worst they can only do us a good turn by opening the door of a larger and better house to live in.—New York Herald.

A Story About Painting.

The story is told that a woman once asked St. Francis de Sales whether she might use paint to improve her complexion. His reply was: "Some holy men object to its use, while others see nothing wrong in it. I would adopt a middle course and grant you a dispensation to paint one side of your face only."—New York Times.

Effect of Music on Penn.

Walter Savage Landor introduces Peterborough in conversation with William Penn and makes him applaud Penn cynically, when the latter declares that there is something in a violin if played directly that appeareth to make hot weather cool and cold weather warm and temperate, not, however, when its cords have young maidens tied invisibly to the end of them, jerking them up and down in a strange fashion before one's eyes, and unless one taketh due caution wafting their hair upon one's face and bosom, and their very breath, too, between one's lips if peradventure one omitteth to shut them bitterly and hold tight.—Musical Courier.

Evading a Law.

When Ben Butler was a young lawyer the selectmen of Lowell, then a town, issued a mandate that all dogs should wear muzzles. The next morning Ben walked down town, followed by his big Newfoundland dog, with a very small muzzle tied to the end of its tail. Ben remarked, "My dog is wearing a muzzle." A callow imitator of Ben living in Ward One has fastened a bicycle bell under his saddle and anticipates much fun when a bluecoat stops him because he has no bell on his "bike."—Springfield Homestead.

Altogether Too Familiar.

Dr. A. T. Pierson, in some pithy, practical hints on pulpit oratory, says that to be winning is to be wise, but it must not be overdone. He has a friend, an evangelist, who got into the habit of calling his audience "dear souls." Inadvertently he would say as he passed from place to place, "Dear Belfast souls," "Dear Dublin souls"—and before he knew it he was saying, "Dear Cork souls," which convulsed his Irish audience.—London Tit-Bits.

Magna Charta, the great charter of Englishmen's liberties, is preserved in the British museum. It is somewhat stained by time, but King John's seal and name are still quite legible at the bottom of it.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, offensive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly afflicted from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an almost entirely different affection from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

Trans-Atlantic Steamship Companies Are Up in Arms.

THE BIG RAILWAY'S OFFENCE

Commissions Allowed by the Grand Trunk Divert Traffic From New York to Canadian Ports—Several Other Trunk Lines Are Equally Interested.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The local managers of the trans-Atlantic steamship companies have sent a somewhat remarkable communication to the Trunk Line Association. In effect they call upon the railroads to boycott the Grand Trunk railway of Canada, and the Chicago and Grand Trunk railway on immigrant passenger business destined from New York to the west. If the trunk lines refused to do this the steamship companies, although they do not so state in their letter, intend to break off relations with the railroad association and no longer allow immigrant passengers to be routed by the clearing house, as has been done for several year. The grievance of the steamship companies is that the Grand Trunk is diverting business away from New York to Canadian ports, and hence the lines putting into New York are losing their legitimate share of the travel.

The steamship people feel very much aggrieved over the present state of affairs, and propose if necessary to take things into their own hands and make a deal with some one railroad that is willing to allow the best commissions, leaving all the other railroads out in the cold. If this is done the boycotted railroads will lose one of their most profitable sources of revenue.

The Grand Trunk allows six dollars a piece on all prepaid passengers routed via Montreal while the trunk line roads allow but a dollar and a half, and this commission is on the basis of tickets sold to Chicago, the commissions to points beyond being proportional. The net difference between New York and Montreal and Quebec is still greater, since the open tariff rate to the public is $18 from New York to Chicago while it is only $13.50 from Montreal to Chicago. In other words the Grand Trunk carries passengers from Montreal to Chicago for a net rate of $5.50 each. The local steamship managers at first made individual protests against this practice to several railroads demanding that the matter be taken up with the western lines with a view to settling the controversy between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific with whom the trouble started. The trunk lines did nothing and the steamship men became impatient. If their present demand is ignored they purpose taking some such action as that outlined of sending all their immigrant business over one line and boycotting the others.

Heretofore the steamship companies have allowed the immigrant clearing house to route passengers over any route they saw fit and the steamship lines paid the established fares, and as the business originates with the steamship lines they think they can divert it as they please. Immigrant passengers are now divided equally among the eight trunk lines. The Lehigh Valley, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, New York, Ontario and Western and West Shore all send immigrants over the Grand Trunk, although the first named is the only one that sends its immigrants exclusively that way, hence the Grand Trunk has been getting a very large amount of this traffic. If the Lehigh Valley and Ontario and Western immigrants are no longer sent via the Grand it will mean that the Grand Trunk will stop sending eastward over those lines much of its first and second-class passengers. The railroads have reduced the system of offsets to so fine a point that they invariably and traffic by the connection that will give it the largest amount of business in return where there is a choice of routes. A trunk line official, however, said that he had an inkling of the fact that the steamship lines would try to force a boycott against the Grand Trunk or compel that company to withdraw its big commissions.

"Why," he asked, "did not the steamship companies think of this before? The Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific have been engaged in a war of commissions for some time. In my opinion the steamship lines have confederates who are keeping in the background. I refer to the western railroads, who have thus far been unable to whip the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific into line.

"It is wrong, by the way, to place the entire blame on the Grand Trunk. The Canadian Pacific first started the big commissions many months ago and the Western association got the Grand Trunk to fight it at its own game. The Grand Trunk did so in connection with several Canadian steamship lines in one of which the Dominion Steamship Company it is understood to have an interest. They made peace with the Canadian Pacific, but after that the Grand Trunk liked the commission method so well that it refused to let up. So the situation is worse than ever."

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

"ASH BARREL JIMMY."

The First Convert of the Salvation Army in America.

Our first convert in America is still living and serving the army in Boston. The history of his reform is a remarkable one.

The conversion of the first of a mighty multitude was brought about by Commissioner Railton, then in command of the American forces of the army, and Superintendent Thomas Byrnes of the New York police. Mr. Byrnes was an inspector of police at the time, early in 1880.

It is safe to say that in Salvation Army circles there are very few who do not know Jimmy, by reputation at least. Jimmy was a thief and drunkard when converted in New York in March, 1880. His name is James Kemp.

Three times Jimmy narrowly escaped losing his life. On one occasion he was nearly frozen to death outside Billy McGlory's notorious dive. On another occasion he was so brutally beaten in a Water street dive that he was supposed to be dead. The morgue wagon was called by the police, and the bruised and battered body, apparently dead, was carried to the morgue. When it, or rather he, arrived there some of the doctors made the discovery that Jimmy still lived, and so he was taken to the hospital, where he remained four months. His last narrow escape from death was when he drank a quantity of spirits of wine which he found in a cellar. Jimmy drank so much he went raving mad and tried to hang himself. He was sent to prison for three months for attempting suicide.

The first Saturday afternoon in March, 1880, Jimmy started out to have some amusement, and hearing that the Salvation Army, which had just arrived from England, was going "to show" at Harry Hill's notorious resort he concluded to go there and see what kind of people the soldiers were. When he arrived at Hill's, he found that there was an admission fee, and he, with a drunkard's economy, determined to spend the price of admission in a different manner. Toward night he strolled into a dive in Water street, where his Whye friends painted his back and served his face the same way and wound up the performance by rolling the unfortunate man in the sawdust of the dive floor. Jimmy, after submitting to their treatment, thought they would let him stay there all night; but, alas, they kicked him out on the street.

Just as Jimmy reached the sidewalk his cap blew off and fell into an ash barrel which was standing near the door of the den. Jimmy tried to recover it, but in doing so lost his balance and fell head first into the barrel. He struggled to get out, but all his efforts were in vain. He seemed to be there to stay.

A short time after Jimmy's acrobatic feat a policeman came along, and seeing a man's legs in the barrel set to work to discover who was the owner of them and why he had them in such a position. He took out his club and struck the inverted man on the soles of his feet. These means are sometimes resorted to by policemen to arouse drunken men.

From the depths of the barrel came a voice which the policeman at once recognized. He rapped for assistance, and when another officer appeared on the scene an effort was made to get Jimmy from his novel but painful position. They pulled at the protruding feet, but Jimmy failed to respond, his clothes having been caught on the nails which had been driven through the barrel. They pulled until the old rotten shoes gave way and were left in their hands. The policemen then threw the barrel down on its side, and laying hold of the unfortunate man's feet they dragged the barrel and its howling occupant toward the police station.

A pitiful sight was poor Jimmy when he reached the station. His face, which had been blackened by the toughs in the dive, was all battered and bruised, and the paint on his face, mingled with blood, was strongly suggestive of a scalped Indian. His clothes were all torn and his shoes gone. How complete the ruin! How perfect the wreck!

Superintendent Byrnes suggested that the Salvation Army be allowed to try its hand on the man, and the result was his conversion, since which time he has served faithfully in its ranks.—Boston Herald.

A Ring on His Hands.

"Is Harkins worrying over the fact that Miss de Riche jilted him?"

"No; but it annoys him exceedingly to think that the ring she gave back was purchased at her father's store and paid for, too, by Jove!"—Harper's Bazar.

INSURRECTION IN CUBA

Collisions Take Place Between the Rebels and Government.

THE UPRISING NOT POPULAR

Little Sympathy Exists With the Revolutionists in the Majority of Provinces—Spanish Troops Ready to Start for Cuba if Needed.

HAVANA, March 1.—The committee sent to Santiago city by the Baire Insurgents has arrived there. They did not see Governor Capriles but they had a long conference with General Lachambre, commander of the troops ordered out to suppress the revolt. They defined the attitude of the insurgents to the authorities and explained to them the reforms that they desired. The committee are now returning to Baire accompanied by a delegation from the autonomist party in Santiago.

Irregular troops overtook the Guantanamo insurgents on Wednesday and opened fire upon them. The insurgents stood their ground after they saw further flight would be useless. The result of the fight is not known here.

Marcos Garcia, formerly a revolutionary leader, but now the mayor of Sanotl Spiritus, has issued a proclamation strongly condemning the insurgent leaders and exhorting all Cuban patriots, whatever their affiliations may be, to discourage the present revolt, which he says cannot succeed and will result only in harm to the island. The insurgent band, led by Marrero near Jaguey Grande, in the Province of Matanzas, has been dispersed by regular troops. A few of its members have been arrested and others have been driven to seek refuge far from the town. There is little sympathy with the insurgents in Matanzan as in Havana and Santiago. The revolt is condemned as hopeless and injurious to all the best interests of the islands.

The warship Infanta Isabel sailed for Santiago. The Francisco and Urbano Snachez, which left Santiago on account of the insurrection, arrived here last night and sailed again for Mexico.

Dr. Pedro Belancourt, who was active in the insurrection at Vbarra, tried to sail for Spain yesterday, but was prevented by the authorities.

MADRID, March 1.—The Cortes devoted several hours yesterday to a discussion of Cuban affairs. The Ministers expressed entire approval of the action of the Cuban officials. Six thousand troops are held in readiness to embark from Havana. All the available troops in Porto Rico also are ready to start for Cuba in case of need.

PORT TAMPA, March 1.—The steamship Mascotte arrived here from Havana bringing Cuban advices up to Wednesday. The press reports of an insurrectionary movement on the island are confirmed. The insurgents seem to move about in small bands composed of fifty to one hundred men and in no case has a collision occurred which could be called a battle. Passengers on the Mascotte report everything quiet in Havana and say that the people there seem to take no interest in the uprising.

Rejected the Grant Statue.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The joint library committee of the House and Senate have decided by a unanimous vote to reject the statue of Gen. Grant which was presented some weeks ago to the Government by the Grand Army of the Republic. It was decided that the statue was not a correct representation of Gen. Grant and that its facial resemblance to the great leader of the federal army was so imperfect that it would not be recognized unless labelled with the General's name.

Twenty-Five Dead.

LOS CERRILOS, N. M., March 1.—It is believed all the victims of the White Ash mine explosion which occurred here on Wednesday have been taken out of the mine. The dead number 25 and the injured 16, some of whom may die. The superintendent of the mine said that the explosion was caused by the carelessness of two miners, who passed the danger line with unprotected lamps against orders. A coroner's jury was empanelled and will begin taking evidence to-day. The damage to the mine is small.

Sticks In Mercantile Life.

Many young men choose a mercantile position for the present only without thought or intention of making it a permanent business. The result is that oftentimes we find these men at 30 years receiving no more pay than they did when only 18.

There is an army of this class of young men behind counters today. They are an aimless, pitiable class. They stand listlessly in their departments and are as unobservant of what's going on around them as are the inanimate figures which one sees at the entrance of clothing establishments.

Many of them let slip grand opportunities of becoming great business factors in the commercial world and have doomed themselves to the treadmill of common drudgery. Singleness of purpose implies self reliance, without which a young business man is not thoroughly furnished for a successful business career. —Dry Goods Economist.

Pleasure In the Heavens.

There is a satisfaction in learning the names and positions of the stars that does not belong to the study of the planets. The stars apparently never change so far as their position relative to each other is concerned. The planets are always moving, and to those who do not watch the heavens with particular attention it is a cause of surprise very often to find a "new star" adorning a certain section of the heavens. If, however, this newcomer be carefully observed from night to night, it will be found to change its distance from the fixed stars, and the observer will discover that it is a planet and at liberty to wander about from place to place under the sole condition that it obeys certain rules of motion. When the bright stars that grace the heavens become familiar to observers, they will know just what to expect on each succeeding season.—New York Times.

West Lambton Reformers.

SARNIA, March 1.—The convention of the Liberal party of West Lambton was held here yesterday in the Boys' Brigade hall. J. F. Lister, the present member, was unanimously nominated as the Reform candidate. The meeting was addressed by the candidate, Mr. Campbell, M.P., of Kent, and afterwards by Sir Richard Cartwright, who gave a speech of an hour and a half duration, bearing principally with the public debt, the tariff and economical matters in general.

The Quebec Ministry.

QUEBEC, March 1.—Mr. F. M. Hackett, member for Stanstead, was sworn in yesterday as President of the Privy Council, and Mr. A. W. Morris, member for Division No. 4, Montreal, Minister without portfolio. Hon. Mr. Taillon takes over the Treasurership.

Loss by the Halifax Fire.

HALIFAX, March 1.—Conservative estimates of Wednesday's fire place the total loss at about $600,000. It is said the Government will at once reconstruct the terminus buildings, wharves, etc., but on a different site.

Abolished Capital Punishment.

DENVER, March 1.—The Colorado Senate has passed the bill prohibiting capital punishment in the State.

Ex-Premier Giolitti on Trial.

ROME, March 1.—Ex-Premier Giolitti appeared before the examining magistrate yesterday. He denied the competence of an ordinary judge to try him in connection with the documents which had been published by order of the Chamber of Deputies. These documents, he said, reached him during his tenure of office of Minister of the Interior, and he maintained that according to the constitution the Senate alone had the power to try him. Giolitti refused to answer any of the magistrate's questions.

Manchester Canal Shares Down.

MANCHESTER, March 1.—The half-yearly meeting of the corporation of the Manchester ship canal was held yesterday. The chairman stated that the canal had hitherto virtually failed to secure anything like a fair share of the cotton traffic, the canal having carried within the last six months only 13,000 tons against 800,000 tons arriving at Liverpool. After the meeting the shares of the canal fell heavily.

A Train Robber Sentenced.

STAFFORD, Ch. Va., March 1.—Morgan Field, the Aquia Creek train robber, was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for eighteen years.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 1, 1895.

The local grain market was dull, there being a decline from 54 1-8 to 53 7-8.

Wheat was weak in Chicago on account of large offerings, the close being 1-4 to 3-8c lower. Corn lost half a cent for May and 1-4c for cash and oats 1-8c for May.

Buffalo reports that next Monday's reports of stocks of barley in store will likely show that the supply there has been reduced pretty close to the minimum level for this season of the year.

The Buffalo barley market was stiff. Maltsters were anxious to secure choice lots but the firmness of sellers retarded trading. Buyers were willing to take hold at quotations, but sellers, now assured of the scarcity of barley and of the shorts supplies of many maltsters, keep pegging up. No. 1 Canada, 65c; No. 2 Canada, 63c; No. 3 extra, 60 to 61c.

At East Buffalo good 950 to 900 pound Canadian feeding cattle brought $3.85 to $3.25; market closed steady and bulk sold. Ohio fed, half fat moderate sold to feeders at $3.50.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Debate on the Budget to be Resumed on Tuesday Next.

SIR OLIVER AND PROHIBITION

The Premier Will Await Legislation on the Question Until the Privy Council Reaches a Decision—The Writ to be Issued Soon for Haldimand.

TORONTO, March 2.—There was but a half hour's session at the Local Legislature yesterday. When the business on the order paper was concluded Sir Oliver Mowat announced that the budget debate would not be resumed until Tuesday, because many of the members wished to get home last evening.

The Speaker presented the report of Mr. Justice Rose and Mr. Justice MacMahon, who had tried the election petitions for Haldimand and West Durham. The judges reported that they had unseated John Senn, of Haldimand, and had confirmed the election of John Reid for West Durham.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved that a writ be immediately issued for an election in Haldimand. The motion carried.

Sir Oliver Mowat, in answer to Mr. German, said that the Government had provided a certain amount in aid of the publication fund of the Lundy's Lane Historical Society.

These bills were introduced and read a first time:

Mr. Richardson—To amend the Municipal Act. This bill is to take from municipalities the right to collect market fees.

Mr. Middleton—To confirm By-law 755 of the city of Hamilton. The by-law grants a bonus of $225,000 to the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway.

Mr. Gamey—To amend the Assessment Act; also to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Flatt—To amend the General Road Companies Act.

Mr. Awrey—To incorporate the London Radial Electric Railway Company.

The House adjourned at 3.30 o'clock.

A Temperance Deputation.

A large deputation representing the Methodist Young People's Societies of Ontario and Quebec, and the Royal Templars of Temperance, waited upon Sir Oliver Mowat yesterday for the purpose of learning what the Government intended doing for the cause of temperance this session.

Ald. Lees, Hamilton, said that the Templars had come to repeat their request of last year, which had as yet resulted in no action on the part of the Government. They want a reduction in the number of licenses, also in the hours of sale and a better enforcement of the existing license law. He pointed out that while there was only one license for every 1,208 people in Toronto there was one for every 650 people in Hamilton. The present law allowed one license for every 400 people, they wanted the law amended so that it would require 1,200 people for every license. They asked that saloons should be closed at 6 p.m. and not opened until 7 the next morning.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that before introducing any legislation dealing with temperance matters he would wait the final decision of the Privy Council as to their jurisdiction.

Farmers Want Money.

A deputation representing the Canadian associations of fairs and exhibitions waited upon the Government yesterday and presented a series of resolutions embodying certain suggestions. It was asked by President C. R. Smith, Hamilton, that the distribution of grants to agricultural, arts, and horticultural societies should be so arranged as to bear a more accurate relation to the necessities of the several localities; that the Minister of Agriculture consider the advisability of appointing an inspector of fairs to report upon the union or abolition of all fairs that had outgrown their usefulness or entailed an unnecessary waste of grants; that wherever an electoral district agricultural society required a Government grant the County Council in whose jurisdiction such society is located should supplement such grant by a sum of not less than $150 annually. The Government promised to consider the matters presented.

BURIED IN THE RUINS

A Gang of Workmen Carried Down by Falling Walls.

SEVERAL OF THE MEN MISSING

A Malt House Which Was Being Torn Down Crashes to the Earth and Three Men Lose Their Lives—Tenements in Course of Erection Collapse.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Three men were killed and several others injured by the falling of a building on the north-west corner of 10th avenue and 43rd street yesterday. A gang of laborers were tearing down an old malt house when the floor upon which they were working gave way and carried them down into the cellar, where nearly all were buried beneath the rubbish. Two of the men were instantly killed and another died in the ambulance while being removed to Roosevelt hospital. The following are the dead: Hugh Cullen, John O'Connor and Angelo Ticcor. Eleven men were injured.

As it stood originally the building was seven storeys high. When the men started to work the walls had been torn down as far as the third floor. Everything was going on well when at 9.30 o'clock there came a sudden crash. The air was filled for a few minutes with blinding dust and flying pieces of building materials. Then came the cries of the men who lay buried in the cellar. As the third floor collapsed its weight carried down the two beneath it and the men who were hurled to the cellar were crushed beneath the debris.

At 10.15 the last of the men who retained life was taken from the mass of debris. Roundsman Skelly, of the 22nd precinct, afterwards arrested Contractors O'Keefe and Keegan, who were taken to the station house, where they were charged with criminal negligence.

Another Building Collapses.

Another building disaster occurred which proved nearly as fatal in its results as did the Tenth avenue malt house accident. The interior of four tenements in course of construction on Orchard street, near Rivington, crashed in without a moment's warning and a number of bricklayers and laborers were carried into the cellar with the falling walls. Nine men were injured and several are missing.

The wrecked buildings have been in course of construction for ten weeks. Work had progressed as far as the fifth floor when the crash came. Both of the contractors as well as the owner, W. F. Lennon, were placed under arrest on the charge of criminal negligence.

There was a large attendance of representatives from all parts of the riding, and a number from St. Thomas. Just as soon as the result of the vote was declared those who were against bringing out a candidate left the room and the meeting was brought to a sudden and unexpected termination. It looks as though the fight would be left between the Liberal and the Patron candidates.

Awful Carnage Results in a Railway Accident in Mexico.

SIXTY-FIVE LIVES SACRIFICED

A Train Loaded With Pilgrims Breaks Loose While Descending a Grade—Coaches Smashed and Piled in Splintered Heaps—Awful Agony of the Wounded.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 2.—A wrecking train has arrived here from the scene of the accident on the Inter-Oceanic railroad. It brought 40 persons who had been injured in the crash, and Dr. Alfred Bray, Dr. Francis Crosson and two other surgeons who were sent out after news of the disaster was received here. Sixty-five persons were left dead near the spot where the train left the rails and of those who were brought back ten or twelve cannot possibly recover.

The crew of the wrecking train told the first detailed story of the accident. The train consisted of ten coaches. It was chartered by pilgrims from Amecameca and the engineer was under orders to run carefully. It was filled with pilgrims, many of them women and children, at the city station shortly before 1 o'clock and was started at 1.25. It proceeded slowly at first, but after stopping for water the engineer began running at the rate of 30 miles an hour.

About 28 miles from the capitol and midway between Temamatla and Tenango, there is a steep down grade. On one side of the track the blasted rock forms a high wall; on the other is a steep descent. At a point where the descent is about 30 feet, the track makes a sharp curve. The trains usually round it at half speed, but for a reason not yet ascertained the engineer of the pilgrim train tried to take it without slowing down. Either the rails spread or the engine jumped the track. The engine and tender broke loose from the coaches and rolled down the embankment. The rear coaches crashed down against the engine and tender and the rest went to pieces at the foot of the embankment near by. Five coaches were smashed so as to be little more than piles of splintered boards and beams and twisted iron. About 20 passengers were able to extricate themselves without severe injury and they began rescuing those who were pinned under the wreck.

Four women were found with their arms crushed and immovable under beams and twisted axles. They lay near the engine and were screaming for fear of the flames. After all efforts to clear them had proved vain they were torn loose, one of them losing her arm from the shoulder, another her arm from the elbow, and each of the two having both arms crushed and legs terribly mutilated. Three of the four will die. Three children of one family were found dead together under an upset car truck. Their mother lay near by with her skull crushed and one leg gone. The father escaped with only a broken shoulder although he was on the same seat with the three children who were killed. Fragments of arms and legs were strewn through the wreckage and several of the bodies were so mutilated that no attempt to identify them will be made.

When the doctors arrived on the wrecking train they found 60 dead pilgrims near the wreck and five who had not yet been taken from the ruins because there was no way of cutting them loose. The doctors worked for five hours to get the injured into condition to make the journey back. Six men had lost half of their scalps. Four had fractured skulls. Six women were so badly injured in the back and abdomen that it was feared they would die before reaching the city. All the doctors agreed that the scenes at the wreck and in the coaches during their journey home were the most horrible in their experience.

The engineer and conductor of the train are supposed to have escaped serious injury and fled to the woods.

ANOTHER BAD SMASH.

Engineer and Assistant Firemen Killed—Three Injured.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The six o'clock express of the Royal Blue line on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad was wrecked while passing through Bayonne last evening. At least 30 passengers had a miraculous escape. The dead are:—William Thomas, of Philadelphia, engineer; Winfield Holland, of Philadelphia, assistant fireman. The injured are:—H. O'Rell, of Lafayette, N.J., fireman; Frank Applegate, of Tioga, Pa.; George Hopkins, baggageman.

The train was made up of an engine, baggage car, smoking car, day coach and sleeper, and was moving at a high rate of speed through Bayonne, where there are four tracks in a cut which extends from Communipaw to Bergen Point. It was on track No. 3. Ahead of it on track No. 4 and moving in the same direction was a long train of empty cars. When this train was passing 49th street station it broke in two. The station agent signalled the engineer of the coal train, who failed to understand what was the matter, but put on the brakes, stopping the front half of his train. The second half crashed into it, and one of the empty coal cars was thrown from the track and across track No. 3. The station agent rushed out to signal the express but was too late. The engine with its four cars dashed into the derailed coal car within a few seconds of the first accident. The baggage car was demolished. The smoking car left the rails and slid over the top of the tender. The day coach and the sleeper left the tracks. Half a dozen cars of the coal train were wrecked. The wreck caught fire from the engine and the Bayonne fire department were summoned to the scene. They put out the fire and assisted the railroad men in extricating the wreck. Wm. Thomas, the engineer, stuck to his post.

THE PROVINCIAL BUDGET.

The EXAMINER takes the liberty of venting a grumble against the budget speech delivered by the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. R. Harcourt, on Thursday. It is of the same monotonous character as a score of its predecessors, delivered under the administration of the Mowat Government. It is the same old story of economical expenditure, the same welcome story of a big surplus, the same story of careful attention to every branch of the public service—the maximum of efficient administration for the minimum of expenditure. This year Mr. Harcourt is able to show a surplus of assets of over five and a quarter millions, not including our public buildings, and on the current year there is a surplus of revenue over the treasurer's estimate of over $300,000. The ordinary expenditure last year was $3,274,000, and the extraordinary expenditure $468,125.. Yet with this large yearly outlay, there has not been in the past twenty years a dollar devoted to improper purposes, a circumstance that places the Mowat Government in an unique position amongst the governing bodies of history. In view of this fact and other cognate facts, it must be expected that the criticism of the budget statement is largely formal in character. Mr. Marter travelled over the charges of increasing expenditure and waste of our timber resources, but Mr. Haycock, the leader of the Patrons, in his address, practically praised the administration of the provincial finances. He referred to excessive salaries, etc., but it was evident from the pacific tenor of his remarks, that he felt there was no grounds for an aggressively hostile attack upon the provincial administration of the finances. Under the Mowat administration, Ontario's all right, finances and all, and Hon. Mr. Harcourt's brilliant budget speech shows that the electors last June acted wisely in re-hiring their old hands.

THE Ottawa Citizen says:—"Those who fear that Sir Oliver Mowat is too far advanced in years to take an active part in the coming Federal election should have seen the Little Premier yesterday. He was, apparently, as active in body and clear in mind as the day he first assumed his present position nearly a quarter of a century ago." Mowat's all right, and the leading Liberals of Ontario are all right. The Conservative managers of the destines of Ontario must not buoy themselves up with the hope of removing Sir Oliver from the arena of provincial politics. He fills and has filled his place well for twenty three years and there is little probability that he will desert the post he has filled so long. Especially when there is no necessity for such a course. The Liberals of Ontario have abundance of able men who can be trusted to protect the interests of Ontario in Federal politics. If the Conservatives were so well provided for in this respect, they might count themselves fortunate. The government organs need have no fear that Ontario will not be able to furnish its full quota of able Liberals to take positions in the Cabinet Mr. Laurier will be called upon to form after the elections.

HON. Mr. Ouimet, of the Dominion Cabinet, is going to resign if the Manitoba school question is not settled in a satisfactory manner. Much dependence can be placed in such pledges. They are too much like Mayor Kendry's buncombe bets and Mr. Stevenson's Trent Valley Canal promise. Mr. Stevenson pledged himself years ago that if there were not a thousand men working on the Lakefield-Peterborough section of the Trent Valley Canal, the following summer, he would resign his seat. The man, of course, were not working and are not yet working, yet Mr. Stevenson still holds his seat and is about to make application for a four or five years extension of his lease. Conservative promises about school questions, Trent Valley Canals or anything else do not cut a very wide swath with intelligent electors. And inasmuch as their performances in general are even worse than their promises, the people will in all probability give a very decided answer to the Conservative Government appeal for a renewal of confidence. It may be true, as said the late lamented Barnum, that the people love being humbugged, but there is a limit to the dose they are willing to stand.

THE St. John Sun, a protectionist organ, says the "free breakfast table" is the cause of the deficit of $1,200,000 last year, and $5,000,000 this year. It is probable that the "free" feeding at the public crib of Government hangers on and election agents, and other feeding of that ilk, is the cause. Will tea and coffee be taxed? It is hard to tell. The Government has no policy, but expediency, and uncertainty and instability are the key notes of the protective system.

NOTE the difference—On last year's operations a deficit of two hundred thousand in the province of Quebec, a deficit of five thousand thousand in the Dominion finances and a clear surplus of seventy eight thousand in the Ontario finances for the past year.

Is it any reaction from the "blind shares that prevents Premier Bowell from seeing ahead far enough to discern the date of the elections?

VICTORIA COUNTY'S NEW CHEESE BOARD.

FORMATION OF A LINDSAY BOARD DECIDED UPON.

Representatives of the Different Factories Meet and Discuss the Proposition—Haliburton County Cheesemen Will Patronize the New Board.

(Lindsay Post.)

For some weeks past attempts, defeated by bad weather, have been made by the Lindsay Board of Trade to bring about a meeting of the cheesemen of Victoria and adjoining territory for the purpose of considering the advisability of establishing a local cheese board, but on Saturday morning a well attended meeting was held in the council chamber, which was presided over by Mr. Duncan Ray.

Among those present were Messrs. Jno. Campbell, Jno. Cruess, Taylor Parkin, Thos. Robertson, E. C. Clendenning, Dennis Scully, J. D. Graham, Dan Sinclair, Seth Armitage, J. D. Hutton, Capt. Hunter, C. S. Kevil, Wm. Sandford, Wm. Thurston, Wm. Flavelle, Jno. D. Flavelle, Leary, Brown, White and a number of others.

Mr. Ray said the object of the Board of Trade in calling them together was to consider the establishment of a county cheese board, and thus enable cheesemen to get a better price for their products and at the same time cut down the expense of selling.

Mr. J. E. Sootheran, secretary, read letters from Messrs. J. C. Warrington, of Belleville, and Cook, of Montreal, saying that in the event of a cheese board being established in Lindsay, they would doubtless arrange to have buyers present.

Mr. Dennis Scully said the Victoria salesmen were treated very fairly in Peterborough. One drawback to the formation of a local board was the distance buyers would have to travel to inspect the cheese at the different factories.

Mr. Brown of Reaboro factory, thought the proposal to establish a local board was a timely one—the quantity of cheese now manufactured in the county warranted such a step being taken, and the saving in expense to each factory would be considerable.

Mr. Sinclair briefly expressed his approval of the proposed board, and said that if established his factory would sell in Lindsay.

Mr. Graham, of Fenelon, tendered his support and assistance.

Mr. White, of Manilla, said his section would have been better represented but for the bad roads. Some of the patrons of his factory had met and discussed the matter, and had come to the conclusion that it would be a good thing to have a board established in Lindsay.

Moved by Mr. Scully, seconded by Mr. Sandford, that this meeting considers it advisable in the interests of the cheese factories of Victoria county and adjoining territory to establish a cheese board in the town of Lindsay.—Carried unanimously.

Mr. Glendenning supported the formation of a local board with a vigor that elicited applause. Even if the factories had to take a little less for their cheese for a time he would counsel the patrons to stick to the Board, and they would soon have buyers in plenty. No doubt Peterborough would prove hostile at first, but if the Victoria factories turned out good cheese the buyers would come after it.

THE DISCUSSION.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle was then asked to give his opinion on the formation of a board, but he declined to speak at any length. It had been said that his firm would like to see the board established because they would have the advantage over outside buyers. There was no truth whatever in the statement—he would still continue to attend the Peterborough board, and the establishment of a Lindsay board would simply mean another day lost. He would not like to see the Lindsay board left in the hands of a few men—it would simply mean that very soon it would have to break up. In the past it was nearly always the rule that the Peterborough buyers were able to supply their wants without falling back upon Victoria county cheese, and the result was that he (Flavelle) was one of only two or three buyers who would bid on the output of this section. By having a board here other buyers, whose wants were not supplied, would flock to Lindsay.

Mr. Sandford enquired if a county board had not met in Lindsay some years ago.

Mr. W. Flavelle said yes, but at that time the make of cheese in the district was insufficient to induce buyers to attend.

Mr. Flavelle explained that the reason buyers like the Peterborough board is because they can visit factories advantageously; in a radius of seven or eight miles they can buy as much as is made in the whole county of Victoria. It was said also that there was an advantage in freight—Mr. Clanton, one of the Peterborough buyers, claims that he pays no freight on boxes. The railway men deny this, but as there are two lines of railway there may be a little cutting of rates. There is no difference in favour of Peterborough in the regular schedule of charges.

Mr. Sanford said he would like to see the board established on a satisfactory basis, but he feared they would not get the buyers to attend; in that event, however, as Mr. Flavelle had pointed out, they would only have to join in with Peterborough again.

Mr. W. Flavelle pointed out that a board had recently been formed at Napanee, where only some 200 or 300 cheeses are boarded every two weeks. He thought that in the season there should be close upon 1,000 boxes to be sold fortnightly in Lindsay, and perhaps more. The Manchester factory should sell here, and also the north country factories.

Mr. Taylor Parkin, of Cameron, favoured the formation of a local board, and said his factory would sell here.

Mr. Robertson, of South Verulam, who has been selling on the Peterborough board for the past fourteen years, said that when he went to Peterborough first the board was not nearly as good as the Lindsay board promised to be on the start-out.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, referring again to the allusion that his firm would have a monopoly of the Lindsay board, said that when Messrs. Cluxton, Fitzgerald and Wrighton, of Peterborough, had not succeeded in crowding out the other buyers, he thought there could be little danger of his firm doing so here. (Laughter).

AN IMPORTANT MOTION.

Moved by Mr. Cruess, seconded by Mr. Graham, that the following named gentlemen be and are hereby appointed a committee, or a cheese board pro tem, to draft bylaws and transact all necessary preliminary business towards establishing a permanent cheese board in the town of Lindsay, namely: Messrs. Glendenning, Robertson, Scully, Campbell, Sandford, Brown, Sinclair, White, Thurston and the mover and seconder.—Carried.

HE WILL BREAK THE NEWS GENTLY.

Moved by Mr. Cruess, seconded by Mr. Graham, that Mr. Robinson be a delegate from this board to attend the meeting of the Peterborough board on Saturday, March 2nd, and procure a copy of the bylaws, etc.—Carried.

THE NEXT MEETING.

Moved by Mr. Scully, seconded by Mr. Sandford, that the preliminary board meet in the council chamber two weeks hence, March 9th, at 11 a.m., and form a permanent board.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

Note.—Several letters were sent Mr. Ray in which arguments were advanced by the buyers advising against the formation of a Lindsay board. Strange to say these letters were not read, although any received in favour of the establishing of the board were placed before the meeting.

REASON ALMOST LOST AT TIMES.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL SUFFERING THE CAUSE.

Paine's Celery Compound Effects a Wonderful Cure for Mrs. Alfred Perry, of Port Maitland, N.S.

Nervous prostration, sleeplessness mental depression, despondency, general weakness, and a run-down physical condition, are troubles from which multitudes suffer.

These dreadful troubles respect neither sex, age, class nor rank; the victims are found at all times and in all places.

While it is a fact that thousands are laid on beds of suffering, it is also true that tens of thousands are barely able to drag along from day to day, being in such a half dead state.

Soon—ah! too soon—will the ailing ones be numbered with those who are laid up from the sufferings, agonies and torments that nervous diseases generate.

In the midst of present sufferings, gloom and despair, there shines a great and glorious light of hope, comfort and assurance. A curing agent that the world has lauded, praised and extolled, lifts its mighty hand ready to deliver from the grave.

This life-saver and deliverer from disease and death—Paine's Celery Compound—never fails in its mission of curing and restoring the health and strength. Thousands have testified and fresh testimonials pour in every week.

Mrs. Alfred Perry, wife of A. Perry, merchant and ship builder, gives important testimony as to the value of Paine's Celery Compound for nervous troubles and the results that flow from them. She was fully and completely cured. For the benefit of sufferers she writes as follows:

"For two years my system was all run down, and I suffered more than I can describe from nervous prostration and insomnia; at times I almost lost my reason from severe pain at base of the brain. My husband advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound, which I did, and the effects were wonderful. I soon began to sleep well; the pain left my head; my whole system was strengthened, and I am now enjoying very good health.

"I would cheerfully recommend Paine's Celery Compound to anyone suffering from like troubles. You have my best wishes for the future success of your excellent remedy."

COUNTY CONSTABLES.

Organization of the Ontario Provincial Constabulary at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, March 2.—About 70 delegates attended the county constables' convention, which opened in the court house here yesterday morning, and during the day this number was augmented by the arrival of many more. Detective Thos. Wasson, of Toronto, was appointed chairman, and in his opening address he explained the origin of the movement for the formation of a provincial association of county constables. The object of organizing was to secure better facilities for interchange of information and to improve the remuneration of county constables. High Constable Johnston, of Belleville, referred to the necessity of securing the constables protection from blackmailing suits by lawyers on behalf of persons arrested, and said he had himself paid out $300 in costs in such suits, only one of which ever came to trial.

Ex-Chief MacKinnon, of Hamilton, addressed the convention in the afternoon and spoke at length on the necessity of better police protection in the rural districts, where a population of 1,500,000 were virtually without protection against criminals. He proposed a plan of reorganization as follows: The appointment of one chief inspector for the province, one sub-inspector in each group of four or six counties, one high constable in each county, a thorough reorganization of constables, appointment of inspectors to be made by the Government, high constables and county constables by the county judge, warden of the county and county crown attorney; the inspectors to devote their whole time and attention to the duties of the office, and the salary to be paid by the Government and municipalities pro rata; high constables to be paid a salary by the county and also to be paid a stated sum for each day's work when engaged, together with expenses; the chief inspector's office would be the centre of information, where a complete list of names of criminals, their photographs, description and records would be kept.

The proposition was well received and a committee will consider the advisability of submitting it to the Government. It was decided to organize the associations of York, Kent and Wentworth into an organization to be known as the "Ontario Provincial Constabulary," and officers were elected as follows: Thos. Wasson, Toronto, president; Wm. Boyd, Toronto, secretary; D. T. Wilson, Toronto, treasurer.

American Trade Report.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Bradstreet's to-day says: While the course of general trade during the first two months of the year has been disappointing, February ends and March begins with tangible though not as yet satisfactory signs of improvement. Among larger eastern business centres no general evidences of improvement are reported except a larger volume of trade in staple lines at Pittsburg together with better demand in the iron and steel trades. Exports of wheat (including flour as wheat), both coasts of the United States this week amount to 2,689,000 bushels, against 1,808,000 bushels last week. February bank clearings at 60 cities in the United States amount to $3,384,000,000, the smallest monthly total since records were kept, except those for February one year ago and for August and September in the panic year, 1893. There were 294 business failures reported this week, contrasted with 337 last week and with 273 in the concluding week of February, 1894.

The British Pacific Railway.

LONDON, March 2.—The promoters of the British Pacific Railway, which it is intended to run from Victoria, B. C., via Cariboo, the Yellowhead Pass, Edmonton, and through the Northwest, state that the money to float the scheme on the London market is all secured. They say they are waiting now for the British Columbia Government to fulfill its promises to assist the scheme to the fullest extent of its power. Hon. J. H. Turner, the Finance Minister of British Columbia, comes to England shortly to make a new British Columbia loan and the promoters expect he will give such pledges of his government's aid as will enable the British Pacific Company to be put before the public here. The British Pacific Company will reach the sea-board, according to present arrangements, through connecting with the much-talked-of and much-criticised Atlantic and Lake Superior route.

France's Trade With Canada.

PARIS, March 2.—The French Government has deputed ex-Consul Durand, who served in Quebec and is now in London, to visit French ports and give information likely to develop France's trade with Canada. The Bordeaux Chamber of Commerce has published M. Hanotaux's letter asserting that Lord Dufferin, British Ambassador, said he had not yet received powers to exchange ratifications of the Franco-Canadian treaty. M. Hanotaux expressed the opinion that despite this delay the treaty soon would become operative.

Canada and Australia.

LONDON, March 2.—It is feared in colonial circles that the question of privilege which compelled the Government to withdraw from the Lords the bill to enable Canada and Australia to enter into mutual treaty arrangements, will seriously retard this outcome of the Ottawa Intercolonial conference. The Government will introduce the bill into the Commons, but the business there is very much congested and the prospects for the bill's passage are not bright.

A FRIEND OF THE LITTLE ONES.

Robert B. English, Son of John English, Proprietor of the Lakefield Cooperage, a Victim of Nervousness and Fits.

A MOST AGGRAVATED CASE THAT DOCTORS COULD NOT CURE

When Hope Was Abandoned South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure—His Parents Are Never Done Speaking of This Great Remedy.

ROBERT B. ENGLISH, LAKEFIELD, ONT.

The anxiety that comes to parents, because of the sickness of their children is one of the most severe trials of life. Here is the case of Robert B. English, son of John English, proprietor of the well known cooperage factory, at Lakefield, Ont. Five years ago this youth suffered from a severe attack of La Grippe, leaving him a perfect wreck. A result of this extreme weakness was an attack of nervous troubles, developing into some of their most trying and unpleasant ways. The youth was taken with severe twitchings, and following these would come fits that would rack the system two and three times every week. His parents did everything that a loving father and mother could possibly do. The highest medical skill was enlisted, but in the end the doctors explained to the parents that the boy's recovery was impossible. Medicine to no end had been poured into the boy's system and no relief came. Certain local circumstances influenced the parents to make a trial of South American Nervine. This medicine had only been taken a short time when the fits disappeared and the nervous twitchings gradually lessened. Encouraged by these results, the medicine was continued until six bottles were taken. Then no more was required for, as the father said, the boy was completely cured, and stands to-day an object lesson of what Nervine can do in cases of extreme Nervous troubles. It is not surprising that these parents could never cease speaking in glowing terms of this great remedy. It is a great remedy, because it is based on a scientific principle that makes a cure effective in all cases. The nerve centers are located at the base of the brain and in the vicinity of the spinal cord. The secret of Nervine is that it commences its work at these points. No time is lost giving a little temporary ease. But the life-giving center refreshened, built up and strengthened to the utmost, and the whole system is invigorated. The common sense character of this method is plain to every one—lettered or unlettered, simple or wise. It is for this reason that it is to be said of Nervine, not that it cures some cases, but that it never fails in any case.

Liverymen are in despair over the conditions of the leading roads at present. The pitch-holes are so frequent and deep that horses tire of the steanal bobbing up and down and cannot be restrained from jumping them. —A curious thing happened at Reesor's electric works, Lindsay, the other evening. The steam engines supplying the power draw the water used for the condensers from the river river through a large pipe, and on that night the engineer was almost compelled to shut down his engines owing to thousands of small fish, which had found their way through the pipes into the tank, and had so completely filled it as not to allow sufficient room for water for the boilers. They had to be shovelled out to prevent a stoppage of the machinery.

Died in Brighton.

News was received in town this morning of the death of Elmo Lane, youngest son of Mr. Chas. T. Lane, formerly of Peterborough. The family moved to Peterborough some 8 years ago from Warkworth, and six months ago took up their residence in Brighton, where the deceased passed away this morning, a victim of that fell destroyer, consumption. Elmo was only sixteen years of age, and had been ill but one short year. When he resided in Peterborough he was a member of the George Street Methodist church, and prominently identified himself with the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour connected with that church. Mr. John T. Lane, of the Omemee Mirror, is a brother of the deceased.

MANY INDUSTRIES ANXIOUS TO LOCATE.

PETERBOROUGH WILL OFFER INDUCEMENTS.

The Board of Trade and Town Council Working Hand in Hand in the Matter — Peterborough's Water Power Gives her a big Advantage.

The council and Manufacturers' Committee of the Board of Trade met last evening at the call of the president, Mr. Robt. Fair, to consider certain correspondence, in hands of the secretary, relative to the removal to this town of certain industries seeking good locations. Those present at the meeting were Messrs. McWhinnie, R. Fair, A. L. Davis, David Moore, H. LeBrun, John Carnegie, B. Shortly and H. S. Macdonald. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. H. Manson.

A great deal of correspondence was submitted by the secretary, Mr. T. A. S. Hay. Inquiries by various industries as to the inducements Peterborough could offer being read. A communication received from a Toronto firm was considered

TO BE OF ESPECIAL IMPORTANCE.

Mr. Fair had heard that this firm intended moving their factory from its present site and together with the Mayor and Mr. John Carnegie had called upon them, while in Toronto, early in the week. This business is on a substantial financial basis and the firm do not seek to have stock subscribed, but naturaly is anxious to ascertain what inducements to locate here would be held out. Two hundred hands are employed the year round and between $50,000 and $60,000 is annually paid out in wages. The company is one of the three largest in Canada in their particular line of business and the members of the Manufacturers' Committee thought, in view of the circumstances, that the iron should be struck while hot and strong persuasive powers brought to bear on the firm in question.

Mr. Fair explained that he had spoken to several councillors regarding the matter and all thought that an opinion from the Board would have a tendency to strengthen the hands of the council in the matter. The firm, he understood, had already been offered a free site and buildings in one town.

Mr. Carnegie explained that with its water power Peterborough over other towns. The company spoken of needed 500 horse power and the difference in generating this amount of power by steam and by water, was such as in itself to form a powerful inducement to an industry to locate. On behalf of the Hilliard estate he expressed a willingness to sell to the town five acres of land at a very low figure if the site should be approved of.

The Mayor explained that he had plainly stated to one of the members of the firm that Peterborough would give no cash bonus.

Mr. Fair thought that good power at a cheap rate would be an inducement worthy of consideration.

Mr. A. L. Davis was in favour of granting a free site rather than free power.

The following were appointed a committee to wait on the Manufacturers' Committe of the council and confer with it as to the inducements to be offered:—Messrs. R. Fair, D. W. Dumble, T. A. Hay, A. L. Davis, W. H. Manson, R. Mulholland and D. H. Moore.

The secretary then called upon Mr. D. H. Moore, understanding that he knew something about of Howry Lumber Company's Mills to Peterborough.

THE RUMOURED REMOVAL

Mr. Moore stated that while Mr. Howry himself was too shrewd to express any views on the question, or commit himself, yet he had learned from those in authority under Mr. Howry that the mill would of necessity have to come to Peterborough in the course of a couple of years, by which time the Boyd timber limits would have been exhausted. Unless the mill was removed here, a railway eighteen miles in length would have to be constructed by the company through a country so rough as to make the undertaking one necessitating an immense outlay. The Howrys, he understood, fully recognized their mistake in settling at Fenelon Falls instead of Peterborough in the first place.

Mr. Moore was doubtful about the benefit which would accrue to the town from the establishment of the in Peterborough. While two years ago Fenelon would have given ten thousand dollars to keep the mill there, now the residents of that town were unconcerned whether it stayed or not. Little or no local labour was employed by the firm, nearly all the hands being brought from the United States, and being composed largely of the types of the genus "tramp." Those Canadians who sought employment with the Company, had it made so hot for them that they invariably "jumped" their agreements and left. The men had to buy their supplies from the company at rates which allowed the Howry's an estimated profit of from 100 to 150 per cent. When the men paid their bills at the Company's van they had little or nothing left.

The members assembled decided to take no action in regard to the Howry matter, inasmuch as the question was being taken up by the Manufacturers' Committee of the town council.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

Worried Women

Why DO They Worry When It Is Needless?

HOW TO AVOID IT.

There is a Secret Cause of Nearly all Worriment Which is to be Found in the Women Themselves.

If women had only perfect health nine-tenths of all the worrying which they now do would be avoided. When a women is sick she can't help worrying.

Now, the cause of nearly all woman's sickness arises from the same source. Men get sick from various causes, but a woman's troubles are peculiar to herself. It is unfortunate, but it is true, apd yet nearly all this trouble might be avoided. There is a sovereign remedy for women. Do you ask what it is? Read what some ladies have said:

Mdme. I. F. Dionne, Ottawa, Ont.: "When I was quite young, I had some trouble with my kidneys, but I did not pay much attention to it. I let it run on for years until I saw that I was getting worse. I went to a doctor and was examined and began treatment. Well, I kept on in this way, doctoring and doctoring, for a long time, but the disease kept gaining and getting worse. From mere kidney trouble at first, it seemed to have spread all over my system. My stomach became very weak and rebelled at food; my head at times ached badly; then across my back and side were sharp, darting pains or a dull heavy ache. My whole system seemed poisoned with uric acid, and I was terribly bloated. I tried doctor after doctor without getting any relief. I read in the paper of a man who had been cured of much the same trouble as mine by taking Warner's Safe Cure. As doctors had proved such a hopeless failure, I concluded that nothing would make me much worse anyway. So I began my first bottle of that grand medicine, Warner's Safe Cure. Before I had finished it, I felt it was doing me good. I gladly kept on for every bottle was worth it weight in gold. The bloating began to leave me, and continued to do so until it was was all gone, and every thing I had tried before failed to do me any good in this way. My stomach became stronger, my headaches and pains across me all disappeared. In fact I felt better every way. I gladly recommend Warner's Safe Cure to ladies, for it was during change of life that all this occurred, and I can never tell how wonderfully it helped me. No medicine equals Warner's Safe Cure for kidney complaints and weaknesses peculiar to women."

Mrs. R. F. Carter, Niagara Falls, Ont.: "Some years ago I suffered very much from backache and general debility; my nerves seemed all unstrung. I had no appetite and felt perfectly exhausted. I did not known just what was the matter. I began taking Warner's Safe Cure and Safe Pills, and began to improve immediately. I took about six bottles in all, and felt like a new person; all my old symptoms, headache and all, were entirely gone. I owe a great deal to Warner's Safe Cure, and gladly recommend it."

Mrs. M. J. Walker, Hamilton, Ont. "Some time ago I suffered terribly from pain in the back, also accompanied by chills and ague. I tried several doctors but none seemed to help me. Finally I was induced to try Warner's Safe Cure, and found immediate relief. I took about twenty bottles in all, and was entirely cured. I would gladly recommend it to any one."

TH OLDE TYME SOCIAL.

A Novel Social Pleasing to All—An Interesting Programme.

St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. completely surpassed all previous efforts along the social line last night, when they treated their friends to an olde tyme social. The Sunday school room was crowded with a happy throng of young people, all bent on one purpose, that of taking the most amusement out of the short time alloted to that purpose.

In all the alchoves surrounding the school room tables were placed which were laden with ye olde style edibles, which were tempting and proved to be delicious. At each table presided a young lady dressed in a costume which gave to her a grandmotherly air. On asch of the tables were placed lighted candles, all of which lent aid to make the scene realistic.

The programme was at first presented, Mr. A. Johnston presiding. After singing "All hail the power," and Rev. Dr. Torrance offering prayer, the chairman explained the purpose of the social. The programme rendered was as follows:

Quartette.....Misses Montgomery and Rose, and Messrs. Crane and Nelson
Instrumental selection.....Mr. Fraser
Reading.....Mr. Nugent
Duett.....Messrs. Miller and Crowe
Recitation.....Mrs. Goldsmith
Solo.....Miss Jennie Rose

This portion of the entertainment was closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne" by those assembled. Refreshments were then served and a very pleasant social hour was spent together and which was brought to a close by singing "Blest be the tie that binds," and all present agreed unanimously in saying that it was the most successful social of the season. For want of space we are unable to comment on the different numbers of the programme, let it suffice to say that each number was well received. The old style piano was kindly loaned by Jackson & Co., the local piano dealers.

GENTILLESSE.

He was a verray perfight gentil knight.

Curteys he was, lowly and servysable.
—Canterbury Tales.

It is now nearly forty years ago since a book was published by Samuel Smiles, entitled "Self Help." It was an excellent work, and has had a very large circulation. Self-help is doubtless an essential to success, and there is truth in the saying "God helps those who help themselves." But Self-help is a one-sided thing, and may engender a very ugly character, unless it be balanced with Mutual help. The truth about Self-help and Mutual-help has been expressed thus by St. Paul: "Every man shall bear his own burden;" "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ." Truth, like the earth, is a globe composed of two hemispheres. It is a pity so many of us are satisfied with half-truths.

It is in pursuance of the spirit of mutual-help, that the Fortnightly Club ventures to offer a weekly column to the readers of THE EXAMINER. If thirty or forty people find the discussion of a variety of topics both interesting and helpful, there seems to be no reason why twelve or fifteen hundred readers should not enjoy a column of discussion in the newspapers. As was said last Saturday, we do not want to lecture or to preach, and therefore the editor invites correspondence in order that this column may become a kind of "MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT" society in print.

In the early days of the Christian Church, a learned father wrote a book in which he discussed in an unsystematic way, a number of topics of interest to the men of his time. He called it Stromateis, which being interpreted is "The Miscellanies." In our own day Max Muller has published a number of fragmentary pieces, very appropriately entitled "Chips from a German Workshop." In like manner we shall unsystematically talk about whatever subject seems to be interesting, with, however, the practical end of Mutual-help always in view, and if anyone likes to call these letters "SPLINTERS OFF THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB," we shall not object.

The spirit of MUTUALNESS in which every preacher should preach, and every teacher teach, and every writer write, and every worker work, may be extracted from the following amusing lines written by a bishop:

The parish priest
Of austerity
Climbed up to a high church steeple
To be nearer God,
So that he might hand
His Word down to the people.

And in sermon script
He daily wrote
What he thought was sent from heaven,
And he dropped it down
On the people's heads,
Two times one day in seven.

In his age God said
"Come down and die,"
And he cried out from the steeple,
"Where art thou, Lord?"
And the Lord replied
"Down here among my people."

An interesting discussion has been going on in the Toronto "Week" on the subject of "Manners." A writer, who calls himself "Oldstyle," complains very bitterly of the manners of society, and especially of women's manners. Not merely, says he, do they scarcely ever say "if you please," or "thank you," when they are shown attention, but they are noisy in their conversation, speaking in a crowded room almost at the top of their voices, and making personal references to persons in the room and almost within earshot. "Is this," asks Oldstyle, "the blossom of modern civilization? Is this the outcome of our improved education and the like?" Following this letter came others in defence of modern manners: but the upshot of the discussion was that there has been some deterioration in manners amongst all sorts and conditions of men, and an improvement is urgently called for.

We are not particularly interested in the manners of Toronto people, save in so far as the criticism of those of one city may be applicable to all. Good manners and bad manners are to be found everywhere, and it may be worth while to consider why the one are to be desired and the other contemned. There are into which people fall in regard to manners. First, the error of supposing that good manners are unnatural, and that it is always best to be natural, and naturalness often means rudeness. Now, a moment's reflection will show that good manners are no more unnatural than good carpentry or blacksmithing,—we do not admire a rough job because it is natural. However great may be our natural talents, we know they require cultivation, and so the manners with which we are born may, and should, be cultivated.

The opposite error is that of identifying good manners with the particular bearing and customs of that small number of the community, which is known as "the best society." Manners are something more than "etiquette." People who never offend against the laws of etiquette, may be very bad-mannered, and contrariwise, people quite ignorant of etiquette may be very good-mannered.

Can good manners be defined? Dean Swift said that "good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse." At first sight this appears to include but a very small part of good manners, but the more we think over this definition the more shall we be struck with its comprehension, especially if we bear in mind that the word conversation has a much wider meaning than talking, as for example in the text, "Our conversation is in heaven."

We may notice too how Swift's definition goes to the root of the matter in making truly good manners UNSELFISH—"The art of making other people easy with whom we converse." The unmannerly man is rude, because he does not care enough for others to take the trouble to be mannerly. The man or woman of French polish is inspired by mere vanity, is good mannered for the sake of others.

NEITHER ONE NOR THE OTHER

It is at this point that good manners, like every other good thing, finds its point of contact with religion. For religion has its manward as well as Godward side; and to love our neighbour as ourself, is to have respect for him. The Sermon on the Mount is full of instruction on good manners, as for example the following: "Why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam in thine own eye." St. Paul, too, opens the fountain of good manners when he bids us "look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others," and not less "the pilot of the Galilean lake," in his charge, "Be pitiful, be courteous, not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing."

Reference was made in the opening of this letter to Self-help and Mutual help. Good manners (not French polish) will certainly conduce to both, and will be found a plant whose cultivation will be rewarded with rich fruits. The unification of society depends less upon birth, riches or clothes, than upon the attainment of a common, but high standard, of manners. Given the root of courtesy, a true respect for our fellows, and that "best society" of which, perhaps, we are sometimes prone to be jealous, has a good deal to teach us. There are few more beautiful things in the world than the graceful graciousness of a perfect manner, whose every act expresses that true sympathy which, in every relation of life, seeks to make all at ease with whom it comes into contact.

A knight there was, and that a working man,
That fro' the time he first began
To riden out, he loved chivalry,
Truth and honour, freedom and courtesy,
Full worthy was he in his lordes war,
And thereto had he ridden far,
As well in Christendom as heathenesse,
And ever honoured for his worthinesse.

THE BELLE OF THE EVENING.

Her Lovely Pink Silk Dress.

A few weeks ago a ball was given in a flourishg Ontario town. Youth and beauty was fully represented, and many of the ladies wore charming costumes. The belle of the evening was a young lady of twenty years; she was the personification of grace and beauty, and won the admiration of all who were present.

Her brother, an intimate friend of the writer, told the following secret: "My sister looked charmingly beautiful at Mrs. Y——'s ball last evening. From what I had heard about her ball dress at home, I fully expected chagrin and disappointment as far as I was concerned, because I understood she was to wear a dress that had been dyed with Diamond Dyes.

"For some time she had worn a cream silk, but it had become somewhat soiled, so mother and sister determined to dye it a light shade of pink, and I fully expected a failure.

"Before going to the ball I was called to see my sister in her new dress, and I could hardly believe it was the old dress re-dyed. The lovely light pink was a marvellously rich shade, and the whole costume so becoming that I was fairly delighted. Young and old at the ball were charmed with sist's good taste, but of course they had no idea that Diamond Dyes played so important a part in the success of the costume."

MORAL—When you re-dye any valuable material always use the Diamond Dyes, if you wish success; they never fail to give good results.

THE WORM HAS TURNED.

The High Hat Must go From the Theatre—The Law so Enacts.

Most of the lawgivers who have been threatening to put down the Theatre Hat nuisance by calling in the police, have concluded to let the delinquents off this time with a solemn warning; but out in emancipated California no such foolish weakness has been shown. There the hard worked legislator has been cheated once too often of a look at the lofty terpsichorean performance he had paid his good money to see. The iron has entered his soul; and by a vote of 48 to 16, he and his fellows have passed an act which provides that "it shall be unlawful for any person or persons visiting any place of public amusement to wear hats, bonnets, hoods or other headwear during the hours of the performance, and any person violating the provisions of this act shall be liable to the person aggrieved in damages not to exceed the sum of $50."

"The person aggrieved" is, doubtless, the wrathy individual, usually of the male sex, who sits behind The Hat, and knows when the act is over by seeing the gentlemen about him go out to talk business in the lobbies. By this provision he will get back not only the price of his ticket, but enough money to buy a seat in the front row for the next performance. The California act further provides that the Hatee shall be given a choice between a fine not to exceed $25 and imprisonment in the county gaol for a period not to exceed 25 days. By this time, it is presumed that the Hat will have gone out of style and that there will be no temptation for the prisoner to repeat the offence.

This measure may seem to be a trifle sweeping and severe; but it only shows what mere men will do when pushed into too cruel a corner. Let the ladies of Peterborough take warning by the sad fate of their Californian sisters.

LA REVUE NATIONALE.

The EXAMINER has received the first number of a handsomely printed and elaborate magazine, the "Revue Nationale," published in Montreal, P. Q. It is printed in French and as the prospectus found in the initial issue, says is, "first of all a collection of French Canadian literature from the pens of our chief men of letters," and an earnest appeal is made to writers of talent in order that prominence may be given to the work of hitherto unknown writers. Questions of religion, education and social questions will be carefully discussed, and fiction, poetry and lighter subjects will not be ignored. The number to hand has capital portraits of Hon. Wilfred Laurier, Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Mr. Louis Frechette and other contributors. This new venture is an ambitious one, but the first number of the Revue Nationale seems to possess sufficient merit to justify its receiving substantial encouragement. The subscription price of this monthy, which consists of 100 pages, is the moderate sum of $3.00 per year.

FEMALE TROUBLES.

A Toronto Lady's Testimony Regarding Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills in all female troubles has long since been established, and scores of testimonals have been received in reference to the cures effected by the specific. The experience of Mrs. Mary Carleton of 25 Henry street, this city, is a case in point. Mrs. Mary Carleton writes as follows: "I was troubled for some time with a pain in my back and kidneys, and was recommended to try a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so, and the result was that in a very few days the pain left me, and I have been free from it since. Therefore, from experience I highly recommend your Pills to anyone suffering in this way." Yours truly, MRS. WM. CARLETON, 25 Henry street.

Spreading Chesnut Tree

Becomes a mightier and more prosperous man in proportion to the expert knowledge with which he shoes a farm-horse or welds a bar of iron. The fact that this is wholly a question of Self-Culture is bringing thousands into line in the Home University introduced by The Mail and Empire in connection with its distribution of the Encyclopedia Britannica. With classes for mutual improvement at every fireside, in which young and old can join hand in hand, a conquest is assured to all against Idleness, Ignorance, Inefficiency, and Inferiority.

COMPLETELY PARALYZED.

PHYSICIANS ARE ASTOUNDED BY A PECULIAR CASE.

A Young Canadian Stricken With Paralysis While in New York—Returned to His Home at London, Ont., as He Believed, to Die—The Means of Renewed Health Pointed Out by a Clergyman who Visited Him.

Stricken with Landry's Paralysis and yet cured. That means but little to the average layman, but it means a miracle to a physician. Such is the experience of O. E. Dallimore, at present a resident of Madison, N.J., and a rare experience it is.

"Yes, its true that I had Landry's paralysis," said Mr. Dallimore to the reporter, "or else the most celebrated physicians of London were mistaken. That I have been cured is clearly apparent." With this he straightened up as sturdy and promising a son of Britain as ever trod American soil.

"It was on the 15th of March last," he continued, "when I was in New York City, that I first felt symptoms of my trouble. I experienced difficulty in going up stairs, my legs failing to support me. I consulted a physician who informed me that I had every symptom of locomotor ataxia, but as the case developed he pronounced it a case of Landry's paralysis, and knowing the nature of the disease, advised me to start for my home and friends. I gave up my work and on April 1st started for London, Ont. A well known physician was consulted but I grew rapidly worse and on Saturday, April 7th, several physicians held a consultation on my case and informed me that I was at death's door, having but three to six days to live, still I lingered on, by this time completely paralyzed, my hands and feet being dead. I could hardly whisper my wants and could only swallow liquids. Oh, the misery of those moments are beyond all description and death would really have been a welcome visitor.

"Now comes the part that has astounded the physicians. Rev. Mr. Grundy, a clergyman who visited me in my last hours, as he supposed, told me of the marvellous cures of paralysis that had been performed by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I started to take the pills about April 28 and a week after that felt an improvement in my condition. There was a warm, tingling sensation in the limbs that had been entirely dead and I soon began to move my feet and hands. The improvement continued until May 28, when I was taken out of bed for a drive and drove the horse myself. By the beginning of July I was able to walk upstairs alone and paid a visit to Niagara.

Slowly but surely I gained my old health and strength leaving London for New York on October 11 and beginning my work again on October 28, 1894. Cured of Landry's Paralysis in eight months."

To confirm his story beyond all doubt, Mr. Dallimore made the following affidavit:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY, } ss
MORRIS COUNTY, }

Olave Dallimore being duly sworn on his oath, said that the foregoing statement is just and true.

OLAVE E. DALLIMORE.

Sworn and subscribed before me December 3, 1894.

AMOS C. RATHBUN,
[SEAL.] Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, paralysis, St. Vitus dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. There are no ill effects following the use of this wonderful medicine, and it can be given to children with perfect safety.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

LUMBER YARDS DESTROYED.

Heavy Loss of Lumber to the Firm of Hughson & Gilmour.

OTTAWA, March 2.—Fire in Gilmour & Hughson's yards at Ironsides destroyed five millions of lumber and caused a loss of $80,000 to $100,000. Part of the lumber belonged to the Oswego Lumber Company and McArthur & Co.

Fresh footprints in the snow led from the road to the pile which caught fire and back to the road again.

It is a strange coincidence that the funerals took place the same day of the late Colonel Allan Gilmour, who was the founder of the firm of Gilmour & Hughson, and of Mr. McArthur, of Quebec, who owned a portion of the lumber destroyed.

LUELLA LACEY COMMITTED.

She Will be Tried for Poisoning Her Infant Charge.

GRIMSBY, March 2.—Luella Lacey, the thirteen-year-old girl, was committed for trial on charge of poisoning the ten-month-old son of Thomas Pearson. It was proved that the girl was the only person with the child when it got the carbolic acid which caused its death and it was established that the child could not have reached the poison and helped itself.

A Detroit Man Assaulted and Robbed.

WINDSOR, March 2.—Shortly after eight o'clock a man staggered into the Dominion Hotel in Sandwich, covered with blood. He gave his name as John Allen of Detroit. He had some people to see in Sandwich, he said, and was passing Wm. Cowan's house when two men halted him. They said they wanted him to put up the drinks and he refused. Without warning one of the men struck him with something under the eye so violently that he fell and what happened after that he was unable to say. When he came to his senses his head lay in a pool of blood and when he tried his pockets they had been rifled. He did not make any statement to the hotel people as to how much or what had been taken from him. He was well dressed and was about 45 years old. He left the hotel after his wounds were dressed.

The entering wedge of a fatal complaint is often a slight cold, which a dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral might have cured at the commencement. Therefore, it is advisable to have this prompt and sure remedy always at hand to meet an emergency.

THE DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The Conventions Concluded Yesterday at Newmarket.

NEWMARKET, March 2.—The Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario concluded its series of local conventions at Newmarket yesterday afternoon and evening. This series of meetings was arranged as far as possible to reach the dairymen in those sections where it is difficult for dairymen and farmers to get to the annual conventions. These seven local gatherings have been attended with good success, though the northern meetings owing to the snow blockades were not as largely attended as they would otherwise have been. They have served to stimulate and promote a more profitable line of dairy farming in Western Ontario. At the afternoon session A. F. Maclaren, Toronto, presided. J. W. Wheaton, London, addressed the meeting on the association's work and the profitableness of dairying in those sections where they have made a business of it. J. H. Nomrad, Illinois, gave a practical talk on the cost of production, which brought out much discussion. J. C. Snell, Edmonton, read an excellent paper on the essentials of successful swine husbandry. Wm. Mulock, M. P., gave a very instructive address on the benefits of the silo and the value to the farmer of having succulent food for stock all the year round. The farmers of North York who attended were well pleased with the convention and turned out in good numbers. At the evening meeting addresses were given by Messrs. Nomrad, Wheaton and others.

THE HYAMS TRIAL.

Evidence Favorable to the Prisoners—The Crown's Case Weak.

TORONTO, March 2.—The third day of the Hyams brothers trial was opened with the cross-examination of Dr. E. E. King. The doctor testified that the prisoners were apparently much distressed and anxious for him to get there and when he arrived the body was still very warm. He saw no evidence of a scuffle or anything which would lead him to suspect the truth of the prisoners' explanation. He sent for the coroner because that was his custom in all fatalities where there were only one or two witnesses present.

Robert Wright, a friend of deceased, deposed to inspecting the cellar after the death and talking over the occurrence with Harry Hyams. The agents of Covenant Mutual and New York Life Insurance Co. swore to the circumstances of the issuing of the policies on the life of W. C. Wells, and both swore they solicited Wells and he had taken the policies without any assistance or urging from the prisoners or anyone else. This evidence from the crown witness caused something of a sensation in the court, as it was confidentially expected the crown would show that the insurance had been taken on the instigation largely, if not entirely of the Hyams. There was no suspicion of this in the evidence and at this stage it looks as if this part of the crown's case will fall through.

Colonel North's Strong Room.

Colonel North is said to have at Eltham one of the strongest of strong rooms probably in the world. Not only is his gold and silverware stored here, but lady visitors to Eltham are provided for, special arrangements being made for "taking care" of their jewels during the night. The "room" is floored with cement and walled all round with weighty granite. To get into its interior you must pass through many gates, all fitted up with burglar alarms. The treasures are kept in iron cages, and the "room" is 30 feet under ground.—London Tit-Bits.

The Difference.

Two soldiers lay under their blankets looking up at the stars. Says Jack, "What made you go into the army, Tom?" "Well," replied Tom, "I had no wife and I loved war, Jack, so I went. What made you go?" "Well," returned Jack, "I had a wife and I loved peace, Tom, so I went."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Stories of Great Luck.

Captain Ben Ferguson, collector on the ferryboat Hite, is always reminiscent. The other day the captain said to me: "You seldom hear of a man making $90,000 in one night in these days, but I know of such an instance. Mr. Coleman, who ran a foundry on Washington street, near Brook, did it. In relating it to me he exhibited no delight whatever. His words were: 'Captain, I made $90,000 last night; went to bed early and slept soundly. You know the price of iron went up, and fortunately I had enough on hand, which I had purchased at a low figure, to net me a fortune.' As Captain Ferguson concluded the story he told another of how Dennis Long made $200,000 because the price of iron dropped out of sight. It was just at a time when Mr. Long had failed in business and told Captain Ferguson that he was $400,000 in debt.

"Well," said the captain, "Dennis Long went up to Indianapolis to bid on the construction of the city waterworks. There was but one other bidder, and Mr. Long was awarded the contract. Not long after iron began fluctuating, and Long's estimate having been made on the basis that iron would advance still more in price, it already being high at the time, he of course found that as it decreased he was reaping a golden harvest. Well, iron went down and down. When it stopped, it was worth hardly anything. Mr. Long, as I said, made $200,000 by this, and he's been making money ever since."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Rats Are Great Travelers.

Rats do not, as one would suppose, remain on the ship, but get off at various ports, and after remaining a while ship on some other vessel for another voyage. The water rats or wharf rats are great travelers and make frequent voyages around the lakes and even around the world—the latter as I discovered while engaged in West India service. There are here now rats from almost every part of the globe. Why, I saw four colossal Jamaica rats, with their white bellies, skipping about in the moonlight a few weeks ago, and only yesterday I killed two Indian male rats not 200 feet from where we were standing.

Rats are great climbers when they find it necessary to be so. Upon one of my voyages not long ago we had a long spell of warm weather, and there was no water in the hold which the small army of rats on board could get at. One night we put some water up at the cross trees and waited for the result. Well, the rats just swarmed up the ratlines and went for the water. We killed as many of them as we could as they came down, and some of them jumped overboard and were drowned. But we could not kill them all, and a few made the entire voyage with us.—Interview in Chicago Tribune.

Bismarck's Advice to Students.

Only now, and in a roundabout way, via Bonn, has the text of the speech which Prince Bismarck made at the reception of Bonn students become known. The prince confessed that at the university he neglected study, but added: "The only thing that I am sorry for on looking back to those times is that I could not later on make up for what I had neglected then. What one has learned afterward does not remain so firmly in one's memory. I do not dissuade you from working, but I am not horrified if my sons commit studentlike excesses, and above all things I believe that the student's life in corporations has this advantage—that it somewhat steels the character by subjecting each to the criticism of his comrades. This is a great thing. As long as one belongs to a corporation, to the opinion of which one attaches much importance, one does not easily go astray. The same thing plays an important part later on in life. What is it that is the backbone of German officials? The university and the sword-knot."—Berlin Cor. London News.

How to Live if You Wish to Live Long.

Aside from the very important and controlling influence of inheritance, of diet and of temperate habits, the points to be learned from the few statistical data attainable are that longevity is promoted by a quiet, peaceful life in a retired and rural community, where there is freedom from nervous strain and worrying and excessively laborious toil. The business man, with increasing cares and responsibilities, the mill operative toiling hard to keep together the souls and bodies of himself and his family, the politicians, the hardworking professional men, are not the chief contributors to the centenarian ranks. Dr. Holyoke indeed became a centenarian, but his example has rarely been followed by his professional brethren.—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

The Whistling Tree.

A species of acacia, which grows very abundantly in Nubia and the Soudan, is also called the "whistling tree" by the natives. Its shoots are frequently, by the agency of the larvæ of insects, distorted in shape and swollen into a globular bladder from 1 to 2 inches in diameter. After the insect has emerged from a circular hole in the side of this swelling, the opening, played upon by the wind, becomes a musical instrument nearly equal in sound to a sweet toned flute.—New York Telegram.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

THE SNAKE BITE WAS FATAL.

And the Red Nosed Man Went on to Tell How the Venom Got In Its Work.

"It's all humbug, this talk about rattlesnakes being so deadly poison," said red faced man in the smoking car. 'I've lived among 'em. They used to be so thick out where I live that you had to be mighty careful where you put your feet down if you didn't want to hurt a rattler or two every time you stepped.

"My bed was never any more than big enough for me and the easy conscience I always slept with, but I've woke up more times than I've got fingers and toes and found that two or three rattlesnakes had managed to find room with us. They were plenty, I tell you, out where I live. But deadly? Pooh! Why, I've known scores and scores of people to be socked, and socked deep, by rattlers, and I never knew of but one instance where a rattler's bite was fatal; never but once out of more cases than there's pimples on a goose.

"Bill Bulger was the man that was bit that time—a great, big, rough scuff of a log chopper that didn't look as if a whole den of rattlers could raise as much as a flea bite on him. But he went to teasing a big buck rattlesnake that had come down to camp to look around one day, and the snake just threw his upper teeth against Bill a couple of times, and every drop of poison he had he emptied into Bill's wrist. Holler? Great jeeswax, how Bill did holler! We grabbed him and hustled him over to the Pig's Ear shebang on t'other side of the camp and began to decant rum into him, and it wasn't long before Bill looked as if he was glad he was bit.

"Everybody said he'd die, though, sure pop, because that buck rattler must have unloaded into Jim close on to three fingers of the best poison he had. Consequently folks were surprised more than you can think when they got around next morning and found Bill on deck as chipper as a red squirrel and sound as a white oak knot."

"What!" exclaimed the man in the next seat. "I thought you said that bite was fatal!"

"It was, sir," replied the red faced man. "Bill got blind, crazy drunk on the strength of that snake bite and killed the bartender!"—New York Sun.

Cosmetics Among the Romans.

All that had been previously done in the way of facial decoration was left far in the shade by the ancient Romans. All the Latin writers—historians, poets, naturalists and others—mention it in one way or another. It was the practice of Roman actors, as it has been of those of the profession since the theater has existed. Many of the emperors used paint more or less freely. Heliogabalus, one of the most eccentric, when he entered Rome for the first time, had his eyelashes painted black and his cheeks red and white. In the time of Augustus the custom was universal among women of fashion, details of which are given by Horace, Catullus, Tibullus, Ovid, Propertius and the rest. Martial speaks of the chalk of Fabulla that fears the rain, and the wax of Sabella that fears the sun.

Horace mentions red lead and carmine as among the articles employed. Juvenal in one of his satires describes a paste that covers the faces of wives and adheres with tenacity to the faces of husbands. Coquettes, according to Horace, used a paste prepared from beans, much like that used by some modern Frenchwomen, and were also given to the use of cur'in. Mandragora is mentioned by Pliny, and poppies by Ovid.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Name of Stebbins.

The Stebbins family is fairly numerous. It is not now a classic name. Its owners wear it ignorantly. More the shame for them. It is by right a classic name, borne as it was by the first of Christian martyrs—St. Steven, sometimes spelled Stephen. Steven is the Dutch way of spelling it. Spell it in Spanish—Esteban. Drop the initial silent e and then you have Steban. Among the ignorant the step to Stebbins is very short. And the honorable name of St. Steven takes on degradation, even as the fine old Norman-French name D'Aubaine becomes the homely Dobbins.—Davenport Democrat.

S. S. ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL CONNENITON.

County Delegates Assemble at HavelocK.

THE NEXT CONVENTION WILL MEET AT HASTINGS.

Many Interesting and Instructive Addresses Delivered by the Delegates—Mrs. Duncan, Rev. James McEwan and Rev. James Macfarlane All Present—The Primary and Normal Work—Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.

The ninth annual convention of the County Sunday School Association has been in session in Havelock for the past two days.

The first session was held on Thursday morning, with Rev. Dr. McClelland presiding. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev Mr. Coon, of Havelock, and Rev. James Macfarlane, of Warkworth. In the afternoon there was a large attendance and Rev. Dr. McClelland was elected to preside in the absence of the president. Mr. S. R. Armstrong was appointed secretary pro tem.

Reports were received from the local Associations, being presented by Mr. Robert N. English, for Otonabee; Sheriff Hall, for Peterborough and Miss Pettigrew, for Belmont and Nassau. All the reports were most favourable and highly SATISFACTORY TO THE CONVENTION.

A nominating committee, to present a slate of officials for the ensuing year, was appointed as follows:—Messrs. A. Watts, Dummer; Sheriff Hall, Peterborough; Miss Pettigrew, Norwood; Miss Hanbridge, Otonabee; Rev. J. J. Rae, Peterborough, and Rev. Mr. McGinnes, Hastings.

An excellent address was then delivered by Mrs. Duncan, Provincial Primary Secretary, Toronto, on "Primary Class Work." The address which was of considerable length and most instructive, dealt principally with the needs and methods of primary work.

A conference on the address followed.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong's address on "Home Class Work" aroused a great deal of interest. He explained the necessity, as leading to more regular and systematic Bible study in the home and illustrated the formation of this special department of Sunday school work by instancing the organizatiyn of similar classes in Peterborough.

At the conclusion of the address a lengthy conference was held during which Mr. Armstrong was plied with questions concerning the work. A resolution proposed by Rev. Mr. Coon and Rev. J. J. Rae was unanimously adopted endorsing the Home Class Department and recommending all Sunday schools in the county to adopt the system.

Rev. Mr. Coon presided at the Thursday evening session and Rev. J. J. Rae conducted the devotional exercises and gave a Bible reading on the Sunday School.

Rev. Mr. Coon, of Havelock, read an address of welcome to the visiting delegates, after which Rev. James Macfarlane, of Warkworth, spoke to some length on "How Can we Improve the Teaching Power of our Sunday Schools." His remarks were divided under the following heads: The place, the apartment used, the equipment, the training of the teacher and the consecration of the teacher. Concerning the place, Mr. Macfarlane thought the the teachers could do far better work with favourable surroundings. There should be no disturbance in the Sunday School while teaching was in progress—no librarians or other officials to distract the attention of the scholars. Maps, charts and blackboards should be all near at hand to use for purposes of illustrations. The teacher, he thought, should have a comprehensive view and a firm grip of the Bible as a whole, and should be well up in its dates and history. At the beginning of each year the teacher should get a list of the lessons for the year and endeavour to get into his mind the plan the Lesson Committee had in view when the schedule of lessons was drawn up. Mr. Macfarlane then dealt with the methods the teacher should pursue in studying the lesson and in applying it to the class.

SHOULD BE MOVING AROUND

An interesting conference was held at the close of the address.

Rev. J. McEwan, the secretary-treasurer, then submitted his annual report which, on motion of Rev. Mr. McClelland and Rev. J. J. Rae, was referred to the auditors, Messrs. C. H. Brewster and S. R. Armstrong.

[illegible] Rev. Mr. McEwan, "The Mission of the Young People's Societies in relation to the spiritual work of the Sunday school movement from the standpoint of (1) The Pastor, by Rev. Mr. McClelland, of Havelock; (2) The Layman, by Sheriff Hall.

Dr. McClelland took the ground that there should be a close connection between the Young People's Society and the Sunday School. The older members of the congregation though should conduct the latter. The Societies should be independent, but under the control of the regular church authorities.

Sheriff Hall made a most excellent address from the standpoint of the layman. The work of the Sunday School was, he held, to bring scholars to Christ, and to build them up in Christ. The work of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour was to make these scholars workers for Christ. This particular point was fully appreciated by the delegates. The Sheriff, in continuing, expressed the view that the members of should perhaps be kept in the Sunday school, but should certainly be kept in sympathy with the church. One of the duties of the Y. P. S. C. E. should be to look up the younger people of the church.

Rev. Dr. McClelland presided at the Friday morning session.

Rev. J. McEwen, Provincial Normal Secretary, of Toronto, delivered an interesting address on his special department of the work, after which Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, spoke instructively on the "Personal consecration needed for successful Teaching."

The report of

THE NOMINATING COMMITTEE

was then submitted and adopted as follows:—

It was decided that the next meeting of the association be held in Hastings.

Messrs. Brewster and Armstrong presented

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT, which was received and adopted.

Rev. Mr. McGinness, of Hastings, presided at the afternoon meeting.

The Business Committee presented a report, which was adopted, recommending that the President, Secretary, Treasurer, Rev. Mr. Coon and A. Watts be appointed a finance committee, with power from the Association to make necessary financial arrangements and to make allocations to raise the amount of funds required by the Association.

The teaching of a Normal Lesson was then exemplified by Rev. J. McEwan, Provincial Normal Secretary, who illustrated by means of a chart his remarks on a lesson in the life of Christ.

Mrs. Duncan, in illustrating the workings of a Primary Department, taught to a large class of children. A blackboard and other accessories were used and a most interesting half hour was spent.

THE LESSON FOR NEXT SUNDAY

A conference on the addresses of the morning followed, after which the session adjourned until evening.

At the last session the chair was taken by Rev. Mr. Coon, when a resolution of regret was introduced by Rev. E. A. Thompson, concerning the death of Rev. James Carmichael, of Norwood, an ex-president of the association. It was unanimously passed, as was a vote of thanks to the press for kindnesses extended to the Association and to Sunday school work in general. Miss Elvin moved a vote of thanks, which was heartily carried, conveying to the people of Havelock, and to the pastor and board of management of the church, the appreciation of the delegates of the courtesies extended.

Votes of thanks were also passed to Mrs. Duncan, Rev. Jas. McEwan and Rev. Jas. Macfarlane for their instructive addresses.

Evangelistic addresses by the following speakers on the subjects enumerated, were then made:

(1.) "Whosoever will may come,"—Rev. Mr. McGinnes, of Hastings.
(2.) "Remember now thy Creator"—Rev. Mr. Weaver, of Norwood.
(3.) "Come unto Me and I will give you rest"—Rev. L. Williams, Havelock.
(4.) "The light of the World"—Mrs. Duncan, Toronto.

After some closing remarks by various speakers, the convention was formally adjourned.

ASTHMA PREVALENT.

MANY CASES IN PETERBOROUGH

A Noted Physician's Views on the Subject.

Asthma has hitherto baffled the skill of our best physicians. Within a comparatively recent period Dr. R. Schiffman, of St. Paul, Minn., who has devoted many years of study to the treatment of asthma, bronchitis, and croup, has prepared a remedy for these affections which is meeting with great success wherever introduced. With this remedy there is no waiting for results. It is not a nauseating compound to be swallowed, but is used by inhalation, thus reaching the seat of disease direct. Its action is immediate and certain. Acting directly on the mucous membrane of the air passages, it relieves the spasm and constriction instantaneously, facilitates free and easy expectoration, and insures comfortable rest to those otherwise unable to sleep except in a chair. All druggists have this remedy in stock, but in order that every sufferer who has in vain tried every other means of relief may test its efficacy, the doctor's representative will give away a free trial package, solely as an advertisement, to everyone who applies to-day or to-morrow, at J. D. Tully's Drug Store, Peterborough, thus convincing the most skeptical. Persons living at a distance who wish to try a free sample package should address Lyman, Knox & Co., Wholesale Agents for Canada, 374 St. Paul Street, Montreal.

Trade in the Dominion.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Bradstreet's today says Toronto and Montreal advices are that spring openings in dry goods and millinery result in increased activity, aided in part by milder weather. Collections in the Dominion are generally slow, with many renewals and extensions. At Halifax buyers are proceeding cautiously also and collections are complained of. February bank clearings at Canadian cities aggregating $54,865,000 this year, an increase over February, 1894, of about 5 per cent., but a decrease from February, 1893, of about 16 per cent., and a falling off compared with February, 1892, of about 9 per cent. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax this week amount to $18,579,000, six per cent. less than last week, but only slightly smaller than in the like week a year ago, and more than one-quarter less than the total in the corresponding week of 1893.

SCORCHED A THIRD TIME

Toronto's Big Departmental Store is Totally Destroyed.

LOSS WILL BE OVER $800,000

All Four Corners of Yonge and Queen Streets Destroyed—Several Firemen Injured—Incendiarism Suspected—Large Crowds Visit the Scene.

TORONTO, March 4.—For the third time within two months Toronto has been visited by a most disastrous conflagration. On Sunday, January 6, the Globe newspaper building, S. F. McKinnon's wholesale millinery establishment and adjacent places were destroyed, with a total loss of about $700,000. Three days later fire broke out again in a spot adjacent to the ruins and damage was done to the extent of three-quarters of a million. At half-past twelve Sunday morning a third fire was started, this time at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets, the central feature of it being the magnificent new departmental store of Robert Simpson, which was burned to the ground, building and stock being a total loss. Numerous buildings around were burned and the total loss will amount to between $800,000 and $900,000. The insurance will probably reach two-thirds of this amount. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but there is grave reason to believe it was incendiary in character. Simpson's store was a six-storey building, standing on the south-east corner of Yonge and Queen streets. It was put up last summer and a portion of the carpentering work was hardly finished. Four of the floors were stocked and two empty. The building was worth $125,000 and the stock about $650,000. The fire started in the rear of Simpson's and the flames spread with great rapidity. A general alarm was rung at 12.35 and the full force of the fire brigade was soon on the scene. By one o'clock the flames had spread to each of the four corners and the fire threatened to engulf several blocks. The steam fire engine was in action and gave valuable aid. The water pressure was good, but the firemen could not pretend to cope with the flames at the top of the high Simpson building. Wall after wall fell and myriads of sparks were scattered over the southern portion of the city.

The clothing store of P. Jamieson, north-west corner of Queen and Yonge, was soon a total ruin, with all its contents. Sutcliffe & Sons, millinery and dry goods, immediately north of Jamieson's on Yonge, was gutted with a total loss of stock. G. McPherson, boots and shoes, next door north, was half burned, and south of Simpson's on Yonge Wanless, the jeweller, suffered severely in the rear though the front was not much hurt. Neil C. Love, druggist, next door south, suffered slightly.

Over Jamieson's store opposite Simpson's was what is known as Agricultural hall, the property of the Ontario Agriculture and Arts Association. In it were a very valuable collection of records of cattle pedigrees and other official stock-breeding records which cannot be replaced. All were a total loss with the building.

Further west on the same side of Queen street was the Queen street front of Sutcliffe & Sons, which was gutted; next came the Queen street front of the T. Eaton Co's great departmental establishment, which was but little injured. Across Yonge street the fire again did great damage.

At the north-east corner stood the Henderson block, occupied by J. Bonner, gentleman's furnishings, and Miss M. E. Brisley, milliner. Both were burned out. The C. F. Adams Co. came next north, and the roof of this place was badly burned and their stock greatly injured by water.

At the south-east corner of Yonge and Queen stood the Imperial Bank building. This escaped damage in the lower part, but F. J. Brown, with a large stock of furniture upstairs, was burned out, and Milne & Co., next south, stove merchants, was burned out, and C. M. Henderson, next adjoining, also lost everything. Dunfield & Co., gentlemen's furnishings, and the Tremont House hotel, further south, were about three-quarters burned out.

Around on Queen street east again the Pythian Hall was somewhat damaged but fortunately escaped severe injury. The two features of the fire after the Simpson building had gone were the questions as to whether Eaton's great store would be saved, and the burning of Knox church steeple, Knox church standing next to Simpson's on Queen on the south side. A fire brand lit on the steeple about the middle at 1.45 o'clock and burned steadily for nearly an hour without making any great blaze. The firemen could not reach it, and it was a foregone conclusion the steeple would go in an hour or two. Thousands of people stood around anxiously gazing upward. A fireman tried to climb up, carrying an extinguisher, but was unsuccessful in the attempt. About a quarter after 3 o'clock the steeple fell over into the street, the bell having fallen out a few minutes earlier. With regard to Eaton's the store would undoubtedly have been burned but for the aid rendered the fire brigade by the specially drilled brigade of Eaton's employees. These were early on the spot, and, with strenuous exertions playing on the roof and front of their building the fire was prevented from spreading to it. It was about 3.15 before the fire was fully under control. Three firemen were injured somewhat seriously by falling walls and otherwise, but none fatally. Chief Graham sustained a sprained ankle.

The losses are estimated to be roughly about as follows: Simpson, on building, $125,000 to $150,000, on stock $350,000; insurance, on building $100,000, on stock $250,000. P. Jamieson, loss on stock $125,000; insured for $25,000; on building (owned by the Arts Association) $15,000, insurance $10,000; insurance on stock, breeding records, etc., $45,000. Sutcliffe & Sons, loss $100,000 on stock; insurance, $45,000. Loss on two separate buildings facing on Yonge and Queen respectively, $10,000 each; insurance two-thirds. Loss on Knox church, $10,000; insured fully. Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, pianos, loss by water and fire, $5,000; insured. Tremont house, loss $18,000: insured for $10,000. Dunfield & Co., $5,000; insured. Henderson & Co., auctioneers, $5,000; insured. Milne & Co., $40,000; insurance, $20,000; J. F. Brown, $25,000; insurance, $15,000. Miss M. E. Brisley, stock loss, $...0: insurance, $2,000. J. Bonner, $8,000 on stock; insurance, $4,000. Pythian hall, loss $10,000.

The fire spread to St. Michael's hospital and the Metropolitan church, but only for a moment, being fortunately quickly extinguished. The scene of the fire was yesterday and to-day visited by probably 100,000 people. The congregation of Knox church held services in the school room, there being still all day a flicker of fire in the tower of the church, which is not, however, considered likely to spread.

FATAL FIRE IN TORONTO.

A Woman Burned to Death—An Inquest to be Held.

TORONTO, March 4.—The house of A. Dicks, upholsterer and manufacturer, 225 St. Helen's-avenue, corner of Dora-street, was destroyed by fire at 1.30 Saturday morning. The fire commenced in the lower part of the house and the family were sleeping upstairs. It spread with great rapidity owing to the inflammable nature of the material used in the mattress business.

Mr. Dicks and his four children escaped from an upper window with the aid of a few citizens, but Mrs. Dicks in her excitement ran downstairs and was smothered. Her remains were found in the storeroom on the ground floor. She had crawled on her hands and knees into the thickest of the fire in her bewilderment.

It is reported that there was an insurance policy of $5,000 upon Mrs. Dicks' life in the Covenant Mutual of Galesburg, Ill., taken out about 11 months ago.

An inquest will be held at the morgue on Monday afternoon before Coroner Johnson.

ROBERT HEWSON'S DEATH.

The Police Looking for a Supposed Mrs. Hewson.

LONDON, March 4.—The mystery in connection with the death of Robert Hewson becomes intensified rather than diminished by the lapse of time. The police are endeavoring to bring to light the whereabouts of the supposed Mrs. Hewson. If it can be proved that such a person exists, and that he was practising a species of forced deception, was out of work and despondent, then the cause of death may be set down as suicide, despite the disappearance of the watch, which is admitted not to have been very valuable, and the fact that two men were seen in the neighborhood about the time the affair is supposed to have happened. It seems more than possible that Hewson was sandbagged by the tramps, robbed of whatever he possessed and left insensible upon the rails when the locomotive ran over and killed him.

THE ELECTIONS NEAR AT HAND.

The Voters' Lists Will be Ready by the End of the Month.

OTTAWA, March 4.—The voters' lists are now practically all in the hands of the Queen's printer. Mr. Dawson, speaking to a reporter, said that 100 were in type, and he had strong hopes of finishing the entire lot by the end of the month. An election may now be set down for any time after the 15th of April. About 80 lists were received during last week.

Settled Out of Court.

HAMILTON, March 4.—The suit entered against the Donnelly Company, of Buffalo, by Peter Rogers, one of the men injured by the collapse of the bridge over Binkley's hollow on the T., H. & B. railway, has been settled out of court. Rogers lost both legs as a result of the accident and sued the company for $5,000 damages. The Donnelly Company have agreed to procure for him artificial limbs and a tricycle to move about with. They will also give him $500 in cash, and will provide him with a permanent situation at which he can work notwithstanding his maimed condition. Rogers' solicitors claim that the agreement between Rogers and the Donnelly Company is not binding, and as they were not consulted the suit will be pressed.

A Building Boom at Windsor.

WINDSOR, March 4.—There is a silver lining to building prospects in Windsor this spring. The several architects in the city have plans for a large number of residences. But there are to be at least two of the finest business blocks erected that can be found in Western Ontario. Daniel Scotten of Detroit has decided to build a four-storey block on the corner of Ouellette avenue and London street to cost $40,000. John Curry will erect a $30,000 building on the east corner of London street and Ouellette avenue.

A Clever Ruse by Which a Clerk Saves $25,000—The Desperado Secured Only After His Revolver Was Emptied—Loy Was Well Known.

VALLEYFIELD, Que., March 4.—On Friday night while the paymaster of the Montreal Cotton Company, John Lowe, assisted by two of the office clerks, J. Loy and Hugh Wilson, were making up the pay ready for to-day Mr. Shortis, who was lately the private secretary of the manager of the mill, entered the office about 11 o'clock. When the clerks had about finished making up the pay Shortis reached over the counter and managed to get the revolver which Mr. Lowe always keeps close at hand. He first shot Wilson over the left side.

Both Loy and Lowe thought it was an accident. The former made for the telephone to get a doctor, whilst the latter went to Wilson's assistance. Before Loy reached the telephone, however. Shortis took deliberate aim, shooting him dead right through the heart. He then fired at Lowe but missed, hitting Wilson again over the forehead and cheek. Lowe, seeing how matters were, grabbed the pay-boxes, which contained $25,000, and ran into the vault with them, pulling the massive door after him.

Shortis asked him to come out, and he said he was locked in, telling him to give the knob a sharp turn and let him out. The turn, of course, fastened the combination lock securely.

During this parley Wilson crawled down two flights of stairs and out to the firehole where two stokers were at work. Before they reached the office Nightwatchman Maxime Leboeuf had been shot dead and thrown down stairs by Shortis, who then cut off the telephone wires. The men then entered and overpowered him, his revolver being empty. Wilson is in a critical condition, and Lowe, who was in the vault three hours, may also die.

Loy was a very promising young man, well known, and popular with all who knew him. He was the eldest son of Mr. G. M. Loy, mayor of the town. Mr. Lowe was ill with a paralytic brain attack about New Year's and the strain and excitement may prove too much for him in his present weak condition.

Shortis had been discharged for his drinking and irregular habits, and either robbery or revenge prompted his terrible deed.

The murderer is now in Beauharnois jail, and an inquest is in progress on the bodies of the deceased.

THE MEXICAN RAILWAY HORROR.

The Total Dead is Now 70—Cause of the Accident.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 4.—Six more of the passengers injured in the wreck in the railway disaster have died, making the total number of deaths so far 70. At least five more are expected to die. The statement that 104 passengers were killed in the accident is an error, arising from a mistake in counting some of the injured among the dead. The damage to the railway property is about $20,000. All of the dead and injured belong to the poorer classes. The engineer in charge of the wrecked train has not been found, but the chief conductor has turned up all right. The accident was caused by the trucks of the tender slipping out of place.

Mr. A. F. Campbell Unanimously Chosen.

BRAMPTON, March 4.—The Conservatives of the county of Peel met in the concert hall here on Saturday to nominate a candidate to contest the county for the Dominion House at the approaching election. A large number of delegates were present. A. F. Campbell, ex-M.P.P. for East Algoma, was the choice of the convention. He once before contested the county for the Local House against Mr. Chisholm, but was defeated. The nomination was made unanimous, after which the doors were opened to the general public and the speaking proceeded with. Mr. Campbell thanked the convention for the nomination. After a few facetious remarks he retired in favor of the Hon. E. B. Wood and Hon. Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Seagram in the Field.

WATERLOO, March 4.—The Conservatives of South Waterloo met in the town hall here to nominate a candidate to contest this riding in the coming elections. Mr. Walter, reeve for Wellesley township, proposed Mr. Joseph E. Seagram and Dr. Lackner, ex-mayor of Berlin, seconded. The nomination of Mr. Seagram was accepted amid great enthusiasm. A resolution of condolence with Lady Thompson and family was adopted. Hon. W. H. Montague gave an address of about an hour's duration. The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Dr. Montague, Mr. Seagram and the chairman.

A Policeman Missing.

HALIFAX, March 4.—Railway policeman Bernard Dunn is missing. He was on duty at the ruins of Deepwater Terminus fire and it is feared he fell into the dock during the night and was drowned. Search is being made in the vicinity for his body.

Rev. Mr. Annis Very Low.

LONDON, Ont., March 4.—The condition of Rev. J. W. Annis shows a marked decrease in strength. The patient is very drowsy, but when aroused is sometimes able to carry on a slight conversation with those about him. At times his speech is incoherent. The end seems to be approaching.

FRUITS OF THE NATIONAL POLICY.

The other day in Peterborough the mayor of that town challenged the correctness of some figures respecting cotton fabrics, which had been furnished by merchants to Mr. D'Alton McCarthy and Col. O'Brien. We were shown two specimens of cotton cloth, one of Canadian, the other of English manufacture, which formed an admirable object lesson to the consumers of cotton goods. The English cloth was five inches wider than the Canadian and was of rather better quality, yet it cost the importer when laid down at his warehouse 8¼ cents a yard, while the Canadian fabric cost 8¾ cents. Mr. McCarthy will easily win that hundred dollar bet.

It was part of the National Policy to improve transportation facilities by voting immense sums as subsidies to railways, and yet not long ago this incident actually happened: A prominent farmer of western Ontario had collected several carloads of calves, many of which were of his own raising, and was shipping them to the Buffalo market, the only one available at the time for such animals. Part of the same train was made up of some car-loads of cattle from one of the Western States, and as the two shippers were travelling together, they naturally compared notes. At the Niagara river the Canadian farmer had to pay an import duty of 20 per cent. while he saw the other shipper's cattle admitted free in bond, but he remarked to his fellow traveller that at any rate he had advantage over him in railway rate. "Do not be so certain about that," was the reply, and sure enough the unfortunate Canadian found that the rate charged for carrying his animals to Buffalo from east of the Detroit river was quite as heavy as his rival had to pay for carrying his animals to the same place from a long distance west of it. Great is the National Policy, and grateful should be the Canadian farmer for its inestimable benefits.

A well-known worker in iron has given us some equally interesting facts concerning his industry. The duty on imported iron runs up to about 60 per cent, while the duties on the articles made out of the iron is not more than half rate. Under this system it is cheaper for our informant to import cast-iron pipes and radiators for use in heating of his own house and factory than it is to make them, and it is impossible for Canadian manufacturers to tender so low as to keep themselves from being underbid by the United States competitors in the letting of public contracts. With respect to railway rates he finds existing an anomaly similar to the one mentioned above. He has one establishment in Boston and another in Chicago, and he is able to send freight between these two points at a rate lower than the same Canadian railway charges him for freight between two points inside of Western Ontario. Great is the National Policy again, and this time it is the manufacturer who ought to be grateful for its beneficent protection.

It is part of the National Policy, as interpreted by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, to develop in Australia a market for Canadian manufacturers, and in order to make it possible to send agricultural implements to the other side of the world, this country has had paid enormous sums and given away large areas of land. And, yet, a firm of agricultural implement makers finds that it pays to send its implements to New York, and thence by sea round Cape Horn to Australia instead of sending them by the Canadian Pacific railway and steamship line direct. Once more, great is the National Policy, and the agricultural implement makers must be hard to satisfy if they are not pleased with it.

These are but a few specimens selected at random to show how this great policy is working in its sixteenth year of operation. No wonder that even the manufacturers are turning against it, and are clamoring even more loudly for relief than the farmers are doing. They will get it soon.—Brantford Expositor.

DEFENCE NOT NEEDED.

Treasurer Harcourt devoted considerable time Thursday to a defence of the succession duties imposed by the Mowat Government.

Defence was not necessary. These duties, which, from a source of revenue unknown in this Province three years ago, yielded $150,000 in 1894, or more than double the amount expected. They are not a tax on industry, but on inheritances; they fall on those best able to bear them; they discourage the accumulation of vast riches, and they are collected at the minimum of cost.

Aside from our own experience of the satisfactory results following the imposition of this form of taxation we have excellent precedents for putting it in force. It is yearly being more extensively resorted to in the conservative England, and in democratic New York one-tenth of the State revenue, or nearly $1,700,000, is secured from this source.

No, the succession duties need no special defence. They are most emphatically all right.—Toronto News (Conservative.)

An old book quaintly says that "when the whole system is pervaded by well-oxygenated blood, vigorously propelled, life and activity are copiously communicated." Which means that, when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, perfect health is the result.

AN ODD CASE TRULY.

Iceberg and Snowflake Come Together in a Court of Law.

The Haliburton correspondent of the Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"There was a sitting of the Division Court, last Tuesday, before his Honour Judge Dean. Owing to a detention at Fenelon, the Court was held in the evening, after the arrival of the train, and as it happened that there was a large dancing party on that evening, the audience who assembled to witness the proceedings in court was not so large as the entertainment deserved.

The proceedings were of a deeply interesting character, and some of the most profound of the social problems were involved. The case was that of Seymour against McCormack, in a suit of wages. Mr. McCormack is one of our esteemed settlers and is a man of thought, of some education, and of considerable literary ability. He contributed to a Toronto journal some articles on the subject of back-woods farming. These articles were read by Mr. Seymour, at that time out of work in the city, and he wrote a reply to the articles in the same paper. The articles were signed respectively Iceberg and Snowflake, and the one spoke of the advantages of rural life whilst the other described the want and the privation which were endured by the industrial classes.

Mr. McCormack challenged Mr. Seymour to leave the city and enter upon rural life, and Mr. Seymour and wife ultimately took tickets and came to Mr. McCormack's to reside. There was throughout the correspondence a strong infusion of Socialism and Communism, and this made the matter very interesting, and when Iceberg and Snowflake came together it was hoped that both would melt into a harmonious whole. But they didn't. Only a short time since Iceberg summoned Snowflake before the magistrates for wilful damage to property and using abusive language, and now Snowflake summoned Iceberg for unpaid wages. The case occupied a long time in hearing, and it was eleven o'clock at night before judgment was given, His Honour awarding Mr. Seymour $25 as wages due to him.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Roads are very bad in the country, pitch holes being quite numerous.

Mr. Harry Bradburn, who has been taking care of Mr. Thos. Bradburn's stock on the Brealey farm has removed his two dozen quadrupeds to the Mitchell farm near Omemee.

Bandmaster H. D. Williamson and Mr. A. R. Benson, humorous vocalist, will contribute to the programme at Bethel on Friday night, March 8th. A first-class entertainment may be expected.

The new Grange Hall will be built either of brick or metallic siding, with sheet iron shutters and doors. The roof will also be laid with metallic shingles, thus rendering it fire proof on the outside at least.

Mrs. John Trotter was taken suddenly ill on her way home from visiting a neighbour on Monday last. She was taken to a house close by and her husband, who is inspector on the gravel road, sent for. He succeeded in getting her home, where she soon recovered. Her ailment was not considered serious, as several in the section have been similarly affected.

Mr. Geo. Webber has the material on the ground for a large bank barn, which he intends erecting the coming summer.

There are some boys attending S. S. No. 1, who are going to be made an example of if they do not be very careful. The law is strict in regard to the destroying of school property, and it would be well for those boys whom seem to take such a delight in pranks of this kind to bear in mind that the law is going to be rigidly enforced.

South Victoria Reform Convention.

LINDSAY, March 4.—The Reformers of South Victoria held their convention here for the purpose of nominating a candidat to contest the riding for the Commons. Mr. Alex. Smith, the Liberal organiser of Ontario, was present. After the second ballot it was seen the contest lay between Geo. McHugh and Thos. Stewart. As neither candidate could secure a two-thirds majority the convention was adjourned to meet in the same place on Saturday next at 2 p.m.

Prescott Conservatives.

L'ORIGNAL, March 4.—At the Liberal-Conservative convention which was held in the court house here, Mr. Dosithe Sabourin, of St. Isidore de Prescott, was declared the candidate for Prescott county. Speeches followed by Hon. Mr. Ouimet, Hon. J. J. Curran, Messrs. E. Johnson, president, C. G. O'Brian Gauthier, Routhier, and the editor of La Presse, Montreal. The Ministers spoke in both languages. THE LYRIC POET'S APOLOGY.

I strive to probe to other hearts and find
I do but frot the phantom of mine own;
I strain to paint great nature, and my mind
But images itself in every zone.
The tethon lamped, I sing life's woven lay
In syllables of self and can no other way.
—Richard Burton in Harper's Weekly.

A Puzzled Mother.

"It takes a 14-year-old boy to see through his mother," laughed such a mother the other day. "Last week I planned to take a friend to the theater, and her only free night was Thursday. Now, I often take my boy to see a play, but I make it a rule it shall not be on a night preceding a school day. So on this occasion I explained to my son that he could not go, and as an offset to his disappointment arranged an outing for the Saturday following. He acquiesced most dutifully and beautifully, and the matter rested. Thursday came, and as the afternoon waned, I found that my son was to be all alone part of the evening, and I began to wish that he was going with us. At last I made up my mind, and calling him said:

"'I think, after all, you may go tonight. You are going to be alone, and I know you always count upon these trips to the theater. So if you'll study hard till dinner you shall be of the party.'

"'That's all right, mother,' replied the young scamp with a laugh. 'I knew you'd weaken at the last, so I've managed my lessons, and I'm all ready.' And now I'm alternately deploring my want of strength and wondering how to preserve a semblance of authority with so shrewd a son."—New York Times.

The Strain on the Eye.

There is no reason why a muscle or muscles of the eye should not fag out just as the muscles elsewhere do. Let one bear a weight all day long, does he not attribute his consequent headache to the heavy burden he has borne? It seems without elaborate thinking we could conceive of the results following upon prolonged use of the eye. Nature has done all she could to protect and prolong the usefulness of the eye.

No earthly architect ever yet planned a structure that would not yield, crumble and fall, and the house human, so exquisitely uplifted in curious and mysterious ways, falls and returns to dust more rapidly and surely than need be, for the reason that we do not realize how much one part is sustained or overthrown by another. One tiny muscle is potent enough to disturb the whole economy, especially if intercurrent diseases exist in addition to "eye strain."—Philadelphia Record.

The Vibration of Steamers.

The discomfort of the excessive vibration on board the fast sailing ocean steamers has increased so much with the increase in the speed of travel that investigations have been made into the subject with a view of modifying the inconvenience caused to passengers. The usual idea is that this vibration is due to the action of the powerful engines. This is apparently erroneous, for it is now found that the cause consists solely in the unison between the number of revolutions of the engines and the number of vibrations of the ship. The smaller the length of the ship the greater is the number per unit of its vibrations and the longer the steamer the greater is the corresponding time of its vibrations.—New York Telegram.

Ambiguous.

"I congratulate you, Mrs. Familias, on your husband's safe return."

"Thank you, Mr. Cardiac. It's no joke to have the man of one's family on a steamer a week overdue in December."

"I had made up my mind that if he went down I would write you a letter of condolence."

"That was kind of you. What were you going to tell me, Mr. Cardiac?"

"Well, I wanted to express my appreciation of him, and lots of sympathy and encouragement for you, and I had about made up my mind just to say, 'There's as good fish in the sea as ever were caught,' and let you take it either way."—Life.

An English Tribute to Emerson.

When the celebrated Arthur Stanley, dean of Westminster, had finished his visit here in the year 1878, he was asked about the American pulpit. He said in reply that he had of course availed himself of every opportunity to hear the American preachers. He had heard preachers of eminence, he said, in almost every communion. "But it mattered not what was the name of the communion, the preacher," he said, "was always Waldo Emerson."—Edward E. Hale's Addresses.

Doubly Insulted.

Bibelot—Tiens, canaille! What do you mean by writing to my wife and calling her your "belle Marie?"

Pipelot—Mille pardons, m'sieur. I—I thought the lady was your daughter.

Bibelot—Sacre bleu! Worse still.—Vogue.

When you make a mistake, don't look back at it long. Take the reason of the thing into your mind and then look forward. Mistakes are lessons of wisdom. The past cannot be changed. The future is yet in your power.—Hugh White.

STEAMBOATING ON THE OHIO.

It Was at the Height of Its Prosperity Half a Century Ago.

It was from 1840 to 1855 that steamboating was at its height. Fortunes were made in those years by men who owned and ran boats. There were lots of steamers on the river then. The embryo industries of that period depended on the river entirely, for railroads had only been proposed—not built. About 100 steamboats were built at Pittsburg annually to run on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. This city was noted for the trim crafts it placed on the water, as some of the biggest and best running steamers were built at the headwaters of the Ohio.

The boats of the early steamboating days were all side wheelers. It was not until late that the advent of the stern wheel boats occurred, and when it did they were not looked upon with favor by the denizens of the side wheel crafts. The rivermen regarded them as an inferior kind of boat, on whose decks it was beneath the dignity of a first class steamboatman to tread.

The packets were of good size and stoutly built. They were not supplied with swinging stages and steam capstans, and their engines were of sure but not so graceful movement as engines now, and electric lights for steamboats were not even dreamed of. But they served their purpose in making big money for their owners.

There was but one organized packet company running boats down the river from Pittsburg. It was the old Pittsburg and Cincinnati Packet line, and it owned about 25 steamboats, some of which left the Pittsburg wharf daily. Among them were the Buckeye State, the Hibernia, Pittsburg, Crystal Palace and Pennsylvania. These boats were all stoutly built and especially adapted for fast running. The laws relating to racing were not so stringent then as now, and exciting contests of speed on the river occurred daily.

One of the swiftest of the packets was the Pennsylvania. She was the largest of the Cincinnati boats and made some splendid records on the Ohio. She was 210 feet long and 31 feet beam. Another fast steamer was the Alleghany. She was not so large as the Pennsylvania, but was almost as speedy. Some of these old Cincinnati Packet line boats were sunk, a few burned, and the others wore out in the river service.

Besides the Cincinnati company's packets there were several steamers, most of them owned by Pittsburgers, which ran down the river and which had no regular trades, but made trips whenever and wherever there was occasion for their services. They were chiefly to St. Louis and New Orleans, the trip to the last named point being completed in about 20 days. There were a few boats running up the Monongahela and Alleghany rivers. Brownsville was as far up as the slackwater improvements extended on the Monongahela, and Franklin was the head of navigation on the Alleghany. —Pittsburg Post.

A Dardistan Legend of a Bear.

Two women, a mother and her little daughter, were one night watching their field of Indian corn—"makai"—against the inroads of the bears. The mother had to go to her house to prepare the food and ordered her daughter to light a fire outside. While she was doing this a bear came and took her away. He carried her to his den and daily brought her to eat and drink. He rolled a big stone in front of the den whenever he went away on his tours, which the girl was not strong enough to move.

When she became old enough to do this, he used daily to lick her feet, by which they became swollen and gradually dwindled down to mere misshapen stumps. The girl eventually died, and the poor bear, after vain efforts to restore her to life, roamed disconsolately about the fields.—Dr. Leitner in Asiatic Quarterly.

A TRIO OF HAPPY CITIZENS.

Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidences of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, because the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakable cure.

Trinity College School.

Barrie is after Trinity College School. At the meeting of the town council, Mr. Strathy spoke of the burning of Trinity College, at Port Hope, and stated that as the Board had not as yet decided to rebuild at Port Hope, it might be as well to suggest Barrie as a fine situation for the College. What is the matter with Peterborough making a bid for the institution?

Milburn's Magazine.

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont., have just issued a neat and readable publication under the title of "Milburn's Magazine," which contains many good things. The proprietors of Burdock Blood Bitters are to be congratulated on the enterprise they have displayed. Our readers can obtain a sample copy by enclosing a one cent stamp for postage to the firm's address. There is one story, "The Little Weaver," which will alone repay the trouble of sending for the paper.

The Truancy Act.

A citizen was before the magistrate this morning, charged with a violation of the Truancy Act in neglecting to send his children to school. The oldest boy claimed to be over fourteen years of age and therefore not within the jurisdiction of the Act. He didn't like the way the sums were set in the west ward school, but was willing to attend school as soon as his parents moved into another district. The mother of the children stated that they were beyond her control. The magistrate enlarged the case for a week in order to give the father of the family an opportunity of conforming to the provisions of the Act.

ANNIVERSARY ENTERTAINMENT.

The Scholars of the Park Street Sunday School Enjoy Themselves.

On Friday evening last the scholars of the Park street Baptist Mission Sunday school held their annual anniversary entertainment. The building was packed to the door by the large audience which assembled. The programme, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, and dialogues, was a most excellent one, indeed, and rendered in a manner highly satisfactory.

The chair was occupied by Rev. Mr. Trotter, and during the evening Mr. T. G. Gillespie read a report of the year's work of the Sunday school, showing that the school was highly prosperous in all it departments.

At the close of the literary part of the programme refreshments were served, after which the audience dispersed, well pleased with the evening entertainment.

It is understood that the special train which takes the Otonabee Lodge degree team over to Lindsay to-night will have its full complement of passengers. Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

Dairy Farming.

Mr. H. H. Dean, of the Dairy school, Guelph, writes that there are a number of clever students there who are anxious to secure places in cheese factories and creameries. Communications from parties desiring such help should be sent to Mr. Dean at the above address.

Peterborough Educationists.

The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Association and the second meeting of the Dominion Educational Association will be held conjointly in Toronto on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 16th, 17th and 18th, 1895. The Dominion Association meets every two years, concurrently with the association of whatever province may be selected as the place of the joint meeting. An elaborate programme will be carried out including the presentation of papers by prominent educationists selected by a committee. That Peterborough educationists are looked upon with high favor by the committee is shown by the fact that no fewer than six papers will be read by Peterborough gentlemen:—One by Mr. J. Jeffries, B.A., on "Aim and Methods of the Teaching of the English Grammar;" an address by the chairman of the Science Association, by the chairman, Mr. C. Fessenden, M.A.; and a paper by Mr. Fessenden on "Flying Machines;" by Mr. H. B. E. Kanner, B.A., on "Cæsar as a General;" by Mr. J. W. When in Toronto, a gentleman from Peterborough ran across Mr. Jos. Four breaks in a mile constitute a set back and Lulu B. "Joe" asserted, broke ten times in the mile referred to.

Several good offers have been received by the owner of Harry B. for that horse. A number of Toronto men are after him.

HOCKEY.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says: "The Peterborough hockeyists defeated the Granites, of Toronto, for the junior hockey championship of Ontario on Tuesday. Shake, Peterborough; anything to beat Hogtown."

Local hockey enthusiasts will be pleased to hear that both the Kingston and Toronto Granite teams, which were recently defeated by the Peterboroughs on their own respective rinks are so anxious to come here for return matches, that arrangements are being made to accommodate the two teams. If the ice holds, one of the matches will probably be played this week and the other the week after. The local hockey club need have no fear but that Peterborough will turn out en masse to patronize both games.

CURLIANA.

A strong effort will be made to play off the remainder of the inter-rink, Kendry cup and Edmison medal matches this week.

Mr. C. McGill received a telegram to-day from the Toronto Granites, requesting a postponement of the big twelve-rink bonspiel which was to have been held here to-morrow. The Granites are unable to come on account of the recent big fire in Toronto, which has upset the arrangements of the curlers.

Messrs. J. H. Connal and C. McGill will take rinks to Lindsay this evening on the special train on which the Otonabee Lodge degree team goes over to the Scugog town.

This afternoon Skips Attrill and Kells are playing Lindsay rinks on the local ice. The match started at about 2 o'clock, and each of the Peterborough rinks won two shots on the first end. The rinks are composed as follows:

You are One of Those People Who are Matriculating.

Reliable reports come in from every direction that there is at present a pronounced intellectual movement among the people. That it has taken practical and definite shape is indubitable, and that the process is becoming daily more popular is equally evident. In a word the people in every line of business are matriculating, that is, becoming students in the Home University, inaugurated in this section. The all embracing text-book of this popular institution of learning is the Encyclopædia Britannica. All who are in any degree influenced by the divine impetus of ambition cannot do better than join the ranks, and thereby add greater skrill to their industry, increase their store of knowledge and develop their powers. COUNTY CHEESEMEN CONVENE, SATURDAY.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD.

The Rules and Regulations Revised—Election of Officers—Resolution of Condolence—Our Cheese to be Branded—A Very Creditable Financial Statement—The Seventh of May Will be the First Sales day.

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held in Council Chamber, on Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members and also a number of the patrons of different factories, showing that great interest is taken in the success of the Peterborough Board, which is fast becoming known as the model Board of the Province. The discussions were very enthusiastic and the members were not afraid to clearly define their positions as regards buyer and seller.

The President, Mr. J. M. Drummond, called the meeting to order. He stated that this was the fifteenth annual meeting and they would be called upon to elect their officers for the year. The committee appointed to revise the rules and regulations of the board had met in the morning and had made a few technical changes. He referred to the lamented death of Mr. J. T. Warrington, of Belleville, who for years had been one of the best buyers on the board and was a man who could be depended on to carry out what he said. That firm was not going to be allowed to drop, however, as it would be carried on under the managership of Mr. Cook. The president read a letter from the latter gentleman who asked that since Lindsay was going to have a cheese board of their own this year, it would not be necessary to wait for the Lindsay men to arrive, and that the meetings be held at 11 o'clock instead of at 12 as formerly. The committee on revision had recommended this.

Mr. Thos. Robertson, a delegate from Lindsay, said that it was the intention to try and form a board at that place and a meeting had been held on the 19th of Feb. to consider the matter and he had been appointed to come down and get copies of the rules and regulations of the Peterborough board which was looked up to as the best board in the province. He did not want the Peterborough board to throw the Victoria people over as the last board they had held was a miserable failure and the new one might also. The change in the time for the board meeting would considerably affect the Lindsay salesmen.

The motion to change the time was carried on a motion of Mr. Galvin and Mr. Moloney.

THE FIRST SALES DAY.

Considerable discussion took place on deciding the date of the first sales day of the board. A large number present were of the opinion that the meeting ought to be held much earlier, and on a vote it was decided to hold it two weeks earlier than last year, which means that the first sale will be held on Tuesday, May 7th.

THE REVISED RULES.

The president as chairman of the committee appointed to revise the rules and regulations, submitted the rules as amended as follows:

RULES FOR GOVERNMENT OF BOARD.

1st. This Board shall be known as the Peterborough Cheese Board, and shall be composed of the representatives of the several cheese factories complying with the rules of this Board; membership fees to be fixed annually.

2nd. The officers of this Board shall be President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, to be elected annually; said officers to be a commitee to conduct sales on the Board.

3rd. There will be a register kept, and a collective board, upon which will be posted such information from other markets as the managers of this Board shall be able to obtain.

4th. All members shall on each sale day register on the Board the number of cheese they intend to sell.

5th. All bargains made on any sales day shall be binding on both buyer and seller.

RULES FOR SELLING CHEESE.

1st. All sales of cheese shall be subject to inspection at the factory, and up beam weight at the place of shipment (except when otherwise agreed upon at time of sale.) No allowance for shrinkage to be made for October cheese.

2nd. All bids for cheese shall be made openly on the Board; the bids shall be marked opposite the buyer's name on the Board; one sixteenth (1-16) of a cent per pound advance will be considered a proper bid; but a bid for the Board or balance of the Board will take precedence over a selection bid. All selections shall be about 500 boxes.

3rd. Any buyer having bid on selections and having been deemed the highest bidder, shall name his selections when called upon by the president or presiding officer. Having named his selections the president or presiding officer shall immediately call the factories selected, and the salesman of each factory so called shall accept or reject the offer. And the sale of all further selections, or of the Board or balance of the Board shall be disposed of in like manner as the first selection.

4th. In case of difference between buyer and seller as to quality of cheese, the Board has appointed Mr. W. H. Wrighton as arbitrator. In case Mr. Wrighton is the buyer or inspector, then Mr. Hugh Spence is to take his position as said arbitrator.

5th. In case of any salesman selling cheese off the Board without having first obtained permission from the Board to do so, the factory he represents shall be erased from the Board or else be liable to a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $25. But any salesman failing to get an offer at any sale for the cheese of the factory he represents, shall have the liberty to sell off the Board unless otherwise disallowed by the President.

6th. In case of violation of any of the rules of this Board, the Board shall appoint a committee to investigate and take such action as they think proper.

J. M. DRUMMOND, President.
JAMES MIDDLETON, Secretary.

Peterborough, March 2nd, 1895.

It was also decided that none of the foregoing rules and regulations be repleased, amended or suspended except by a two-thirds vote of the salesmen present at any meeting during the year. And that the rules be embodied in the minute book and signed by the members.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

Mr. J. W. Moore, moved seconded by Mr. Warren, that a resolution of condolence be drafted by the secretary and forwarded to the widow and family of the late J. T. Warrington of Belleville, and that a copy of the same be forwarded to the local and Belleville papers.

TO BRAND OUR CHEESE.

A resolution was moved by Mr. M. E. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. Samuel Edwards, that the secretary draft a motion memorilising the Dominion Government as to the necessity to have all cheese branded with the date of make and also the maker and carried.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The treasurer, Mr. Samuel Edwards, presented the statement of receipts and expenditure, showing a balance on hand after all expenses were paid of $63.27, an increase of $11 over last year's surplus. The report was adopted unanimously. The market fee of the Board was placed the same as formerly, namely, $1.00 per annum.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers was taken up and resulted in the following being elected:

President—J. M. Drummond.
1st Vice-President—Geo. Stewart.
2nd Vice-President—G. J. Galvin.
Secretary—James Middleton.
Treasurer—Samuel Edwards.

NEW BOOKS.

The officers of the Board were ordered to get 150 copies of the rules and regulations printed and to procure whatever books were necessary for the use of the Board.

The meeting then adjourned.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES IN THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Goodspeed Delivers Two Sermons During the Day—The Fourth Anniversary.

Services in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the beginning of the Rev. Mr. Trotter's pastorate at the Murray street Baptist church, were held both morning and evening yesterday.

The sermons were delivered by Rev. Dr. Goodspeed, who occupies the chair of Theology, in McMaster University, Toronto. In the morning the doctor took as his text the words:

"For ye are bought with a price: therefore, glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's."—I Cor. vi, 20.

He classed his remarks under three heads: The Price, the Purchase, and the Disparity.

In dwelling on the

PRICE PAID BY CHRIST

he expanded on the humiliation, shame and suffering which were inflicted on the Son of God. The humiliation was necessarily great, when Christ, who ruled on high, descended to earth. The contrast between his position in heaven, therefore, and that of the babe upon earth was sharp. The shame was constituted in the fact that in becoming a substitute for man upon earth, Christ in so doing placed himself in the position of man and assumed the sins of all the ages as his own. In regard to the suffering, no one could ever understand it. Added to the humiliation and shame there was the terrible loneliness. The Christ had to be alone as He had substituted himself for a sinner and, as the sinner, had cut himself off from God and Heaven, Christ had to do likewise.

IN CONSUMMATING THE PURCHASE

Christ, he explained, had not only purchased our salvation, but had purchased ourselves, therefore, He had a right to our service, as we belonged to Him.

The wondrous price paid included each individual one. It seemed the doctor thought, to some that it was an infinite price to pay for a comparatively small thing, but it was impossible to believe, that God in His wisdom., had acted unwisely or paid a price, which was too great. When paying the price, He had in view not only what humanity was but what humanity would become. The immortality of the soul gave opportunity for infinite growth. Christ undoubtedly saw something in connection with the lives of humanity, which made them worthy of the great sacrifice. As such a price had been paid for the souls of all, all, the doctor stated in conclusion, should be willing to make any sacrifice in return. A boundless guilt existed in indifference to such infinite love, as was manifested by the price paid.

Both services were very largely attended and in the evening almost every seat in the church was occupied, so anxious were the members of the congregation to hear the words of wisdom drop from the eloquent lips of the talented divine. During his stay in town, the doctor was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John McKee, London street.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN DAVIDSON.

A Resident of Peterborough Many Years Ago.

The death of Mrs. John Davidson on Tuesday, at the residence of her son William, removes one of the early settlers. Wm. Davidson died some little time since, and they came to the township of Verulam over 35 years ago. They had a family of eight children, five girls and three boys, but only the three youngest are at present alive, Joseph, William and Mrs. George Britton. The deceased lady had arrived at a great old age, 88 years, but for the last ten possessed but very poor health.

She came originally from the north of Ireland, as did her husband, and often spoke of her voyage across the Atlantic, in one of the old sailing liners, which made a rapid passage for a sailer, doing it in eight weeks. As many days by the modern steamer is a slow trip. Her family settled in the neighbourhood of Port Hope, and on her marriage she removed to the township of Smith, Peterborough being then but a few straggling shanties on the banks of the Otonabee, and the Scotch Village, now Ashburnham, not in existence.

From Smith they came to Verulam, and were always held in the highest respect by their neighbours.

The funeral of Mrs. Davidson took place on Thursday and was largely attended.

GRAVIES AND SAUCES.

HINTS AND RECIPES TO GIVE VARIETY AT TABLE.

Their Foundations Elucidated by Miss Barrows of the B. Y. W. C. A. School of Domestic Science — Some Important Points to Be Remembered.

"Presiding over an establishment like this makes sad havoc with the features, my dear Miss Pecksniffs," said Mrs. Todgers. "The gravy alone is enough to add 20 years to one's age, I do assure you. The anxiety of that one item, my dears, keeps the mind constantly upon the stretch."

Judging from the curious mixtures served as gravies in this country many an American housekeeper might sympathize with Mrs. Todgers.

Gravy, pure and simple, is the juice and fat of the meat extracted in the process of cooking and carving.

The origin of the word is uncertain, though it is probably derived from the same root as "grease."

SAUCES A SOURCE OF VARIETY.

A "sauce" is possible when there is no gravy, for it may be made of any extraneous substances which may improve the flavor of the meat.

The ingredients required for most sauces are fat, liquid, thickening and seasoning.

The fat may be that belonging to the meat or butter or oil or cream.

The liquid is stock, or water, or milk, or fruit juices.

The thickening may be flour or any starchy substance, an arrow root, corn starch, or may be bread crumbs, or eggs, or vegetable pulps.

The seasoning may include salt, the standard condiments, and many meat, fish and vegetable flavors. Instead of mingling too many, it is better to use today a pinch of sweet herbs, to-morrow a pinch of chopped onion, and next time a little parsley or strained tomato.

A general formula which will cover most sauces calls for one rounding tablespoonful of fat; one rounding tablespoonful of flour and one cupful of liquid. Vary with common sense; for example, if the liquid be cream use less fat; if it is tomato or onion pulp, less flour will be required.

This is the process: Melt the fat in a suitable agate saucepan, put in the flour, stir till the mixture bubbles all over, cool slightly, then gradually add the hot liquid, beating in each addition before putting in more.

The constant beating renders the sauce smooth and glossy as nothing else can make it.

If it should not be of the right thickness—if too thin, cook slowly for a few moments; if thick, add more liquid.

Next, season it to suit the taste. Powdered seasonings, like salt, pepper and mustard, may be mixed with the dry flour before it is put in the fat. Chopped onions may be fried in the fat before the flour is added. In general it is better to season mildly than too highly. Such seasonings as mushrooms, lobster, celery, shrimps, capers, etc., are previously prepared and put into the sauce not long before serving.

SEVERAL STANDARD SAUCES.

There are two foundation sauces, the white and the brown, or as the French say, blanc and raux.

For the white sauce the flour and butter are cooked together without browning, and the liquid is either milk or white stock from veal or chicken.

Brown sauces are easily made by first browning the fat, then adding the flour and letting that brown, and when the right shade of color is gained adding the liquid. Butter browns sooner than other fats. A few drops of caramel will intensify the color if the liquid has been put in too soon. For the liquid for brown sauces use brown stock from beef or mixed meats. Tomato sauce requires strained tomatoes, or part tomato part stock for liquid.

Hollandaise of Dutch sance is usually thickened wholly by eggs, after the style of a custard; but often one or two yolks are added to a plain white sauce. The season is nanally acid. The liquid may be water, milk or white stock.

A bread stock is made differently; the white crumbs are cooked in the milk and no other thickening is needed. Season with salt, pepper, butter and onions. If too thick reduce with milk. Mayonnaise dressing with the addition of various pickles and seasonings becomes tartar sauce.

Maitre d'hotel butter is another cold sance capable of variation by use of anchory paste or pounded lobster coral, chopped parsley, chives and many other flavoring materials.

SAUCES FOR LAMB AND MUTTON.

Caper sauce to serve with boiled mutton is prepared by adding a tablespoonful of capers to each cupful of white sauce made with milk, water or stock. I have often been asked what "capers" are and where they come from. The capers are the unexpanded lower buds of a beautiful, trailing shrub, a native of the countries bordering on the Mediterranean. These are gathered daily, from spring to winter, packed in salt and vinegar and at the end of the season repacked in wine vinegar and marketed. Their natural color is a grayish green, sometimes made brighter by copper, which is, of course, highly undesirable. They require no cooking and should not be chopped, as this injures the appearance of the sauce. Some of the vinegar in which they were pickled or a little lemon juice is often added to the sauce.

When capers are not attainable chopped cucumber pickles, in like proportion, may be added to a sauce for meat or fish.

Mint sance differs from the others here described and really should be classed with the ketchups and relishes, since it does not depend upon the meat juices, nor upon a thickened foundation.

The variety of mint preferred for sance is the spearhead or spearmint, though peppermint is sometimes used. It should be young and fresh, well washed and drained, or dried on a cloth. Then the leaves are finely chopped by rolling them close together and shaving off thin slices with a sharp knife, then folding again and cutting in the opposite direction.

The chopped mint is then mixed with sugar, either brown, granulated or powdered—the latter extracting the juices more rapidly. After this has stood for a time vinegar is added and the whole left for an hour or two before serving.

The proportions may be varied, but this is a good average: One-half cupful chopped mint, one-fourth cupful sugar, one-half cupful vinegar.

FIRST-CLASS ROAST BEEF GRAVY.

A gravy for roast meats is best made in the same manner as the standard sauce. When roasting no water should be put in the pan unless there is danger of the drippings in the pan burning near the completion of the process.

If water has not been added, the liquid in the pan when the meat is taken up consists of fat with a browned sediment. When a roast has been rubbed with flour some of it is washed off by basting and settles with the juices under the fat. After the fat is drained off a few spoonfuls of gravy may be made by the addition of a little water and no more thickening. Usually, however, more gravy is wanted. In that case after removing the bulk of the fat put a pint of hot water in the pan and let it stand on top of the stove for a few moments to soften any dried juices which may adhere; then scrape off every bit, for this is the stock for the gravy. Now take four level spoonfuls of the warm fat in a saucepan, cook with it two rounding spoonfuls of flour, and gradually add the stock and season with salt and pepper. This is far easier than to make the gravy in the dripping pan, or to mix this flour with cold water.

Remember that there is probably an excess of fat which should be saved for other purposes and that water must be added to dissolve the dried juices and thus form the liquid necessary for the gravy. Such a gravy will be brown and savory without too much fat or thickening.

POINTS TO REMEMBER.

Any sauce or gravy thickens while cooling—even the short time between cooking and serving makes a noticeable difference, and this will guide you in the use of flour. Allowance must also be made for the evaporation which takes place if a saucepan of gravy is suffered to stand for a few moments uncovered.

The gristly, bony portions, trimmed from raw meats, covered with cold water, soaked and then cooked slowly, will give a nutritious foundation for a gravy or sauce; if cooked and served with the meat nothing would be gained from these portions.

Gravy may not quite take the place of meat, but it certainly renders a smaller quantity necessary, and therefore must be regarded as an economical addition.

Also many of the sauces may be looked upon as condensed soups, and if a cupful should be left over one day it can be thinned with milk or stock and seasoned to serve as a soup for the next day. Small remainders can always be used to advantage in warming potatoes and hashes.—St. Louis Republic.

KEEPS BEES IN HER BEDROOM.

A Staten Island Girl Who Finds the Industrious Insects Quiet Companions.

There is a girl in Staten island who has kept a hive of bees in her bedroom during the winter. She recently told an Evening Sun man that they were the most unobjectionable of companions. They were quiet, orderly and attend strictly to their own affairs. When the warm weather comes they will be sent out doors, where there are beds of mignonette and other sweet-scented flowers, which the bees fully understand are planted for their especial use. This hive of bees is the nucleus of her contemplated bee farm. Last summer they supplied her weekly with thirty-six pounds of honey. For each pound of honey she received 30 cents. The profits of bee keeping are great, the cost small. The labor of honey raising has been materially lessened for the bees by modern improvements, and they seem proportionately grateful. The bees no longer make their own cells, which are produced by machinery out of wax. These artificial cells are placed in the hive and the bees seem to be glad to get rid of the labor of making them. Immediately they get to honey making. This business they conduct alone. When the cells are full the hive must be watched from without, lest the bees begin sealing them up, which they do in order to lay up their winter's food. To guard against this, additional cells are put on top of the hive, called supers. In these the bees deposit their extra store, and this is reserved for their winter outfit. When the bees begin to seal the cells the box is removed, a small machine is put inside which is set vibrating, and this empties the cells of their honey, which is drawn off, and the cells, having been drained, are put back to be refilled. This young woman says that her bees know her, and are as tame to her hand as doves. The occupation of honey making has proved pleasurable and profitable.

That tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which makes pure blood.

Coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES
No More Misery.
ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT
Gives Instant Relief.
PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

INVITING OLD AGE.

SOME OF THE WAYS IN WHICH WOMEN LOSE THEIR YOUTH.

Mothers Neglect Their Own Needs In Exaggerated Devotion to the Children. Those Who Claim the Immunities of Age When Only In the Midday of Life.

The oldest woman I ever knew was 28. At marriage the graces of girlhood passed forever from her life. Economy became the god enthroned on every altar of her home. Ruffles and ribbons were the insignia of levity and extravagance. Dresses robbed of a yard or two grew ungracefully short and narrow. Books and papers were regarded as luxuries—not necessities. An hour spent in reading left a feeling of guilt for wasted time. Devotion to "Will and the children" came to mean self assumed slavery. Luster left the eye, elasticity the frame. Through a mistaken sense of duty she grew unkempt, narrow souled, repulsive. It has been said that the true age is what we look and feel. I have known sweet, fresh faced women of 70 who were younger than she.

In the great middle class of America the wife too often invites age by concentrating all ambition in money getting. To save the wages of servants she destroys the joy of life, the buoyancy of health. Pushing the growing daughter to the front, she sees less and less of society, dresses with increasing plainness and sinks to a household drudge, self made and valued at her own estimate.

Thirty-five has no more right to the styles and tone of 70 than to those of 17. The appropriation of the one is scarcely less ridiculous than the assumption of the other. Far better than the expensive boarding school is the example of the mother in imparting to the daughter the faultless taste of dress, the gentle repose of manner, the gracious spirit so admirable in woman. A part of the money devoted to the education of the daughter would be well spent in procuring to the mother the time for self culture. As the fair, snowy page is not so useful or beautiful as the one written with pure, uplifting thought, so the immature maiden is less valuable to home and society than the ripe, cultured woman.

People of 40 and 50 should not shelve themselves and claim the immunities of age. They are in the midday of life; the time for the exercise of knowledge, power, grace and beauty, for the uplifting of humanity. These gifts may be enhanced by dress and manner. The influence of the attractive, self respecting wife, mother, sister or friend is more potent for good than that of the one with neglected person and unlovely mind.

Discontent invites age. Indulging the unrest of the dissatisfied is destructive to looks and temper. In his "Story of a Country Town" Mr. E. W. Howe says, "Be contented if it kills you." The advice is not so bad as it looks. Contentment and stagnation are not necessarily synonymous. One may be free from worry while striving for higher planes or work. Woman should have the courage of repose. It is infinitely better than the morbid conscientiousness that goads to endless toil. Effective work requires effective rest.

Judicious mental work may help to lift one out of the ruts of premature old age. Read and think of what you read. Don't use your mind as if it were a sieve and you were trying to see how much you could pour through it. There is a belief extant that knowlege, if gained at all, must be acquired in youth. Fallacious theory! Behold Galileo at threescore and ten pursuing his studies with unflagging zeal, Cato beginning Greek when advanced in years, Ogilby commencing classical studies when past 50! Gladstone is as much the student today as when the bloom of youth mantled his cheek.

Be kind to the feelings and fancies of youth. If they prove perennial, so much the better. Don't forbid yourself glad, recreative thought and action. Don't be ashamed to make yourself as pretty as you can. A sensible woman may feel a thrill of pleasure innocent as a maiden's when receiving a glance of respectful admiration from a manly man. Smile without affectation, be pleasant without being silly—in short, be young as long as you can.—Alva Rosse in Kate Field's Washington.

Cradles Hundreds of Years Ago.

In manuscripts of the ninth and tenth centuries we had pictures of cradles formed of part of a tree trunk dug out, with holes bored through the sides for the passage of straps intended to tie the baby down in his bed. These dug out cradles are still common in modern Greece. When we come to consult the manuscripts and bas-reliefs of the fifteenth century, we notice that the cradles are no longer mere baskets or beds on rockers, but little swinging beds suspended between two pillars, the prototype of the modern berceaunette.—Harper's Bazar.

The following is quoted from a leading article in the New York Tribune:

"By his death the community loses the foremost and the best of American actors, and one of the greatest tragedians that have ever lived."

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

The Conductor's Large Acquaintance.

"When I was out in Chicago at the opening of the World's fair," said a friend of mine, "I had occasion to make a call on some old acquaintances on the West Side. The streets in that portion of the city had many of them the baptismal names of women, and as I lived there at one time the calling of them by the car conductor sounded familiar to me, although it seemed to puzzle an old countryman on board, who was doubtless visiting Chicago for the first time. There were a number of ladies among the passengers, and as the conductor called out 'Elizabeth' the car stopped, and one of them got off. A few squares farther and there was the call 'Ada,' followed by a stop and the exit of another lady.

"The old countryman began to look interested, and when the next call came, 'May,' and he saw a lady gather up her bundles and walk down the aisle, he had a puzzled air. In quick succession there came 'Pauline,' 'Roberta' and 'Augusta,' followed by the departure of a passenger. The old man could not stand it any longer. His eyes bulged out, and making a rush for the platform he said in a stage whisper to the conductor, 'Great snakes, mister, do you know the names of all the women folks in this big town?'

"He had been under the impression that each woman who left the car answered to the name that was called out."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Interesting People.

"What makes a person interesting?" It cannot be intellectual brilliancy, for we have all known men whose minds were stored with the best thought of the world, yet wholly failed to interest us; women whose brains were developed by the widest culture, yet were unable to appear other than dry as dust catalogues of knowledge. Think of the people who interest you and study their qualities, and how few you find possessing just the same traits.

It is all a matter of magnetic soul currents possibly. Why not? We can hardly dispute that some human bodies convey electricity much more readily than others. In almost any gathering of a dozen persons at least one will be found who possesses this strange power, the touch of whose hand can cause a sensation like that of touching an electric battery.

Is there anything impossible in the theory that souls have their electric currents, which pass more or less freely to and fro according to the individual power as conductor? Then we have but to assume that the person who interests us is one whose soul current mingles freely with our own. This is perhaps a more satisfactory explanation than the more commonly received one of animal magnetism, a quality on a lower plane and infinitely less subtle in character.—Boston Advertiser.

Earthquake Phenomena.

The wild, untamed earthquake is a terrible thing to encounter. The "quaking," the rending of the earth's surface and the other incidental accompaniments usually described are only a tithe of the real terrors of a seismic shock. To some the noise which precedes the real shock is more terror inspiring than the "quake" itself. Father Kircher describes these subterranean rumblings as "a horrid sound resembling that of an infinite number of chariots driven fiercely forward, mingled with the noise of cracking whips, neighing of horses and the cries of victory and despair on the part of the charioteers."

The sounds which preceded the great Lisbon earthquake are said to have resembled "the rumbling of empty omnibuses, chariots and barrels, the noise increasing in volume until it equaled the roar of a thousand cannons." Another peculiarity is the gyratory motion that is frequently imparted to sections of earth of greater or lesser area. At Colares in 1755 several stone houses in the lower quarters of the city were turned completely around, this, too, without rendering them uninhabitable.—St. Louis Republic.

Where Frank R. Stockton Lives.

Follow the Morristown road, past one country seat after another, for a quarter of a mile, and you come to Kitchell avenue. You are in Morristown now, but in reality nearer Madison. Turn to the left, and the first place you come to is surrounded by a low stone wall. Through iron gates a graveled roadway leisurely turns, and passing beneath huge evergreens reaches a yellow and white frame house, with a veranda in front and a tower at the farther end. Opposite the doorway, beneath the great tree, is a rustic seat and a rustic table.

Between two of the trees is swung a hammock, and in pleasant weather Frank R. Stockton lies in the hammock dictating his fanciful tales to his wife, who sits on the rustic settee. It is an ideal home for an author, situated upon an eminence commanding miles of country, removed from the main road and surrounded by a grove.—Newark Advertiser.

WILL ROSEBERY RESIGN

A Cable Despatch Says That It is Probable.

CANNOT SLEEP IN LONDON

His Intimate Friends Fear That No Influence Can Prevent It—Greatly Affected by the Attacks of Members of His Own Party.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Ballard Smith cables from London:—The speedy retirement of Mr. Gladstone from the post of Prime Minister I was able to predict 14 months ago as well as the certain succession of Lord Rosebery. The possibility of the latter event especially was scouted at that time by every prominent English newspaper of both parties and by all the English correspondents of New York newspapers. Now I can assert the very strong probability of the speedy resignation of Lord Rosebery for personal reasons, even while the present majority in the House of Commons remain assured to him. He is still suffering from a severe attack of influenza, but that would give little concern to his friends and physicians if it were not complicated by insomnia, which has been almost chronic for a year or more. The sleeplessness began after an attack of scarlatina seven years ago, but it has increased lately to such a degree that for several months he has found it impossible to sleep in London, going nearly every night to one of his two country seats near London, to Brighton or to the residence of his Rothschild connections. The depression which is the invariable consequence of the influenza has so affected him, I have high authority for saying, that only the influence of Lord Tweedmouth, a man of strong will, robust courage and highly trained political knowledge, has prevented the Prime Minister's resignation within the past few days. Both Lord Tweedmouth and other intimate friends fear that no influence can prevent it within the next 24 hours unless Lord Rosebery's present temper changes. The renewed bitter attacks of Mr. Labouchere and Sir Charles Dilke in the House of Commons the other day, both being members of his own party, have, in his present condition, affected the Prime Minister greatly. On the other hand, it is well known that Lord Rosebery is intensely ambitious, has worked unceasingly for the premiership since his entry into public life, and therefore would not throw it away lightly. Nevertheless his highly excited and nervous condition makes him obstinate in his present purpose.

MOORE AND WHYTE, THE EVANGELISTS.

REVIVAL SERVICES OF A MONTH'S DURATION.

Inauguration of What is Believed will be a Great Revival—Rev. Mr. Moore Delivers Two Sermons Yesterday—Mr. Whyte, the Sweet Singer, will Arrive this Evening.

The evangelistic services which will be in progress in Peterborough until the end of the present month, were inaugurated yesterday. The services will be conducted by Messrs. Moore and Whyte, the noted evangelists. Mr. Whyte was not in town, yesterday, but will, it is understood arrive this evening, when together with Rev. Mr. Moore, he will be present at the service in St. Pauls church, which commences at eight o'clock, under the auspices of the two Presbyterian, Baptist and three Methodist churches. The services will be continued in St. Pauls, after which the evangelists will labour in such other churches as may be decided upon.

EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Yesterday Rev. Mr. Moore delivered sermons in George Street church and in St. Pauls. The latter edifice was will filled in the evening and the large congregation listened to an eloquent sermon on the assertion in the Scriptures that "there is no difference between sinners." There were those, Evangelist Moore stated, who though unconverted, led such pure, straight, spotless lives as to put many Christians to shame; again there were others of the unconverted, who would descend to any meanness, no matter how base. In the eyes of God there was no difference between the two classes of men. Both were transgressors of the law of God, and it was not a question of how great or how little a sin had been committed.

In illustration of the point which he intended to convey, Mr. Moore likened the

to the breaking of one link in a chain which moored a vessel in safety. Whether one link or the whole chain broke the result was the same—the vessel drifted and was exposed to the fury of the wind; so would a sinner be at the mercy of the wrath of the Almighty, as much if he broke one commandment as though he broke all. It was not a question of one sin, or of many, it was simply a coming short of the glory of God. One transgression effectually barred the gates of Heaven to a sinner.

As there was no difference between sinners, so there was no difference between Christians. In many churches there were cranks, good men and holy, but undoubtedly cranks. Still these people should not be looked down upon. All were born alike, and it was merely a matter of advantage gained in the methods of being brought up that saved the majority from being cranks also. A crank, who was a Christian, was just as much a child of God as the man who was regarded as

THE PILLAR OF THE CHURCH.

The parable of the ten lepers was instanced in illustration of the point, which the speaker wished to make. Ten lepers were cleansed and only one returned to give thanks, yet notwithstanding this all ten were cleansed and all ten therefore remained on the same footing, whether they returned thanks or not. It was so with Christianity, only one of every ten was a pillar of the church, though the others were equally cleansed.

In dwelling on the difference between the sinner and the Christian, Mr. Moore explained that though many an unconverted man might be a better man than he, yet the unconverted had but his own righteousness, while he (Mr. Moore), being converted, had the righteousness of Christ and therein lay the difference.

The evangelist's strong point undoubtedly lies in his perfect command of the art of illustration. Any and every point at all difficult of comprehension was by him through this medium. In speaking of how much below the standard even the life of a Christian was, Mr. Moore related an incident of when he stood in a large mill one day and watched a boy weighing out the grain. His attention was drawn to a particularly even balance and he commented upon it. In the course of conversation, the boy asked him the question as to what would be the result if the evangelist were weighed on the Scales of Life. Mr. Moore replied that he was afraid he would be found to be sadly wanting. The boy then asked to be made clear on the point as to how it was so many Christians spoke of the holiness required to enter into the kingdom and yet were always lamenting the fact that they would be found wanting. The lad queried as to whether all these would be barred from the Gates. Explanation was made to the effect that though no life comes up to God's standard, yet when Jesus stepped into the side of the Christian, who was wanting, it made all the difference in the world. "There, unconverted friend," said Mr. Moore, "there is the difference. We are all sinners, but the converted have Jesus on their side."

AT ONCE MADE PLAIN

Tobacco-Growing in B. C.

Information has been received by the Department of the Interior regarding a very successful experiment in growing tobacco in British Columbia, which may lead to important results. Last year, 800 pounds of leaf were taken from half an acre of ground, and a San Francisco expert, to whom a sample was submitted, pronounced it first-class. This has had the effect of greatly increasing the interest in tobacco-growing in the Yale district. The local manufacturers are all agreed in the opinion that the soil of the province is especially adapted for raising tobacco for cigar manufacture. According to present reports, as soon as the British Columbia farmers get to understand the curing of the leaf, they will have at their command a new and important source of revenue.

Government Aid Wanted to Encourage the Butter Industry—Patron Haycock Proposes to Abolish the Medical Council — An Old Document.

TORONTO, March 5.—There was but a ten minute session at the Local Legislature yesterday. There were not more than half the members present, the others not having returned from the country. There are eight notices of motion on the order paper, but none were moved. This seemed to displease the Premier, who does not like to see the members loafing. He said that the members did not seem to have any private business to push before the House and that this being so he would insist that if the debate on the budget was not finished this evening it should continue to-morrow.

Mr. Marter said that he had no objection.

Mr. Whitney gave notice that he would move this resolution: "That this House, having regard to the butter trade in this province and the depressed condition thereof, has observed with satisfaction the announcement of the intention of the Government of Canada to provide for the immediate shipment of fresh-made creamery butter to Great Britain, and to purchase at twenty cents per pound all creamery butter of fine quality made between 1st January and 1st April, 1895; and, bearing in mind the expenditure already incurred by the Governments of the province and Dominion to improve and foster the dairy interests of the country, respectfully urges upon the Government of Canada the advisability and necessity of providing such further or other aid as may be found to be necessary from time to time, in order that the producers of fresh-made creamery butter may secure the full benefit of such expenditure."

ONTARIO'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

The Minister of Education Presents His Annual Report.

Hon. Mr. Ross presented the report of the Minister of Education to the House yesterday. The Public School population of Ontario is shown to be in cities and towns, between the ages of 5 and 21 years, 102,608, and in counties and villages 400,-895. Pupils under 5 years of age in cities and towns only 13: 6 at Toronto, 2 at St. Catharines, 1 at Ottawa and 4 at Kingston, while in the counties and villages there are in this class 1,467. Attending the Public schools at Toronto there are only 7 pupils over 21 years of age, 2 at London and 2 at Kingston, while there are 293 in the counties. There are 201,730 boys attending the Public schools in the province and 181,991 girls. The attendance does not average more than 100 days in the year. There were 7,968 Public school teachers in the province during 1894, an increase of 145 over the previous year. Of these 2,647 were males and 5,316 females. The highest salary paid was $1,500. The average male salary was $423 and the average female $300. The total number of Public schools in the province is 5,641; of these 2,236 are brick, 548 stone, 2,427 frame and the balance log. There were 14,103 trees planted in Public school grounds last arbor day. The total receipts were $3,874,607 and the total expenditures $3,265,658, leaving a cash balance of $609,069, or four times as much as was granted by the Local Legislature last year. The total amount spent for teachers' salaries last year was $2,304,-893.

Catholic Separate Schools.

The report gives the total number of Separate schools as 268; the total receipts, $294,337; total expenditure, $211,759; cash balance, $82,583; number of boys attending, 15,557; number of girls attending, 15,959.

Collegiate Institutes.

The total number of institutes is given at 35, the same as the year previous. Total number of boys attending 5,206, or 126 less than last year. Total number of girls attending 6,075, or 236 more than last year. Total receipts $439,005, an increase of $21,268 over the preceding year. Total expenditure $405,761, or an increase of $20,146 over last year. The Ontario Government grant to institutes last year was $48,488 and to Public schools $288,899.

High Schools.

The number of High schools is given as 94, one more than last year. Boys attending 5,600 or 14 less than last year; girls attending 6,139. Total receipts $471,653 and total expenditure $417,960.

Protestant Separate Schools.

Total number of schools 10, situated at Anderdon, Bromley, Cambridge, Marlboro', Osgoods, Plantagenet North, Pusinch, Rama, L'Orignal and Penetanguishene. The total number of pupils was 543, total expense $6,685 and total receipts $7,736.

A New Medical Act.

Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, is after the Medical Council. He gave notice yesterday that on Friday he would introduce a bill to amend the Ontario Medical Act providing for the abolition of the Medical Council, and that part of its present functions be vested in the Government. The bill will, if passed, permit any medical man to practice until the right is abrogated by the courts.

Mr. McKee gave notice that he would introduce a bill to-morrow to amend the Municipal Light and Heat Act. At present municipal corporations are not allowed under the Act to invest funds in natural gas companies. If this Act passes they will then have this privilege as present denied.

Mr. Ferguson Will Ask Questions.

Mr. Ferguson will ask the Government to-day if it is the intention of the Government, as promised last session, to make provision during the present session for the settlement of the claims of certain townships to rebates on their indebtedness under the Government Drainage Act, owing to defective or faulty construction of the original drains.

Mr. Ferguson will also ask if any action has been taken since last session to secure a settlement of the disputed jurisdiction between the Dominion and the province as to ditches or drains crossing or running along railway lines; also as to the powers of this Legislature to make provision for the protection of the public at railway crossing.

The Budget Debate.

The budget debate will be continued to-day and it will likely take until Wednesday evening before the division is taken. Messrs. Gibson, Wood, Davis and Awrey on the Government side and Messrs. Howland, St. John, Meacham, Willoughby, Whitney, Ryerson, Carnegie, and Miscampbell of the Opposition will speak.

An Old Document.

Mr. W. J. McKee, M.P.P., discovered a most interesting document among the papers of his grandfather, Thomas McKee, who sat as a member of the Commons in 1798 at York. The document was handed round as a warning to the members of the present House yesterday. It read:

"Commons, House of Assembly,
" Monday, June 11th, 1789.

"Ordered and Resolved by this House upon the report brought up by Samuel Street, Esq., chairman of a committee of the whole House, that Timothy Thompson, Thomas Smith and Thomas McKee, not having attended their duty in Parliament, are highly reprehensible and deserve the censure of this House and that notice be given to them that if they do not attend their duty more religiously in future a fine will be imposed upon them.

"(Signed) A. Macdonell,
" Clerk of Assembly."

THE VALLEYFIELD TRAGEDY.

Funeral of the Victims—The Preliminary Investigation Commenced.

VALLEYFIELD, Que., March 5.—The funerals of the two unfortunate victims took place in a blinding snow storm. The weather, however, did not prevent an enormous crowd from being present on both occasions. The Catholic cathedral and the Presbyterian church where the services were held were packed to the doors.

Hugh Wilson, the third victim, is doing as well as can be expected although his wounds are very painful.

The preliminary examination, which was commenced at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, was rushed through in quick time. There was really nothing new in the evidence, it being a rehash of that given at the coroner's inquest. Shortis was as stoical as ever. Mr. St. Pierre watched things but did not make any objections and had no evidence to offer. The prisoner had nothing to say, and pleaded not guilty, after which he was committed to Beauharnois for trial. He will be taken there to-morrow, so as to give Mr. St. Pierre a chance to consult with him. The line of defence will be on the plea of insanity. An effort has been made to obtain a change of venue to Montreal.

THE HYAMS MURDER CASE.

A Week's Adjournment—Sensational Arrest at Montreal.

TORONTO, March 5.—The preliminary hearing has been adjourned for a week at the request of the Crown, as a number of expert witnesses are required to give evidence in the Hendershott trial, which opens at St. Thomas to-day. It is probable that the case will not be resumed before a week from Thursday. There are still about a dozen Crown witnesses to be heard and the Magistrate will scarcely be able to sum up the evidence before next Saturday week.

A middle-aged man named James Mossberger Pillow and his wife Stella have been arrested in Montreal charged with conspiring to defraud the Equitable and Sun Life Insurance Companies out of $80,000. Stella Pillow is described as a charming woman and very clever, but the conspiracy was discovered through her attempting to personate Mrs. Harry Place Hyams. Detective Caddy will go to Montreal and bring the strange pair to this city. These new features will probably assist in bringing out some new developments in connection with the alleged murder.

MANITOBA SCHOOL CASE

Argument by Mr. Ewart on Behalf of the Minority.

A DRAFT BILL PRESENTED

Mr. O'Donoghue Makes a Strong Statement in Favor of the Present Public Schools—Mr. McCarthy will Go on With the Argument.

OTTAWA, March 5.—Argument in the Manitoba appeal in behalf of the Catholic minority was resumed yesterday. Premier Bowell presided, and the Ministers present were Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Messrs. Haggart, Foster, Montague, Dickey, Sir A. P. Caron, Hon. Angers, Ouimet, Costigan and Solicitor-General Curran. Hon. J. C. Patterson was the only absentee. Rev. Father Allard, Rev. Father Chenier and several senators and members were in attendance.

Messrs. Ewart, Q.C., for the Catholics, and McCarthy, Q.C., for the Manitoba Government, got side by side, and there was no preliminary talk whatever.

In continuing his argument Mr. Ewart said the pledges had been given at different times by Premier Greenway that the Separate schools should not be abolished. But he said if no such promises had been made he would argue that relief should nevertheless be given the Roman Catholics. He maintained the difficulty of teaching Catholics and Protestants in the same schools by history. Henry VIII., he said, was regarded by Catholics as the disturber of peace in the church, and Queen Mary was designated by Protestants "Bloody Mary." Some people said that the whole question should be left to the province. In other words, they wanted it left to themselves. They were in the majority and could do as they pleased. Was it for the purpose of being acted upon that the clause providing for remedial legislation was placed in the constitution, or was it put there as a piece of argument? Was it to be used if the Catholics were in the majority, but not to be used when the Protestants were in the majority? It was a constitutional guarantee like many others which Canadians enjoyed under the constitution, and therefore the Governor-General in council was not only bound to hear the appeal but to act upon it and extend relief.

Proceeding, he said that his Excellency should not decline to hear the appeal and when it was heard he was bound to adjudicate upon it. What would it, he said, if the Supreme Court refused to hear a case for some reason or other, seeing that an appeal lay to that court? On the same grounds, why should the Governor-General in council refuse to hear an appeal because it might be of a troublesome nature politically?

Here Mr. Ewart presented the draft of a bill which he had prepared and which he said ought to be sent to the Manitoba Government, asking them to pass it. That bill contained the measure of relief which the Roman Catholics desired. It was similar to the Ontario Act and did not ask for the repeal of the Act of 1890.

Mr. O'Donoghue, a member of the school board of Winnipeg, a Roman Catholic and a regular attendant at church, made a strong statement in favor of the present Public schools, showing that they would be acceptable to the Catholics but for the intervention of the clergy. The French schools were inferior and Catholics got a better training in the old Protestant schools. He was elected to the board despite the protests of Bishop Langevin and got 90 per cent. of the Catholic vote. The voting was by ballot.

Mr. McCarthy wanted time to get answers to the affidavits put in by Mr. Ewart, but the latter withdrew the affidavits and therefore it was decided to adjourn until to-day, when Mr. McCarthy will go on with the argument.

Conservative Meeting at Beaverton.

BEAVERTON, March 5.—A meeting was held under the auspices of the Ontario County Conservatives here last evening, ex-Warden Philip McCrae presiding. Mr. Madill, the member for the county; Major Sam Hughes, M.P., Hon. J. F. Wood, Controller of Inland Revenue, and Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Controller of Customs, were the principal speakers. The train which brought the speakers to the town was delayed by snow drifts and the meeting was late in opening, but the attendance was good in spite of this drawback. The Controller spoke at length on the tariff issue, replying to a number of criticisms which had been advanced in regard to the policy of protection. In dealing with the effect of the tariff in creating a home market Controller Wallace declared that last year $30,000,000 worth of farm produce were consumed in Canada, only one-sixth of the entire product being exported. In the audience there was just sufficient opposition to lend a lively interest to the meeting.

Discipline in the King's.

HALIFAX, March 5.—Two privates of the King's Regiment, who were fined in the police court, remarked that they would rather go to prison than to barracks. They think the discipline insisted upon by the commanding officer is too severe. Sergt.-Major McArthur has resigned. A short time after Col. Hamilton relinquished command of the regiment it is understood the sergeant-major had some words with the new colonel relative to the discipline of the regiment. The colonel, it is said, stated that the discipline of the regiment should be other than it was. Sergt.-Major McArthur said he would look into matters and report within twenty-four hours, which he did in the form of a resignation. One sergeant has left and two more intend to leave.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The Daily Examiner is delivered to all parts of the Town for 10c. a week, 35c. a month, $2.00 for six months.

Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, MARCH 5, 1895.

THE Dominion Ministers are very anxious for the welfare of the farmers just now. One way of manifesting anxiety is by "soft sawder" delivered from the stump, another way is by subsidizing with the money of the farmers of Canada, steamship lines to help Australia to ship butter, salt beef, corned meats and frozen mutton to Canada at prices that cut far below those of the great "home market" which the N.P. has provided. Since July 1st 16,000 pounds of mutton have been landed at Victoria, B.C., from Australia, at 3½ cents per pound and nearly 6,000 lbs. of butter at 17½ cents. It is quite reasonable and very encouraging to Canadian farmers to bonus Australia farmers to enable them to compete in our "home" market.

THE super-loyal Conservative journals are greatly concerned lest, if the Liberals gain power, their fiscal policy will result in discrimination against Great Britain. This would be nearly as bad as the Mail's declaration in reference to the statement that the National Policy would imperil British connection—"so much the worse for British connection," quoth the Mail. And this was when the Mail was the Simon pure Conservative organ, even before it became connected with its present vermiform appendix—the Empire.

Mr. J. E. Seagram, manufacturer of the firewater of that ilk, has received the Conservative nomination for North Waterloo. The Mail in its report of the nomination meeting says that Mr. Seagram was received "by the audience standing and with hearty cheers." It is said that Seagram is generally taken standing, if not taken too often, and also with hearty appreciation. The EXAMINER has no special friendship for Mr. Seagram but hopes he may, in the coming campaign, meet his Waterloo.

THE McLeod Gazette has the following respecting an old Peterborough boy, whose name is mentioned in connection with the Commons candidature, in the Alberta constituency; it says:—"Mr. Haultain is probably the strongest man in the constituency to day, but for many reasons we would be sorry to see him abandon his present position as leader of the North-West to take a seat as a private member at Ottawa."

PRESENT members of the majority in the House of Commons don't all show an overwhelming ambition to become candidates again. Hon. Mr. Foster has deserted his old constituency, evidently from fear of being beaten, and Mr. Calvin, of Frontenac, is out of the running, and nearer home there are indications of a disposition to rest on past laurels.

ACCORDING to the Ottawa news of the Mail and Empire, Hon. Mr. Bowell states that the Cabinet has not yet considered the matter of dissolution or the calling of parliament. Is this responsible government? or are we charitably to suppose that the government are not responsible—for their actions.

Mr. D. W. Karn, head of the firm of Karn & Co., piano and organ builders, of Woodstock, is the Conservative nominee for North Oxford. Mr. Karn, though the Conservative candidate, will be quite independent of the newspapers—he will have an organ of his own.

LENTEN REMENTOES.

1. That the object of keeping Lent is not to conform to an ancient custom, but to obtain a spiritual good.
2. That the testimony of Christians whose testimony is worth having is that there is much profit in a well-kept Lent.
3. That the benefits of Lent are for those who seek them, and they cannot be expected to come unsought.
4. That the purpose of fasting is not to propitiate God by making ourselves miserable, but to gain control over our appetites and desires.
5. That whenever money is saved to us by our Lenten self-denial in food or pleasure, the discipline of self-denial is not complete until we have devoted that money to the Lord.
6. That all our self-examinations should be unbiased, our object being not to find what can be approved, but what must be corrected.
7. That our Lent will profit us just in the proportion in which it brings us near to Christ and makes us more like Him.—Selected.

TO THE WARBLING VIREO.

Sweet little prattler, whom the morning sun
Found singing, and this livelong summer day
Keeps warbling still: here have I dreamed away
Two bright and happy hours that passed as one,
Lulled by thy silvery converse, just begun
And never ended. Thou dost preach to me
Sweet patience and her guest reality,
The sense of days and weeks and months that run
Scarce altering in their round of happiness,
And quiet thoughts, and tells that do not kill,
And homely pastimes. Though the old distress
Loom gray above us both at times, ah, still
Be constant to thy woodland note, sweet bird;
By me at least thou shalt be loved and heard.
—Archibald Lampman in Youth's Companion.

The Moon as We See It.

Did you ever stop to consider the fact that the inhabitants of this earth have never seen but one side of the moon, and to inquire the reasons why such is the case? The explanation is this: The moon makes one revolution on her axis in the same period of time that she takes up in revolving once around the earth, thus the same geographical region of the lunar surface is always toward us. As one explanation usually calls for another, it may not be out of place to mention the fact that the reasons the two motions of the moon above referred to so nearly coincide are these:

The moon is not a true globe, but is very elliptical in form. It did not in all probabilities orginally start on its axial rotation with precisely the same velocity with which it moved around the earth, but the very best astronomers say that the two motions were not far apart in the start. Assuming that the moon was semi-liquid or at least soft in those remote days, the earth's attraction caused the lunar surface to elongate, and in the untold ages which followed its axial rotation, owing to the attractive influence of both the earth and the sun, was made to correspond with its orbital movement around the earth.—St. Louis Republic.

A Book Brought Down From Heaven.

According to Mohammedan belief, the first copy of the Koran, or Alkoran, their sacred book, was brought down from the highest to the lowest heaven by Gabriel on the mysterious night of Al Knade in the month of Ramadan. This wonderful book, written in heaven and bound in satin, jewels and gold, was communicated to Mohammed at different times during a period of 23 years. This was done, according to Mohammedan belief, either by Gabriel in human shape or by God himself. When Gabriel acted as translator and communicator, he did so "with a great sound of music and bells." God appeared either "veiled or unveiled during Mohammed's waking hours or during dreams at night."—St. Louis Republic.

Why Not?

Apropos of Marion Crawford's remark about our mustached butlers, that they amused him after the shorn ones of England, why won't somebody say that our butlers—our American butlers—wear mustaches, and we, when abroad, find it amusing to see the English butlers smooth shaven, and wonder why their masters do not insist that their mouths be covered. Will the time ever come when we will dare to be Americans?

There are great lessons to be learned from the older nations of the world, great models to be studied and wisdom to be got from the experience which is the accretion of centuries, concerning which the taste of one cultivated community is as good as that of any other. —New York Times.

The Cat Was Hungry.

A young lady bookkeeper employed in an office at South Manchester, Conn., has been in the habit for some time past of giving the office cat a piece of meat for its lunch every day. Precaution is taken to lay a piece of paper under the meat to avoid greasing the floor. The other day at lunch hour, when there was no meat, pussy begged for some in her most intelligent fashion, and at last going to the wastebasket dragged forth her regular paper table cloth and laid it properly for the meat.—Philadelphia Ledger.

SAVE BABY'S LIFE.

A Daily Use of Lactated Food Saves Life and Promotes Health and Strength.

Mothers who have weak, sickly, cross and fretful babies, can save themselves nights of weary watching and days of trouble and sorrow, with, perhaps, after-years of sad remembrances, if they only make Lactated Food baby's regular diet. The life of the weak babe cannot be trifled with. It requires a food that will stay on the stomach and that will be easily assimulated and perfectly digested. Lactated Food will produce all these results, and give such constitutional strength and vigour that the little one becomes a joy and pleasure in the home.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

EXTRACTS FROM HER LETTER.

Men and Women May Profit by Her Experience.

She Strongly Urges the Use of Paine's Celery Compound.

In April of 1893 my whole system was run-down, I was weak, nervous, sleepless and despondent, and at times suffered agonies from headaches. As my doctor was doing little for my relief, I was urged by a friend to try your Paine's Celery Compound. Your wonderful medicine in less than five weeks made me a new woman. I am stronger, sleep better and enjoy life better than ever before. Your medicine is worthy of all the praise it receives, and I strongly advise all sufferers to use it."

No medicine to-day is so generally used in Spring as Paine's Celery Compound. It is popular because it always cures. Do not not allow dealers to induce you to buy some other medicine that pays them a larger profit. See that you are given Paine's Celery Compound.

THE CUBAN REVOLUTION.

The Spanish Government Will Not Protect American Conspirators.

MADRID, March 5.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday Senor Osma questioned the Ministry with regard to Americans arrested in Cuba. The Foreign Minister replied that he was officially informed that three Americans had been arrested in Havana and that the United States consul had applied for their release. He added that the Government supported the Governor-General of Cuba in upholding the protocol of 1877 between Spain and the United States and in no wise would protect Americans conspiring against the Spanish executive in Cuba, where foreigners were subject to the law equally with Spaniards, the only difference being that for violations of the law the former must be tried in ordinary courts instead of by court-martial.

HAVANA, March 5.—Hermano Leyva, a member of the Central Autonomist party, has arrived at Manzallo and is conferring with Juan Ramirez, a former leader of the autonomists but now collector of the portes, and other men who were prominent in the last revolution, but who are now attached to the Government, with a view to induce the rebels of the province to lay down their arms. It has been agreed to telegraph to Marcos Garcia, Spotorno, Luaces and Mola to proceed to Manzanillo, so that all the most prominent men of the district can confer with the rebel leaders.

Partolo Masso, commanding 500 men in the same district, has taken refuge in the mountains and is completely discouraged. There is a band of 100 men under Amador Guarra and a small band is stationed at Bayama Manzillo, headed by Esteban Tamayo. The military commander of Guantanamo reports that several members of Pedro Perez band have surrendered. The officials assert that the rebel force there numbers 100 men, who are poorly armed and are unable to do much fighting as their supply of ammunition is becoming low. It is presumed that they expect a fresh supply from abroad and warships are cruising along the coast in order to intercept any vessel that may bring ammunition for the rebels. The mayor of Bayamo telegraphs to the Governor-General that a commission of prominent men of the locality has been appointed to induce the rebels of Jaguani, Bayamo and Manzanillo to submit to the Government. The mayor says that he expects that the negotiations will result favorably.

SATOLLI ASKED TO INVESTIGATE.

A Number of Priests Blamed for Shielding the Murderer of Dr. Cronin.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The Cronin faction is making a strong attempt to drag Mgr. Satolli, and through him the Catholic church, into the quarrel which disrupted the Clan-Na-Gael. The followers of the murdered doctor are arguing that the mystery which hangs around the death of Cronin and the circumstances that preceded that tragic event have reached too great a crisis for the church to keep clear of the controversy any longer. They charge a number of priests in this city with prostituting their sacred office to help the murderers of Dr. Cronin to escape justice and reaping rewards for their crimes. They have prepared and sent to Mgr. Satolli a petition urging the Papal Ablegate to visit Chicago and investigate these charges.

Stock Brokers Jubilant.

NEW YORK, March 5.—As the hands of the big clock of the New York Stock Exchange pointed to the noon hour yesterday there occurred on the floor a scene but seldom witnessed there. Old and staid brokers danced like school boys and gave vent to blood curdling yells. Others blew shrill whistles with which they had come provided. "The 53rd Congress is dead" was the cry. The brokers were celebrating a joyous event each in his own way. For two minutes after twelve the noise continued. At first the whistle predominated and then came a mighty chorus of groans. As it died away the celebration ended although it was fully five minutes before regular business was resumed. The demonstration was the maniest the Stock Exchange has ever indulged in over an adjournment of Congress. It was especially notable for its unanimity, the brokers apparently laying all the bad business and financial depression of the last two years at the door of the dead Congress. The visitors' gallery was crowded during the demonstration. The jubilation over the adjournment of Congress was duplicated on the Produce Exchange though on a somewhat smaller scale than on the Stock Exchange.

A WIFE'S RUSE.

A Crooked Mirror and a Man's Conscience Did the Work.

A St. Paul lady made a temperate man of her husband in a novel way. For two or three years he was a good deal of a lark. Night after night he came home saturated. At length one night he reached home so drunk that he went to bed with his boots on. She resolved now to cure him at any cost, and soon had her plans laid. The next night he arrived home very drunk. The following morning he arose and looked in the large mirror in his room. His mouth was drawn out of shape, one cheek was a good deal higher than the other, and both were swollen; one eye was popping out of his head and the other was sunken and drawn to twice its natural length; one ear sat on his neck and the other was split and stood almost on top of his head.

"Such a hellish picture as that I never saw before," muttered he.

Then he looked at the mirror to see that it was the same he had always used. It was the same frame, and, as it was built in the wall, it could not have been changed. He called his wife into the room.

"For God's sake, Mary, what's the matter with that mirror?" he said.

"Just look in it! See!"

She looked in it, and declared that she didn't see anything the matter with it.

"My God, I've got 'em," shouted he. "Send for a doctor!"

The doctor arrived, pronounced it a clear case, and prescribed. The husband was placed in his wife's bed, in another room, and lay there a day or two. Before the physician permitted him to be out again he pledged her he would never drink again.

This was five years ago, and he has kept his pledge faithfully. But it is doubtful if he knows that the mirror which frightened him so was an imperfect glass, which had been put in the frame in place of the plate glass, and that while he was lying in his wife's bedroom the plate glass was restored to its place. —St. Paul Globe.

"Yes. He is more of an impatient than a patient," replied the doctor.

STRICKEN WITH A PARTIAL PARALYSIS

This Was the Case with Miss Minnie Stevens, of London, Ont.

The Parents Had Lost Hope of Her Recovery, But Even After Her Arm, Side and Leg Had Become Powerless South American Nervine Effected a Cure—To-day This Young Lady, Daughter of F. A. Stevens, of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, Enjoys Perfect Health.

MISS MINNIE STEVENS, LONDON, ONT.

Men and women in the exercise of physical or mental power can usually go a certain length, but a step beyond this proves too severe a test. It is the same in the field of medicine. If the case is not a trying one some simple remedy will cure, but it is when a medicine proves effective in an aggravated and extraordinary case that its real power is tested. South American Nervine has made some wonderful cures in cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, debility and nervous prostration, not to name other troubles. When nervousness, however, takes hold of the system to that extent that it becomes paralysed and the limbs lose their natural power, then it is that the patient and her friends may indeed commence to lose heart. Miss Minnie Stevens, a fair daughter of London, Ont., had undergone this trying experience. She had been troubled with nervousness. The trouble grew and after a time assumed such shape that she could not lift or even hold anything in her hand. This member, in fact, was useless to her. The trouble spread down the side and partially into one leg. Her face began to twitch. In truth, all the indications of paralysis creeping over the system were manifest. Do we wonder that her parents lost hope of her recovery? They saw the fatal disease rapidly twining itself around their beautiful child. Surrounded with every comfort and possessing the means as well as the will to do everything that was in their power to provide relief, yet, apparently, this could not be obtained, until influenced by the statements of the wonderful cures effected by South American Nervine in case of nervous prostration, the parents finally decided to try this medicine. After using twelve bottles their daughter became perfectly well, and to-day in the Forest City there is no young girl more healthy than Minnie Stevens, and her father, Mr. F. A. Stevens, of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, is indeed a happy man. The statement cannot be made in too positive and distinct terms that this great discovery is capable of marvelous demonstration in all nervous troubles.

The testimony that comes to the proprietor of Nervine shows that it has absolutely cured in the case of the young, as here cited, and those who have nearly reached, or gone beyond, the three score years and ten have likewise found a cure in this medicine.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to stir e'er seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(he lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair,
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would lay and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Hugh,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss.

They gave us every one a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid,
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

"'Tis whispered" that Overcoats are selling at half price at Grafton & Co.

THE EVANGELISTS BEGIN THEIR WORK IN ST PAUL'S.

Their Motto, "There is Nothing too Hard for the Lord."

The first of the evangelistic services was held in St. Paul's last evening by Rev. J. B. Moore and Mr. J. White. The proceedings were opened by a song service by the choir led by Mr. White. The ministers of the town were well represented on the platform and during the evening the majority of them took part in the devotional exercises and prayer.

Mr. J. White's solo

WITH GUITAR ACCOMPANIMENT,

"He came from a Heavenly Land" was well rendered as was the sole and chorus which was sung while the collection was being taken up.

Rev. Mr. Moore in addressing the congregation, took as his text Luke xi ch., 30 ver. "By faith the walls of Jericho fell down." In speaking of faith, Mr. Moore stated that Joshua was called of God to lead His people into the promised land. His first difficulty was in crossing Jordan. He was fearful of himself but God came to him and promised His help. God being with him gave him courage. His second difficulty were the walls of Jericho. As he looked at these strong walls and knew his own weakness he was discouraged, but when he looked up to God, he was encouraged and won the walls.

"Men look," Mr. Moore continued, "too often on Christian work but looking unto God we have nothing to fear."

The evangelist, in conclusion, asked the congregation not to be too critical in regard to the methods pursued by himself and his fellow workers, but to give them their loving sympathy. All Christians should be of one accord in this great work. Peterborough, he understood, had a population of eleven or twelve thousand. Of these not more than four thousand were enrolled as church members, showing that there was room for a great work in Peterborough.

He then gave illustrations of Moody's experience in the Old Country. Moody went first to Sunderland, where he WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL.

He afterwards went to Scotland, where at first the work was slow. He was told to be patient as the Scotch were hard to enthuse. He fell back on the text, "Is there anything too hard for the Lord" and great success crowned his efforts. So it was in Peterborough, there was nothing too hard for the Lord to do. What was wanted was the prayers of Christians, the exercise of faith and personal work. These would do wonders.

To-night's service will begin at eight o'clock in St. Paul's and at twenty minutes to eight all Endeavourers who wish are asked to assemble in the lecture room for a few minutes prayer.

On Friday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock a special service for children will be held in St. Paul's.

HEALTH LECTURES.

What we Should and What we Should Not Drink.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was only a small attendance at the first of the series of Popular Health Lectures at St. Luke's. Those who were there enjoyed an interesting and useful address on "What We Should, and What We Should Not, Drink," by Dr. Goldsmith.

Drinks were divided by the doctor into three groups. In the first water was placed alone. Water is not a food, but is present in all food. Our bodies are composed largely of water. The atmosphere, too, is a storehouse of water. Pure water is the best of all drinks. But impure water is exceedingly dangerous, and where there is reason to suspect its purity it should always be boiled. Typhoid fever, malaria and other diseases arise from the use of impure water.

To the second class of drinks belong tea, coffee and cocoa. The value of these lies in their active principles. Those of tea and coffee are brain and muscular stimulants, increasing the heart beats. When taken with food they retard digestion, and lead to dyspepsia. The injurious principle in tea and coffee is tannin. Black tea contains less tannin, and is, therefore, less injurious than green tea. Much depends upon the preparation of tea, which should never be boiled, and only steeped about three minutes before using. In moderate use, carefully prepared, and taken weak, it was harmless, but there was no doubt that much suffering was due to the immoderate use of strong green tea.

Cocoa is rather a food than a stimulant.

The third group of drinks is the alcohol. The different kind of beers contain the least amount of alcohol. Next come the wines and then the spirits—containing from 35 to 60 per cent. of alcohol.

The effects of alcohol on different constitutions are various. Robust people resist its ill effects more successfully than weakly. It is difficult to define excess, but it is reached before intoxication. Small quantities of alcohol taken by overworked people with food may assist digestion, but in large quantities it affects the liver and the lining of the stomach. Alcohol is not a food, nor does it (save temporarily) increase but diminishes the heat of the body.

Throughout his address the Dr. spoke with a moderation which we have no doubt commended his remarks to his hearers, and at its close the rector, who, presided, expressed the warm thanks of the audience for the profitable lecture to which they had listened. He also explained the object of these lectures—which was to supply useful information to the people on subjects of very great importance to their welfare. The Christian faith lays great stress upon the welfare of the body, and as a gift of God, its powers should be used temperately and soberly.

The lecture next week will be on Tuesday instead of Monday evening, by Dr. Boucher on "How we digest our Food, with some practical remarks on Diet."

The Peterborough — Lindsay trophy stands about 15 inches in height and takes the form of a huge silver cup supported on crossed brooms and surmounted by a curling stone, several smaller stones are also grouped around the base. The trophy was purchased in 1890 and was held by Lindsay until '94, when it was won by Peterborough.

Mr. Dickson Davidson has just received a letter from Mr. T. W. R. McRae, of the Belleville Colts, announcing the purchase of the Colts' trophy. Mr. McRae stated that the cup is a very handsome one, standing 15 inches high, and taking the form of a curling stone, supported by four brooms resting on a base surrounded by four beavers and a wreath of maple leaves, with a smaller curling stone in the centre. The cup is of silver, lined with gold, and will be duly handed over to the Peterborough rinks when Belleville is visited on Thursday next.

THE GIRLS ARE TO BLAME.

The girls, says the Khan, are to be blamed for most of this—the country girls especially. As long as the girls prefer that kind of cattle to the horny-handed sons of toil they will never be allowed to vote if I can help it.

ENNISMORE.

A Councillor's Seat Declared Vacant.

Before Judge Weller this morning the trial of the petition of John Maloney against the return of James Scollard as councillor at the January municipal elections, was heard. The ground on which the appeal was made was that the petitioner had a majority of votes. The respondent consented to an order declaring the seat vacant, costs to respondent. Mr. R. E. Wood and Mr. W. H. Moore for petition, Mr. Geo. Edmison for respondent.

ST. JOHN'S Y. P. A.

A Very Enthusiastic Meeting and a Good Programme.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Young People's Association of St. John's was held in the school house last night. There was a good attendance of members and all seemed very enthusiastic and considerable business was transacted in a very short time. The chair was occupied by the president, Miss A. Sproule. At the conclusion of general business an excellent programme was rendered, consisting of instrumental selections, recitations and vocal solos. The instrumental selection of Miss Kate Henderson was a very fine one. Mrs. Stapleton rendered a vocal solo entitled "The Carnival Song" in excellent voice. The recitation of Miss Burley met with appreciative applause from the audience.

As was decided at the last meeting an essay on some church historical subject was to be read. Rev. J. C. Davidson took last night's paper. He chose as his subject "The Early Franciscans," which he treated in a very interesting and instructive manner, dealing with the life of Francis from his birth till death.

The next meeting of the Association, which will be held on March 18th, promises to be an excellent one. A very long and varied programme has already been prepared for it.

Customers Too Particular.

Some years ago the proprietors of a so called "ulster house" in London placed in their windows a placard setting forth a new rule of their establishment, namely, that no orders given by Americans would be executed unless the orders were paid for beforehand. The proprietor on being interviewed declared that American ladies were much too hard to please—infinitely more so than English ones. They insisted upon having their things made to fit or they refused to take them. "I had an ulster sent back to me the other day, for instance," he remarked, "by an American customer merely because it was longer in front than it was at the back." Only that and nothing more!—Lucy Hooper in Home Journal.

NO HEADS COME OFF THIS YEAR.

The Council Dismisses no Officials.

THE REPORT STOOD 7–5 AGAINST THE REPORT.

The Recommendation of the Committee on Appointments Turned Down in the Council Last Night—The Carnegie-Dennistoun Franchise Granted—Mr. Stone Explains His Absence From the Last Council Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the town council last evening there were present the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Sproule, Best, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Sawers, Stone, Mason and Brady.

As it was known that the report of the committee on Appointments would again come up for discussion, the council chamber was crowded, every seat being occupied and many having to stand.

The following

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and referred as stated :

From George McBurney, applying for the position of Street and Bridge Inspector at a salary of $400 per annum.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From J. A. Harper, secretary of the Fire Brigade Band, asking for the usual grant to that organization.

Received and referred to Finance Committee.

From J. H. Yelland, secretary of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, asking that the meeting room of the brigade be repaired.

Referred to the Property Committee.

From Jas. A. Hall and F. E Bell, town auditors, enclosing the annual report.

Referred to the Finance Committee with power to have a number of the copies printed.

From David Knox, stating that he was about to establish a vinegar and soda water factory on Queen street, and asking for the construction of a 350 foot drain on the street in question.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From Wm. E. Cummings, asking whose duty it is to prevent the loafers in the butter market from purloining articles, and stating that the police and market clerk had declined to interfere.

Referred to the Market Committee.

From Jane Barrie asking for a remission of taxes.

Referred to the Charity Committee.

From the Street Inspector, stating that $1,017.59 had been expended on the streets during the month of February.

Received and referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From John Kelly, complaining of an overcharge in his taxes in connection with the Park street drain.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee and the town engineer instructed to report on the matter.

From A. H. Cobb, secretary of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society, asking for a grant to the society of $500 for the purpose of assisting in the proper maintenance of the Court House Park.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

From E. B. Edwards enclosing a draft memorial to the Legislature, praying that the assessment law may be amended by making all taxes on lands payable by the owners and not by the tenants thereof.

Received.

From R. Mulholland, chairman of the Mercantile Committee of the Board of Trade, stating the willingness of the Board to co-operate with the council in endeavouring to remedy the grievance of the local merchants against the Transient Trader's Act.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

From Louis F. Heyd, solicitor, asking for the adjustment of a claim for damages presented by Mrs. M. S. Chrysler, of 272 Simcoe street, who fell and is stated to have sustained severe injury on the street. A writ for the damages sustained was threatened.

Referred to the Town Solicitor.

From W. J. Green, secretary of the Peterborough Central Exhibition, asking permission to have a streamer placed across George street a few days before the holding of the fall fair.

Granted on motion of Councillors Cahill and Dawson.

From J. I. Davidson and many others petitioning for the construction of a footbridge at Auburn.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Stone spoke strongly in support of the petition, as did Mr. Brady.

Mr. Dawson stated that he thought every member of the council would vote for the construction of the bridge, which would have been erected last year, but for the wave of retrenchment which rolled across all civic matters.

From E. B. Edwards, stating that it would be necessary to extend the time for Judge Ketchum to make the award in the sewer arbitration until March 10th. A letter and telegrams were received from Judge Ketchum asking for the additional extension of time.

Received.

Councillor Stone rose to call the attention of the council to the fact that the town was in a very awkward position regarding the sewer matter. The time for making the award expired, he understood, on March 4th, and as no motion for an extension had been made in Toronto, the town was in a most embarassing position. He appealed to Mr. Edmison, counsel for the townships, who was present, as to the condition of affairs.

Mr. Edmison was non-committal in his statements, but expressed the opinion that if the counsel for both parties did not agree to an extension, the decision of the arbitrator would be null and void, and the probability was that a further reference would be ordered.

Mr. Stone agreed with Mr. Edmison.

Mr. Edmison, continuing, stated that Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, had agreed to ask for an extension of time, and had also agreed to consider that the order which gave the arbitrator "until" March 5 to make his award, should be considered to mean "March 5th inclusive."

The councillors seeing the peculiar position in which they were placed, at once sent for the town solicitor, who corroborated Mr. Edmison's statements.

On motion of Mr. Cahill permission was accorded the town solicitor to apply for such extension of time as he deemed fit.

Mr. Dawson, chairman, and Mr. Brady moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Stone moved that the report be referred back to the committee to report on the efficiency of the Remington typewriter. Mr. Hay was the local agent for the Remington, and being a taxpayer should be patronized.

Mr. Dawson stated that Mr. Trotter, agent for the Bar-lock machine, was also a taxpayer, and had placed a machine on trial, which Mr. Hay was unable to do. He had called upon Mr. Hay before he had seen any of the other agents. He was anxious to have the various makes of machines tested by experts. As Mr. Hay's company refused to send a machine on trial nothing could be done about it.

The report was carried.

THE CHARITY COMMITTEE

recommended in reference to the account of John McNaughton. As the account was not contracted by any officer of the town, and as the Relief Officer did not refuse to send the wood, your committee cannot recommend that it be paid for, for to pay it would create an undesirable precedent.

In regard to the letter from the Honorable Secretary of the Children's Aid Society enclosing a letter from Dr. Barnardo, the committee feel that the offer of Dr. Barnardo was a kind one, but owing to the uncertainty of the Home being able to receive the children when a temporary shelter is needed and other conditions connected with the offer, the committee could not recommend that it be accepted.

Mr. Sawers, chairman, moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Dawson moved in amendment that Mr. McNaughton be refunded the amount he expended. Mr. Mason seconded the amendment which was carried.

THE COURT OF REVISION, to which the application of the Peterborough Carbon & Porcelain Company was referred, reported that as it appeared it was understood by the company and by the council that the exemption from taxation granted to the Powell & Jones Stove Company, which had occupied the same premises, would apply to this company and this understanding was carried out until last year, when it was found that, technically, the Powell & Jones bylaw did not apply to the present company, and they were assessed, and as the term of exemption in the bylaw referring to the Powell & Jones Company did not expire until the end of last year, the court recommend that the taxes of the Peterborough Carbon & Porcelain Company for the year 1894 be remitted.

Mr. Stone, chairman, seconded by Mr. Clinkscale, moved the adoption of the report which was carried.

On a question of privilege, Mr. Stone rose to reply to the charge made at the last meeting of council to the effect that he had shirked his duty in absenting himself from his seat at the special session of the council. Never before, he declard, had such a charge been laid at his door and he denounced what he termed "the slimy tongued slanderer" in scathing terms. Mr. Stone also stated that he understood a charge had been made to the effect that he had been tampered with in regard to his vote in the report of the Committee on Appointments. He wished to characterise this statement as one without any foundation whatever.

Mr. Mills stated that although he had made the charge that Mr. Stone had evidently flanked the vote, he had made his statement when unaware of the circumstances which prevented him attending the council.

Mr. Sproule acknowledged having said some things which might reflect on Mr. Stone in his absence, but hoped no one understood him to insinuate that Mr. Stone had been bribed.

THE DECAPITATION REPORT.

Councillors Sproule and Denne moved the reconsideration of the report of the Committee on Appointments.

The motion carried.

Councillors Stone and Clinkscale moved that the report be considered clause by clause.

In support of his motion Mr. Stone did not think it right to vote to dismiss a whole body of men, when by considering the report piecemeal the councillors could strike directly at those officials who were thought to be incompetent.

The Mayor thought there were no clauses in the report. It had been presented as a whole.

Councillor Sproule agreed with His Worship on this point.

Councillor Dawson challenged Mr. Stone to name the men he was after and to name the grounds upon which he sought their dismissal. It was an unmanly thing to adopt the course Mr. Stone was following. If Mr. Stone intended leaving town to go to the country just before the last meeting he should have told his committee that he could not be with them on the night in question.

Mr. Stone explained that he had only waited until the storm was over to get away and fully expected to be back in time for the meeting.

Mr. Cahill thought that the true and manly way was for Mr. Stone to bring in a motion affecting the men he wished to reach. In this manner no slur would be cast on the other officials.

Councillor Sawers moved that the different offices be considered separately, but the Mayor ruled the motion out of order, as the rules of order only permitted of one motion being made pertaining to a reconsideration of a report.

Councillor Sawers moved the re-appointment of Chief Rossel, but his resolution was also declared out of order as the report had not yet been disposed of.

After a great deal of discussion on the subject in which almost every councillor took part, Messrs. Sproule and Denne moved the adoption of the report of the Committee on Appointments. The motion was lost and when Councillor Sproule called for the yeas and nays on the question the result was as follows :

Yeas—Councillors Sproule, Best, Denne, Phelan and Sawers—5.

Nays—Councillors Cahill, Mills, Dawson, Clinkscale, Stone, Mason and Brady—7.

THE MANUFACTURING COMMITTEE

reported having under consideration proposals with a view of securing the location of several large industries in Peterborough. Nothing definite has been arranged as yet. The committee recommended that they be authorized to send a deputation to interview the companies in question, and that their expenses be paid, such deputation to consist of Councillor Best, the Mayor and the chairman of the committee.

Councillor Cahill, chairman, moved the adoption of the report, which was carried.

A MEMORIAL

was presented by Councillor Sawers, regarding the petitioning of the Legislature to amend the existing act so as to require the payment of taxes by the owners of the property. The memorial was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Cahill

INTRODUCED THE BYLAW

granting a franchise to Messrs. Carnegie and Dennistoun to erect poles and wires on the streets for the transmission of electric power.

When the clause of the bylaw was reached, whereby it was stipulated that if the Company amalgamated with any other company, the poles and wires would be forfeited to the town, Mr. Stone wished to amend the clause in such a manner as to call for a forfeit of $3,000, also, in the event of amalgamation. He made a motion to this effect, but it was lost.

Mr. Cahill explained that the Company had to give bonds for the proper performance of the contract. An amalgamation would be a violation of the contract and the bonds would be forfeited.

Councillor Stone answered : "Very well ; have it your way, but you'll see your mistake one of these days."

The by-law received its several readings and was passed.

Messrs. Mason and Stone moved that the Health Committee be authorized to advertise for tenders for a dumping ground and that Mr. Forster's offer be accepted at the same figures as last year.

Carried.

Mr. McNamara was heard in support of a petition to pass a bylaw enforcing the nine hour a day system in the performance of civic contracts, after which the council adjourned.

FIRE AT CAMERON.

Mr. John Marks Perishes in the Flames Trying to Rescue Others—Mrs Mark's Feet Frozen—Her Physicians Say They Must Amputate One Foot.

Mrs. Marks writes :—"After my great misfortune, our physician was summoned, and after treating my frozen feet for some time, said he must cut one off. Fortunately before so doing we received your letter stating you had prepared and expressed to my address one bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment, also advising me to use it before allowing any portion of my foot to be amputated. Our physician at first objected, but I had confidence in the Liniment and had it used. After the fourth or fifth application all the frozen flesh dropped off, the foot began to show signs of improvement and advanced wonderfully until fully restored. Douglas' Egyptian Liniment has certainly saved me from being horribly crippled for life. I can never repay you for what you have done for me."

I remain very respectfully yours.

OTONABEE LODGE VISITS LINDSAY ODDFELLOWS.

A Train Load of Fifty Oddfellows Visits the Sister Town.

At seven o'clock last evening a special train pulled out of the Grand Trunk station bearing over fifty members of Otonabee Lodge to Lindsay for the double purpose of paying a fraternal visit to the Oddfellows of that town and of conferring degrees.

At Lindsay the Citizen's Band met the train, as did the members of Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Manilla Lodges, who greeted the Peterborough boys most cordially. A procession almost half a mile in length was formed and all proceeded to the headquarters of the Lindsay Oddfellows.

After the lodge

HAD BEEN FORMALLY OPENED

and routine business of the evening was well under way, the Lindsay officers vacated their various chairs for the celebrated degree team of Otonabee Lodge. The initiatory degree was first put on, a Lindsay man entering the order. The first, second and third degrees were then conferred on two members of Bobcaygeon Lodge. Upon the chairs being again vacated Lindsay passed a vote of thanks to Otonabee Lodge, as did Bobcaygeon, for the exemplification of the work.

Mr. Widdiss, Noble Grand of Lindsay Lodge, then called the following members of the order for speeches :—Past Grand McGill, Past Grand Mowry, Noble Grand Tully and Bro. Mowry of Otonabee Lodge ; Bro. John Smith, of Peterborough Lodge ; Bro. Moore, of Bobcaygeon Lodge, and Past Grands Harding, Britton, Lytle and others of Lindsay Lodge.

The lodge was then closed and all repaired to the Simpson House, where, on the

a most sumptuous repast was partaken of. The dining room was most elaborately decorated for the occasion and bunting and the banner of the lodge were displayed in great profusion. The menu was above criticism and the local Oddfellows cannot, it seems, speak too highly of the manner in which they were entertained.

The chair was taken by Bro. Kennedy, of Lindsay Lodge. The first toast of course was that of "The Queen" which was loyally received, after which the health of Otonabee Lodge was proposed, when Noble Grand Widdiss and Past Grands Lytle and Harding spoke in praise of the work of the degree team of Otonabee lodge.

When the toast of "Lindsay Lodge" was proposed, many compliments were bestowed upon the genial members by Noble Grand Tully, Past Grands Mowry and McGill and Brother Rose, of Peterborough, and Bro. Moore, of Bobcaygeon.

The toast of "the ladies" brought Bro. John Smith, of Peterborough Lodge, to his feet, as well as Jr. Past Grand Alex. Rutherford, of Otonabee Lodge.

During the evening, songs were sung by Messrs. Gray, W. J. Squires and J. J. Turner, while Mr. Frank Packenham gave a recitation. Speeches were made by Past Grand W. J. Green, of Otonabee, and Jr. Past Grand W. Davis, of Bobcaygeon, after which the exceedingly pleasant evening was brought to a close and the visiting Oddfellows were escorted to the station by their hosts.

Otonabee Lodge took with it on the trip Mr. Dickson Jewett's trick dog, who, as well as his master, knows a thing or two about Oddfellowship. The dog was fancifully decked out in a white coat with the words "Otonabee Lodge, Peterborough," embroidered upon it in red.

"THE CRUCIFIX."

To the Editor of the Examiner

DEAR SIR.—There has been lately a considerable amount of comment in the daily papers upon Mr. J. Carlon's little volume of poetry, entitled the "Crucifix" —"Songs and Poems."

At the risk of occupying too much of your valuable space, I should like to contribute my measure of qualified criticism to a work in spite of flaws ever pleasant to the hyper-critical mind. Mr. Carlon has, in my opinion, a highly developed imaginative faculty and a most tuneful ear, and a very great power of expressing artistically the most artistic ideas. There is a melodious rythm and swing to his language that must appeal to musical ears. The fact that a majority of his songs have been set to music by De Koven and other well known composers (to which fact attention was drawn in Mr. Murray's able criticism) speaks strongly in favour of this melody and rythm.

The title poem, the "Crucifix," is certainly a remarkable production. The theme is weird, intense and strongly dramatic ; the conception of a marvel crucifix breathing and living has, I believe, no parallel in fiction. It is an entirely original creation of a vivid imagination, and as such deserves the admiration due to originality. I am surprised that this point did not appear in the criticisms that have been already printed. Faults may be found with the treatment of the "crucifix," but the subject itself is beyond criticism. Of the shorter poems and songs, I certainly think that "Idealia," with its conception of ideal beauty never realised upon earth, deserves first mention. The "Guillotine," is a good instance of terse, dramatic expression. The "Sleeping City," "I promise thee," "Love's Dream," "At the Ball," "A Lover's Prayer," "Desolation," and "The Minuet" are all dainty specimens of word painting, and the last of the collection, "The Little Flower Girl" (an incident of New York Life) is surpassingly pathetic and touching. I regret that I cannot speak so highly of a "Photograph" and an "Adieu" from a dramatic standpoint. "An Adieu" is one of the strongest if not the strongest of the collection. "A Photograph" is very delicate and artistically finished. But there is an element of suggestiveness almost amounting to immorality in the theme of both poems which the most skillful treatment cannot hide.

I do not agree with H.B. in his inapt quotation on "subjects mean and low." There is nothing "mean or low" in either poem. But gilded vice is seen "as in a glass darkly." It is ever a grave question whether the artistic treatment of an objectionable subject atones for that subject.

Yours truly,
J. P. H.

SALT RHEUM CURED.

A Lady Who Has Suffered Much Tells How She Found a Cure.

Among the numerous ills that afflict mankind there is none more annoying or more difficult to eradicate from the system than salt rheum. Those who suffer from it really endure tortures and frequently present the appearance of a mass of sores about the head and hands. Mrs. John Mosher, of Mosher's Corners, N.S., suffered for two years in this way and almost despaired of getting rid of the trouble. She says that for over a year she was under the care of a physician, but beyond lotions that somewhat allayed the irritation, found no relief. The trouble affected her in the head, which would, at times, be covered with little sores, the appearance of which not only caused intense annoyance, but great discomfort as well, as the irritation was sometimes almost unbearable. Finding that the treatment she was receiving from her physician was not having any beneficial effects she determined to discontinue it and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. By the time two boxes were used there was a great improvement in her condition. The irritation was allayed, and the sores began to heal and disappear. She continued the use of Pink Pills until she had used two more boxes, when the trouble had completely disappeared, and although months have now elapsed since she discontinued the use of Pink Pills, there has not been the faintest trace of a return of the trouble. Mrs. Mosher is naturally very much elated over the great benefit she has derived from the use of Pink Pills, and is loud in her praises of this greatest of all modern medicines.

The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time, and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy from a dealer who, for the sake of the extra profit to himself may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail.

DE CASTELLANE—GOULD.

The Ceremony Performed by Archbishop Corrigan at Noon To-Day.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The marriage of Count de Castellane to Miss Anna Gould took place at the residence of George J. Gould, Fifth avenue and 67th street, at 12 o'clock to-day. Archbishop Corrigan, assisted by two priests from the cathedral, officiated. There was no civil ceremony. The relatives of both parties and intimate friends of the bride's family were present, less than 100 people in all. The invitations were limited to that number, as no more could comfortably be accommodated in the house.

The presents are said to be the most valuable ever given to a bride in this country. After the ceremony had been performed and the breakfast disposed of the presents were displayed in the library. It is said that the couple will go to Lakewood to remain until Wednesday, when they will sail for France. A feature of the proceedings was a feast provided for 1,000 poor children at the hour the ceremony took place.

Windsor Loses a Prominent Citizen.

WINDSOR, March 4.—In the death of George B. Scott, Windsor loses one of its most esteemed citizens. Mr. Scott was 78 years old and has been ill for the last two years. He came to Canada in 1839, became attached to the Ordnance Department of the British service, being stationed at different times at Quebec, Kingston and London. In the year 1847 he was ordered to the West Indian service but resigned. He entered the Bank of Montreal and later became manager of Gore Bank in London. After the amalgamation of the former with the [illegible] he was connected with the auditing department of the Michigan Central in Detroit. Mr. Scott leaves a widow and four sons.

Co-operation Instead of Competition.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The National Council of Women held its last day's session behind closed doors. The council urges that co-operation, instead of competition, should be adopted as the standard to which industrial relations should be brought, that all disputes between capital and labor be referred to tribunals of conciliation and arbitration, and that the whole strength of public opinion be brought to bear to compel such reference and the acceptance of the decision.

Progress of the Ging Murder Trial.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 4.—The testimony of Jenks closed the State's case and the defence introduced Ben Rendell in rebuttal. He testified that in the county jail Adry told him Harry had nothing to do with the murder. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Derby were called to impeach Griffin's testimony as to the whereabouts of Adry and Harry on November 30. At the close of this testimony a recess was taken until to-day, the defence reserving the right to call another witness.

Violated the Ten-Hour Law.

The name of the new Company is the Mutual Cheese Factory and Creamery Insurance Company of St. Lawrence county.

Li Hung Chang's Peace Commission.

LONDON, March 4.—There is a general feeling in the Foreign Office that the peace commission headed by Li Hung Chang will be successful. Russia has absolutely vetoed the proposal of Japan to annex Corea and Japan now wants possession of the area between the Yalu and Liao rivers in order to form a buffer state extending to the Russian frontier of Amoor. Russian Manchuria, which now forms part of south-western Siberia, was acquired by Russia from China and Japan in 1858. This move, if successful, would secure to Japan the total withdrawal of Corea from Chinese influence, possession of Port Arthur and command of the Yellow Sea to Pekin. Japan also asks for possession of Formosa. The details of Li Hung Chang's credentials, which will be communicated to the western powers, do not empower him to cede either Manchuria or Formosa to Japan.

Demonstration to King Oscar.

STOCKHOLM, March 4.—There was a furore of enthusiasm on the arrival here of King Oscar from Norway. The majority of the members of the Chamber and a crowd of officers, state officials, courtiers and ladies assembled at the station. The president of the Chamber led the cheering. The streets to the place were packed with people, who gave his majesty an enthusiastic welcome. The demonstration was intended to mark the popular approval of the King's attitude in the matter of the crisis in Norway.

THE LIMEKILN CLUB.

BROTHER GARDNER HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ABOUT "FOOL NIGGERS."

He Bears Down on Shindig Watkins Pretty Hard and Shows Him It Is Not Always Well to Believe What You See—The Arizona Kicker's New Proposition.

When the secretary announced there was no further business on the regular programme, Brother Gardner arose and inquired if Shindig Watkins was in the hall. Shindig was there and was invited to step up to the front. He went up the aisle carrying a rabbit's foot in one hand and a wishbone in the other, and the president looked him all over and observed:

"Brudder Watkins, it has cum to my knowledge that yo' am guided a good deal in yo'r daily life by sartin signs. I am also told dat yo' believe in de hoodoo. Likewise dat yo' claim to hev sawn de speerit of yo'r grandfadder on seberal occashuns. Am I k'rect?"

Brother Watkins was very much embarrassed and neither affirmed nor denied the charge.

"I hev a few words to say to yo' an de odder members on dis subjick o' signs," continued the old man, "an I'se gwine to spoke powerful plain. In dis day and age nobody but fool niggers believe in sich nonsense, an if we hev got any of dat sort in dis club dey can't git out too fast. I'ze knowed a good many men who was guided by signs, an I nebber knowed any good of 'em. I'ze watched 'em purty clus, an I cum to de conclusion:

"Dat seein de moon ober de left shoulder signifies dat yo' orter be ashamed of yo'-self for loafin' around de streets.

"Dat hearin a dog howl at midnight signifies de fact dat de money yo' lost at craps orter bin spent fur meat and taters.

"Dat seein a ring around de moon through a broken pane of glass signifies dat de butcher won't trust yo' no mo' till yo' pay up dem seben dollars.

"Dat seein a star shoot to de norf at 6 minutes arter 2 o'clock in de mawnin signifies dat de landlord am gittin ready to bounce yo' outer de house bekase y'or rent is fo'teen dollars behind.

"Dat puttin yo'r vest on wrong side out when you git up signifies dat if it depended on yo' dar would be nuffin in de house fur breakfas'.

"Dat dreamin of seein a man sittin on yo'r grandmudder's grave at midnight wid his right ear cocked up signifies dat yo' am fool nuff to march in a torchlight perceshun widout gittin $3 in cash in advance.

"Dat seein a crosseyed man when yo' fust step out doahs in de mawnin signifies dat yo' hev tried to borry a dollar of yo'r wife an failed to git it.

"Dar am lots o' odder signs, Brudder Watkins, an de fool nigger who keeps track of 'em hain't got time for nuffin else. What yo' got dar in yo'r right hand? A rabbit's fut, eh? Bin carryin it around to keep de spooks away! Dar it goes outer de alley winder, an if I eber catch yo' wid anodder sunthin will happen to make yo'r heartache! What yo' doin wid dat buckeye?"

"Good fur rheumatism!" whispered Shindig.

"Good fur bosh! Throw it out arter de odder silly nonsense! Now, sah, yo' listen to me! Yo' jest drap all dis fool bizness, an drap it mighty sudden an mighty hard! If yo' hain't dun cured of it befo' de next meetin yo' needn't cum up yere no mo'. An I want all de rest of dis club to took notis to de same effect. When a full grown man, no matter what his color or nashunality, begins to look fur spooks an hearken fur death ticks, de best use dat kin be made of him is to fertilize de sile wid his bones. Go an sot down, Brudder Watkins. Yo' has dun made a fool of yo'self, but if yo' sot about it right an doan' gin up too soon yo' kin get sense nuff in yo' head not to feel of a buzzsaw to see if it am buzzin'."

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

The Editor Proposes to Run Things to Suit Himself.

A QUEER LOT.—Last Saturday big Jim Taylor, the freighter, who has to hold printed matter at the end of his nose to read it, and who couldn't spell out the name "California" in less than five minutes to save his neck, stopped his copy of The Kicker because we didn't have but two accounts of stage robberies that week. On Monday "Dandy Charlie" the gambler, stopped his paper because we refused to publish a column biography of John C. Heenan. Tuesday afternoon that old cayuse familiarly known as Tom Perry wanted us to devote the local page to a history of the pyramids of Egypt, and when we stood him off he got mad and ordered his name off the books. Wednesday morning Judge Green walked in on us and demanded to know whether we were running a sawmill or a newspaper. He had got hold of an account of the Reader family of Kansas, and never having seen it in The Kicker he thought we were beating our subscribers. We offered to compromise by publishing an account of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, but he went away mad and wouldn't be found dead with a copy of our paper in his pocket. We didn't expect to hit everybody's taste when we opened shop here. We purpose to run things after our own policy, and those who don't like it must stand from under. Every week we present a combination of murder, love, elopement, robbery, assassination, religion, politics, poetry, executions, scandals, science and agriculture, and the critter who obstinately insists that there is a vacuum somewhere doesn't know the difference between wolf meat and porterhouse steak.

WILLIAM B. WATTERS.—About two months ago an individual who called himself "Wild Bill" started in business at the Grand Canyon crossing as a road agent. He made a botch of it from the start, and The Kicker came out and said that he hadn't sand enough to pat a mule on the kicking end. The other day we received a letter from William in which he made all sorts of declarations as to what he would do in case he got us under the muzzles of his guns. We have got a picture in our mind's eye. In the foreground Wild William sits on a rock beside the trail patiently waiting our appearance. Afar off we can be seen coming up on our mule on our way to Prescott. As we draw near we are commanded to throw up our hands and dismount, and William sizes us up as good for the price of a curled hair mattress with a red cover. He has just uttered his first cackle of satisfaction when northern Arizona suddenly rises up under his feet and lets him drop with a smash that loosens all his hair at the roots, and when he comes to he has gone out of the road agent business forever. For fear that W.B. may not follow us closely we will drop the feather of rhetoric and pick up the crowbar of fact and assure him of our intention to bring about an early meeting. We ache to see him. We hope he will be loaded for b'ar. If we can't get him on the run inside of two minutes from the time we sight him, we'll quit the territory within a month and never enter it again.

NOT OUR WAY.—We notice that an Ohio editor has declined the nomination of representative to fill a vacancy in the state legislature. Not only that, but he gives it as his opinion that no editor should accept a political office or any sort of favor from a railroad or other corporation. By looking at a map of the United States we perceive that Ohio is bounded on the north by Michigan and Lake Erie, on the east by Pennsylvania, on the south by West Virginia and Kentucky, and on the west by Indiana, but how such an editor as that is bounded we shall not attempt to figure. By working a potato patch on shares during his off days and Sundays, and by making his wife go barefoot through the winter and cut her own corns in the summer, he may manage to keep his head above water in Ohio, but he must not let the western fever get hold of him. He couldn't exist for two weeks out here, even when roots are in season and at their cheapest. Years ago, when our eyebrows were silken and our feet tender, we had a half formed idea that it was the duty of an editor to boost everybody else into public view and remain in the background himself. We even decided that a railroad pass, good from San Francisco to New York, might bias his opinion of roadbeds, locomotives and side tracks. We even began our editorial career by refusing to pay a probate judge a bribe of $50 to get $600 worth of fat advertising. It is needless to remark that we no longer resemble the jack rabbit in appearance, nor do we do business on the Ohio principle. We take everything in the shape of a pass offered us. We miss no occasion to make a public speech. We ache for office and get it—three or four of them. If there is any head to the table at a banquet, we are there. We boost ourself first and the public afterward. If we were offered the place of minister to England to-morrow, we'd take it quicker'n scat. In our opinion there's nothing too good for an editor, and we frankly admit that when we hear of a case like that in Ohio we feel like writing to the onery galoot and asking what excuse he has for being outside of an idiot asylum.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognised in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

A New Crater In the Moon.

In a bulletin of the Astronomical society of the Pacific Professor Weinek, director of the observatory of Prague, who is a specialist in the study of the moon and to whom have been sent copies of the Lick negatives of the moon, has discovered in one of the Lick photographs a crater which is not to be found on Schmidt's map. This object, which is estimated to be about a quarter of a mile in diameter, is of sufficient size to have been seen by Schmidt, and it is difficult to imagine that the distinguished selenographer overlooked it.

Quick Action.

"Centerline sent a story to a magazine the other day and got back a queer reply. They said the story 'lacked rapidity in movement.'"

"Well, where's the queerness of that?"

"You see, he sent the MS. one day and got it back the next, and he considered that pretty rapid movement."—Kate Field's Washington.

American pioneers were God fearing and Bible loving. They staked out town lots in 23 Bethels, 10 Jordans, 9 Jerichos, 14 Bethlehems, 22 Goshens, 21 Shilohs, 11 Carmels, 18 Tabors and Mount Tabors, 22 Zions and Mount Zions, 26 Edens, 30 Lebanons, 26 Hebrews and 36 Sharons.

A Liverpool policeman, who, as he thought, swallowed a sixpence 18 years ago, recently had a severe pain in his throat. A fit of coughing came on, and the long lost coin, half of its original thickness, was released from his throat.

There is an unknown quantity of silver in the bay of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil—a silver mine, in fact, of, comparatively speaking, unlimited dimensions, and every ship that drops anchor there cuts into the bed of ore.—Exchange.

At Redditch, England, 20,000 people make more than 100,000,000 needles a year, and they are made and exported so cheaply that England has no rival and practically monopolises the trade.

Candidates Selected to Contest the Coming Dominion Elections.

LONDON, March 5.—At the Liberal convention here last night Mr. C. S. Hyman was nominated to contest the city at the next Dominion elections.

WELLAND, March 5.—Mr. William McCleary, of Thorold, was yesterday chosen by the Conservatives of Welland county as their candidate in the approaching Dominion elections. Although the day was stormy and roads bad a number of electors turned out. A resolution of condolence was passed to the widow of the late Sir John Thompson.

BROCKVILLE, March 5.—J. Lackie Wilson, the Patron organizer, addressed a large meeting in Lansdowne, South Leeds, on Saturday. This is George Taylor's constituency, and he will be opposed by a farmer, H. Horton, in the Patron interest. If the Liberals place no candidate in the field a lively fight is promised the Government whip.

WINCHESTER SPRINGS, March 5.—The Conservative convention yesterday was largely attended. There were twelve nominated but all withdrew but Andrew Broder, Frank Tyrrell, H. H. Ross and Edwards. There will be another meeting on the 18th instant to appoint delegates for each section. Those delegates will canvass their section and then meet on the 16th instant to decide who will be the man.

AYLMER, Ont., March 5.—The Liberals of East Elgin held their convention here for the selection of a candidate for the House of Commons. The attendance of delegates was very representative, over 120 being present in spite of the heavy storm prevailing all day. Dr. Wilson was declared the choice of the convention on the first ballot and his nomination then made unanimous.

SUNDERLAND, Ont., March 5.—A meeting of Conservatives was held in the town hall here yesterday. The meeting was addressed by the chairman, Dr. Gillespie, of Cannington, followed by Mr. Frank Madill, M.P. Short addresses were also delivered by Major Sam Hughes, M.P., of Lindsay, and Mr. St. John, M.P.P., of Toronto, who is well known here, this being his native township. The speakers of the day then followed. Hon. J. F. Wood addressed the audience at length on the policy of the Government in regard to the tariff, etc. N. Clarke Wallace was the last to address the crowd, dealing more especially with the administration of the customs department.

China Wishes to Gain Time.

BERLIN, March 5.—Men here who know the situation in Eastern Asia in regard to the negotiations between Japan and China believe more strongly than ever that China wishes to gain time to come to an understanding with Russia. NEW YORK, March 5.—Leo Lederer, a printer, was arrested yesterday upon a warrant charging him with forging the labels of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America. Looking After the Insurance.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 5.—Frank Ernest Cutting, of Buffalo, registered at the Windsor House, Niagara Falls, Ont., as Frank Ernest on January 3, 1897. He had his dinner, sat around the hotel during the afternoon and toward evening walked out on the Suspension bridge and deliberately jumped into the river. The suicide was a member of the A. O. U. W., and was insured for $2,000 but according to the rules of that organization the insurance money could not be paid for seven years unless the body was identified as proof of death. Cutting's body was never found, and on Wednesday W. W. Woodworth, a Buffalo attorney, and Samuel Newman, who had employed Cutting as a bookkeeper, were over the river taking affidavits of those who remembered the man and the circumstances of his death, in order to recover the insurance. Deceased was unmarried, and the money, if recovered, will be paid to a sister.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 5, 1895.

The receipts of grain on the street market continue very small. Of hay and straw the same is true.

Peas took a jump in price. In Toronto 58c was freely paid and 60c asked by some holders.

Manitoba No. 1 wheat sold for 81 1-2c in transit at Sarnia; wheat, Ontario west, 59c.

Oats, 36 1-2c west; 34 to 35c east.

Barley firm at 50 to 52c outside for No. 1 and 47 to 48c for No. 2.

A firm of Toronto jobbers has issued a circular letter to its customers advising retailers to attend the market personally.

There is a liberal supply of dressed hogs coming in the market. The prices remain stationary.

Cattle closed steady on the East Buffalo market at early prices for the better grades but easy and lower for common. Hogs at the close were dull and lower for all kinds. Late sales were at $4.30. The sheep and lambs market closed steady to firmer for good grades and slow for others. A good many late arrivals held over unsold. Late sales extra 100 lbs lambs, $5.10; fancy export wethers sold at $5.25.

Maltsters are offering 60c for No. 3 extra Canada barley at Buffalo.

The New York stock market is very dull.

March paper has been well met. City payments are ahead of last year, and few extensions have been asked for by country merchants. It will be a couple of days before the result of settlements will be definitely known, but payments indicate an improvement throughout the province.

At the HEAD to Stay!

Words are weak in attempting to describe our range in everything that goes to make up the smartest HAT STOCK to be found. We aim to get every first-class idea for the "top" extreme, and we are sure to please, as we we are always—"AT THE HEAD TO STAY."

WIVES, SISTERS, MOTHERS, do you like that Hat your Husband, Brother or Son wears? Send him to a Hat Store where they fit Hats to THE STYLE OF THE MAN. What looks well on some folks may not look well on him, We have a happy knack for head dressing. Don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece—look like prosperity. We have the pick of the styles from such famous English makers as Stanley & Co, Jackson & Co and Wilkinson & Co; and we have the celebrated American EAGLE brand of Fur Hats, union made. The prices won't scare you, either. If you buy your Hats at GOUGH'S you'll soon find out that you save just 20 per cent.

At the FOOT to Lead!

People who wear our Shoes say they enjoy as much solid comfort as the old-timers who wore sandals. But ours are handsome as well as comfortable. We sell easy fitting, durable Shoes, with all the style put on to them that such artistic makers as Slater & Son, of Montreal, can invent. We have all intermediate makes, as well as the cheaper grades from Lower Canada, where they don't pay much for making—sometimes nothing at all.

LADIES are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.00 and $4.00 we mark at $2.00 and $3.00. Cheaper lines run from 75c to $1.50.

It's the same way with Misses, Boys and Children's Boots and Shoes—the goods and prices will do the talking bette han anything we can say.

PEACE PROSPECTS GOOD

Li Hung Chang Has Full Power Now.

ALL HIS ENEMIES DISPERSED

The Peace Commissioner Will Proceed Direct to Japan—The Previous Failures Due to Backward Policy—A General Beheaded by His Soldiers.

LONDON, March 6.—Li Hung Chang has sailed for Japan. He is now in supreme favor. The prospects for peace are regarded as very good. Li Hung Chang has full power, and is the bearer of an imperial despatch to that effect. All of his rivals have been dispersed and if his mission is successful many reforms will be instituted. Wung Tung Ho, the Emperor's tutor, who has all along been the most powerful foe to progress, is now out of favor at the palace.

LI HUNG CHANG.

The Times Pekin correspondent says:—Japan is now making trouble regarding the mode of travelling of Li Hung Chang. The latest despatches say the peace commissioner will proceed direct by steamer from Tien-Tsin to Simonoseki, where the Japanese authorities will require him to embark on another vessel for Hiroshima. Hon. John Foster, counsel to the Peace Commission, will join him there.

The Gazette will publish no more edicts referring to the war. The Privy Council heartily support Li Hung Chang's mission. Prince Kung has silenced all opposition by presenting papers showing that the previous failure was due to the backward policy, for which the council themselves were blameable.

A Tien-Tsin despatch says the disturbances in various parts of the country are increasing. A general in the Province of Shan-Tun who attempted to prevent pillage was beheaded by his soldiers. Similar troubles are reported from Honan. It is almost certain that the Japanese have captured Liao Yang. The Japanese authorities have declared positively that they do not intend to blockade the Gulf of Pechili. Seventeen rice-laden steamers left Shanghai bound for Tien-Tsin to-day.

Sentenced to One Year.

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., March 6.—W. A. Spengler and B. F. Junkin, proprietors of the defunct Perry County bank, who were convicted of embezzlement in November last, were sentenced to one year's imprisonment each in the Eastern penitentiary. The bank of which Spengler was the president, closed its doors on March 24, 1894, and an assignment made. When assignees took charge they found the assets to be $297 in cash and notes aggregating less than $6,000, with liabilities of about $120,000. The books showed the bank to have been insolvent since 1876. The case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The Naval Gathering at Kiel.

LONDON, March 6.—The Chronicle's Paris correspondent says that according to opinions freely expressed in diplomatic circles the naval gathering at Kiel may lead to unheard-of results. The proceedings are involved in a manner to imply that the autonomy of Alsace-Lorraine is on the tapis. Both Count von Munster, German ambassador to France, and M. Herbette, French ambassador to Germany, have sketched such a possibility.

Bank of B. N. A. Dividend.

LONDON, March 6.—The Bank of British North America has declared a dividend of 4 1-2 per cent. for the year, as compared with 7 1-2 per cent. last year. Mr. Whatman, the chairman, deplored what he described as the "business paralysis" in Canada. He denied that the smaller dividend was due to losses incurred in Newfoundland.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.

Mr. Charlton in North Bruce—A Representative of the Cheese Industry.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 6.—A large and enthusiastic Liberal meeting was held in the town hall here last night. Mr. C. M. Bowman, president of the North Bruce Liberal Association, presided, and, after stating the object of the meeting, dwelt briefly upon the issues of the day. The first speaker was Mr. A. D. McConnell, who briefly alluded to Mr. Charlton's public services and expressed great pleasure at seeing him in Southampton. Dr. H. A. Bonner, the Liberal candidate for North Bruce, was then introduced by the chairman and received a hearty reception. He dwelt upon the importance of the issues now about to be referred to the electorate of Canada for consideration and decision. Although it was not certain that a decision had been reached by the Government it was highly probable that a general election was near at hand. He denounced the course pursued by the Minister of Fisheries with the fishermen on the shore of Lake Huron. It was senseless to have the Canadian regulations so much more stringent than those upon the American side, as it placed our fishermen at a disadvantage and made the Canadian side a hatchery for the benefit largely of American fishermen.

The chairman invited any person in the audience to ask any question he desired about public matters.

Rev. A. Tolmie desired to know what, in Mr. Charlton's opinion, was the proper course to pursue upon the Manitoba school question.

Mr. Charlton replied that the Liberal party believed in provincial rights and the management by provinces of their own internal affairs. He feared that any attempt to interfere with Manitoba in the control of her own educational institutions by Dominion legislation would be a course fraught with peril to the Dominion, and he believed Manitoba will do justice and was the best judge of her own circumstances and needs.

Mr. M. S. MacAulay then desired to know whether the fishermen might with good reason look to the Liberal party for fair treatment and sensible fishery regulations.

Mr. Charlton answered that they unquestionably might and that, speaking for himself, he was unable to see the propriety of having the regulations upon the Canadian side of the rivers and lakes more stringent and oppressive than those upon the American side were.

In answer to Rev. Mr. Tolmie, Mr. Tolmie stated that one of the planks in their platform, provided for the reference of the question to the people by a Dominion plebiscite and upon the decision thus obtained the Liberal party would act.

Will Represent the Cheese Industry.

MILVERTON, March 6.—At a convention of North Perth Conservatives here yesterday Alex. F. McLaren was unanimously nominated for the House of Commons in the Conservative interest. The candidate was a chief judge on cheese at the Columbian exhibition at Chicago and has attained unexcelled prominence as a cheese expert. His presence in the House would prove valuable to the cheese industry. He is an unusually popular man and such a one as all parties could conscientiously count upon. There is at present in the House of Commons no representative of the cheese industry and Mr. McLaren's advice in Parliament upon matters connected with that important industry would be of great value to the country.

East Durham Reformers.

MILLBROOK, March 6.—East Durham Reform Association met here to select a candidate to contest the riding in the forthcoming Dominion election. John A. Barron, Q.C., ex-M.P., of Lindsay, was present on behalf of the Ontario Liberal Association to urge that a man be placed in the field if there was the slightest chance of electing him. Several nominations were made, but each candidate thought it would be better to await the result of the Patron convention, which is to be held here next week. A motion to that effect was carried by a narrow majority.

East Peterborough.

NORWOOD, March 6.—A mass meeting of the Conservatives was held in the town hall yesterday afternoon and was well attended. John Burnham, M.P., was unanimously chosen as the candidate and accepted in a short speech. The Hon. J. C. Patterson was present and delivered a speech which was necessarily short, as the Peterborough party had to leave on the 4 o'clock train. The fight in East Peterborough is thus between Mr. Burnham for the Conservatives and John Lang, ex-M.P., for the Reformers. Mr. Lang met and defeated Mr. Burnham eight years ago, but was not a candidate at the last election.

South Wellington Conservatives.

GUELPH, March 6.—The Liberal-Conservatives of South Wellington have selected a candidate for the House of Commons in the person of Christian Kloepfer. A public meeting will be held in the new opera house, when addresses will be made by Hon. Mr. Haggart, Dr. Montague, Hon. Clarke Wallace and Hon. J. F. Wood. Seats have been reserved for ladies. Mr. C. Kloepfer carries on an extensive carriage hardware business, was an alderman for several years and is very popular.

MANITOBA SCHOOL CASE

Mr. McCarthy Makes a Strong Case for the Manitoba Government.

THE ARGUMENT CONTINUED

He Claims That Mr. Ewart Does Not Represent the Majority of the Catholics—The Case Opened From a Historical Standpoint—A Bogus Bill.

OTTAWA, March 6.—When argument was resumed yesterday morning on the Manitoba school question, there was not as large an attendance of the Ministers as on the previous day.

Mr. McCarthy, in opening for the Manitoba Government, said he did not appear on behalf of the Manitoba Government, recognising this tribunal sitting in a judicial capacity. The judgment of the Privy Council gave them power to pass a remedial order and that order being made and disobeyed, the Parliament of Canada would have the power to decide whether it should be enforced or not. He did not recognize them as anything more than advisers of his Excellency the Governor-General. He also wished to point out that Mr. Ewart did not represent the Catholics of Manitoba in any concrete or proper form, there having been nothing done to obtain the views of the Catholics though he did not object to his appearing and arguing the case. He thought he could prove to them, however, before he was through, that Mr. Ewart did not represent the majority of the Catholics.

Mr. McCarthy then followed Mr. Ewart's example in opening his case from a historical standpoint, covering the ground, however, in a far more complete manner. Mr. Ewart had referred them to an agreement on the part of the Red River inhabitants previous to the passage of the Manitoba act. In his opinion this honorable body had nothing to do with what was passed previous to the act. The only agreement based on bills of rights, he claimed, made no reference to Separate schools. They had first heard of the fourth bill of rights, on which Mr. Ewart based so much, in a letter published in the Winnipeg Free Press in 1890 by Archbishop Tache. In this letter it was claimed that the bill of rights passed by the Council of Assiniboia and the bill of rights afterwards taken to Ottawa were not the same, but were in some manner changed.

This was denied by a Mr. Taylor.

Mr. McCarthy then traced the history of early legislation in Assiniboia.

There is considerable talk in political circles here over the fact that Hon. J. C. Patterson, Hon. N. Clarke Wallace and Hon. John F. Wood are absent from the capital during this argument.

THE VANDERBILT DIVORCE CASE.

An Absolute Decree Granted in Favor of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Judge Barrett, of the Supreme Court, has granted a decree of absolute divorce in favor of Mrs. Alva E. Vanderbilt from her husband, William K. Vanderbilt, the well-known millionaire. No facts can be ascertained as to the parties who are implicated with Mr. Vanderbilt. The only paper the public can examin is the decree of divorce. The parties were married on April 20, 1875. The decree provides that it is lawful for Mrs. Vanderbilt to marry again, but declares that it will not be lawful for Mr. Vanderbilt to again wed. Mr. Vanderbilt is to be allowed to visit the children at all proper times.

Could Not Understand It.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—"The telegram from Chicago," says Dr. Rooker, secretary of Mgr. Satolli at the Papal Legation, "explains something which we received through the mail. It was so blind to those of us here who are not acquainted with the condition of affairs to which it referred that we could not understand it. It was headed 'The Irish Cause' and began with a statement that Mgr. Satolli's presence was needed in Chicago more than anywhere else just now. An organization of murderous character containing a number of priests in its membership with a record of one murder already committed and threatening to add to that number was said to be in existence and the inference to be drawn therefrom I suppose, was that Mgr. Satolli should go out there and undertake the organization or control it in the interest of peace and good order. But the Monsignor is not accredited to 'The Irish Cause' in this country whatever that may be, and until something more definite and personal is received from these people it is not likely that any attention will be given to them by him."

A Rate War Threatened.

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—A railroad rate war is threatened between the Reading on one side and the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central on the other, the former claiming that it is not getting its share of the through coal rate from the mines to this city. The Reading threatens to stop receiving coal from the other roads and shut them out of the coal market in this city. If the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central decide not to yield to the demand made upon them, and the Reading threat is carried into effect, the former will doubtless retaliate. One method of retaliation that might be adopted is the refusal of the Jersey Central to allow the Reading to continue to use the terminal of the former in Jersey City. This would be a serious blow to the Reading and might be followed up by cutting of coal prices at all points at which the three companies come into competition.

TWO PICTURES.

The New York Herald envies poor ruined suffering England. According to Sir Charles Tupper the unhappy mother is in this condition. "Driven from the civilized markets of the world, steadily and every year finding their output to those markets decreasing, they spend millions on their navy, and millions on their army, to force their wares and their goods, and their merchandise into the uncivilized markets of the world, which they are endeavouring to occupy, to settle and to control, driven there by the deadly effect upon them of the tremendous competition coming from the protectionist nations in the rest of the world." Alas, poor Albion! With all thy faults we love thee well enough to wish thee out of thy dreadful plight. It seems almost incredible that any other nation should covet such a position as the Canadian political limner has sketched. But according to the New York Herald there is another side to the shield. Hear it speak. "Old England, by means of her free trade policy, is now enabled to import annually 1,.00,000,000 pounds of cotton (mostly from the United States), out of which she manufactures yarns and piece goods of the value of $600,000,000. Of this total production of cotton goods she exports and sells annually in foreign markets an amount valued at about $325,000,000. Nothing but our "protective" tariffs prevented the United States from reaping the vast profits which our free trade rival reaps from the manufacture of American cotton. Of course we can never hope to do this while our "protective" system is retained. The very means we have adopted to shut out foreign manufacturers from our markets have necessarily shut us out of the markets of the world. We can never sell freely to other countries from whom we refuse to buy freely." How is this for a "National Policy?"—Ottawa Free Press.

WHAT with W. W. Buchanan in the field in South Oxford and "Joe" Seagram in North Waterloo, prohibition sentiment, says the Hamilton Herald, is making giant strides in Ontario.

THE fact that Hon. J. C. Patterson at Norwood yesterday did not announce his intention of calling out the militia to secure the success of the Conservative candidate, shows that he does not understand the situation. He evidently thinks there is a chance of carrying the election with "bullots" and that there is no necessity of employing "bullets." But he will find his mistake. The government policy is condemmed and will be condemmed.

HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The grand concert given in Drain's Hall last Friday by Misses Smith and McCabe, was a great success. The hall was well filled, and an excellent programme was presented, which was carried out to perfection. The Japanese fan drill was beautifully executed, and much praise is due to Miss Mamie Carey, who led the drill. Mr. Dan Simons' dancing was much appreciated by the audience. Johnnie Connors also delighted the audience by his clever tumbling. Miss McCabe, of Peterborough, rendered some excellent recitations with grand effect. Mr. Jos. A. Smith sang many of his comic songs which kept the audience convulsed with laughter. Below is the programme:

The Foresters' fifteenth anniversary Thursday evening was a grand success, over one hundred and fifty people being present. Owing to the excursion to Toronto and some of the performers suffering from severe colds, the programme suffered to a certain extent. The Foresters feel deeply indebted to all who took part and contributed to the evening's entertainment, and more particularly to the Peterborough brethren who came out and took part, Messrs. Nesbitt, Jameson and Rundle, Messrs. Jameson and Rundle delivering capital addresses on the aims and objects of Forestry, which were dealt with in such a manner as to be convincing that the Canadian Order of Foresters was the best beneficiary society to which any one could belong. When the programme was rendered, the company sat down to a splendid supper served in the fire hall, the caterers being Messrs. Baptie and Bowen, after which games were indulged in by the younger portion of the company. Court Lakefield has now eighty-nine members with several applications, and from all appearances the membership will reach one hundred before the first of June. Any member of the order will be glad to receive an application from anyone thinking of joining.

DOURO.

On Friday evening of last week a merry gathering was assembled at the residence of Mr. W. Abbott, Douro, the occasion for the gathering being a presentation, and to spend a pleasant evening with one who would soon be leaving to make a new home in another part of Canada. A pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent by all present, the evening being taken up with a good programme of vocal and instrumental music, club swinging, etc. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Abbott, who are about leaving for British Columbia, were made the recipients of the following address, accompanied by a handsome family Bible, album and ink stand:

E. J. Abbott, Esq.:

DEAR SIR.—The patrons of Pine Grove Cheese Factory desire, on the occasion of your departure from this community, to express their deep regret at parting with an upright, reliable and progressive citizen whom we have all learned to love and esteem.

As our salesman and secretary for the past eight years we can bear testimony to the fidelity and ability which have characterised your discharge of the important duties which have devolved upon you. You have meted out even-handed justice to all, and while you have faithfully guarded the special interests coming under your official charge, you have done so with a broad-minded regard for those of the public dealing with the factory. We wish to assure you that we highly appreciate your faithful and efficient services, and deeply deplore, for our part, the circumstances that disturb the close relations we have so greatly enjoyed in the past.

In taken of our high respect and good wishes, we ask Mrs. Abbott's acceptance of this album, and your acceptance of this Bible and ink stand, knowing full well how much its precepts and lofty teachings have been the rule of your life and we hope that we all may at length meet in that better country to which the Sacred Volume points the way. We wish you every worldly prosperity in your new home and trust that both you and your family may enjoy the blessings of health and happiness.

Signed on behalf of the patrons of Pine Grove Cheese Factory.

D. DARLING,
R. G. IRWIN,
B. C. GAGE.

Mr. Abbott made a suitable reply, assuring them that Mrs. Abbott and himself were very thankful for the kind regard shown them by presenting so valuable and handsome tokens. It was somewhat of a surprise to him, as he had not expected anything of the kind. He had always tried to faithfully perform his duty, and the fear that he was not always perhaps doing it to their satisfaction had caused him many a pang, but now he felt glad that his services among them had been appreciated. He felt thankful that his dealings with them for the past eight years had been so pleasant, and he thought he was correct in saying that he had not had a word of disagreement or hard feeling with any of them. When far away, and looking on those presents, his mind would be carried back to the home of his childhood, and their kindly feelings towards him. His prayer was that they might be blessed with happiness and prosperity, and that Pine Grove cheese factory may ever be a success.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

KEENE.

The Keene E. L. of C. E. lately spent a very profitable evening with the Wesleys; singing their soul-stirring hymns and listening to the story of their early life and consecration to God.

After the opening exercises conducted by Mrs. Harrison and the reading together of 2nd Cor.—5, in which we were led by David Edwards, Miss S. Campbell and Miss B. Howson read excellent essays on "The Wesleys" giving a sketch of their "Home Life," "College Life" and the influence of a thorough Christian on his companions, also some interesting items relating to the writing of different hymns.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Howard, then gave a short address, dealing more particularly with the growth and spiritual prosperity of the Methodist church since that day, about 160 years ago, "when a few people met together for praise and prayer."

The prayer meeting, led by Miss Kirby, was a helpful season, and the earnest prayers from hearts sincere ascended to the throne of God. It being our regular consecration service, we first responded in committees, and with, but few exceptions, the responses were quotations from some of Wesley's hymns and all were admirably suited to the needs of the different committees. For instance, the Prayer Meeting Committee chose this verse—

"Make us of one heart and mind,
Courteous, pitying and kind,
Lowly, meek in thought and word,
Altogether like our Lord."

When the roll was called there were responses from every member, some telling of their trust in Christ—

"Other refuge have I none."

Others told of the all-sufficient grace in these words—

"Plenteous grace with Thee is found," and in the words of Wesley all prayed for

"A humble, lowly, contrite heart, Believing, true, and clean," and desired also to have

"A heart in every thought renewed,
And full of love divine,
Perfect and right and pure and good,
A copy, Lord, of Thine."

After singing another hymn, one of the best meetings we ever held closed with the Mispah benediction.

At the last business meeting the following officers were elected in the junior society:

President—John Hewle.
Vice-President - Mabel Harrison.
Recording and Corresponding Secretary—Percy Campbell.
Treasurer—Jennie McGregor.
Convenors of Committees—Prayer meeting, Mabel; Look-out, Maud Braden; Sunshine, Ida Ashburn; Birthday, Mollie Shaw.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

If those interested will watch these columns, they will be enabled to keep themselves informed as to the arrangements of the county convention which will be held in town on Easter Monday, April 15th. The committee are at work preparing the programme, and doubtless the convention will be interesting. All societies should keep this convention in mind. Every one should use their influence to make it a success, and at no time forgetting that it is a county convention and not purely a town affair. Next week we will give full information as to billeting, and throughout will endeavour to present to you the different plans proposed by the committee. Now for "Peterborough 95." Let that be our watchword. Do not read this and let it drop at that. Tell your society about it; tell everybody about it, make it the talk of the county. We have done our part, do yours by talking it up and being at the convention.

THE C. E. AND Y.M.C.A.

The local societies and the Y.M.C.A. held a prayer service in the Y.M.C.A. hall on Sunday morning last. This was a prayer service preparatory to the evangelistic services. The Rev. Mr. Moore was present and spoke to those present. This meeting was very impressive and those present felt that it was good to be there.

SMITH.

Council Meeting.

The municipal council of the township of Smith met at the town hall, Bridgenorth, on Monday, 4th March. All the members were present. A bylaw was passed dividing the roads of the township into road divisions, and appointing overseers of highways, pound-keepers and fence-viewers for 1895. The auditors' report was received and adopted, and the clerk was instructed to have 150 copies printed for distribution. The clerk was instructed to notify the trustees of school sections No. 5 and 11 that application has been made to have the south half of lot No. 16 in the 8th concession detatched from S. S. No. 11, and attached to S. S. No. 5, and that said application will be considered at next meeting of council. The following claims were ordered to be paid, namely, Chas. A. Alexander, for goods furnished H. Fraser as charity, $10.30; R. H. Alford, work on road, $2; and W. J. Young, for goods furnished Mrs. Primmint, and for services of Mrs. Pimmit, in caring for Mrs. Godfrey, $28.20. The council adjourned to meet on Monday, the 8th day of April next.

Charles Elliott on Trial.

BRANTFORD, March 6.—The case of Charles Elliott was heard yesterday before Judge Jones. The charge was that of larceny of three law books from the office of Hardy, Wilkes & Hardy on Dec. 7, 1895, and also that of breaking into Hardy, Wilkes & Hardy's office to commit felony on Jan. 11, 1895. Prisoner pleaded not guilty. L. F. Heyd, C. E. Oles and W. J. Elliott appeared for the defendant, A. E. Watts and P. Purves representing the crown. The first charge heard was that of breaking into the office. This occupied the attention of the court until between five and six o'clock when the court adjourned, the judge reserving his decision until after hearing the other charge.

Mrs. Dicks Was Heavily Insured.

TORONTO, March 6.—Something entirely unexpected was brought out at the inquiry into the death of Mrs. Mary Dicks. This was that the dead woman carried $19,000 on her life, distributed among the following companies: Sun, $10,000; Covenant Mutual, $5,000; Home Circle, $3,000; Chosen Friends, $1,000. With the exception of $1,000 it was all taken out during January and February, 1894. Three months ago a further policy of $1,000 was taken out. The policies were all in force at the time of the woman's death, the last premium ($184) having been paid the day prior to her death by the woman herself. All the insurance was to be held in trust for the children. Dicks had his own life insured for $27,000. The inquest will be resumed on March 18.

The O. R. A. Officers.

TORONTO, March 6.—The Ontario Rifle Association at its annual meeting yesterday re-elected Col. John I. Davidson, president; Lieut.-Col. White, Major Mason, Major Sam Hughes, M.P., and Lieut.-Col. Macpherson, vice-presidents. Perhaps the most important question before the meeting was that concerning the rifle ranges, which have just been taken over by the Militia Department. While the ranges have been there for the use of the local corps the Ontario Association has always had control of them. The committee recommended that the association retain control of them, but that the local corps contribute three-fifths of the cost incurred in their maintenance.

An old book quaintly says that "when the whole system is pervaded by well-oxygenated blood, vigorously propelled, life and activity are copiously communicated." Which means that when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, perfect health is the result.

Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat asthma, bronchitis, etc.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

In Asthma and Bronchitis
Norway Pine Syrup gives great relief, rendering breathing easy and natural, and enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep, while a permanent cure often results.

STRICKEN WITH A PARTIAL PARALYSIS

This Was the Case with Miss Minnie Stevens, of London, Ont.

The Parents Had Lost Hope of Her Recovery, But Even After Her Arm, Side and Leg Had Become Powerless South American Nervine Effected a Cure—To-day This Young Lady, Daughter of F. A. Stevens, of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, Enjoys Perfect Health.

MISS MINNIE STEVENS, LONDON, ONT.

Men and women in the exercise of physical or mental power can usually go a certain length, but a step beyond this proves too severe a test. It is the same in the field of medicine. If the case is not a trying one some simple remedy will cure, but it is when a medicine proves effective in an aggravated and extraordinary case that its real power is tested. South American Nervine has made some wonderful cures in cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, debility and nervous prostration, not to name other troubles. When nervousness, however, takes hold of the system to that extent that it becomes paralysed and the limbs lose their natural power, then it is that the patient and her friends may indeed commence to lose heart. Miss Minnie Stevens, a fair daughter of London, Ont., had undergone this trying experience. She had been troubled with nervousness. The trouble grew and after a time assumed such shape that she could not lift or even hold anything in her hand. This member, in fact, was useless to her. The trouble spread down the side and partially into one leg. Her face began to twitch. In truth, all the indications of paralysis creeping over the system were manifest. Do we wonder that her parents lost hope of her recovery? They saw the fatal disease rapidly twining itself around their beautiful child. Surrounded with every comfort and possessing the means as well as the will to do everything that was in their power to provide relief, yet, apparently, this could not be obtained, until influenced by the statements of the wonderful cures effected by South American Nervine in case of nervous prostration, the parents finally decided to try this medicine. After using twelve bottles their daughter became perfectly well, and to-day in the Forest City there is no young girl more healthy than Minnie Stevens, and her father, Mr. F. A. Stevens, of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, is indeed a happy man. The statement cannot be made in too positive and distinct terms that this great discovery is capable of marvelous demonstration in all nervous troubles.

The testimony that comes to the proprietor of Nervine shows that it has absolutely cured in the case of the young, as here cited, and those who have nearly reached, or gone beyond, the three score years and ten have likewise found a cure in this medicine.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When Go I removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's diseases,
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers helped the best,
Against each blunder then the rest,
Only their rented wing farm and small.
Won't produce from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They them were home, but step, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
An I said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid,
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To buy Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma would no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

Acknowledgment.

The Committee of Management of the Peterborough Protestant Home acknowledge with thanks the following donations for the month of February: Bread and butter and cakes, Good Templars; Miss Edith Hamilton, reading matter; Mr. Walsh, druggist, soap; Mr. Mann, bag of apples; Mrs. Chas. McGill, Toronto daily papers; Mr. Sherlock, Chicago papers; bread and butter, etc., Masonic hall; Mr. Shortly, letter case and purse.

Oddfellowship.

There will be a great time to-morrow evening in the Peterborough Lodge. Four or five candidates will be up for initiation, also twelve members of Pontypool Lodge to receive their degrees. There will be a large turnout of the members. Visitors are expected from Havelock, Norwood, Hastings and Millbrook. The visiting members will be met at the 7.50, C. P. R., train, by the Fire Brigade Band and escorted to the hall. As many of the local brethren as can make it convenient, are requested to meet at the station.

The Bell Telephone Company.

The annual meeting of the Bell Telephone Company took place in Montreal Thursday when the usual statements were presented for the year 1894. The gross revenue for the year crossed a million, being $1,012,-536, as against, for 1893, $961,174, an increase of $51,362. The working expenses of 1894 amounted to $739,611, as against, for 1893, $734,791, an increase of $4,820. The net revenue for 1894 was $266,227, as against, in 1893, $226,383, an increase of $46,844. A dividend of 8 per cent. was paid.

A Criticism of the Evangelist.

The EXAMINER has received a letter criticising the theology of Mr. Evangelist Moore. As no name purporting to be that of the writer, accompanies the letter, it, of course, cannot be used. Besides, notwithstanding the disclaimer of the writer, the letter would tend to provoke a newspaper discussion, and the interminable, unconvincing and, almost always, unprofitable character of religious disputations, especially in newspaper columns, is a good reason for declining to print letters likely to arouse such a discussion.

Higher Education.

Statistics show that in the Dominion only one in six of the school population is receiving secondary instruction, while the number of university students bears the proportion in twelve, when compared with the total of those who are engaged in study. The aim of those interested in the subject of education has for some time been directed to the encouragement of higher studies among the people. No more admirably effective institution has yet been originated for this purpose than the "Home University." Its curriculum runs through every department of knowledge, and everyone is invited to join it. The Encyclopedia Britannica is its text-book. Our readers will find the Mail & Empire edition at our office for inspection.

THE SEWER AWARD FAVOURS THE TOWN.

BUT STILL A COSTLY VICTORY

THE SEWER ARBITRATION AWARD IS MADE.

Mr. E. B. Edwards Gone to Millbrook to Receive it this Afternoon.

A special meeting of the town council was hurriedly called last evening, as Mr. E. B. Edwards was in receipt of a telegram from Judge Ketchum stating that he would be prepared to make the award in the sewer arbitration at the Millbrook Division Court to-day.

The council was called together in order that authorization for the issuing of a cheque to cover the amount of the costs might be given the clerk.

In the meantime Mr. Eamison went to Toronto and was successful in arranging to have the time extended for the making of the award.

Mr. Edwards went to Millbrook on the noon train and the award will be delivered to him in the course of the afternoon.

LATER.

The town clerk has received the following communication from E. B. Edwards, town solicitor:

The arbitrator awards that the town of Peterborough is authorized to enter the sewer through the township of North Monaghan, and discharge into the river Otonabee within the limits of said township upon the terms and conditions following: Within five years from date of award the town shall cease to discharge any sewage in its raw and natural state into the river Otonabee within the limits of the township of North Monaghan through the outfall sewer, and from and after such period the town shall adopt such measures as shall be necessary and reasonable to sufficiently and effectually deprive the sewage of its dangerous and obnoxious elements, before discharging the same into the river Otonabee within the limits of the township of North Monaghan. The town of Peterborough to pay its own costs of the arbitration and defence, and the costs of making the award, the stenographer's fees and also the costs of the township of North Monaghan of said reference and arbitration. Such costs to be on High Court scale.

The arbitrator took into consideration evidence offered on behalf of the township of South Monaghan and Otonabee and has based his award on the extreme view that each riparian owner has a right to have the stream maintained in its natural state, absolutely pure from all pollution.

AN ANSWER TO J. P. H. ON THE "CRUCIFIX."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

In last night's issue of your paper J. P. H. closes an otherwise appreciative criticism of my book with some remarks which I cannot let pass without a reply. He states that "there is a suggestiveness, almost amounting to immorality" in the two pieces entitled severally "A Photograph" and "An Adieu." I am really very much amused.

H. B., who has not thought it wise to reply to my last letter, accused me of "dallying with subjects mean and low" His remarks arose from absolute ignorance of the real theme of the piece in question.

J. P. H. goes further, however. Of the latter's identity I know nothing. Is he (or she) perhaps one of the startlingly intelligent people who have lately condemned "Trilby" and "The Mauxman" as books immoral, and unfit to read? I should imagine so. Be that as it may, J. P. H. is entirely wrong in his conception of "An Adieu." I challange any one, even the colossal minds that have lately passed judgment upon poor "Trilby" and "The Manxman" to discover one word in the piece that could be construed as 'suggestive" or "immoral."

To turn to the second piece under condemnation, "A Photograph," there may be a few people, J. P. H. among them, who will take exception to the theme under treatment. Let them be quite sure that they grasp the real nature of the theme! To attempt criticism, when in blissful ignorance of the subject, is a mild form of idiocy.

J. P. H. asks "whether the artistic treatment of an objectionable subject atones for that subject?" That is a question which will be discussed, perhaps, till the end of time. In my opinion it does, nor am I alone in that opinion. At all events, the portrayal, in any form of art, of an objectionable subject does not by any means constitute immorality, fools and Pharisees to the contrary notwithstanding.

Yours truly,
J. CARLON.

EAST PETERBOROUGH CONSERVATIVES.

At a well attended convention of the Conservatives of East Peterborough, held in the town hall, Norwood, on Tuesday, Mr. John Burnham was again selected as the standard bearer of the party to contest the riding at the coming Dominion elections. It is understood that Mr. Burnham only accepted the candidature after considerable personal persuasion had been employed. Mr. Burnham is, perhaps, the strongest local man that could be put up in the interest of the Government in the East Riding. Personally, the EXAMINER can speak most approvingly of the Conservative candidate, but his party adherence and his support of a Government that is utterly unworthy of support, place him outside the pale of the political favour, not only of the EXAMINER, but also, we believe, of the majority of the electors of East Peterborough. The fight in East Peterborough is now on in earnest—both candidates in the field and it is not difficult to foresee the result. Mr. Lang, the Liberal candidate, accepts the candidature and its responsibility in active earnest, and with excellent prospects of redeeming the riding. He defeated Mr. Burnham in the general elections of 1887, and in 1891 the Conservative candidate was only elected by the slender majority of twenty eight. When it is remembered that there are thirty-eight polling sub-divisions in the riding, it will be seen that a change of one vote in each sub-division would have reversed the result. The government, of which Mr. Burnham is the candidate and whose policy he still endorses, is certainly not so high in popular favour as eight years ago. They have far more sins to answer for and the scheme in which so much confidence has been placed—the Trent Valley Canal—has lost its power to charm. Mr. Lang is a candidate with his heart in the contest. He is opposed by a gentlemen who, in spite of his personal qualities, is an unwilling candidate, who, in accepting the candidature, has sacrificed his personal inclinations in the interest of his party. In view of the situation in all its aspects, with united and earnest work which is sure to follow, the Liberals of East Peterborough have a winning chance for the success of their candidate, Mr. John Lang.

THE EVANGELISTS.

The Good Work Continues and the Interest Increasing.

The evangelistic service was well attended in St. Paul's last evening. It was opened with a service of song lasting twenty minutes, after which Mr. White sang several solos with his usual effectiveness.

Rev. Mr. Moore spoke to some length on the subject of revivals, delivering his discourse under three heads, viz:

The effectiveness of revivals.
The necessity for revivals.
The mode of securing revivals.

His presentation of the subject was very able and clear, and at the close of the sermon a great many expressed a desire for the extension of the work and their willingness to assist in carrying the burden of the services.

A service was held this afternoon in the Murray street Baptist church at three o'clock, and another will be held at 8 this evening in St. Paul's.

Yesterday afternoon the service in the Charlotte street church was most excellent, Mr. Moore giving a Bible reading, and Mr. Whyte singing.

The meetings appear to be growing in attendance, while the interest manifested is also on the increase. To-morrow afternoon the evangelists conduct a service in St. Andrew's church at 3 o'clock.

POLICE COURT.

March 6th.

At this morning's session of the police court, there was a large attendance of spectators. The first case called was the hearing of a charge preferred by Mr. Councillor Sproule against Mr. John McNaughton, of using grossly insulting and abusive language at the council meeting on Monday night. The charge was admitted and the complainant not wishing to exact all penalty, the case was dismissed on payment of costs by defendant.

The next case was a very amusing one. The police yesterday arrested an Italian named Frank Roma for raising a disturbance on Hunter street, and when the case was called it was found that he was not the right man, and another Italian. Wm. Christopher was placed in the prisoner's box. The first witness was called and he stated that this was not the man either. He was discharged and the witness not being able to pick out the man from the colony of Italians present, the case had to fall through.

"E" Company, Capt. Millar, it will be seen will hold the cup for 1895.

The committees for 1895 will be composed as follows:

Regimental Committee—Lt.-Col. Bell, Major Edwards and Capt. and Adjutant Mason.

Band Committee—Major Langford, Capt. Miller and Capt. Lech.

Rifle Committee—Lt.-Col. Bell, the captain's of the respective companies, with one member from each company, to be chosen by the non-commissioned officers.

Mess Committee—Surgeon Halliday, Major Langford, Capt. and Adjt. Mason, and Lt. Hayes.

Adjutant Mason brought up the project of the formation of a military club for discussion and the idea found great favour in the eyes of the officers, as likely to promote a feeling of esprit du corps, so necessary to a battalion. The club would be formed of the officers of the cavalry, artillery and infantry, and also of any ex-officers of the militia who chose to join.

The headquarters of the cavalry will now be located in Peterborough as Colonel H. C. Rogers has just been appointed commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Dragoons, Vice Col. Bolton, retired. This will, of course, be another factor in making the club a success. The headquarters of the club would naturally be in the officers quarters at the drill shed.

The matter was turned over to the members of the Mess Committee to bring in a full report on the project at the next meeting of the officers.

The

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

was submitted as follows :

The number of pupils enrolled in January (Kindergarten not included) was 1,320, with an average attendance of 1,188, or 90 per cent. This is the highest general average ever reached by the schools. In January, 1893, the total enrollment was 1,267, average 926, or 73.2 per cent.; in January, 1893, 1,368, average 1,140, or 83.5 per cent.; in January, 1894, 1,341, average 1,123, or 83.2 per cent.; and in January, 1895, 1,410, average 1,257, or 89.1 per cent.

Last month the total enrollment (Kindergarten included) was 1,433, average 1,202, or 84 per cent. The drop of 5 per cent. in the average attendance in a month, has been due chiefly to illness in the North and West Wards and to the fierce storms of the month. Not including the Kindergarten, the Central enrolled in February 607 pupils, average 521, or 87.5 per cent.; the Rubidge street school, 345, average 296.5, or 85.7 per cent.; the Park street school, 218, average 178.5, or 82 per cent.; and the Barnardo avenue school 173, average 133, or 78 per cent. The Kindergarten enrolled, Central, 45, average 30 ; Rubidge street school, 44, average 33.

Kindergarten not included, the Central has enrolled on an average for each division 55 pupils ; the South school 54 ; the West school 54, and the North school 48.

It seems clear that more room will have to be provided at an early date. By the end of the month the total enrollment will probably be 1,500, or 55 on an average to a room.

PROMOTION EXAMINATIONS.

The half-yearly promotion examinations were held the last week in January, and the results, published at the time in the press, were quite satisfactory. Good work was done all along the line. The weakest subject, a year ago, was composition ; since then particular attention has been given to it and the improvement has been marked.

It was necessary to establish a third entrance class. This was done and Miss Nicholls placed in charge. We have now 150 entrance pupils, of which we expect at least 100 will be successful next June.

Truant Officer's report for 1894 :

1. Number of cases of truants reported to the truant officer by Inspector, Trustees or Ratepayers—250.
2. No. of notices sent by truant officer to parents or guardians respecting truant children —114.
3. No. of complaints made before Police Magistrate—5.
4. No. of convictions—0.
5. Amount of fines imposed or number of days required—0.

Considerable discussion took place in regard to the

QUESTION OF INTEREST

on the monies required from time to time by the Board. The consensus of opinion being that the money required should come from the town, and that the Board should not have to pay the interest. The following motion was put and carried :—

Moved by W. H. Hill, seconded by Dr. Caldwell, that the question of interest be referred to the Finance Committee for their consideration to determine in the interests of the town the best method of disposing of the account. That the committee confer either with the town council or with the Finance Committee of that body to ascertain if some method cannot be adopted as in other cities so that the Board may be supplied from month to month with such monies as may be required to carry on the schools without their being charged with interest, and that the Committee report at the next meeting of the Board.

Mr. Peter Hamilton, chairman of the PROPERTY COMMITTEE,

submitted the following report, asking merely for its reception, in order that it might be discussed at length :

The Property Committee beg leave to report that the matter of school accomodation has been brought very forcibly to their notice and they have had under consideration different schemes for overcoming the difficulty. Recognizing that the present accomodation for the Kindergarten, as very unsuitable for the purpose and that it would be advisable to furnish better accomodation, they had Mr. Blackwell prepare a rough sketch showing how two additional rooms could be added to the south ward school and would recommend to the Board the adoption of the method, which they think would, for the present, materially assist in relieving the overcrowded state of the south ward school. The probable cost of this addition, including furnaces and furniture, would be in the neighborhood of $2,000. This addition would add very materially to the efficiency of the south ward school, allow for the better grading of the classes and also for placing the Kindergarten school under the supervision of the Principal of the south ward school.

Mr. Hamilton stated that he did not feel like pressing any particular scheme on the Board. At present the South Ward school was too small. The extra accommodation proposed would be very limited, yet it would add considerably to the value of the building as a school. He recognized the fact that it was a hardship to ask the children from the extreme southern portion of the town to walk up to the present school in bad weather, but pointed out how the erection of a new school further south would require the employment of an extra principal. It was also a difficult question to decide whether to recommend to the ratepayers the erection of a four-roomed school or one larger. With more rooms, a principal, he understood, would be able to grade his classes better.

Inspector Garvin on being asked for his opinion, stated that an eight-roomed school was decidedly the best for grading purposes, as each division could then have a class room to itself and the classification would be perfect. By the addition of two rooms to the present school, however, he thought that the accommodation to meet the requirements of the south end of the town for two years more anyway.

Mr. Law spoke strongly in favour of a new school for the south. Every other portion of the town was amply provided with school facilities and the south end was apparently ignored. He was informed there were one hundred and sixty-five school children living south of Dalhousie street. In bad weather half of these children were unable to walk up to the present school. If a new school was erected these 165 pupils would fill four of the rooms at the start, and the Kindergarten from St. John's South Ward Mission building could take another room, thus saving $100 a year in rent for that apartment.

Mr. James Stevenson also was strongly in favour of having a new school. He thought the ratepayers should be given an opportunity of voting on the question. The repairing of the old school would cost $4,000, and a new one would only cost seven or eight thousand. The difference was so small that he thought the extra accommodation afforded warranted the expenditure.

Mr. J. J. Hartley would like to see a new school erected and thought it was needed, but was also perfectly sure that the ratepayers would never assent to the outlay. The taxes were too high now and no additional debt should be assumed.

Mr. Henry Denne agreed with Mr. Hartley. The ratepayers had voted the idea down before in even better times and would be sure to do it again.

Mr. Hamilton then pressed his report for adoption. The only additional expense incurred would be by the erection of the addition to the old school. The Kindergarten would be moved over from the Mission building and thereby a saving of $100 a year effected. By retaining the school its value would be considerably increased. He was confident that the best results for the least money would be the addition mentioned in the report and the Board would be fully justified in following such a course.

While Mr. Hill was in favour of a new school, he thought the ratepayers would undoubtedly vote down the project at present. The addition suggested in the report would be ample for the next four years and would be money well spent.

After some further discussion it was decided to lay the report on the table until the next meeting, by which time the members would have had more time to consider the proposition.

It was moved by Messrs. W. G. Ferguson and J. J. McBain, "that the question of employing an inspector to supersede the present incumbent when his term expires, be referred to the Committee on Appointments for their consideration.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

TO THE ELECTORS

..OF..

East Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—Having some time ago been nominated by the Patrons of Industry, and lately by the Liberal Party, as a candidate for the representation of East Peterborough in the House of Commons at the approaching Dominion Elections, I have decided to accept the candidature as an Independent Liberal, and if elected I shall support, to the best of my ability, the following policy :

1. Maintenance of British Connection
2. Public Lands for the actual settler and none for the speculator.
3. Independence of Parliament and economy in the public expenditure.
4. The abolition of the Canadian Senate.
5. Tariff for revenue only and to be levied principally on the luxuries and not the necessaries of life.
6. Reciprocal trade between Canada and any other country in the world if it can be obtained on fair terms.
7. Repeal of the Dominion Franchise Act and a return of the voters' lists made out by our municipal officers.
8. That Electoral Districts conform as nearly as possible to county boundaries.
9. Responsible government in practice as well as theory.

As it will be impossible for me to call on you all personally during the short time at my disposal, I take this means of placing my views before you and soliciting your support. I shall also endeavour to hold as many public meetings as possible in the several municipalities, at which I hope to have an opportunity of presenting my views more fully before you. I beg to remain, gentlemen,

Your Humble Servant,

JOHN LANG.

THE DAILY MAIL and EMPIRE OF TORONTO.

Our Practical Home University Movement is the sensation of the hour. It meets a popular demand. Did you ever send a question to a Newspaper's Inquiry Column? Have you ever read the answers that appear in such column? Have you ever asked yourself who the man was that answered them?

The Editor sits at his desk, but there is a man at his ear built of books, the accumulated knowledge of centuries, annotated, indexed, ready for use at a moment's notice.

DEAR READER,—If you knew of a man of infinite knowledge who would come to you and say :—"I am a quiet man, will cause you no trouble, put you to no expense for food or raiment, but for love of you, and that I may be of service to you, I will take up my abode in your house ; I will sleep upon a shelf, no bed is necessary for me. I will be always with you to aid and counsel and direct you aright to answer every question you may ask. The only compensation that I desire is that you save—not for me, for I cannot take your money—for yourself, the sum of ten cents a day for just a little time." What would you say to such a man? You would say, as thousands have said already :

"Friend, Friend, Indeed ; Come, and Come Quickly."

A GREAT MANY CHILDREN

—have been cured of scrofula and other skin diseases—as well as thousands of grown people, by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood, yields to its purifying qualities. Besides, it builds up wholesome flesh and strength; not merely fat like Cod liver oils. A scrofulous condition of the blood invites Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. We're all exposed to the germs of consumption, grip, or malaria—yet only the weak ones suffer. When you're weak, tired out, and debilitated, or when pimples and blotches appear—heed the warning in time. The "Discovery" sets all the organs into healthy action—especially the liver, for that's the point of entrance for these germs, then if the blood is pure, they'll be thrown off. There's no risk. If it fails to benefit or cure in all cases of impure blood or inactive liver, your money is returned.

The key to the situation—if you suffer from Catarrh, you'll find in Dr. Sage's Remedy. No matter how bad your case may be, the proprietors of the medicine promise to pay $500 if they can't cure you. You're cured, or you're paid.

THE SAND OF AN OLD TIMER.

Fatal Bravery That Won a Rare Tribute From a Band of Apaches.

A company of ranchmen sat about the railroad station in Pomona the other afternoon waiting for the belated overland train for Los Angeles. Every man in the party knew the others, and there being an hour or two to wait story telling of the early days on the border and in Arizona and California came natural. Stories of old times, when Indians were bad and the white pioneers knew what bravery meant, were related. John Wilson of El Monte told the most absorbing story of the hour:

"Talk about sand in a man, gentlemen! I am telling you that it takes sand of the genuine article in any man to try and stand off single handed 40 or 50 Apaches when he knows just how the scrap will end, and that the end will be his own death. But that was just the kind of sand that was in Felix Knox when he was killed by the Apaches. You see Knox was an all round gambler, such as the tenderfoot from the east scorns so much and knows so little about, but he had a heart in him bigger than any tenderfoot's head. Well, it was in the spring of 1879 Knox, with his wife and baby and a Mexican driver, was coming from Silver City to Clifton, down in Arizona. They got to York's ranch, which is on the Gila river, about 30 miles from Clifton, all right, but were told there that signs of Apaches had been seen, and that they had better go in camp there for a few days, but Knox—who had fought the Apaches dozens of times and didn't know what fear was—said he wanted to make Clifton that day, Indians or no Indians.

"Well, the Knoxes drove on. When they were about two miles from York's ranch, sure enough a big buck Indian came from behind a low, round top mesa. Knox knew there were plenty more of the red devils hid there and that it meant a fight to death for him. He was as cool as a cucumber. He jumped out of the wagon, filled his pockets with two boxes of cartridges, and then kissed his wife and baby for the last time, but saying that he would have the redskins quieted in a few minutes. He ordered the Mexican driver to lash the team for all he was worth and to drive back to York's ranch as fast as the horses could jump. Then Knox waved his hand to his wife and said he was going to stand off a few Apaches, although he was sure there was a big band of them. As the team and wagon flew back to the ranch Knox, rifle in hand, started toward the hill for his last fight. He turned once and waved his sombrero to his wife and child and then strode on to his certain death.

"The Apaches a second later rushed out from behind the hill where they were secreted. Knox faced his foes, and standing stock still pumped lead at them until he fell down dead. The next day a party of us was made up, and we went out where the fight took place. Knox's body lay there amid the cactus in the sun. The Apaches, contrary to their usual custom, had not mutilated the fellow's body in the least. They had taken a clean pocket handkerchief out of Knox's pocket and carefully spread it over his face and had fastened it there by putting a small stone on each corner of it to hold it in its place and keep the hot sun from the dead man's face. That was their tribute to the sand in Knox. Seventy empty shells were found that had been emptied from Knox's winchester, and one of the raiding Indians afterward said that their party numbered 42 and that Knox had killed seven of them."—Pomona Progress.

TORONTO'S BIG FIRE.

The Ruins Still Smouldering—An Inquest Ordered.

TORONTO, March 6.—All day long yesterday crowds of people gathered about the scene of the big Sunday morning fire. Two lines of hose were kept playing on the wreck all day, but it will probably be some time before the fire's last embers are extinguished. The other buildings that were attacked by the fire are black skeletons. No trace of even smoke is to be seen about them. The chimney of the big store looks dangerously tall and totterish as it stands over the scene of devastation, but as soon as possible it will be torn down and the ground cleared up whenever the basement full of rubbish gets cool enough.

It is probable the new building which Mr. Robert Simpson will build will not be more than four stories in height, the architect having expressed the opinion that it would be unwise to build any higher than that.

Coroner A. J. Johnson has issued his warrant for an inquest into the cause of the recent fires. The enquiry will be held at the Police Court, probably next week.

Mr. Henry Wade has opened an office at 13 Elm street for the Agriculture and Arts Association.

A DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR.

The Hamilton Jockey Club Agitated Over a Sunday Boxing Match.

HAMILTON, March 6.—A meeting of the directors of the Hamilton Jockey Club has been called for Friday next, when developments of an interesting character are expected. It appears that a party of young men, members of the jockey club, took upon themselves to invite a number of the gentlemen of the "Gaiety Girl" company to the club house on Sunday afternoon last. During the afternoon the conversation turned on boxing, and an impromptu was arranged between Mr. Carleton, of the Gaiety Girl company, and Mr. Reginald Moreton, son of the Hon. and Rev. R. Moreton. The pair donned the gloves and fought three two minute rounds with all the usual accessories. Moreton got rather the worst of the battle, but the affair passed pleasantly and nothing more was thought of it. President Lottridge has declared that unless the members who participated in the affair resign at once he will do so. Mayor A. D. Stewart, who is secretary of the club, was among those present at the boxing contest and he will be asked for an explanation.

RELEASED FROM CUSTODY.

J. M. Pillow and Wife Will Go to Toronto and Give Evidence.

MONTREAL, March 6.—J. M. Pillow and wife, of Montreal, who were arrested here on a charge of conspiring with the Hyams brothers to defraud the insurance companies, were liberated yesterday afternoon by order of Crown Attorney Curry, of Toronto, who had a long consultation with the prisoners, and who, it is stated, obtained a promise from them to go to Toronto and give evidence, on which condition they were released from custody. Pillow is manager of the Hyams chemical works in this city.

Lady Aberdeen Entertained at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, March 6.—Several of the members of the local Council of Women assembled at the station yesterday morning to meet Lady Aberdeen on her return from Washington. The train missed connection at Niagara Falls and did not arrive until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Immediately on her arrival she was escorted to the Royal hotel, where a magnificent luncheon was prepared, at which 100 ladies sat down. The dining room was gaily decorated for the occasion and choice flowers made the room beautiful and fragrant. The toast list included "The Governor-General and family," responded to by Lady Aberdeen; "The National Woman's Council," by Mrs. Hoodless; "The local council," by Mrs. Calder; "The educational interests of Canada," by Mrs. Ballard; "The Press," by Mrs. Fessenden. Immediately after the luncheon Lady Aberdeen was escorted to the Grand opera house, where she delivered an interesting and instructive address to a very large assembly, composed of ladies and gentlemen. Her ladyship's visit was arranged and carried out entirely by the local Council of Women.

Where "Sterling" Came From.

Sterling signifies money from the legalized standard of coinage of Great Britain. According to one theory the term originated as follows: It is a corruption of Easterling—a person from north Germany, on the continent of Europe, and therefore from the east in geographical relation to England. The Easterlings were ingenious artisians who came to England in the reign of Henry III to refine the silver money, and the coin they produced was called moneta Easterlingorum—the money of the Easterlings.—New York Evening Sun.

BUILDING SILOES.

The Country Gentleman Gives Full and Explicit Directions.

Which is the better way to build a silo, round or square? (1) What are the dimensions to keep fifty cattle a year? (2) I wish the wall under it to be 8 feet high, so as to be level with the barn basement; how should wall be built? (3) Is there danger in drawing corn, which has been cut and laid in bundles, just after a rain? (4)

1. The square form is more convenient in construction, and the length may be extended to any desirable size. The circular will require more skill and greater labor to give it the true form, while it will possess no particular advantage, except in getting rid of the corners, which are inconvenient to some degree. The square or oblong form has the advantage of being easily fitted with a plank cover, when such a cover is used. The corners may be braced, and an octagonal form given to it. 2. The quantity of ensilage required will vary with the size of the cattle and the quantity of dry food given with the ensilage. If each animal consumes 60 lb. a day, it will require about 12 tons for each. At 50 lb. to the cubic foot, each ton would occupy 40 cubic feet, and each animal would require 480 cubic feet for the year, which would be equivalent to a solid mass about 7 feet square and 10 feet high. The fifty animals would need nearly or about 24,000 cubic feet of ensilage for the 365 days. 3. A silo 20 feet deep, 12 feet wide and 100 feet long, or any equivalent dimensions, would contain this quantity. 3. A difficulty always occurs in placing a wooden frame on a stone basement. The stone wall being so much thicker than the wood, the latter must be drawn in enough to make a uniform surface with the wood and stone, so that the ensilage in settling shall not meet with the projecting shelf of stone. 4. In answering this enquiry we take it for granted that the stalks will be damp, but not so wet as when harvested in rain. If the crop has been allowed to ripen sufficiently, so that the grains are glazed and the leaves withered at the edges, there will be no danger, provided the work is properly done: but with younger and more succulent corn, it would probably be more or less injured. —The Country Gentleman.

A Holstein Enthusiast.

In recent address delivered by Mr. R. H. Crump, a Canadian breeder of Holstein-Friesians, he spoke as follows: Now, as to how dairying may be made more profitable, I would say: Weed out by careful selection all poor cows, and so improve the quality of our herds. Keep only such ones as will give 250 lbs. of butter per annum. Next comes feed. One farmer feeds his cows a daily ration costing 30 cents per cow, while his neighbor, getting as good results, feeds a ration costing 15 cents per day—one costing just double the price of the other. Everyone may estimate the enormous saving which may be effected by careful attention to economy in good rations. Then again, why is it that nearly all the farmers and dairymen try to have their cows come in in the spring—when prices are low owing to an overstocked and glutted market—at the very time when all hands are wanted in the fields and every hour counts? How much better it will be when winter dairying will be universal, i.e., the majority of our cows coming in during the season when our markets show the highest prices; when there is no danger of our produce spoiling; our cows well fed, making good manure under cover; all at a time when the farm hands have time to look well after the cattle; the calves ready to wean when the grass comes, and so go right ahead. One more important item to make dairying more profitable is to increase the fertility of our lands by carefully saving the manure; increase the acreage of grass and hay; feed all, sell none; sell only those products which contain the least fertilizing elements. The proof of the pudding is in the eating, and so it is with the Holsteins being the most profitable cattle for the varied climate of Canada. Now that we have the Babcock tester we can laugh at our competitors who are always calling out on the poor quality of the Holstein milk. My own milk, sent away to a creamery, tested by a Babcock tester, has so far averaged 4.20 butter fat.

The Average Farmer.

While it is to be admitted that there are thousands of farmers who have "got their eyes open" and are preaching more advanced methods of farming and better business tact, there are still thousands "unregenerated" and outside the fold of success. It is to be deplored that with many of this class the agricultural journal never finds a home. I make the assertion here that the average farmer will never succeed on the farm unless he keeps up with the times in practical agricultural literature. He may make money and accumulate greater possessions, but he does it at the waste of muscle and brain, denials and sacrifices. The farmer who contends that he can not afford such a paper is overlooking the very essential of success in his business. Notice the course of men engaged in other business. The grain dealer takes the best daily market reports of the great grain handling centres. The editor has his desk piled full of exchanges in his line. The lawyer has his Blackstone and Kent and court decisions, and the minister the latest and best religious literature. So it is with all these men of different professions keeping in line with the most advanced thought and business.—Ohio Farmer.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

PONTO AS A MIND READER.

A Russian Dog Which Goes into Hypnotic Trances and Does Strange Tricks.

All St. Petersburg has gone wild over something new, a dog which goes off into hypnotic trances. This remarkable animal belongs to M. Durov, who was awarded a gold medal by the Paris academy of sciences for his original investigation and discoveries in the science of hypnotism as applied to animals and its effects upon them. Several tests [illegible] animal in the presence of [illegible] person than Dr. Afanasiev, of the war department. One of the tests related to the New York Recorder, consisted in placing several articles, as a pencil, cigar case, handkerchief, cuff button, etc., on the floor. Then the dog, having been thrown into a hynotic trance by him, M. Durov requested one of the audience, which consisted also of several other physicians of renown and some newspaper men, to think about something and what the dog was to do with it, then to write it out on a piece of paper and show it to the rest of the audience, excepting, of course, himself. This was done, and the dog having been brought in, what was the astonishment of the whole assemblage to see the animal go up to the cigar case, pick it up and bring it to the one who had been indicated in the wish. Another test consisted in laying several cubes with figures on them in a certain order in a closed box. At the same time several pieces of paper were put upon the floor bearing like numbers on each. The dog was then called in and required to place the pieces of paper in the same order as the cubes were laid in the closed and sealed box. This he did, to the astonishment of all assembled. The strangeness of the whole procedure is increased when it is remembered that M. Durov knows no more about what is being done or wished than does the dog, and is, therefore, entirely unable to in any way prompt him.

A Diabolical Soup-Bone.

"Yes," meditatively said the bachelor to the other man. "I would have been a proxy old married man like you by this time if it had not been for the meddlesome intervention of a soup-bone. Some months ago I was very much impressed with a little typewriter girl in our office. She was bright, pretty, had a dainty figure and wore such neat toilets that half the men in the place were more or less daft after her. I was too bashful to ask her if I might call on her, and one night over my late cigar I evolved a business method of settling my fate. I would go early to the office next morning—she was usually the first clerk down—I would send the porter out upon an errand, and then dictate a letter to her asking her to marry me. Wasn't that a brilliant scheme? But she was not there, and did not come in until 9 o'clock. Later in the day I overheard her tell another girl what had detained her. The cook at her boarding-house had gone out to buy meat for breakfast; she entered the butcher-shop just as the butcher, in anger, threw a soup-bone at his assistant; the cook intercepted the soup-bone, was felled insensible, and, being unknown to the butcher, was carried off to the hospital. The boarders waited for their breakfast, and my romantic intentions were chilled beyond resuscitation—so here I am, a dismal bachelor, the victim of a contemptible, mean, little 5-cent soup-bone."—Indianapolis Journal.

For the Tea Table.

For all the pretty impediments of the afternoon tea table there is still nothing so popular as drawn linen. There is a tendency to show less and less of the linen. Some of the cloths, doilies, or tea cozies are as filmy in effect as morsels of fine lace. Old-gold silk is freely introduced upon trimming of the tea cloths, and gives a particular rich appearance but other examples—particularly those worked in the favorite lace hemstitch—are left in the purity of absolute freshness. Beside the white linen in its many applications of pillow shams, toilet covers, sideboard cloths, and the like, to the colored varieties it is noticeable that "grandmother's linen" is being much used. This is dyed in all the delicate colors. The idea of age is well shown in a night robe which is an exact copy of one over 100 years old. The linen for this is a golden brown, with the embroidery showing a conventional design in daisies, and it is worked solidly in white.

An Author's Apology.

A clever story whose hero is a young rector speaks of his removing his "toupee" during a protracted walk. "I wantonly put it on his head," says the author, with a laugh. "I knew he ought not to roam the country in that headgear, but it was so becoming that I let him do it."—New York Times.

CANADIAN CEMENT.

A Deputation Ask that It be Used on all Public Works.

OTTAWA, March 6.—A large delegation from Hull have waited on Hon. Mr. Haggart to urge the Government to henceforth use Canadian cement on all public works instead of foreign cement as at present. Foreign cement, when used for Government purposes, comes in duty free, and the foreign dealers are able to undersell Canadian manufacturers. The delegation, which included some of Hull's leading citizens, was told by Mr. Haggart that their claim would be taken into consideration and an answer given in 60 days.

BELLEVILLE, March 6.—The grand jury have returned two true bills against J. D. Ronald, of Brussels, Ont., on the charge of attempting to bribe R. T. Houston, a member of the Council of the village of Tweed, to purchase a fire engine in which he is interested.

Why He Didn't Shoot.

A man with a wife who has her own ways about doing things catches her now and then.

"My dear," he said the other morning as he was dressing, "I think you were right when you told me last night that there were burglars in the house."

"Why?" she asked nervously.

"Because all the money that was in my pockets when I went to bed is gone."

"Well," she said, with an I-told-you so air, "if you had been brave and got up and shot the wretch, you would have had your money this morning."

"Possibly, my dear, possibly," he said gingerly, "but I would have been a widower."

She laughed softly then and gave half of it back to him.—London Tit-Bits.

Instructed to Resign.

BERLIN, March 6.—Prince von Stolberg-Wernigerode has tendered his resignation of the presidency of East Prussia and it has been accepted. It is understood that he was instructed to resign in consequence of his unauthorized declarations to the Agrarian Union in support of Count von Kanitz's proposed grain monopoly.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 6, 1895.

Canada Pacific Railway stock took another drop yesterday. It opened at 41 in New York and there was a similar decline on the London market. There is no reason assigned for the present drop, and it can only be accounted for by the general mistrust of the public in these shares.

The scarcity of eggs in the local market is effecting very decided advances in the prices, and the cold snap has not added any to the possibility of any immediate or extensive supply of newly laid eggs.

The market for dressed hogs is improved. A few loads sold here at $6. The prices run from $5.75 to the former figure and the supply is not equal to the demand. As a consequence all pork products have become firmer and an advance is noticeable all around.

The local grain market is quiet. Street prices are 61 to 64 1-2c for white winter wheat, 61c for red. Barley sold for 45c; peas, 60 1-2 to 61c; oats, 35 to 38 1-2c.

Wheat opened rather weak in Chicago yesterday and did not develop much strength as the day advanced. Provisions were just a shade stronger.

There were no sales of Canada barley on the Buffalo market yesterday.

New York sheep and lamb market is firm. Fair to prime sheep $4 to $4.75; ordinary to prime lambs, $4.75 to $5.37 1-2; culls and lambs $3.50; dressed mutton 6 to 8 1-2c.; dressed lambs 8 to 10c.

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET

Resumed in the Legislature by the Member for South Toronto.

AN UNINTERESTING SPEECH

Mr. Gibson, of Huron, Will Continue the Debate To-day—Mr. Hardy's Bill Respecting Verdicts of Jurors —Mr. Haycock's New Medical Bill.

TORONTO, March 6.—The budget debate was continued in the Local Legislature yesterday by Mr. O. A. Howland, member for South Toronto, who delivered a speech lasting over two and a half hours. Certainly the gentleman had the opportunity of his life. His reputation as an author and lawyer drew to the galleries crowds of ladies and gentlemen. The politicians were anxious. Mr. Howland has been in the minds of many during the past few months as the probable leader of the Local Conservatives should Mr. Marter be deposed. When he rose every eye, from the veteran Premier down to the Patron follower, was upon him. His opportunity had arrived and the question was "would he improve it?" His presence is pleasing, his voice good and his delivery passable. During the first hour he entered fully into the history of party government to no evident purpose and concluded this branch of his argument by first abusing and then flattering the Patrons. He said that the P.P.A. party was a factor in the House but did not even claim a name or leader.

He then rambled on, condemning the Government for its policy upon all questions in one breath and in the next showering praise upon them. At the conclusion of the speech there was a universal sigh of relief, and the feeling that a man of promise had missed the mark.

Concluding, he said: "The policy of the Government which has been in power for five out of eight Parliaments may be summed up in a few words. These parliaments constitute the history of this province. It is a record of departmental mediocrity and unfortunately of black, utter dense incompetency."

Mr. Howland had scarcely resumed his seat when Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, rushed up to him and tendered hearty congratulations, which drew smiles from the older members of the party, who carefully refrained from following the example.

Mr. Gibson, Huron, moved the adjournment of the debate, which will be resumed at three o'clock this afternoon.

New Bills Introduced.

These new bills were introduced and read a first time:

Mr. Garrow—To amend the Consolidated Municipal Act of 1892. The bill provides that municipal councils shall have power to vary the amount of statute labor payable in certain defined localities. He also introduced a bill granting municipal councils power to rectify errors in school assessment rates so as to prevent inequalities in assessment.

Mr. German introduced a bill providing that when inmates of public institutions die their deaths shall be reported to the county attorney, who shall decide whether or not an inquest is necessary. At present an inquest must be held upon all such persons. He also introduced a bill to abolish the limit of $5,000 at present imposed upon religious or educational bodies in the matter of holding property. If passed the bill will provide that the value of buildings shall not be included in making up this $5,000 limit.

Mr. Middleton introduced a bill to confirm a bonus of $75,000 voted by the city of Hamilton to aid an iron smelting works and $60,000 to aid steel smelting works and to extend the time for their completion to July, 1895.

Mr. Truax—To enable the village of Teeswater to lease or sell certain lands.

Dr. McKay—Respecting the debt of the town of Woodstock.

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill in blank for the further protection of children, but refused to make known its provisions on the ground that the measure had not been fully considered by the Cabinet.

Hon. Mr. Hardy's bill respecting the verdicts of jurors in civil cases is as follows:

"In all civil cases at the time of the passing of this Act or thereafter depending in the High Court of Justice or in a county court, or in any matter or cause within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature, where issues are tried or where damages are assessed by a jury, it shall be sufficient if ten of the jurors empanelled for the trial or assessment shall agree, instead of twelve as heretofore required; and in such case ten jurors may give the verdict, or answer the questions submitted to the jury by the judge.

"A verdict rendered or question answered under the provisions of this Act shall have the same effect as the verdict or answer heretofore given by twelve jurors.

"This Act shall apply to special juries and shall be read with and as part of The Judicature Act."

The New Medical Bill.

The bill dealing with the medical council introduced by Mr. Haycock strikes immediately at the present fee system. It provides that the fees medical men shall be allowed to charge shall be determined by the Lieutenant-Governor in council and not by the electoral district medical boards as at present. It also provides that the standard of qualifying examinations shall be determined by a board composed of one representative from each medical college in the province, three members of the medical council and two representatives of the Government; that the standard shall be uniform; that once having obtained the right to practice doctors may only be struck off the roll by the courts and that fees may only be collected by process of law. It also provides that midwives before being permitted to charge fees shall attend at least ten cases under the direction of a medical man. The bill will receive strenuous opposition from members on both sides of the house.

Count Schouvaloff a Failure.

BERLIN, March 6.—The Lokal-Anzeiger to-day says that the expectations of Count von Schouvaloff, the new Governor-General of Warsaw have not been realized. The malpractices there, the paper says, continue virtually as under his predecessor, General Gourko, except that the officials are less easily bribed knowing that the new Governor is very strict regarding offences of that kind. The economic and financial outlook is bad and agricultural pursuits and trade are at a complete standstill. Emigration too, which latterly decreased, seems now to be increasing.

To Introduce Professionalism Into Canada

NEW YORK, March 6.—Geo. H. Orr, a candidate for the office of chairman of the Racing Board of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, will, it is stated, introduce a resolution providing for the establishment in Canada of the two-class system at the annual meeting of the organization which occurs on Good Friday.

W. B. Pettengill, of Salem, Mass., who was arrested in Philadelphia some time ago and indicted for smuggling phenacetecine, has skipped his bail and is now in Montreal. Pettengill is a clever smuggler.

Fred Shafer, an employe in the wholesale drug warehouse of Archdale, Wilson & Co., Hamilton, was arrested while at work yesterday on a charge of larceny. It is said Shafer has been pilfering opium and drugs from his employers and selling them to drug stores at reduced prices.

Mr. W. H. Bennett, M. P., was unanimously tendered the nomination for the Commons by the Conservatives of East Simcoe at Orillia yesterday. A resolution of regret at the death of Sir John Thompson was passed.

A special consignment has been sent to the Czar of Russia consisting of four scrapbooks bound in seal and clamped with gold. They are filled with American newspaper comments on the death of the late and marriage of the present Czar.

A Piece of Her Mind.

A lady correspondent has this to say:

"I want to give a piece of my mind to a certain class, who object to advertising, when it costs them anything—this won't cost them a cent.

I suffered a living death for nearly two years with headaches, backache, in pain standing or walking, was being literally dragged out of existence, my misery increased by drugging.

At last, in despair, I committed the sin of trying an advertised medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it restored me to the blessedness of sound health. I honour the physician, who, when he knows he can cure, has the moral courage to advertise the fact."

The medicine mentioned cures all the delicate diseases peculiar to females, as "female weakness," periodical pains, irregularities, nervous prostration, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's Dance, sleeplessness, threatened insanity.

To permanently cure constipation, biliousness, indigestion or dyspepsia, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Tidings From Zionville.

I suffered everything but death from Indigestion during four years and tried all sorts of medicine to no effect, at last I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before finishing the second bottle, I was as well as I could be, and have had good health ever since.

THE FRENCH EMBARGO

Reasons Why France Excluded American Cattle.

ON PURELY SANITARY GROUNDS

The American Ambassador Impressed With the Strength of the French Position—The Matter Will be Treated from a Sanitary Standpoint.

Washington, March 7.—If France's meat experts are correct the United States cannot complain of the action of the French Government in issuing a decree forbidding the importation of American cattle. The long awaited information from Ambassador Eustis concerning the reasons for this decree has at last reached the State Department. The information is the result of a visit he paid to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the French Government and tells the story of the levying of the embargo. It seems that when the Minister of Agriculture first brought the result of the microscopic test of American meats to the notice of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and suggested exclusion quite a Cabinet discussion was provoked and many members of the Cabinet were against exclusion. The Minister of Foreign Affairs told Ambassador Eustis that it was greatly to his regret that additional proof of an indubitable character of the inferior and diseased quality of American meat finally forced the Cabinet to agree with the Minister of Agriculture and exclude the meat from France for purely sanitary reasons. Ambassador Eustis' is evidently very much impressed with the strength of the French position and holds that this explanation of the matter must at least be accepted for the present until the charges can be controverted by American testimony. Secretary Gresham and Secretary Morton were in consultation throughout the afternoon yesterday as a result of the receipt of Ambassador Eustis despatch. The Secretary of Agriculture brought with him a great amount of statistical evidence to prove the superior quality of American cattle and meat recently exported. If the administration holds that Secretary Morton's facts and figures are strong enough on which to base an international argument the refusal of the French to come to a similar opinion will probably bring about more radical action. The State Department, it must be confessed, feels some trepidation in setting up the work of American meat inspectors against that of expert French officials. From the tone of the communication received at the State Department there are evidently in Paris microscopic tests by lifelong French experts which will have to be met and answered. This line of action, however, will be the first to be considered and decided upon and until that is done there will be no action taken by the President under the law giving him retaliatory powers when he is convinced that unjust discrimination is being made against American products by any other country. In other words, the French will be taken at their word and the matter treated from a sanitary standpoint.

A GRATIFYING DISCOVERY.

The Memorial Inaugurating Free National Parks at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, March 7.—Supt. Welch, of the State Reservation, made a very gratifying discovery on Saturday during the visit of the Assembly investigating committee. The discovery will result in the recovery of a valuable memorial in connection with the reservation and its attending collection of autographs. This memorial was prepared and addressed to Governor Alonzo B. Cornell, of New York State and His Excellency, Lord Dufferin, Governor-General of Canada, and marks the inauguration of the monument for free parks on the Canadian and American sides of Niagara Falls. The memorial was dated March 20, 1880, and was printed in the special report of the New York State Survey on the preservation of the scenes of Niagara Falls, and the fourth annual report on the triangulation of the State for the year 1879, when James T. Gardner was director.

The names signed to it number among them the signatures of men of note in nearly every walk of life. There are statesmen, orators, poets, authors, artists, judges, senators, members of parliament, generals, admirals, college presidents, governors, bishops, editors, men of wealth and prominent in the social and financial world of two continents. Many of those personages are dead or retired from active life. The petition numbers nearly 700

Recall of the American Consul-General Demanded.

SPAIN WILL SUPPORT IT

Reinforcements to be Sent Out From Spain Forthwith—Remarkable Enthusiasm in Military Circles Detachments Rapidly Mustering.

Madrid, March 7.—Captain General Calleja has demanded the recall of the American Consul-General at Havana. At a meeting of the Cabinet Council it was agreed to support the demand. The consul is R. O. Williams, of New York.

The Governor-General of Cuba has telegraphed requesting that reinforcements be sent directly to Santiago and that they be made ready to take the field forthwith. The War Office is pushing actively the preparations for the expedition there. There is remarkable enthusiasm in military circles. Detachments from all garrisons are mustering rapidly in Santander, Cadiz, Coruna and Barcelona. They will embark at the end of the week. Two million cartridges will be shipped on the cruiser Queen Mercedes.

Tampa, Fla., March 7.—Gonzales de Quesada, Secretary of the Cuban Revolutionary party in the United States, arrived here in this city yesterday morning and is the guest of Col. Figuerdo, the leader of the movement here. Senor Quesada declared that Generals Marti and Gomez were in Cuba. He said that on Tuesday a battle was fought between the Spanish General La Chambre and the Cuba General Guillemon near Santiago de Cuba. The Government had a force of 1,000 men and the Cubans seven hundred. The Spaniards were routed with heavy losses. The hope of the Cubans, he said is to develop such strength as to command recognition at the hands of foreign powers. When that is accomplished Cuba will be free in one year. Spain would never send seven thousand men, 11,000 stand of arms, millions of cartridges, four men of war to Cuba, three cruisers to Key West and others to different adjacent foreign ports if there was nothing in it, as they report. Senor Quesada would give no information as to his movements in the immediate future.

THE IRISH LAND BILL.

Mr. Morley Corrects a Statement Made in Introducing the Bill.

London, March 7.—The Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Morley, in the House of Commons yesterday, corrected a statement which he made in introducing the new Irish Land Bill on Monday last. He said that if a landlord did not assent to the price fixed by the land commission for a purchase by an evicted tenant or tenants, it was not intended that the whole transaction should end. The Government intended that if a landlord did not object, after a prescribed time, an agreement to purchase would thereby be assumed to have been made, and in case of disagreement as to price the land commission must determine.

Another Japanese Victory.

London, March 7.—The Tokio correspondent of the Central News says a despatch from Gen. Nodza on Tuesday gives this information: As arranged the army attacked old New-Chwang yesterday. The fighting began at ten o'clock in the morning. Both divisions had entered the city by noon. Part of the enemy had fled to Yingkao but the greater part still occupied the house and streets and obstinately resisted the Japanese troops. The street fighting was desperate but the Japanese won their way gradually street by street until by eleven o'clock in the evening they had completely routed the enemy. The Chinese left behind 1,880 killed and wounded, 600 prisoners, eighteen guns and great quantities of rifles, ammunition, banners and provisions. The Japanese loss was above 200 killed and wounded.

Sensational Cricket Tour.

Melbourne, Victoria, March 7.—Stoddard's cricketers yesterday finished the final game of a most sensational cricket tour. In fact, it is said to have been the most sensational tour ever undertaken. They played five games, two at Sydney, two here and one at Adelaide. The visitors won the first two games and lost the third, fourth and fifth. The All-Australian eleven scored 414 runs in the first inning and 267 in the second inning, a total of 681. Stoddard's English team scored 385 runs on the first inning and 298 in the second, a total of 683, winning the match with six wickets to spare. The gate money amounted to $20,000. The highest score in any innings (586), was made by Australia. The total for the five matches is: Australia 2,822 for 90 wickets; England 2,399 for 92 wickets.

Two More True Bills Against Ronald.

Belleville, March 7.—Two additional true bills have been found against J. D. Ronald for attempting to bribe parties in Tweed in connection with the sale of a steam fire engine.

No Prospect of Further Trouble.

Washington, March 7.—Officials at the Japanese Legation said to-day that there was no prospect of further trouble in the peace negotiations on account of the mode of Li Hung Chang's passage to Japan which the Japanese will prescribe. It was explained that it could hardly be expected that a Chinese warship containing the peace envoy would be allowed to enter a Japanese port and a passenger steamer flying the Chinese flag would also be objectionable on account of the embarrassment that might be caused in looking after her officers and crew in a hostile port. The Chinese Viceroy will be transferred from the Chinese passenger steamer in which he left Tien-Tsin to a Japanese war vessel.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Patrons Will Support the Government On the Jury Bill.

SWEEPING CHANGES IN POLICY

Nothing Provided in the Estimates for the Central Farmers' Institute—Local Institutes to Receive Larger Grants—The Agriculture and Arts Association.

Toronto, March 7.—The greater part of yesterday was taken up in discussing the budget, a subject which, though the delight of the new member, because it gives him an opportunity of testing himself, is of but little interest to the public because it consists chiefly of a rehash of election speeches. Mr. Gibson (Huron) set the ball rolling. He made fun of Mr. Howland's speech of the day before and claimed to speak by the book since he is the only member of the present Legislature who was also a member during the Sandfield Macdonald administration. He reviewed the history of politics generally since that date.

Dr. Meachan followed in a carefully prepared speech. He condemned the Government all along the line. He was followed by Hon. J. M. Gibson, Mr. St. John, Davis, and others.

Patrons Will Support the Government.

The Patrons have decided in caucus to support the jury bill introduced by Hon. Mr. Hardy for the Government. The bill provides that in civil cases an agreement by 10 of the 12 men composing the jury shall constitute a verdict. Mr. Haycock said yesterday that his party would support the bill and that if it was found to work with satisfaction then another bill would follow along the same lines in criminal cases.

Mr. Marter said that his party had not considered the bill in caucus as yet and he could not say what action would be taken.

Wild Cranberry Picking.

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill on Tuesday for the further protection of children. The bill provides that Mr. John Kelso, superintendent of neglected children, shall have greater executive powers and that in no case shall children under seven years of age be sent to poor houses or jails.

Mr. Haycock gave notice that on Friday he would move the first reading of a bill to give municipal councils power to fix the date on which the picking of wild cranberries may begin.

Some Sweeping Changes.

There are to be some radical changes in the agricultural policy of the Government this session. For years past the Government has granted from $800 to $2,000 annually to the Central Farmers' Institute. This year there is nothing provided in the estimates for this purpose. A Minister said yesterday that the result would be that the Institute would be wiped out. It seems that the Government intend dealing more liberally with local institutes in future. They have granted $2,000 this year more than usual to go to them and have also granted $1,800 to be used in spraying fruit trees. The department intends establishing traveling outfits for spraying purposes. Experts in this business will be employed and they will give fruit growers practical illustrations and lessons in spraying. The Government intends doubling the number of experimental fruit stations and for this purpose they have doubled the grant of last year. The most radical change will be included in a bill which the Minister of Agriculture will introduce to amend and consolidate the Agriculture and Arts Association Act.

The Agriculture and Arts Association has been costing a considerable sum of money for years. Newspapers of all shades of politics have recently been inquiring for reasons why this association should continue and it is understood upon good authority that the result of the bill to be introduced will be that the association will be wiped out.

Mr. O'Keefe (Ottawa) gave notice yesterday that he would introduce a bill to amend the Registry Act by adding these words:

"The registrar shall not receive or file any plan or map of a subdivision of any land situate wholly or partly within the limits of any city, town, or incorporated village, unless the assent of the municipal council of such city, town or village to said filing be first obtained and endorsed on such map or plan, such assent to be granted by by-law of the corporation duly passed in that behalf."

Mr. O'Keefe also gave notice that he would introduce a bill granting assessors the right to make assessments any time during the year before September 30. At present they must do so between July 1 and September 30.

Removed Royal Mascot.

Rome, March 7.—The Prince of Naples arrived in Rome from Florence. The assertion is again made by his entourage that he will shortly be married to Princess Maud of Wales, and the arrival of the Prince of Wales and other members of the British Royal Family is expected soon.

Arctic Explorers.

London, March 7.—Secretary Montefiore, of the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition, writes that he has reason to believe that the balloon seen between Lebasby and Langfiord, Norway, is not Nansen's, but Jackson and Harmsworth's.

France and Madagascar.

Zanzibar, March 7.—The French have seized the Island of Nossivey, in St. Augustine Bay on the south-west coast of the island of Madagascar.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1895.

We may well ask to know if Canada is enjoying responsible government. Hon. Mr. Foster may take credit for an attempt to revise the tariff last session and lop off some of Sir John Thompson's "mouldering branches," but it was the protected manufacturers that took the job off his hands and restored the proposed reductions in the tariff and what suited their own interests. Mr. Foster as a member of the Dominion Cabinet is responsible to the people, but who are the manufacturers responsible to? Hon. Mr. Foster is apparently sensible of his responsibility, for he is afraid to face his constituents in his old riding and has sought a safe constituency.

The recent visitation of fire that Toronto has suffered, has caused the loss of three lives and the destruction of two and a quarter millions of dollars worth of property. This is not simply a local calamity but one that will affect the great province of which Toronto is the metropolitan city. Whatever the cause it is certainly due to huge blundering and incompetent administration somewhere. It is to be hoped that the investigation that is very properly called for will fix the responsibility, ascertain the cause and prevent a recurrence of what has the salient features of a national calamity.

Hon. N. C. Wallace says it would be the basest ingratitude on the part of Canada to discriminate against the Mother Country. Why, then, asks the Toronto News (Independent Conservative), does not the Controller of Customs insist upon a change in the present tariff in which there is discrimination, as is shown by the fact that we collect nine and a half million dollars in duty on forty-three millions' worth of British goods, and only seven and a half millions in duty on fifty-eight and a quarter million dollars' worth of imports from the United States?

Mr. Howland, deputy leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, made a most exhaustive and exhausting speech in contribution to the budget debate. He dealt with almost every conceivable subject, and the fact that he did not deal with the sewer award or the dismissal of the town officials is doubtless due to an excusable oversight.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell is to be given a reception by the citizens of Belleville. Fair play is a jewel, and the electors of Belleville are in turn entitled at the Premier's hands to a reception—of specific information as to the date of the elections or the assembling of Parliament.

OMEMEE.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

The roads are now in a very fair condition to Peterborough, by following 2nd concession of Emily and 2nd concession of Smith. Very few pitch holes this route.

Two of our prominent merchants, T. Ivory & Sons and J. A. McPherson are offering to sell out.

Little or no sickness now. Drs. Thompson and Bradd are filling the bill very satisfactory—like good brothers.

Wesley Thompson, son of Dr. Thompson, is a young druggist of considerable ability, having had had experience in Toronto and other places. Being a good operator as well, he is open now for a good steady sit.

The Presbyterian pulpit was ably supplied on last Sunday by Mr. Craig, of Richmond, Quebec, who is a candidate.

There were quite a number attended the Reform convention at Lindsay, on Saturday last, from here and were met by large representation from all parts of the riding. Great enthusiasm was shown; so much to win South Victoria for the coming election, that no nominee was selected—being equal between the choice of Geo. McHugh and Thos. Stewart. Adjourned to meet next Saturday when Mr. Stewart's nomination is in prospect.

The Methodists of this place have been conducting a revival with great enthusiasm and effect for the last few weeks. Mr. Hill, pastor, with his able colleague, Mr. Garbutt, assisted by Dr. Thompson, and other laymen, are making additions to he church largely.

The Wilson hotel is about to change hands. Mr. Holden of Marmora, is spoken of as the future proprietor.

Wm. C. Tully, after spending a few days here under the parental roof, has returned to Peterborough to take the position of leading salesman for J. Armstrong in his new grocery store, Water street. Mr. A. is fortunate in securing the services of a hand, who has such a good business connection in Cavan and Emily and adjoining places.

THE KENT CASE.

An Interesting Incident Which Has Caused Much Excitement in Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 7.—Considerable interest has been aroused in this city and the vicinity by the case of Mr. C. H. Kent, an old and esteemed resident residing at 114 Cambridge street, who is reported to have recovered in a remarkable manner from Bright's disease, owing to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The case is the more remarkable in that the disease in question had been always looked on as incurable and the matter has been considered worthy of an investigation by the newspapers here, who have devoted an unusual amount of space to the result of their inquiries and have published several interviews with Mr. Kent and members of his family. The case is being watched with great interest not only by the friends of Mr. Kent, but by the medical fraternity of the city.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Her Husband's Death and Her Own Narrow Escape—A Story of More Than Ordinary Interest.

Napanee (Ont.) Beaver.

Milesp is a little country settlement about four miles from Newburgh, Ont. Among the oldest and most esteemed residents of the locality is Mrs. Patrick Dewey, who bears her seventy-one years with a cheerfulness and vivacity that might be envied by many, a score of years younger. Mrs. Dewey had always enjoyed good health until about five years ago. At that time her husband was stricken with paralysis, and the worry and constant watching over his sick bed brought on disease. She began to waste away, was subject to severe headaches and spells of dizziness, and then her trouble was still further aggravated by an attack of rheumatism. Troubles do not come singly. Her husband was stricken with a second and third stroke of paralysis, and Mrs. Dewey's arduous task was increased. In searching for health for herself in order that she might be able to devote more of her time to her stricken husband, Mrs. Dewey tried many medicines but with indifferent results. While reading the Beaver one night, she read of a case similar to her own cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and determined to give them a trial. She sent for a supply and soon after beginning their use felt beneficial results. At this stage her husband died and Mrs. Dewey lost in her overwhelming grief, forgot her own ills and the medicine she had been taking. A severe attack of la grippe ensued, and her friends thought she would soon follow her husband to the grave. Her system was run down until she was but little more than a skeleton. In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were again resorted to, and Mrs. Dewey gradually regained her health and strength, and now no trace of illness remains. Her neighbours look upon her recovery as a miracle, and Mrs. Dewey herself declares her firm belief that but for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills she would now be in the grave, and she loses no opportunity of recommending them to others.

These pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from vitiated condition of the blood, or a shattered nervous system. Sold by all dealers or by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50. There are numerous imitations, against which the public is cautioned.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A quiet wedding took place in the Roman Catholic church, Keene, on Monday, Feb. 25th, at 10 a.m., when Miss Mary, second daughter of Mr. Wm. Foley, of [illegible] married to Mr. James Ryan, of Peterborough. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Brown. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Carrie Foley, while Mr. Jas. Ryan assisted the groom. After the ceremony about fifty of the older people drove to the home of the bride to partake of the wedding dinner. A grand reception was held in the evening, when about one hundred were present and spent a very pleasant evening. Guests were present from Hastings, Peterborough and other places.

The young couple left on the morning train for Peterborough. May health, wealth and prosperity attend the young couple in their journey through life.

There will be a one mile matched race in the rink, on Friday evening, March 8th, between D. Fraser, of Norwood, and Harry H. Bell, of Peterborough, for a handsome silver medal, also a hockey match, Keene vs. Norwood, the same evening. Do not miss this splendid chance of spending a pleasant evening in the rink.

Quite a number of our good Tory friends attended the Conservative convention in Norwood, on Tuesday.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Miss Annie Raddon, music teacher of Norwood, was agreeably surprised at Mr. Wm. ROBERT BURNS, THE BARD OF SCOTIA.

(Dedicated to the Admirers of the Poet.)

Some names are born to live for aye,
And some are born to die,
And some are born—one finds it hard
To tell the reason why.
And some there are who sing their lays,
In melodies most glorious,
Mong such a throng we dare to name
Robert Burns, victorious.

He sang of love, the sweetest love,
In strains of such perfection,
That Caledonia "stern and wild"
Was filled with the infection.
He sang of daisies, mice and men,
And merry maids most winsome;
Of witches, warlocks, bogies dire
And fearful dells most grimsome.

He was a child of nature born,
As he himself hath said it,
No skill had he that's college bred,
We often too have read it,
He was no reckless, raving chiel,
That Scotch folks call a ranter;
The "frenzy fine" came streaming out,
He named it "Tam O'Shanter."

He sang of Doon bright, lovely Doon,
Its banks and braes enchanting,
Of flowers rare and ladies fair
And lads that went gallanting;
Sweet Afton's streams were dear to him,
Mary, he kepded, fu' brawlie
My Nannie O! with "Auld Lang Syne,"
And "Bonnie Annie Laurie."

In Scotia's heart without a peer,
In summer land most vernal,
He'll live till earthly music's lost,
In rhapsodies eternal—
Like star that in the azure shines,
With every constant glory,
His name shall shine in distant times
And be an endless story.

A Clever Solicitor.

Mr. Benjamin James was a solicitor. He was a clever man, and he was also a clever solicitor. When he had a case in hand he either lost it or else he won it.

Sometimes it was one way and sometimes the other.

But it was usually the former.

As there were two possibilities to the conclusion of any action, so he had two forms of announcing the results to his clients.

If he was successful he wrote:—

Mr. J. B. Brown (Re Brown v. Smith):—

SIR—I am pleased to inform you that I have to-day won this action. Yours faithfully. BENJAMIN JAMES.

If, on the other hand, he lost the case, he wrote:—

Mr. B. J. Smith (Re Smith v. Brown):—

SIR—I regret to inform you that you have to-day lost this action. Yours faithfully, BENJAMIN JAMES.

The Newsboy Critics.

The following has missed reporting in the evening sheet devoted to newsboys' interests.

"Say Davy, wot's th' matter wid de jay directors of de Mail and Empire? Why didn't dey giv' it a new name 'stead o' tackin' de old 'un onto it?"

"Why not, Petesey? Don' yeh stan' by de old rag?"

"'Course I does. I'm a Tory fr'm 'way back, but I ain't gettin' de protection I should. Yeh see it's dis way. I hate teh holler double de names for half de stuff, me t'roat won't stan' it."

The above occurred at an emergency meeting of the Newsboys' Association called to consider whether their rights were being infringed upon by the recent amalgamation. On resolution it was resolved to leave out the "and" and use the hyphen in calling the new Conservative organ. I know this is so because I heard one of the walking bosses using it the other morning.—Saturday Night.

STRICKEN WITH A PARTIAL PARALYSIS

This Was the Case with Miss Minnie Stevens, of London, Ont.

The Parents Had Lost Hope of Her Recovery, But Even After Her Arm, Side and Leg Had Become Powerless South American Nervine Effected a Cure—To-day This Young Lady, Daughter of F. A. Stevens, of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, Enjoys Perfect Health.

MISS MINNIE STEVENS, LONDON, ONT.

Men and women in the exercise of physical or mental power can usually go a certain length, but a step beyond this proves too severe a test. It is the same in the field of medicine. If the case is not a trying one some simple remedy will cure, but it is when a medicine proves effective in an aggravated and extraordinary case that its real power is tested. South American Nervine has made some wonderful cures in cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, debility and nervous prostration, not to name other troubles. When nervousness, however, takes hold of the system to that extent that it becomes paralysed and the limbs lose their natural power, then it is that the patient and her friends may indeed commence to lose heart. Miss Minnie Stevens, a fair daughter of London, Ont., had undergone this trying experience. She had been troubled with nervousness. The trouble grew and after a time assumed such shape that she could not lift or even hold anything in her hand. This member, in fact, was useless to her. The trouble spread down the side and partially into one leg. Her face began to twitch. In truth, all the indications of paralysis creeping over the system were manifest. Do we wonder that her parents lost hope of her recovery? They saw the fatal disease rapidly twining itself around their beautiful child. Surrounded with every comfort and possessing the means as well as the will to do everything that was in their power to provide relief, yet, apparently, this could not be obtained, until influenced by the statements of the wonderful cures effected by South American Nervine in cases of nervous prostration, the parents finally decided to try this medicine. After using twelve bottles their daughter became perfectly well, and to-day in the Forest City there is no young girl more healthy than Minnie Stevens, and her father, Mr. F. A. Stevens, of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, is indeed a happy man. The statement cannot be made in too positive and distinct terms that this great discovery is capable of marvelous demonstration in all nervous troubles.

The testimony that comes to the proprietor of Nervine shows that it has absolutely cured in the case of the young, as here cited, and those who have nearly reached, or gone beyond, the three score years and ten have likewise found a cure in this medicine.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relatives spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

TWO RUNAWAYS OCCUR SIMULTANEOUSLY.

Fortunately the Occupants of Neither Cutter Were Seriously Injured.

A singular accident occurred yesterday which occasioned the upsetting of two cutters with their occupants who, by a miracle, escaped being seriously injured by the mishap.

Mrs. Reid, of Bobcaygeon, was driving into town along Water street, near Dublin, and when attempting to turn out and pass Mrs. and Miss Dennistoun, who were driving in front, her cutter ran up on the high bank and the snow not giving way beneath the runner, one side was raised so high as to cause Mrs. Reid's cutter to upset and throw her out in such a position that Mrs. Dennistoun's cutter ran over her. Frightened by the occurrence, Mrs. Dennistoun's horse bolted, throwing both herself and her daughter out, Mrs. Reid's horse also ran away.

Mr. Edwin Flaherty, carter, who was on the street about a block below where the accident took place, was successful in capturing both runaways, which reflects not a little credit in his courage and cleverness in such a crisis.

Miss Maggie Lockington, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid for the occasion, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Johnston, of Port Hope.

HOCKEY.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Granite II. hockey team of Toronto, which were defeated in the finals for the Junior Championship by the local team in Toronto, will be brought to Peterborough on Friday evening next for a friendly game. As this will be the last match of the season, it should be liberally patronized, and a neat compliment would be conveyed by the band if the members would turn out for the occasion. All Peterborough is justly proud of the magnificent game which the team has put up this winter in winning every match played, even downing Trinity, which almost won the Senior Championship. All who went to Toronto to see the great match in the finals will go to the rink again on Friday evening to see a similar game played, and all who didn't go to Toronto will miss the chance of a lifetime if they do not witness this game.

The members of the Collegiate Institute I. team will go to Whitby on Friday to play the Collegiate Institute team of that town. The local boys will, without doubt, reflect credit on the town, and, if playing their game, should win the match easily, though pitted against a strong team.

The Keene Hockey Club will try conclusions with the Collegiate Institute II. team this afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock on the local ice.

The Norwood boys will be up to Peterborough to play the Volts this evening between nine and ten o'clock on the local ice. A good game may be expected.

It is too bad that the town league went to the wall so soon. The matches were just beginning to excite interest amongst the townspeople when they were discontinued. When the series was closed the games stood as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tie.
Collegiate I.	2	0	1
Volts I.	1	1	0
Peterborough II.	0	1	1
Volts II.	1	1	0
Collegiate II.	0	1	0

OUTFALL SEWER ARBITRATION AWARD.

Some Ratepayers do not Understand it.

In regard to the award of Judge Ketchum, the arbitrator re outfall sewer between the town and North Monaghan, printed in yesterday's EXAMINER, it is learned that many of the ratepayers do not understand its scope.

They cannot understand why the discharge of sewerage into the river should be limited to five years. They think that if the limit had been placed at, say, 15 years the arbitrator would have meant that the population of the town, and consequently the volume of sewage would have increased to such an extent, that the sewage emptied into the river would form a danger of pollution to an injurious extent. Some also think they could have understood the decision if, in connection with the period of five years, the arbitrator had provided for a reference to and a provision for further arbitration at the end of that time.

These gentlemen will have to exercise a little patience. It may be stated that the summanary of the award printed in yesterday's issue, was only the operative portion of the award. The full text of Judge Ketchum's decision, which is expected in a few days, probably at the beginning of the week, will give his reasons for arriving at the conclusions he did arrive at and these may contain the information that will enable the ratepayers referred to to reach the understanding of the award, which they do not now possess.

COMPOUND COMMINUTED FRACTURE.

An Accident That Befel Mr. James Kennedy.

Mr. James Kennedy, of McDonal street, an employee at the Canadian General Electric Works, met with a serious accident yesterday when at work. He was buffing a coil of heavy copper wire on a revolving cylinder when one end of the wire became unfastened and flying loose struck his fingers a blow of such force as to crush them horribly. In the second revolution the wire inflicted a bad flesh wound on Mr. Kennedy's right breast.

Upon being examined by several physicians, who were summoned to his home where young Kennedy was conveyed, it was ascertained that three of his fingers had suffered compound comminuted fractures, the bone protuding through the flesh of one. The doctors are in hopes of saving the fingers without having to perform the operation of amputation.

CAN CHEESE-MAKING BE OVERDONE?

Mr. Clouston Gives Reasons to Show that it Can.

To the Editor of the Examiner

DEAR SIR,—Some time ago I wrote a letter to the Bobcaygeon Independent, which you were kind enough to copy into the EXAMINER.

My object was to sound a warning note to farmers to check, rather than increase, the manufacture of Canadian cheese.

In connection with the industry, I take the liberty of submitting extracts from a letter written in Melbourne, Australia, which has been lying on my desk for some time past.

I may add that Australia and New Zealand shipped 2000 tons more cheese last year than they ever shipped before in one year.

Last winter I sold in London cheese at 60 shillings ($15.00) per cwt.—112 pounds. This winter it has been down to 48s. for white, and 49s. for coloured American. The losses to dealers on last autumn's shipments will be very severe indeed. Canadian cheese will get a set back, and lower prices may be looked for in the future.

The butter trade is about killed out by the enormous shipments from Australia and New Zealand, and present prices are checking the manufacture of oleomargarine and other imitations of butter.

My Dear Mr. Clouston:

"I am here in the Antipodes, and although so far away from home the same grand old flag waves over me, and I feel that I am still amongst 'kith and kin.'

"It was here I made my start, being one of the earliest arrivals in 1852 of the many thousands who came to Victoria seeking fortune in her gold fields. Melbourne was then only a very moderate town—not much larger than Peterborough is to-day, and now it is one of the finest cities in the world, having a population of about half a million with everything there is anywhere to make up comfort and luxury. Fine broad streets, superb buildings, gas, water, electricity, tram railways extending for miles in every direction, with mansions and gardens of exquisite beauty. To give you an idea, now the Governor's residence and grounds are in fields where I and my friend pitched our tents and slept our first night. At that time there were over 300 vessels lying in Hobson's Bay, mostly without crews (who deserted to make their way to the 'diggings.') And it was on this site where grew up afterwards Canvas Town, a place of none of the best repute. The contrast between those days and the present is truly great. Business in this and the other antipodean colonies is at present very much depressed, owing to the financial crash of last year and the continued low prices for wool, meat, wheat, etc. Butter and cheese are the only articles for which they have been getting fair prices. This branch of business is making rapid strides, both here and in New Zealand. And, in a very few years, in my opinion, will supply England with the bulk of their winter's requirements, their spring and summer being as near as possible the opposite of ours; this (21st December) being the longest day here. The heat is now very great, running as high as 105° in the shade.

I am going round to Western Australia, which will take about three weeks, and I fear I shall not get back to Canada until the end of March or beginning of April, when I hope to again have the pleasure of seeing you well and hearty, and when I will be able to tell you much that I feel sure will interest you, especially as regards dairying matters. * * * *

Thanking you for space given in the important interests of Canadian dairying, I remain, yours very truly,

W. CLUXTON,

AN ENQUIRY.

The EXAMINER has received the following letter:—

DEAR SIR,—In a February issue of the EXAMINER you publish this year's holy days and holidays, including St. Patrick's Day, and omitting the 12th of July. Now, sir, is not the 12th of July as sacred and as joyous a day to the Protestant people as St. Patrick's Day is to the Romans? Therefore, why did you pass by the Glorious Twelfth?

Yours, etc.,

J. A. DODDS.

Markdale, March 6th, 1895.

[In regard to this matter it may be mentioned that the list of days referred to was a "floating paragraph" that appeared in a number of papers and was simply clipped as an item of passing interest to the curious in such matters. There was no intention, on the part of the EXAMINER, at least, to slight any section of the community. The correspondent might have noticed that the date of St. George's Day, St. Andrew's Day, and 12th of August (sacred to a portion of the Protestant community) was not included in the list mentioned. The paragraph was simply printed for the benefit of those interested in statistical matters. Anyone interested in any of the days mentioned can be trusted to remember the date without instruction; if not, then his interest is not very great.

CANON BURKE ON FAMILY RELIGION.

BELLEVILLE'S GIFTED THEOLOGIAN'S EXCELLENT ADDRESS.

His Remarks so Appreciated That the Largest reception in the Church History was Tendered Him at the Close of the Interesting Service.

Rev. Canon Burke, of Belleville, known as one of the foremost Canadian theologians, delivered a sermon on family religion, last evening, in St. John's church, and so apt and true were his remarks that at the close of the address, an informal reception of no inconsiderable magnitude was tendered him in the Vestry.

The Canon took for his text a portion of Joshua, xxiv chap., 15 ver., "But as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

"The family," he stated, "was a Divine institution, firstly and lastly. It was originated in the Garden of Eden and any human laws, which interfered with the Divine arrangement must necessarily be prejudicial." The was dwelt upon to considerable extent and the violation thereof was scathingly denounced.

Rev. Mr. Burke then outlined in a few brief remarks what a Christian family might be expected to be. Whether within the Church or without, it would have a blessed influence. An atmosphere of religion would be found in such a family. As the rich perfume of flowers greeted one entering the door of a conservatory, so would the innate sense of being brought in contact with something pure and holy possess one entering the portals of a home, wherein resided the ideal family. It was not necessary to parade the home religion ostentatiously. It was sufficient if it became apparent as a quiet reality. Family devotion and family prayer would be found in such a home. While these did not take the place of attendance at church or of individual prayer, still neither would individual prayer and church attendance take the place of family worship. The three were required

IN THE PERFECT HOME.

The Bible would always be found in the ideal family. Not on the centre table as a receptacle for and surrounded by trash, but in constant daily use. The discipline of love and kindness which was exercised enabled each member of such a family to realize their own duty and responsibility, and assisted them in assuming their proper place in the home circle.

In speaking of the boys in the family, the Canon expressed the view that the home should never be so fine that boys were not allowed in the parlour. The idea should be to allow them access to all parts of the house, and to inculcate the desire in them to aid in preserving the general neatness of the apartments.

The Christian family should be a church-going family, and in this respect the father's word should always be "Come," not "Go." The word "Go" had a repellant significance, while in contrast "Come" sounded attractive.

A family united in the home was always

UNITED IN THE CHURCH.

Many persons made various excuses for not attending worship, and one of the most common pleas was that some friends called during the evening and consequently they were unable to leave home. Sunday was the Lord's day and not a day for visiting, and it would be well if this fact were more generally realized. The invitation to God's house on Sunday should not be slighted. In the event of friends calling these friends should be brought also to the place of worship. Once such a practice became more fully recognized those making calls would understand the necessity of complying with it.

All helpers in the family, the Canon thought, should be well cared for, as in a sense the family was responsible for the souls of such. A standing invitation to the family pew should always be extended to the helpers, and only those should be employed who attended service regularly, and their treatment should always

BE MARKED WITH KINDNESS.

Many hearts were touched, when the Canon referred to those who were absent from the family circle, to those who were strangers in a strange land. These, he thought, should make a point of keeping up the family connection and retain them in the family life. This could be done by the regular home letter. The vivid picture drawn by the speaker at this juncture was very realistic, concerning the receiving in the Irish home of the weekly letter from America, which, though it contained no gold, always conveyed its full meed of affection and received a warm welcome. When away from home, all should remember that the church was their spiritual home, in which they needed no welcome—there they had a place by right.

Mr. Burke was pleased to learn that St. John's was never closed in the summer, but was always open as a place of prayer as it was during the Lenten term. Those who felt any diffidence about praying in their boarding places had therefore a fitting place to which to repair at any time for devotional exercise.

The interesting and instructive sermon was closed by the expression of the hope that the remarks made had all been so conveyed as to carry with them the conviction of the necessity of complying with the sentiments expressed.

On Wednesday evening next Rev. Mr. Etherington, rector of Sunderland, will conduct the service.

"If all the gold in mint or bank,
All earthly things that men call wealth
Were mine, with every third rank,
I'd give them all for precious health."

Thus in anguish wrote a lady teacher to a near friend, telling of pitiless headache, of smarting pain, of pain in back and loins, of dejection, weakness and nervous, feverish unrest. The friend knew both causes and cure and flashed back the answer, "Take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." The distressed teacher obeyed, was restored to perfect health, and her daily duties once more became a daily pleasure. For lady teachers, saleslaadies and others kept long standing or broken down by exhausting work, the "Prescription" is a most potent restorative tonic, and a certain cure for all female weakness. Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

The Attendance Swelling and Great Interest Being Manifested.

There was not room last night to accommodate those who were desirous of attending the evangelistic service in St. Paul's church. The meeting was deeply interesting throughout, many signifying a desire to live better lives.

The song service was conducted by Mr. J. Whyte and throughout the evening rendered solos that were stirring and pleasing to all.

Rev. Mr. Moore took as his text, a portion of the 21st verse of the 45th chap. of Isaiah "A just God and a Saviour." Everywhere he went he could see this motto, "God is love," but nowhere did he see the motto, "God is just." He impressed upon those present to look upon God as a just God, as well as a loving God. He claimed to-day that the people treated Christ as meanly as the Jews by continually rejecting Him. His message to them to-night would be found in the 22nd verse of the same chapter, "Look unto Me and be ye saved."

Mr. Whyte sang in a very touching manner, "Cast thy bread upon the waters," after which he spoke of the selfishness of mankind, some wasting valuable time on dogs, while their brethren around them were starving. He pleaded with the people to awaken to their individual responsibilities.

The first meeting was now closed by singing Hymn 61. Those desiring left the church during the singing of this hymn. A large number remained for the second meeting. Many requested prayers for friends and relatives.

The meeting this afternoon is being held in St. Andrew's church.

On Friday afternoon a meeting for children will be held in St. Paul's church at 4.15.

The evening services will be conducted in St. Paul's church during the week, excepting on Saturday night.

St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. hold a prayer service in the Bible class rooms every evening at 7.30. All are welcome at this meeting.

A Lie Told In School.

It has always been father's purpose to give his children a fair education, but as the family increased in size and numbers and father's salary would not grow in the same proportion, he found it necessary to cut down some of the avenues of expenditure. One of his first thoughts was that of the shoe bill for the family. Said he, "I'll be the cobbler when any shoes need repairing after this." Unfortunately my shoes gave out first, and the next day was set for repair day. Father brought from the shop where he was working some of the old belting that had been laid by. This leather was thoroughly saturated with oil, and as I entered the schoolroom next day with new tape on my shoes the oil would form a mark on the floor, just like a footprint on the newly fallen snow, and what good excuse to tell I couldn't think of.

It became an eyesore to the whole school, and I was wishing somehow I might take a vacation. Finally the teacher noticed it. I was called up to the desk, leaving my track all the way, and asked to explain. Shaking like a leaf, I told the story. My brother Jack and I had got to fighting the other day in the cellar, and he threw me in a pan of grease that was near by cooling. That lie settled the teacher, but the other element of the school were not satisfied until they stood me on my head and looked at my shoes.—Cor. New York Recorder.

In a City Restaurant.

A trifling incident noted not long ago in a city restaurant tells its own story and needs no spoken moral. Two girls, possibly attendants in a shop, were sitting together eating their luncheon, and one was holding forth to her companion on an experience which had just befallen her.

"I came in here," said she, "and got this seat, but wan't long before an old lady came in and sat next to me. She took off one pair of glasses and put on another. Then she stared and stared at the bill of fare and laid it down. I thought first she couldn't read a word Then she turned around to me.

" 'Will you let me sit next to the window?' says she.

"I didn't take any notice, and in a minute she said it again. Then I answered her:

" 'No,' says I, 'this is my seat, and I'm going to keep it.'

"She turned 'way round in her chair then and looked me all over. Then she looked away. But I guess she knew I'd got the best of her, for she did have the manners to say:

" 'I beg your pardon.'

"She spoke real low, and I noticed she looked kind of surprised."—Youth's Companion.

The Servant Was Horrified.

Dr. S. had a newly arrived Hibernian for a servant. He had also recently purchased a pair of porpoise leather boots. His wife, attracted by the novelty of the new footwear, asked the doctor in the presence of the servant what they were made of, to which he responded, "Porpoise hide."

Shortly after the lady from the Emerald Isle interviewed Mrs. S. and announced her intention of "laving whin me week is up." Mrs. S., somewhat surprised, asked the disturbed domestic the reason for her announced departure, to which Bridget responded with a horrified air:

"Your husband is a docther, mum, an I've heard them docthers do be cuttin up people, an didn't I hear um wid me own ears say that the boots of him were made of panper's hide. It's me own ould father that died in the poorhouse, an I wouldn't be servin a haythen that uses the skin of the poor to cover his dirthy feet wid."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

PRETTY BELLES OF VIENNA.

Three of Them Chosen by Popular Vote Annually.

There are three contests among the pretty girls of Vienna for the prize of beauty every year. The first, held on the summit of Mount Kahlenberg, takes place on St. Anne's day, and is attended by all the notabilities of the city, including foreign Ambassadors. Every visitor on paying a coin equivalent to about ten cents receives a ticket which entitles him to record one vote for the lady whom he deems the most beautiful. It used to be open to the fair ones to canvass for themselves, and many of the most enterprising would boldly address a perfect stranger, and, with a winning smile, inquire whether he did not consider her worthy a vote; whereupon he would gallantly offer his ticket. This year, however, that practice has been stopped, and the utmost that a pretty candidate is allowed to do is to appoint a male canvasser to ask you what o'clock it is or at what time the votes will be counted. And the curiosity among them for information is quite amazing. But it is natural enough, for a beauty prize is as good as a dowry and throws open the gates of matrimony to the crowned one. People from near and far throng to these contests. Several first-class military bands are performing all the afternoon on the mountain. Toys, ginger-bread, indigestible eatables, flags and lanterns are offered for sale; all the ingredients of a regular fair—a Dutch kirmess—are scattered over the place in abundance, the whole ending in a brilliant display of fireworks at night.

At about ten o'clock all those ladies who have received the votes of their admirers enter the brilliantly lighted hall, where the members of the committee are seated, adorned with many colored scarfs and badges. The girl approaches the table, gives her name and the number of votes she has received, in proof of which she delivers up the coupons, and takes a numbered ticket from the committe. An hour later the results are read out: "Miss A., having obtained 531 votes, is entitled to the first prize, 100 crowns ($20); Miss B., with 329 votes, has the second prize, a silver watch; Miss C., with 174 votes, receives the third prize, a silver medal." After this announcement the three successful graces come forward, stand on an elevated platform and receive a royal ovation, after which supper, beer drinking, singing and harmless mirth bring the friendly contest to a close toward the early hours of the morning.—San Francisco Argonaut.

How Corean Women Iron Clothes.

Among many queer Corean customs there is none stranger than that of ironing. There are no better dressed people in the world than the Coreans. They wear immaculate gowns, and the prevailing costume is white. The common dress of the men is made up of a long, full cotton gown, full white pantaloons and wadded white stockings. These are as clean as the best work of a Chinese laundry, and they are; washed in cold water and ironed with a cold club. The women do all the washing and ironing of the land. They wrap the garments around a stick, which is laid on the floor, and then one or two women squat down beside it and pound on the cloth with round, smooth wooden clubs till every fibre has the polish and gloss of our best laundries. This does not seem to hurt the cloth, and the clothes have a wonderful whiteness. It takes a long time to iron a garment, and the rat-tat-tat of these clubs is to be heard all over Corea. You hear it morning, noon and evening, and at nearly all the hours of the night, and it may be called "The National Song of Corea" or the "Corean Song of the Shirt." The women tap out a tune as they play, and the most of their time is taken up in washing, ironing and sewing.

AN AIR CYCLE NEXT.

THAT IS WHAT'S WANTED BEFORE THE FLYING MACHINE.

The Bicycle No Longer Satisfies the Longing of Mankind for Free Movement. We Want to Travel as the Birds Do, but Must Learn Essential Lessons First.

The Frenchman who covered the dead walls of Paris with calls for subscriptions to a Society of Aviation, to start with a capital of 500,000 francs, may have been lacking in the highest qualities of public spirit. He was placed in jail for taking money for his little private flying machines, costing from $500 to $3,000, which he failed to deliver. But his merit lies in discovering the want that fills the breasts of a large number of men today. It is only the somewhat headlong method of gratifying that yearning which has interfered for a time with his locomotion. Had he but had the forethought to invent, to beg or to borrow a fairly efficient flying machine, nothing short of a cage would now prevent him from taking a leave as French as himself.

Though he should languish for the rest of his days in prison, M. Delprat will have the glory of the discovery that the bicycle no longer satisfies the longing of mankind toward a freer movement over the face of land and water. If we are to believe the evolutionists, man is the result of gradual aspiration, from the worm that walloweth on a portion of its anatomy unsuited to ears polite, through the many footed, the four footed and four handed beasts, up to the natural lord of creation who runs perpendicular on two feet. The present century has seen man become what the old legends would have termed the "whirling one foot." Why should not this progress continue and the next century find man rising from that single pied a terre into more or less sustained aviation?

The flying machine still holding to earth by one wheel has already appeared sporadically in England, according to Engineering. Mr. Philipps published the results of his trial of a machine resting on a light car and claims that he flew, but the front wheel of the car never left the ground. This is quite as it should be. We creep before we walk, we graduate from tricycle to bicycle, and now we are at the unicycle age. Who is the man to lift us finally clear of the earth?

The principle of the balloon, useful as it is in overcoming gravity, has carried generations of inventors into a fool's paradise.

Birds are lighter than beasts, but they are not soap bubbles. And to the bird we have to return indirectly or directly for lessons in the navigation of the air. The aeroplane, in which our able aviators are now reposing so much confidence, but upon which they take care not to repose their own brittle bodies, is the result of a study of the soaring of birds. Latterly it has been reasoned out that individual feathers have a powerful influence in supporting the bird in air. So the aeroplanes are made not solid, but with slats, and in some cases jointed in sections, so that while one portion is in one plane another may be tilted up or down to get the lifting power of a change of angle. This power is so great that our leading aviators, like Hiram Maxim and Professor Langley, expect to obtain great velocities if they can once get their airships under way and under control.

The money spent by these inventors and investigators is mounting to a great sum, but who shall say it is wasted, considering the benefits to accrue? The remark attributed to Giffard when dying, that he would not reveal the secret of his airship because "he thought he saw the air ensanguined by war as the seas have been, and the earth," need not disturb us. If he did say that, he was temporarily in a state of weakness, for the flying machine will do more than anything yet invented to break down the prejudices of one nation for another. Wars are the result of such prejudices carefully inflamed by ambitious men, and while the aviation is not going to stop all wars it will surely reduce them to a minimum.

More important than such machines as Lieutenants Renard and Krebs successfully steered from Meudon to the walls of Paris and back again are the small flying machines developed from the bicycle, which seem now about to make their appearance. The bicycle with electric motor is invented. Now comes the turn of a combination of bicycle and aviator which shall permit the rider to leave earth and skim along for 100 yards or so without detriment to himself or his machine. By way of these inventions will come the discovery, step by step, of means and methods of sustaining flight for longer periods and also the actual training in motion through the air which is now wanting to mankind.

The inventors who are constructing on paper or in actuality great flying machines are like men of an inland race who have for the first time seen a broad piece of water. Before learning to paddle a canoe they are already building a frigate; before understanding the principle of the steam engine they are setting to work to make an ocean steamer. What is wanted is a popular air cycle, an "air safety," to lead the way to balloon air wagons with sustained flight. Who will invent one?—New York Times.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

Championed by a Gamin.

A ragged, barefooted boy, a crossing sweeper, had doffed his cap to the Duchess of Sutherland in the hope of recognition, when he observed a well dressed but rakish looking man following her across the street, as if trying to force upon her attentions that were evidently obnoxious to her. There was a look of distress on the duchess' face.

"Scuse me, lady," said a boy's voice beside her, "shall I punch 'is 'ead?"

She turned, looked down angrily upon the little sweeper, and then said, smiling:

"Why, it's Jemmie!"

She had remembered his name after all, and at that moment the boy was hers, body and soul. Without waiting for another word he dashed off and turned a sort of violent "cartwheel" so adroitly calculated that he landed with two very muddy feet in the middle of the offensive man's waistcoat.

Then, before the man could recover from the shock, the boy had slapped him with one muddy hand across the month and with the other had deposited a handful of the filthy compound on the back of his neck.

The next moment the boy was in the grasp of a policeman, who dragged him away to the nearest police station. He was just being charged by the constable with having committed an assault when the duchess entered. She spoke kindly to the gamin and then explained the affair to the inspector on duty.

At her request the boy was set at liberty, and he staid only long enough to say to the inspector:

"It's the lady what nursed me when the cab run over me leg."—London Cor. New York Tribune.

Hints About Driving.

When driving, you must watch the road. Turn out for stones, so that the horse shall not stumble nor the wheels jolt over them; avoid the mudholes and places where the going is bad; let the horse slacken speed when the road becomes heavy, and if you want to make up time do it where the ground slightly descends.

It is a common mistake to think that a horse can haul a carriage easily on the level. On such a road he has to be pulling every moment; there is no rest. Whereas when the road now rises and now falls the weight is taken off him at times, and he has a chance to recover his wind and to rest his muscles. As between a level road in a valley and an up and down road over the hills, the latter is by far the easier for a horse to travel. When you come to a long level stretch, let your horse walk a bit in the middle of it.

Almost everybody knows that for the first few miles after coming out of the stable a horse should be driven slowly, and especially if he has just been fed. On a journey it is of the utmost importance to observe this rule. Be careful, however, not to check a young nag too quickly when he comes fresh out of the stable. Give him his head, talk to him soothingly, and presently he will come down to a moderate pace. If you pull him up at once, you vex him extremely, so much so that he is not unlikely to kick.—Harper's Young People.

When Booth Saved Young Lincoln's Life.

It was at Bowling Green, Ky., during the summer of 1877. Edwin Booth stood upon a platform waiting for a train; so, too, did a man unknown to the actor. Buried in thought, this stranger left the platform to walk upon the track, not noticing an approaching engine. One moment more and there would have been an indistinguishable corpse. Silently, suddenly, Edwin Booth seized this stranger and lifted him almost bodily upon the platform. So close came the engine that it struck the stranger's heels as they left the track. "Do you know who that man is?" asked Mr. Ford, the well known manager of Baltimore, who witnessed the thrilling scene.

"No," replied Booth.

"Robert Lincoln, President Lincoln's son."

This was the most satisfactory incident in Edwin Booth's life. Sensitive as a woman, he suffered untold tortures for the mad deed of his brother. He had voted for Abraham Lincoln as president and never voted before or after.—Kate Field's Washington.

Materialism Against Wit.

Some things of course in the French display—especially of pottery and bronzes—are purely decorative, and some of the visitors of course are destitute of taste. The consequence is that occasionally a person will come along who will gaze at objects of transcendent artistic merit with no feeling but one of mystery and curiosity. So it happened the other day, when a simple minded woman stopped for awhile in front of one of a pair of vases 5 feet high, the price of which is $5,000.

She gazed at it attentively for a few moments and then said dryly to M. Melaile, who stood by, "Pray, what is that for?"

The Frenchman took her measure at a glance and replied with elaborate politeness, "That is intended to boil eggs in, madam."—Chicago Tribune.

A PROHIBITION CANDIDATE.

Mr. W. W. Buchanan Accepts the Nomination of the Temperance People.

Hamilton, March 7.—At a meeting of temperance people held here it was decided to bring out an independent candidate in the approaching elections. Mr. W. W Buchanan was the almost unanimous choice of the meeting. Mr. Buchanan agreed to accept the nomination if the executive would raise a fund of at least $3,000 as a nucleus for expenses of the campaign. The executive pledged itself to raise the amount mentioned and a public meeting for the ratification of Mr. Buchanan's candidature will be held in the opera house at an early date. Mr. Buchanan said he would not take the campaign on the one issue of prohibition but would want plenty of latitude in regard to the stand he should take on other public questions. In politics Mr. Buchanan is a Liberal. Headquarters are being secured and arrangements for prosecuting the campaign are being made.

THE HENDERSHOTT TRIAL.

The Grand Jury Return a True Bill Against Both Prisoners.

St. Thomas, March 7.—At the assizes here yesterday a true bill was brought in by the Grand Jury against Wm. David Welter and John D. Hendershott, of wilfully murdering Wm. Hendershott on December 14th last. The prisoners were then brought into the court room and they were requested to stand up. The clerk of the assize read the indictment and they were asked individually if guilty or not guilty, both prisoners answered in a clear, firm voice, that they were not guilty. They were then asked if they were ready for trial. They replied that they were. The trial will start at 1.30 p.m. to-day.

Professor Ellis and Dr. A. J. Johnson of Toronto are here to give expert testimony. In addition to them ten other medical men will be called.

The Crown is taking extraordinary precautions to guard against any attempt at bribing the jury.

Dr. Montague Nominated.

Cayuga, March 7.—The Conservative convention for the constituencies of Haldimand and Monck met at the Court House yesterday to nominate a candidate for the House of Commons. Speeches were delivered by the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Arthur Boyle, M.P., and Hon. W. H. Montague. Dr. Montague, the present member, was nominated. In accepting the nomination the nominee made a speech which was well received. The Conservative Association of the old constituency of Haldimand presented the Hon. W. H. Montague with an address. About 2,000 people attended the convention.

Mr. Ingram Again Chosen.

Aylmer, March 7.—A convention of East Elgin Conservatives was held here yesterday. The only name submitted to the convention for nomination for the Commons was that of Mr. A. B. Ingram, the present member. Mr. Ingram made a brief address thanking the convention for their great kindness since he had come among them four years ago. He also touched slightly on the questions of the day. A number of gentlemen made short addresses endorsing Mr. Ingram's candidature.

In the New County of Labelle.

Ottawa, March 7.—On good authority it is stated that Mr. Alanson Cooke will be the choice of the Conservatives as a candidate for the County of Labelle for the House of Commons at the approaching elections. Mr. Cooke is an old resident and is well and favorably known throughout the county.

Gaudaur Wants a Race.

Orillia, March 7.—Jake Gaudaur has issued a challenge to any man in the world (Wag Harding preferred) to row a three-mile race with turn, on any course in America, for a stake of from $1,000 to $2,000 a side.

BOLD BANK ROBBERY.

Two Iowa Farmers Shoot the Cashier and Make Off With the Loose Silver.

Adele, Ia., March 7.—Adelo was the scene of a bold bank robbery yesterday morning, followed by the pursuit of amateur bandits, the killing of one and the formation of a mob which surged about the county jail and threatened to have the life of the living robber. The funds of the bank were saved by the presence of mind of the cashier, who after being shot closed the door of the vault and turned the combination. The robbers, Orlando P. Wilkins and C. W. Crawford, were farmers living in Patterson. A little after 8 o'clock in the morning they drove into Adele in a buggy. Leaving their rig a block away they went to the bank. They entered the bank just as Cashier Leach was taking the money from the vault. Crawford remarked that they wished to make a deposit. Cashier Leach was busy at the time but turned with the inquiry "What is it?" As he did so he looked into the barrel of the shot-gun carried by Wilkins, who immediately fired. Cashier Leach staggered and fell but quickly recovering hefflung the currency and gold on the counter into the vault and closed the door.

Then Crawford kicked in the door leading behind the counter and he and Wilkins scooped the loose silver into a sack. It amounted to $207. After a chase of nearly twelve miles the bandits separated at what is known as "Neal's Crossing." There Crawford secreted himself in a clump of timber but was soon surrounded and surrendered. Wilkins took refuge in a barn, which was quickly surrounded. To repeated orders to come out he made no reply. Then Crawford was forced to saturate a straw stack near the barn with kerosene and start a fire. Wilkins did not shoot at his comrade and when the flames closed about him he made a break across the open space for the timber. He had proceeded but a few yards when he fell wounded. Then the mob lost control of itself and the robber was riddled with bullets. The corpse of Wilkins and his living companion were later taken back to Adele, where Crawford made a full confession.

Hostilities in the Coal War Begun.

Philadelphia, March 7.—Actual hostilities in the coal war declared against the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central by the Reading were began yesterday. The Reading laid an embargo upon all coal shipped yesterday morning from the mines of the Jersey Central and the Lehigh Valley. But a ton of coal was brought into this city during the day from the mines of either of those companies. It is probable that a meeting of the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central officials will be held in New York to-morrow to consider what action shall be taken by their roads.

A Canadian's Promotion.

Buffalo, March 7.—George C. Street has been appointed general manager of the Blue Line, vice B. B. Mitchell, resigned. Mr. Street was born in London, Ont., and began his railroad career as a clerk in the general western agency of the Grand Trunk. In 1868 he was appointed contracting agent for the Great Western. In 1874 he was appointed contracting agent of the Blue Line and in 1879 was made general accountant. He is a brother of Judge Street, of Toronto, and of A. W. Street, of Chicago, general manager of Hoosac Tunnel line.

Noted War Correspondent Dead.

New York, March 7.—Edwin Forbes, the artist and writer, died yesterday in his 56th year of Bright's disease. He was born in this city. At the breaking out of the civil war he became special war correspondent for Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly. He was present at most of the principal engagements of the war and supplied his paper with many drawings made upon the field. At the close of the war he wrote a complete history of it.

Mrs. Booth May Officiate at Weddings.

Cincinnati, March 7.—Mrs. Ballington Booth, of the Salvation Army, was today granted a minister's license by Probate Judge Ferris. The document gives Mrs. Booth the right to officiate at weddings. Adjutant Hargreaves and Lieut. Talbott will be married at the Salvation Army Temple on the 20th inst. Mrs. Booth will perform the wedding ceremony.

Found Dead in Bed.

Flint, Mich., March 7.—Frank Cowles, of Mt. Morris, found his wife dead in bed at seven o'clock yesterday morning. She had two ghastly cuts in the throat and the bedclothes were saturated with blood. The couple had had trouble and had lived separately for some months. Mrs. Cowles asked to stay at the house over night and Cowles gave her his bed and took another.

Giolitti's Trial to Go On.

Rome, March 7.—The court to-day rejected ex-Premier Giolitti's exception to the competence of the court to try his case and ordered that the action of Premier Crispi against him be proceeded with. Signor Giolitti will appeal from the decision.

Miners Out On Strike.

Uniontown, Pa., March 7.—The miners of the fourth and fifth Pools on the Monongahela river are out for a 69 cents rate. All work is suspended and the miners say they will not return unless the demand is granted.

A Dastardly Plot.

Toronto, March 7.—A gentleman residing on Grange avenue in this city, on Sunday morning overheard two men in the vicinity of the Simpson fire discussing a scheme to set fire to the exhibition buildings and Eaton's big store at the same time, so that the fire brigade would be divided and a large conflagration be the result. He has written to the Mayor detailing the conversation. The writer thinks they were in earnest, and says he can identify one of the men. The police will investigate.

To Protect British Interests in Hawaii.

Victoria, B.C., March 7.—Orders have been received at the Esquimalt Naval yard to forward all mails for H. M. S. Nymphe to Honolulu, whither she proceeded from San Diego to protect British interests. It is anticipated that she will have a busy time as the people of England do not look with favor on the long sentences which British subjects have received in connection with the recent uprising.

FACTS AND FIGURES

To Prove the Illiteracy of Countries Where Separate Schools Exist.

Ottawa, March 7.—Mr. McCarthy continued his argument before the Cabinet yesterday morning on the Manitoba school question, and seems to have lots more to come. He gave facts and figures to prove the illiteracy of those countries where Separate schools are established, and the poor comparison they made with countries employing the Public school system. Quebec, in which religion was taught in all but the few dissentient schools, stood at the foot of the list, compared with the other provinces on educational efficiency.

He then dealt with the facts of the case as they stood in Manitoba. Thirty-six of the Separate schools there had voluntarily come into the Public school system, and he most emphatically denied Mr. Ewart's argument that there were schools where Protestant and Catholics could not attend. The master of history and the construction to be placed upon the Ten Commandments complained of could be overcome by a simple remedy, and the Manitoba Government was willing to rectify anything of the kind. Out of the total school population in Ontario of 595,268, 103,824 were Catholics, of whom 43,797 attended the Public schools.

Mr. McCarthy quoted some of the ridiculous questions asked Separate school teachers under examination for 1st class certificates, and wound up by reading Mgr. Satolli's propaganda in the United States, allowing Catholics to attend Public schools. This proved that the Catholics could and did not attend the present schools.

Mr. McCarthy closed his argument yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ewart began his reply, dealing with the historic part of the argument, until the Cabinet rose at 4.30 p.m. The argument will be closed to-day.

Time for Disallowance Expires.

No action has been taken by the Government regarding the Manitoba Act of 1894. The time for disallowance elapsed yesterday so that the measure is not attacked by the Federal authorities.

Suspicious Death of a Child.

Hamilton, March 7.—An inquest will be held into the death of Ethel West, three years of age, who died at the city hospital yesterday. The child was sadly emaciated in appearance and the case is so suspicious that an inquest was considered necessary. She was brought to the hospital three weeks ago by the matron of the Home of the Friendless and was suffering from abscesses on her hips, but was too weak to withstand treatment. A man named West, who adopted the child, was tried in the police court on a charge of cruelty, but the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Centre Wellington Conservatives.

Fergus, March 7.—Centre Wellington Conservatives met here yesterday in convention. Dr. Sproule, of East Grey, Mr. Cargill, of East Bruce and Mr. Clark, the candidate of the north riding, addressed the convention on the issues of the day, after which Mr. W. H. Hunter, of East Garafraxa, received the unanimous nomination of the convention. Mr. Hunter was allowed two weeks to consider the nomination before accepting.

The Late Col. Gilmour's Munificence.

Ottawa, March 7.—It is understood that among the bequests made by the late Col. Allan Gilmour, is the magnificent donation of $25,000 to the Protestant Hospital. Other institutions are not forgotten and the old men of Ottawa and Protestant Orphanage are to receive something like $5,000 each.

Released on Suspended Sentence.

At the HEAD to Stay!

Words are weak in attempting to describe our range in everything that goes to make up the smartest HAT STOCK to be found. We aim to get every first-class idea for the "top" extreme, and we are sure to please, as we we are always—"AT THE HEAD TO STAY."

WIVES, SISTERS, MOTHERS, do you like that Hat your Husband, Brother or Son wears? Send him to a Hat Store where they fit Hats to THE STYLE OF THE MAN. What looks well on some folks may not look well on him. We have a happy knack for head dressing. Don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece—look like prosperity. We have the pick of the styles from such famous English makers as Stanley & Co, Jackson & Co and Wilkinson & Co; and we have the celebrated American EAGLE brand of Fur Hats, union made. The prices won't scare you, either. If you buy your Hats at GOUGH'S you'll soon find out that you save just 20 per cent.

At the FOOT to Lead!

People who wear our Shoes say they enjoy as much solid comfort as the old-timers who wore sandals. But ours are handsome as well as comfortable. We sell easy fitting, durable Shoes, with all the style put on to them that such artistic makers as Slater & Son, of Montreal, can invent. We have all intermediate makes, as well as the cheaper grades from Lower Canada, where they don't pay much for making—sometimes nothing at all.

LADIES are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.00 and $4.00 we mark at $2.00 and $3.00. Cheaper lines run from 75c to $1.50.

THE FIRST DIVISION

An Amendment Attacking the Fee System Voted Down.

WHAT THE BREWERS WANT

The Patrons Vote With the Government —A Bill to Tax Street Railway Rails, Gas Mains, Telephone, Telegraph and Electric Light Wires.

Toronto, March 8.—Interest in the budget debate has waned. The members talked for the most part yesterday to empty benches. The newspapers have paid but little attention to the debate this year and therefore the speeches are becoming shorter. Those who spoke yesterday were Messrs. Whitney, Garrow, Willoughby, Stratton and others.

Mr. Willoughby moved an amendment to the address in reply attacking the fee system with the idea no doubt of forcing the Patrons to vote against the Government. This will have the effect of prolonging the debate, since many of the so-called Independent members will feel called upon to explain their vote upon the question. Dr. Willoughby, in his amendment, demands that all officials shall receive a stipulated salary and that if the fees collected amount to more than this sum they shall be turned over to the municipalities.

New Measures Proposed.

These new bills were introduced and read a first time:

Mr. Howland introduced a bill respecting the Toronto Girls' Home. It provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to induce any child to leave the Home, or to leave any service or apprenticeship or to leave any place where the child may be placed for the purpose of being nursed, supported, educated or adopted or to break any articles of agreement which may be entered into with the authority of the managers of the Home respecting children or to harbor or detain any child after demand by the officers shall have been made for their return. The bill will receive opposition.

Mr. Stratton—Respecting the Hamilton Gas Co.

Mr. Caven—To permit H. S. Reynolds to practise dentistry without passing the regular examination.

Mr. Charlton—To incorporate the St. Thomas Radial Electric Co.

Mr. Bennett—To incorporate the Advent Christian Church of Ontario.

Mr. German—To incorporate the village of International Bridge and another to incorporate the London and Western Ontario Electric Railway Co.

Mr. Moore—To confirm by-law 933 of the village of Preston.

Mr. Hobbs—To incorporate the London and Springbank Electric Railway Co.

Mr. Awrey—Respecting the town of Gananoque.

The Liquor Men's Demand.

An influential deputation representing the Ontario Brewers' Association waited upon the Government yesterday for the purpose of airing their grievances and praying for legislation in their favor. Among the brewers present were Messrs. Hume Blake, Eugene O'Keefe, Thomas Davies, Larry Cosgrave, Wm. McCarthy, Auguste Bolte and Lottridge. Mr. Lottridge was the spokesman. He said that the brewers desired legislation that would regulate the issuing of licenses. At present at each municipal election brewers were compelled to feel anxiety for fear men holding extreme views should be returned as aldermen. They were afraid that in case Prohibitionists were elected they would have changes made in the municipal laws that would prove inimical to the liquor interests. They asked that the Government should place a limit upon the number of licenses and fix upon that number for a term of five years. They also asked that the hours of closing should be made uniform in all towns, villages and cities, and suggested from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. on all days but Saturday and Sunday and from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday. They wished the Government to remove the control of fees from the municipalities.

Mr. Eugene O'Keefe said that if the Prohibitionists would work in accord with the brewers the cause of temperance would be advanced. He did not think the temperance party were at present working along proper lines.

Sir Oliver Mowat in reply said that he had no doubt that if there were to be places for drinking it was far better that they should be licensed places rather than unlicensed places. He refused to say anything as to the requests that had been made by the deputation until the question was settled as to whether the Government had the right to establish prohibition. He did not think it would be possible to introduce legislation along this line during the present session.

Evening Session.

Sir Oliver Mowat threw a political bomb when the House met last evening. He called upon his party and upon the Patron members to vote down Dr. Willoughby's amendment which strikes at the fee system. The Premier grew warm as he proceeded. He said that he positively refused to have this question thrust upon him or his party at this stage of the proceedings. He said that a commission had been appointed to enquire into the question of fees and that until the report of the commission was presented to the House such an amendment, which would bring up the whole question without the findings of the commission being made known, should not be moved. He said that it was quite apparent that the amendment had been moved for party purposes alone and that in voting it down the members would not be committing themselves to any policy on the question.

A division was taken shortly before midnight and resulted in the defeat of the amendment by a vote of 65 for to 38 against. The Patrons voted with the Government.

A Radical Measure.

Mr. German introduced a bill which was seconded by Mr. Haycock, which if passed, will cause all Street Railway rails, Gas Company mains and Telegraph, Telephone and Electric light wires to be assessed. He said that telegraph lines were paying taxes in England and he could not see why the property of the companies named should not pay taxes in Canada. If a telegraph, telephone or electric light wire was cut or a pole damaged wilfully by any citizen he was punished. He could not see why these companies should not pay for their protection as other citizens were compelled to do.

To Abolish Wards.

Mr. Stratton introduced a bill empowering towns with over 4,000 of a population to pass a by-law which, when approved of by the ratepayers, will abolish wards and permit each elector to vote for the whole council, including the mayor.

Who Has the Power?

Mr. Crawford will ask the Government to-day if the municipalities have the power to regulate the hours for the retail sale of liquors and if so what body within the municipality has such right.

Agriculture and Arts Dead.

The corpse known as the Agriculture and Arts Association was laid out yesterday at the annual meeting of that institution. Hon. Mr. Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, was there and gave the members of the association to understand that in future the Government would not recognize the association. The members were instructed to formulate some plan by which a small board could be constituted for the purpose of advising the Government in the matter of granting small sums annually for show purposes. It was decided to sell the property at the corner of Queen and Yonge streets, Toronto, and that Mr. Wade, the secretary of the association, should take an office in the Parliament buildings to continue his duties as registrar. The meeting adjourned until to-day, when the members will probably attend the funeral of the association.

MURDERED FOR HER INSURANCE.

Dicks Under Arrest in Toronto on the Charge of Wife Murder.

Toronto, March 8.—Arthur A. Dicks has been arrested on the charge of murdering his wife, Mary Dicks, last Friday night. The theory of the Crown is that Mrs. Dicks was murdered for her insurance, and the fire was set to conceal the crime. The $19,000 insurance on Mrs. Dicks' life and investigation of the fire revealed facts that were considered as sufficient ground for making the charge under which Dicks was apprehended.

An inspection of the house where the fire occurred revealed several noteworthy facts. The furnace was sunk 18 inches into the basement floor of the cellar. In several of the pipes the dampers were closed, although the night of the fire was cold. In between one of these pipes and the floor was found a five gallon coal oil can, with its mouth toward the furnace. The floor was burned almost entirely away above the can, but it had evidently been placed in the position where it was found. The streaks found on the can and on the hot air pipe look as though coal oil had run from the can. The body found by the firemen lay with its head about ten feet from the register, and the pieces of the lamp, which Dicks testified his wife was carrying when she fell, were found on the stairs down which she is supposed to have fallen, quite a distance where the body lay.

In 1889 the insurance companies paid over $200 to Dicks for a fire that occurred in his stables. In 1893 fire destroyed his house and contents. His furniture was insured for $750.

Last April Dicks had another fire which consumed everything, and he secured $917.

It has not been proven that the body found in the house is that of Mrs. Dicks. Steps have been taken to secure an investigation to find out whether the body is that of Mrs. Dicks.

Before Magistrate Denison yesterday morning the prisoner pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering his wife. The Crown consented to a remand until the 15th.

Repudiates the Settlement.

Hamilton, March 8.—Peter Rogers, who had both legs amputated as a result of the collapse of the Binkley Hollow bridge, on the T. H. & B. Ry., says influence was used and misrepresentations were made to him when he agreed to settle the suit against Donnelly Bros. of Buffalo, the bridge contractors. He repudiates this and the settlement of the suit against the Donnelly Bros. will be pushed.

Fined for Killing Deer Out of Season.

Alumic Harbor, March 8.—Two cases of deer dogs running at large during the close season for deer and one case of killing deer during close season were tried here yesterday. The two cases for having dogs at large against Mr. Hanlon and Walter Leitch were dismissed on account of want of evidence. The other case for killing deer was against Levi Doran, who pleaded guilty and was fined $40 and costs, total $52.85.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S POOR

Arrival of the Contributions of the Citizens of Boston.

WILD ENTHUSIASM DISPLAYED

The Goods Handed Over to the Representatives of the Various Religious Denominations for Distribution Among the Poor of the Island.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 8.—The steamship Grand Lake, from Halifax, with donations of provisions from Boston for the destitute people of Newfoundland, arrived here at half past five last evening and was welcomed by more than 2,000 persons who crowded the wharf and cheered with the wildest enthusiasm. The Stars and Stripes floated at the Grand Lake's masthead. A feature of the demonstration was the manner in which the crowd responded to cheers for the flag. Finally cheers were proposed for the American people and the throng cheered until almost exhausted. The relief committee met at 9 o'clock to-day and handed the goods over to the representatives of the various religious denominations for distribution to the unfortunate people throughout the island.

RAILWAYMEN IN CONCLAVE.

The Grand Trunk Fighting the Granting of Differentials to the C.P.R.

Chicago, March 8.—The Eastern committee of the Western Trunk line committee yesterday finished a formulation of eastern territorial limits which will be presented to a full meeting the next time it convenes. Western passenger officials are somewhat annoyed by the persistence of the Grand Trunk in pushing its claims for recognition by the committee. The report that the Grand Trunk intends to resign from the Eastern line association unless the latter helps it in its fight against the granting of Canadian Pacific differentials was taken seriously by many of the officials, who can readily believe that the Grand Trunk will take such a radical action. Ever since the formation of the Western Trunk line committee the Grand Trunk has been ignored by the Western lines and the last straw was added when action was taken allowing the Canadian Pacific a differential of from five to ten on all business originating at points east of London and extending to Pacific Coast points. This the Grand Trunk claimed seriously injured its business. At the last conference of the Central Traffic and New England Passenger Associations with the Western Trunk line committee, which was held in Chicago, it was apparent that these two eastern allies had grown lukewarm in the cause, hence the threatened severance of all relations with them.

Canada Holiness Association.

Simcoe, March 8.—The 16th annual convention of the Canada Holiness Association convened in Mabee's hall yesterday afternoon. The convention was opened by singing and prayer by the president, Rev. N. Burns, B.A., of Toronto. Mr. Burns in his opening remarks called attention to some interesting facts and incidents in the past history of the association, especially alluding to the significant fact that every meeting of the association was characterized by some work peculiar to and distinctive of that particular meeting. Each convention had taught its lesson, which lesson as a rule did not need repeating. He also alluded to the distinctive mission of the association, which was to teach and practice that each individual could know from God what was truth for himself personally independent of tradition theology, or even the Bible. Vice-President Dickenson and Mrs. Truax spoke along similar lines. Mrs. Truax gave a brief but interesting address, setting forth that in her own experience she had learned that God could teach her through the experience of others even more naturally and readily than by the direct method.

The Hendershott Trial.

St. Thomas, March 8.—At the assizes yesterday afternoon William D. Welter and John A. Hendershott were placed on trial for the murder of William Hendershott on December 14 last. The prisoners looked more at ease than when they were first arraigned and took their place in the dock with great composure. The work of empanelling the jury occupied over four hours and was not finished until the time for adjournment had arrived. The court room was filled long before the hour of opening of court and the guards at the bottom of the stairs turned hundreds away during the afternoon. An affecting scene was created just after the court adjourned by Rosa Hendershott, daughter of the prisoner Hendershott, who ran to her father and throwing her arms around his neck clung to him for some moments, weeping bitterly. Mr. Osler gave his opening address this morning, after which the evidence will be proceeded with at once.

Shot in Revenge.

Winnipeg, March 8.—A young Swede named William Otto Hedin, who has been employed on a farm near here for some time past, was shot down yesterday morning by a dissolute Englishman named Speight, a native of Yorkshire, and badly hurt. The reason assigned for the shooting is that Hedin had accepted employment in a position from which the Englishman had been discharged for incompetency. Speight has not yet been arrested. The doctors refuse to say whether Hedin will live.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1895.

One would not like to call the leader of the Opposition an old hen, but he has been sitting on a batch of eggs for many months, and hatched no chicks, but such as come home to roost. Mr. Marter wasted columns of eloquence upon the extravagant consumption of eggs in Ontario public institutions, but the budget debate has vindicated the egg policy of the provincial government, and left the leader of the Opposition without—an egg to sit upon. In the public institutions of New York State the consumption per head is 135 while in Ontario it is only 40.

When the fifty-third United States Congress adjourned on Monday, the members of the New York Exchange gave vent to their feelings in cheers and songs to celebrate the disappearance of a body which they held to be a menace to the nation's business and welfare.—Ottawa Journal.

There must always be unsettlement in business under a fiscal system that is always tinkering with the tariff. The stable system is that of a simple revenue tariff such as the Liberals propose to inaugurate after the next general election.

The Division Court exerts a wide influence although it cannot be called popular, and as a consequence there are abundant efforts to reform it. These extend all the way from abolition to an extension of jurisdiction to $1,000. Mr. W. J. McKee, of North Essex, has introduced the first Division Court bill of the session. It is intended to provide for the extension of jurisdiction, in debts attested by the defendant's signature, from $200 to $300.

Wednesday was the last day for the disallowance of the Manitoba School Act of 1894. The Cabinet considered the petitions for disallowance and decided not to interfere. This course was adopted, it is said, both in view of the present proceeding in the Manitoba school case and because the Act of 1894 is an amending factor has been declared intra vires of the Legislature.—Mail.

Dr. Montague, a member without a carpet bag, was nominated for Haldimand on Wednesday. Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia, assisted at the ceremony in the capacity of a big gun with his hip pocket full of bullets for use in case Liberal electors should be too liberally rash in the use of ballots.

If Mr. Howland could take such a wide range of flight in discussing the provincial budget, where would his weary pinions have found rest if he had been discussing the Dominion budget? His wings would have very probably ceased to flop in the vacuum represented by the five million deficit.

That the Opposition orators in the Provincial Legislature make such wild and weak attacks upon the provincial administration, should not be laid to their charge. It's the fault of the facts. If they had any real cause for complaint, they would do better.

Given a continuance of shocking murders to secure the amount of insurance policies, it will come to this that the most non-committal way of committing suicide is to take out a life insurance policy.

TWO TIMBER POLICIES.

Mr. Gibson, of Huron, took up the argument in the budget debate, where it had been laid down by Mr. O. A. Howland on the previous evening, and carried it back within the range of every-day legislative discussion. The administration of the timber resources of the Province is a favourite ground for Opposition attack, and Mr. Gibson gave it an additional interest by a comparison with the results of Conservative methods. The Dominion lands and timber were originally designed, by well-remembered promises, to pay for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. But that great work had cost the Dominion $63,000,000. Another important development was found in the record of Dominion land and timber administration under the Conservative regime. The total receipts from this source had amounted to $4,875,000, while the total expenditure reached nearly $5,500,000. According to this showing it would have been a good stroke of business for the Dominion to have given away its lands and timber to Manitoba and other Provinces.

How this natural wealth, which affords such a comfortable revenue to the Province of Ontario, is a source of loss to the Dominion might be a mystery to the uninitiated. But, acting on the theory that Conservative rule is the same in every quarter of the Dominion, Mr. Gibson was able to find a solution to it. Such items as the private sale for $250 of a limit which was soon re-sold for $150,000 explained the phenomenon. In the matter of the too rapid depletion of the forests, it was pointed out that while Ontario had put 4,000 square miles under license, the Dominion Ministry had licensed 25,500 square miles. In view of the present high rate of Federal taxation it would be most advisable to adopt the methods of the Liberal party in the administration of timber and public lands.—Globe.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

SYSTEMATICALLY PLAYING ON PUBLIC SYMPATHY.

Has Apparently been at the Business for Years.

The following letter contributed to a Whitby exchange goes to show that the old Scotchman, whom Rev. Mr. MacWilliams so kindly assisted here, has probably been systematically playing on the sympathies of the public for some time:—

Whitby, March 1st, 1895.

Dear Editor,—I notice in the newspapers an item representing that a tramp struck your town, named Thompson, who had been robbed in Toronto, etc., etc. I am of opinion that he was a professional impostor. About two years ago last fall a man answering the same description was "doing" the country—a Scotchman, about then 75 years of age; well dressed; a large, strong man. His story was then that he had been visiting friends in Waterloo county, and on his way home put up at the Albion, Toronto, when someone entered his room and robbed him of $120, all the money he had. He reported the matter to the police, but they could do nothing, and as he lived in the County of Northumberland, he preferred making home rather than wire his friends for funds. He stated that he owned a farm in the township of Seymour, and run a creamery, gave his name as James Thompson, Minie post office, and imposed on the generosity of the writer for the ticket to Trenton and his supper, and left his address, promising to return the money as soon as he returned home, and with many expressions of gratitude. Weeks passed and no money came. We then wrote post master at Minie, who knew no such man, and so the matter was dropped. I only wish the good Samaritan at Uxbridge had paid his fare to Whitby where he would have met friends who would have been pleased to have seen him, I think you will agree with me that this is the same individual, and a professional dead beat, and believe your friends in Uxbridge will have the same experience as I had—I hope not. This creature should be exposed through the Toronto papers, so that those who are hospitably inclined may be on their guard. I have since learned that previous to his visit to Whitby he had worked the same on a Scotch farmer in our neighbourhood, with the same results. I trust you will publish this letter, so that all who run may read.

A Victim.

THE SUCCESSION TAX.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt, the Ontario treasurer, in his budget speech, devoted considerable attention to a defence of the provincial tax on estates left by dead men. That tax realized $150,000 last year, instead of the estimated $75,000, and perhaps the treasurer thought that somebody would say the tax was too high.

It is not too high a tax. Nor does it need any defence. It is by all odds the best tax that the province levies. Moderate as it is, perhaps too moderate, and imposed only on large estates, it is a grievance to none, and it is just, inasmuch as it returns to the community a percentage of the private wealth that is only possible through the existence and co-operation and protection of the community.

Instead of bothering with a defence of the tax, the provincial government should be looking for means to ensure that wealthy people shall not dodge it. They are endeavouring to do so, report says. In the cases of several considerable estates taxed last year, it is said there were indications that prior to death the person owning the property had taken steps to partially dodge the law—rather a poor business. Whether a government can play the detective to advantage in such cases is extremely doubtful, but there might be a remedy in the imposition of a tax on transfers of property without full consideration, a tax equal say, to the present succession tax.—Ottawa Journal.

peas, bran, corn, wheat and oilcake, fed in suitable combinations.

In fattening sheep it is greatly important to know how to give them such food and in a way that will best secure the desired end. To do this most effectively, we would almost require to raise up a new generation of feeders on this continent, superior in this respect to their fathers, for, in the production of mutton as in the making of beef and pork in finest form, a patience is required and an attention to details, which does not seem to exist in a marked degree in the impatiently progressive character of the average North American. We would be better producers of mutton if this impetuous haste were tempered with that patience and painstaking which has placed the pure Celtic races in the foremost positions as feeders in the world.—From Address by Prof. Shaw, Guelph, at Columbus, Ohio.

An Old Pacific Coast Engine.

Perhaps few of the people know that a very antique engine is lying useless behind the station at Long Beach, Los Angeles county. This engine was used in the early part of the last decade, and when the fireman wanted to put in any fuel the train had to be stopped while the fireman put in wood at the front of the engine, as the door of the furnace is situated there. This engine ran between Los Angeles and Long Beach before the Southern Pacific extended its line to that place. The cars are like street cars of today, only about twice as long. Sometimes the passengers had to get out and push, as the engine was not very strong.—Pasadena Star.

A Laughable Mistake.

Two ladies entered a book store recently and the younger asked the clerk for a book called "Favorite Prescription." The puzzled attendant was unable to comply with her request and she left the store disappointed. Inquiry elicited the fact that she had overheard a conversation between two literary ladies in which "Favourite Prescription" was mentioned with extravagant praise, and had jumped to the conclusion that it was a book. She now knows that Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription is a sovereign cure for the ills and "weaknesses" peculiar to women, for she has been cured by its use.

It is the only medicine of its class sold by druggists under a POSITIVE GUARANTEE that it will cure in all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

THE INSURRECTION IN CUBA.

The Uprising Not so Serious as the Foreign Correspondents Make it Appear.

Tampa, Fla., March 8.—Edward Leborde, who was arrested at Havana when the revolution broke out arrived here last night. He is an American citizen and the Spanish Government released him from prison. He is a brother of one of the medical students shot by the Government in 1871 and one of the leaders of the movement in the United States. Last night he and Secretary Quesada of the Revolutionary Society were closeted together. It is said he has brought important news from the Island for the secretary of the movement in the United States, and further that the news is of an encouraging nature. Capt. Peter H. Hanlon, of the steamer Olivette, which left Havana at 1 o'clock Wednesday and arrived here yesterday, makes light of the insurrection in Cuba. "Up to the time of our departure Wednesday," said Captain Hanlon, "the rebellion was being fought mostly in the newspapers. We were greatly surprised upon reaching Key West to read in the New York dailies of the desperate fighting that was being done in Cuba. We knew nothing of it in Havana, other than that an engagement had taken place in the Eastern part of the Island between the insurgents and Government troops and that the former had been driven into the mountains. Even the names of the leaders of the insurgents were not reported. The uprising in my opinion is not so serious as the foreign press correspondents would have one believe. The Government troops are sufficiently powerful to prevent the massing of insurgent troops in any large numbers and the so-called rebellion will not greatly disturb the peace of Cuba. In Havana harbor are stationed two Spanish cruisers while the Infanta Isabel is at Key West. A sufficient patrol of the coast is being maintained to prevent the landing of filibustering expeditions. In and about Havana everything is quiet.

The Work of Fiends.

Pittston, Pa., March 8.—While George Wagner, his wife, his 16-year-old granddaughter and a hired man were sitting around the fire in their farm house near here last evening, five masked men entered. They seized and bound Wagner and the hired man and threatened Mrs. Wagner and her granddaughter with death if they made an outcry. The men then searched the house, but finding very little money they demanded of Wagner where he kept his money. The old man denied that there was any more in the house and the robbers heated a shovel red hot and taking off Wagner's shoes held his feet close to the fiery surface. As there was no money in the house Wagner was compelled to submit to the torture and repeated his denial. Finding they could extort nothing more from Wagner, the men made a threat to put the women to torture also but they did not carry it into effect. The robbers secured hardly anything of value. Wagner believes that the men came from the immediate neighborhood and thinks he recognised one of them. Wagner was not seriously injured but his granddaughter was prostrated with fright.

The Rate War Averted.

New York, March 8.—The Trunk lines board of presidents held one of the liveliest conferences in their history yesterday. The subject under discussion was the west bound freight rates between this city and Chicago. The battle waged all day between the representatives of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the West Shore, the Lehigh Valley and the Ontario and Western Railroad lines on one side and those who were present in the interests of the Pennsylvania and New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads. They finally reached an agreement which will abolish after April 1 all differentials on westbound freight rates. This will put the above named lines on an equal footing and establish a uniform first-class rate between Chicago and New York of 75c. per 100 lbs. During the meeting a telegram was received from Commissioner Blanchard, president of the Central Traffic Association, stating that he would do all in his power to further the maintenance of eastbound rates.

Collided in a Fog.

Baltimore, March 8.—The Bay Line steamer Danville crashed into the St. Mary's near Fort Carroll last evening. The Danville was bound out for Norfolk with a large passenger list and the St. Mary's was bound up from River's Points with 75 passengers aboard. The heavy fog prevented the look-out men from seeing the lights, but fortunately both vessels were proceeding slowly. The pilot of the St. Mary's threw her head to port and the Danville struck her a glancing blow on the side. The officers of the St. Marys quickly discovered that the collison did not seriously injure the vessel and reassured the excited passengers. The Danville stood by until informed that the St. Mary's was in no dangor of sinking and proceeded on her trip to Norfolk. The St. Mary's came to her berth without assistance, a large hole in her side near the wheel-house indicating what a narrow escape she had from going to the bottom.

Will Prevent Expeditions to Cuba.

Washington, March 8.—The State Department has instructed Minister Hannis Taylor, at Madrid, to convey assurances to the Spanish Government that the United States is taking extraordinary precautions to prevent the organization of expeditions from this country to Cuba.

Buffalo Forwarders Form a Pool.

Buffalo, March 8.—After several successful efforts Buffalo canal forwarders have agreed to form a pool for the establishment of uniform freight rates for transportation of grain by canal from this city to New York.

The Strikers Win.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 8.—The owners of the Contsburg mines near Monongahela city have agreed to pay the 69 cent rate demanded by their 280 men. The strikers will return to work at once.

Tidings From Stanville.

A ROUMANIAN FOLK SONG.

He whom I loved so well
Is in his long, long sleep.
Yet I lament him not,
For he told me not to weep.

More dear to him the grave
Than I could ever be,
For though I go to him,
He does not come to me.

I envy not the grave
What yesterday was mine,
But bow my head and say,
"Keep him, for he is thine.

But keep not, grave, my youth,
Which cannot profit thee.
My smile and my light step—
Oh, give them back to me."

But the grave answered, "No.
For these things still are dear,
Since he, deprived of them,
Would be too lonely here."

Then to the dead I pray,
"Restore my youth to me,
That when we meet again
I be not old to thee!"

But he nor hears nor sees
For his eyes like mine are dim.
So to his grave I come
To get them back from him.

For only in the grave
Are tears no longer shed
And the living happy made
Beside the happy dead.

Machine Work and Handwork.

It is to be remembered that, notwithstanding all we hear of the vast superiority of machine over handwork, this machinery must itself possess as great, if not greater, accuracy and refinement than the product manufactured by it. No machine can in this respect be superior to its maker. It can only produce sufficiently accurate and good work at a lower cost than if made by him. The first sewing machine of a kind, built by skilled machinists or toolmakers, is at least as good and as accurately made as any subsequently manufactured by machinery, and the same men can duplicate it more exactly than can any machinery, but machines built thus would cost far more than people could afford to pay for them, and that is all there is to the talk of the substitution of the "certainty and accuracy of machinery for the uncertainty and inaccuracy of handwork."—Scribner's Magazine.

Old Time Banking Methods.

While discussing the matter of the troubles and trials of banking business of today President James Espy of the Ohio Valley National bank said to a group of friends: "I tell you that we do not know anything about the peculiarities of the banking business. I have heard officials of the bank when I was beginning in the business rehearse the experiences in early banking in Virginia. As is well known, the residents of that state were not much given to business tactics. Whenever they had occasion to issue a note, and it was quite frequent, the bank officials had to drive around to the various farms, or to the place where the maker lived, and it was quite difficult to get them to sign the original, but much more so a renewal. Experts got so they could tell whether the note was renewed in the house or in the field, as they could tell whether it was written on the pommel of a saddle or at a regular desk."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 7, 1895.

The street prices here run as follows: Wheat 63½c; barley 48c; peas 65½c; oats 37c to 38c.

Eggs are still scarce, limed 20c and fresh 22 to 24c.

Private cable advices from Liverpool say that buyers of wheat are holding off, and the market is consequently quiet.

The ruling price for the best butchers' cattle yesterday was 3 to 3½c per pound, according to quality. Fair stock sold at 3c per pound. Rough cows and bulls went at 2¼ to 2½c per pound.

The choicest lambs sold for 4 to 4¼c per pound. Sheep for shipping were firm at 3c for bucks to 3½c for good shippers. Butchers' sheep run from $3 to $4 per head.

The sheep and lambs market in New York is firm and higher; poorest to best sheep $2.75 to $4.75; common to extra prime lambs $4.50 to $6.25; culls $4; dressed mutton and lambs unchanged.

The decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat, reported yesterday at Bradstreet's, was not as great as had been anticipated and in consequence it declined ⅝ to ⅞c on the Chicago market. Corn and oats were steady and closed ⅛c lower. Provisions higher.

Canada country barley made 85 to 90c on the New York market yesterday.

Buffalo maltsters have come to the conclusion that they will take a little barley above 60 cents and some of them are bidding even 2 cents more; sellers, however, are strong at quotations for western as they feel certain there will be a demand for all the barley at their prices. The little Canada in market is held above quotations. No. 1 Canada is quoted at 65c; No 2, 63c; No. 3 extra 60 to 61c.

An old book quaintly says that "when the whole system is pervaded by well-oxygenated blood, vigorously propelled, life and activity are copiously communicated." Which means that when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, perfect health is the result.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To those who use South American Nervine

A Lady of 80 Years Permanently Cured by this Wonderful Medicine.

Three Doctors said "Old Age was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODY, Flesherton, Ont.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age, beautiful and free." These are conditions that come to the man or woman, though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of life to-day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does someone tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch is the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoody, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for forty years. No person in the town and country side around is perhaps better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sad let to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoody. She supposed her end had come. She lingered for one year with three doctors, and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age and no one, nor any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show her that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is to-day completely cured of that breaking-up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in the fact that Mrs. Dinwoody would proclaim to the thousands of old people throughout this broad land, that with old age does not necessarily come decline, decrepitude and disease. Why should we not live into the eighties and nineties, and cross the border of the century?

South American Nervine, whether the person be young or old, gets at the nerve centers, and when they are kept in proper condition the system is as well able to withstand disease at eighty as at thirty. With this prospect in view who would not live to an old age and enjoy the pleasures of family, friends and society, and take a part in watching the marvelous progress and developments of these closing days of a wonderful century, which marks as not the least of its wonderful discoveries, the discovery of South American Nervine.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for bare'st food,
His bidding was poor Pa's dismissal.
Though full of grief, world up despair,
Sister Anna spoke so kind and fair,
Our Grandma said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But Mother's brothers talked the best,
A granddad kinder than the rest.
They call'd and promises they'd talks us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Pays,
To push us forward when of age.
They then wept home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until their hoped Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which over the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, in regard so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said, no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

The Fates Against Him.

A certain young society man of Peterborough thought the fates certainly had a spite against him, the other evening. The young Lothario is the happy possessor of a horse and cutter and on the evening in question called upon a young lady with the object of taking her for a drive, but while in the very act of persuading her to accompany him, he heard a chuckle of glee from the parlour and glancing past her, became cognizant of her reason for refusing his offer—she had already formed an engagement for the evening. He, of the horse and cutter, thought he was playing in particularly hard luck, but the worst was to come. When he was just about to take his departure his "best girl" suddenly turned the corner. Of course a glance at the horse and cutter and a second to the steps disclosed the state of affairs in a twinkling and if there was not a tragic denouement the only thing which averted it was the intensely ludicrous side of the situation, which was suddenly realized by the quartette.

The EXAMINER is pained to announce that Mr. Wm. Telford, the bard of Smith, who has been seriously ill for a long time, is not improving, but daily growing weaker. He has been confined to his bed for about three weeks.

Mrs. Gus. Sawers, who has been spending the winter in New Orleans, returned from the south on Wednesday. Mrs. Sawers, in returning, left New Orleans on Monday morning at nine o'clock and arrived in Peterborough per C.P.R. at 11.25 a.m. Wednesday, after what was probably the quickest run on record, being only in Chicago for five minutes.

The Choir Entertained.

Mr. Wm. Thompson, 805 George street, entertained the members of the choir of St. Andrew's church, at his residence, last evening, in a manner which was greatly appreciated by those present. On Thursday evening next, the choir will drive to Lakefield to assist Mr. Mulligan in a concert, which he intends giving there.

Lindsay Cheese Board.

The adjourned meeting of the preliminary Lindsay cheese board will take place to-morrow at 11 o'clock. Mr. Thos. Robertson, delegate to the Peterborough board meeting, will be present with a copy of the rules and regulations governing that body, and the board will be organized upon a solid basis. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of cheesemen and patrons of factories.—Post.

Challenge Accepted.

The staff of the Evening Review has had the audacity to challenge the EXAMINER boys to play a game of hockey Tuesday evening next on the rink. In accepting the challenge the EXAMINER wishes to take occasion to observe that no matter whether the thermometer indicates a high or low temperature, it will be a cold day for the Review staff when they run up against the EXAMINER.

The Grand Central Changes Hands.

The Grand Central changed hands this morning and Mr. Lackey, who for the past several years conducted the hotel, has handed over the reins of proprietorship to Mr. Gobiel, of Toronto. Mr. Gobiel has been in the hotel business for the past twenty years and intends conducting the Grand Central in a manner which will give it a footing amongst the first-class houses of the province.

Another Runaway.

Mr. Alex. Patterson hitched one of his colts to make one of a brewery team this morning and the fractious youngster persuaded the staid old brewery Dobbin to bolt with it. The team started in the brewery yard, where it had been left standing, and ran across Little Lake to the cemetery, where coming in contact with a tree, the team was suddenly brought to a standstill. There was no damage done the sleigh or injuries inflicted on the horses.

Incendiary Fire.

On Thursday, about two a. m., says the Lindsay Post, as night constable Chas. Reeves was making his rounds, when opposite Gough Bros. mammoth store, he detected the smell of smoke, and on going to the rear of the building, he found a fire blazing up nicely against the door to the cellar. A portion of the heavy door had been burned away, but a pail of water quenched the flame. The fire was evidently started by some person, as tracks were found in the snow, which may result in the detection of the fire bug. A huge pile of packing boxes had been erected against the door to afford fuel for the flames.

Next!

The following letter appeared in the North Ender, Toronto:—Here is an extract from a letter from a party who lives a short distance north of Lindsay; it will, no doubt, be read with interest:—"We have heaps upon heaps of snow and lots of fun going through pitch holes, only a person can scarcely stick to the seat. One man heard his cutter scratch on something, so he got out and looked, when he found he had driven over a telegraph wire, and when he had got on a little distance the horse got its foot down a hole, so he got out to see what was wrong this time, and the horse had got its foot down a house chimney. He soon got home after that."

IN THE INTEREST OF THE "SHORT CUT" BRIDGE.

A Deputation in the Interests of Shortening the Distance between South Monaghan and its Best Market.

A deputation from Peterborough, consisting of Mr. R. Fair, president of the Peterborough Board of Trade; Mr. J. E. Belcher, town engineer, and Messrs. Thos. Cahill, Geo. B. Sproule, A Dawson, Henry Best, of the town council; and John Riddell, John Buckham, Wm. Morrison, John Wood, of the township of South Monaghan, interviewed the Ontario Government on Thursday in connection with a bridge destroyed by fire across the river Otonabee between the townships of South Monaghan and Otonabee. This bridge shortened the distance for the farmers reaching Peterborough from seven to fifteen miles. The Cabinet were all present and were introduced by Mr. Stratton, who showed the deputation every courtesy, explaining their wishes and facilitating the object of the deputation's visit by all means in his power. The Government will consider the application.

CLOSING THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The Globe in its report of the budget debate in the Ontario Legislature, says:—"The last speech of the afternoon was by Mr. J. R. Stratton, one of the clearest and most forceful speakers in the House. In the course of his speech he referred to the efforts which had been made at the last election to defeat the Government, and in passing paid some attention to the P. P. A. Dealing with the public accounts, he came to the charges which were made against the expenditure upon colonization roads. Of this expenditure he said he could speak; it came under his own observation, and he could say that no money was spent by any municipality or private enterprise for better value or to better advantage than that which was expended in this department of the administration. (Applause.)

OWED TO THE T. V. C.

We hope our great-grand-children's great-great-grand-child may see
The steamers on the water of the promised T. V. C.

But we've lately been discouraged
—And the cause is very plain—
The summer survey lately made
Was made in vain, in vain.

For a certain learned minister
Has swore a little swear,
That there shall be no digging
Since he's learned a river's there.

Of course the boys have worked we know
With energy and skill,
But if the thing's a failure
Why, who's to pay the bill?

Queer Place to Go to Sleep.

There can be no doubt that a man who is able to obtain deep and refreshing slumber on the floor of the tumultuous stock exchange day after day is a person capable of telling a remarkable story. He is a well-to-do broker, and his name, for the purposes of this narrative, is Verity. This is what he told the writer the other day: "About a year ago I began to be troubled with insomnia. At first the attacks were occasional, but at the end of three months I found it impossible to obtain any restful sleep. I consulted my physician and he was able to help me for a few nights. His remedies soon failed to be effective, and after awhile the nights became to be periods to torturing wakefulness. Of course I tried to attend to my business, but I could feel that my nervous system was giving way. One day while on the floor of the stock exchange I sank into a chair, from sheer exhaustion and almost immediately went to sleep. It was then about 12 o'clock, and I slept soundly until 3 o'clock, My fellow-brokers, evidently thinking it a good joke on me, let me slumber undisturbed. On the following day I had a similar experience, and since then I have found no difficulty in dropping off to sleep instantly amid the bustle and noise of the stock exchange."—New York Times.

Greatest Ruins in the World.

George Curzon, the English member of Parliament, recently returned from a seven months' tour of the far east, and in giving a Pall Mall Budget man an account of his wanderings said that he had visited the ruins of the Angkor, an ancient Chinese city, with remains of the most magnificent and stupendous character. He photographed the temple of Angkor Wat, which, it is supposed, was built by the Kumers, who came from India between A. D. 700 and 1100. The ruins of these temples and palaces, Mr. Cuason thinks, are the most remarkable in the world. They are situated in the midst of a tropical forest. The forest growth is so thick that to approach them it is necessary to cut a way with billhooks. So dense was the undergrowth that the journey to some of the ruins was made in darkness. So little is known about them and so thoroughly are they hidden by the forest that many of the people in the neighborhood have forgotten the actual site.

A MEDICAL PRINCIPLE.

A Question Affecting the Accepted Theories on Bright's Disease.

Ottawa, March 8.—The reports with regard to the recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of 114 Cambridge street in this city, an old and valued employee of the British North American Bank Note Printing Company, from Bright's disease through a timely use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, is still the subject of much discussion. Several medical men have been seen on the question. One or two have expressed their disbelief while the others maintain a discreet reserve. It seems to be beyond question that the diagnosis was a thorough and reliable one, and there is certainly no doubt that the patient has recovered and by his own statement has used no other remedy. The matter is principally interesting as involving a great medical principle, and is likely to be thoroughly investigated and the truth placed beyond any shadow of a doubt.

THE DOG NUISANCE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in your issue of last night a few lines about a dog tearing a sleigh robe. This brings to my mind that something should be done in regard to the dog nuisance. In this age when there is so much nervous excitement and there are many people who are troubled with sleeplessness, anything that tends to disturb sleep is a great trouble. I am troubled in that way myself, in addition to my sleep being often broken by attending to my children suffering from some ailment, more or less serious. And when fatigued in mind and body I am about falling asleep it is terrible to have some yelping cur barking for hours in the street opposite my window, and driving away sleep and making one almost frantic with wakefulness and loss of sleep. If people must keep dogs why not shut them up nights and prevent them from becoming a dangerous nuisance to neighbours? And dogs are in another way a great nuisance to the neat housewife. I have often (and my neighbours complain of the same thing) had my nicely cleaned verandah floors in sloppy weather, shortly after the work is done, smeared all over with mud tracks made by hungry curs, not half fed at home, roaming around houses in search of bones. Besides, flower beds and lawns are crushed and trampled. Is this right? I don't keep a dog myself and I don't think it is right for the law to permit other dogs to do so much damage in the ways I have spoken of. If my children enter and injure a neighbour's lawn, there is a fuss made at once and I am liable for the damage done. It seems that the authorities have a more tender heart for mongrel dogs than for Christian children. I don't know how I am to live through it. I dread the coming of night and the barking dogs. I dread the summer and the raids of dogs on my verandahs and flower beds. Can't something be done to protect the citizens? I believe many diseases are brought into houses by dogs that roam in all sorts of back yards where there are infectious diseases and give them to the children who play with them. I am too tired too write properly, but I thought I would bring this matter to the notice of the authorities in the hope that something will be done on behalf of hundreds of others as well as of

Yours respectfully,
A TIRED MOTHER.

P.S.—I don't wonder that Toronto talks of muzzling its dogs.

DEGREES CONFERRED ON VISITING ODDFELLOWS.

Peterborough Lodge Entertains the Brethren Sumptuously.

The Oddfellows made quite an imposing procession last evening as, headed by the band, they walked up from the C.P.R. station, whither they had been to meet a number of Pontypool brethren who, on the invitation of Peterborough Lodge, had come to town to have their degrees in Oddfellowship conferred upon them.

There were twenty-five members in the contingent from Pontypool, and in the procession there were numerous representatives from Otonabee, Norwood, Havelock, Millbrook, and Lindsay, as well.

Upon marching to the lodge rooms on George and Hunter streets, the work of conferring the degrees was immediately taken up, and the proceedings were witnessed by over two hundred Oddfellows, who lined the walls of the lodge room three deep all around.

Upon the conclusion of the ceremonies, speeches and addresses were made by the following members of the order: P. G. Bro. Stewart and Dr. Pettigrew, of Norwood; P.G. Bro. Burnett, of Havelock; P. G. Bro. Given, Bro. Dr. McKinnon, and Bro. Dr. Clarke of Millbrook; Bros. Carmichael and Greer, of Lindsay; P. G. Bro. Dodds, and N. G. Bro. Irvine of Pontypool, and several members of the Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges.

On the invitation of the Noble Grand the members them repaired to the dining room, where under the supervision of Bro. W. McCallum, the appetites of all were catered to in a manner which reflected great credit upon Mr. McCallum.

During the evening a number of toasts were proposed, and these together with speech and song enlivened the evening to an extent as to make it pass most enjoyably for all present.

THE WOODS ARE FULL OF THEM.

Was This the Man Whom Rev. Mr. Mac Williams Assisted.

(Lindsay Watchman.)

A man claiming that his name was McDonald, and hailing from Melanchton, Dufferin county, struck town this week and imposed upon the generosity of Mr. A. Campbell. His story was to the effect that he had been held up in Port Hope by two foot-pads and robbed of $75, when he was taken into the Bennet House and cared for until next day, when he was given sufficient money to carry him to Millbrook, from which point he walked to Lindsay.

Appealing to Mr. Campbell for aid, he was supplied with hotel accomodation and a promise to pay his way to his home. While waiting for his ticket, Mr. Campbell learned of an imposter, claiming to be an honest Scotchman, who had been done up in a like manner at Peterborough and Port Hope, began to question McDonald. Not satisfied in his own mind, he told the man to remain there for a few minutes, and he went to consult Mr. D. Ray. Just as soon as Mr. Campbell left him, McDonald took his departure, no doubt fearing that a constable would accompany Mr. Campbell on his return. The fellow is evidently one of the most contemptible kind of imposters and we may expect to hear that he has been held up in Lindsay next.

HOCKEY.

Instead of going to Whitby to-day the Collegiate Institute team has made arrangements for the Collegiate boys of Whitby to play off the match here. In their telegram, accepting this arrangement the Whitby boys conclude with the remark: "Remember, the match is for the Collegiate championship of Canada." The local boys were not aware of the fact that either themselves or Whitby were in the finals of so important a draw, but are quite willing to battle for the championship.

A most interesting hockey match was played at the rink last night between a representative team from Norwood and the first seven of the Volts.

From start to finish the match was fast and the spectators waxed most enthusiastic over the numerous good plays which were made by the opposing teams.

The Volts have been continually changing the personnel of their first team since the commencement of the season and giving all their available material a trial, consequently the team is now probably the strongest aggregation which the Electric Works can put on the ice. The Volts play a far better game than at the beginning of the season and have worked up a combination which at times last evening was most effective.

The Norwoods boys, of course, were at a disadvantage in playing on strange ice and in the first half seemed nonplussed by the rapid work of the Volts, but in the second half they warmed up to their work and showed to much better advantage.

The teams were composed as follows:

Volts.		Norwood.
Kelly	goal	Anderson
Thorne	point	Code
Adams	cover point	McGregor
Moore	forwards	Hendren
Wilgar		Williams
Hicks		Edgar
McIntosh		Stewart
H H Hiller	umpire	S S Forest

Referee—Mr Crossley, of the Collegiates.

When the puck was faced, it was secured by Norwood and after a brief, but lively scrimmage lasting a half minute, it was sent whirling between the Volts' flags by Hendren. It only took the Volts another half minute to even the score, Wilgar, who played a most brilliant game all evening, doing the necessary.

After this everthing went the way of the Volts, as their opponent from Norwood completely lost their heads and were at the mercy of the local team. In twenty-two minutes the Volts placed five more goals to their credit. The Norwood boys at this juncture decided, apparently, to get over the attack of "rattles" which was troubling them and scored twice in succession, making the games stand 6—2 in favour of the Volts.

Half time was called and after a brief rest the Norwood team took the ice with the determination to win and scored the next two games, the first in 1½ minutes and the second in 14. This brought the score of Norwood within one of that of the Volts. The next game went to the Volts, but by a supreme effort the Norwoods tied the score by winning the next two games. The excitement rose high, but Norwood had evidently shot its bolt as the next two games and the match went to the Volts in 6½ minutes.

As last evening's game was the first for the Norwoods this season, great things might have resulted if they had started in earlier in the winter.

The summary of the games was as follows:—

Won by.	Scored by.	Time.
Norwood	Hendren	1
Volts	Wilgar	2
"	McIntosh	2
"	McIntosh	2
"	Wilgar	2
"	Moore	5
Norwood	Edgar	2
"	Hendren	3
"	Hendren	14
"	Williams	14
Volts	Hicks	2
Norwood	McGregor	2
"	Hendren	1
Volts	Moore	3
"	McIntosh	3½

For the Volts Wilgar, McIntosh and Moore played most brilliantly on the forward line, as did Thorne at cover point.

Yesterday afternoon a very fine exhibition game of hockey was played between the Collegiate Institute and the Keene club. The game was a very close one and, although not very fast, some very good hockey was played. When the referee, Mr. Lionel King, sounded his whistle, the teams lined up. In the face off the Collegiate secured the puck, but Keene deprived them of it for considerable time until the Collegiate forwards got hold of it and by a very fine combination work, Watt placed the first goal for the Collegiates.

The second game was a very good one and both sides played exceedingly well. Ackerman and Hamilton on the forward line played a great game for Peterborough. Keene had a star in Miller, who would time after time rush the rubber down to to Peterborough's goal, but it never passed Norman Lewis, who played a brilliant game at point. It was the grand combination work that held Peterborough up and Hamilton scored the second game for the Collegiates.

The next two games were scored by Keene, both of which was scored by their star forward, Miller. Scott Laing also played a good game for the visitors. Peterborough was successful in placing the fifth and last game to their credit, thereby winning the match and redeeming themselves, Keene having defeated them by the same score at Keene. The teams were composed as follows:

Collegiates.		Keene.
— VanEvery	goal	Bonces
H King	point	Dixon
W Lewis	cover point	McIntyre
N Lewis	forwards	Laing
M Hamilton		Walsh
W Ackarman		Quinn
N McGill		Miller
N Bradburn	umpire	Kennedy

The summary of the games was as follows:

Won by	Scored by	Time.
Peterborough	Watt	13 minutes
Peterborough	Hamilton	12 minutes
Keene	Miller	14 minutes
Keene	Miller	6 minutes
Peterborough	McGill	15 minutes

KEENE VS. MILLBROOK.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A hockey match was played in Keene Wednesday night, Keene vs. Millbrook. Quite a large number of spectators were present and helped to cheer the players. The game throughout was a good one, although the visitors played a very rough game, but the home team was too many for them from the start. The score was 6 to 3 in favour of the Keene team.

Millbrook.		Keene.
Tucker	goal	P Bouces
Coomb	point	J Dixon
Pickup	cover point	J McIntyre
Nattrass	forwards	A S Laing
Duncan		F Quinn
Leach		A Walsh
Manly		J Quinn

Referee, A D Andersen.

The following players will represent the Peterborough Collegiate Institute team, to-morrow, in the match against Whitby:—Goal, J. Hamilton; point, C. Poussette; cover, S. Adams; forwards, R. Davidson, B. Bellegham, L. King and W. Crossley. Mr. Walter Phelan will referee the game.

There promises to be a big crowd at the rink, to-night, to witness the great hockey match between the Peterboroughs and the Granites, of Toronto. The latter is the team, which was in the finals for the championship and which the local boys defeated in Toronto by the close score of 7—6. The Granites arrive by the evening C. P. R. train and will be met at the station by the Peterborough hockey team and a number of others.

CONVENT CALISTHENICS.

A Pleasing Entertainment at the Convent Congregation de Notre Dame.

Last night a very successful review of Sergt.-Major Rundle's classes in calisthenics at the Convent took place in the fine music hall. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor and the Cathedral clergy were present, as well as a large number of the patrons of the institution and parents of pupils. The pupils were tastefully attired in uniforms of white with scarlet facings and went through their various calisthenic, fancy drill and other exercises in a manner most creditable to themselves, and also to their painstaking and energetic instructor, Sergt.-Major Rundle. The physical element of the programme was relieved by music and recitations. The following is a copy of the

At the close of the programme, which was received with high favour, brief addresses were delivered by His Lordship, the clergy, Dr. Brennan, chairman of the Separate School Board, and others, complimenting both the pupils on their fine proficiency, and their instructor upon the energy and industry he had applied to their training with such satisfactory results. Physical education has taken its proper place alongside mental instruction on the curriculum of the Convent—sana mens in sano corpore.

THE GOOD WORK STILL GOES ON IN ST. PAUL'S.

Next Week the Evangelists Will be in the George Street Methodist Church.

Last evening St. Paul's church was again crowded to the doors with those anxious to hear and participate in the revival services which are being held by Messrs. Moore and Whyte.

The opening service of song under Mr. Whyte's supervision was greatly appreciated as were the number of solos which he rendered during the course of the evening.

Rev. Mr. Moore took as the subject of his discourse the text "How long halt ye between two opinions?" and delivered a most timely sermon, the truths contained in which were conveyed and borne home by the many illustrations which Mr. Moore seems to have at his fingers' ends on all occasions.

The service this eveping will be held in St. Paul's church, and on Sunday the evangelists transfer the ground of their operations to the George street Methodist church.

THAT CUP AND SAUCER STORY

(Kansas City Star.)

The pleasant story (Sir John McDonald's) is told of Washington that in answer to Jefferson's inquiry, "of what use is an upper house?" he replied:—"The Senate is the saucer into which we pour legislation to cool." But well-bred people do not pour their liquids from their cups into their saucers. And it would begin to appear that a well-bred people does not require the services of a Senate.

CLIMATE AND CROPS.

HOW THE FOOD SUPPLIES OF THE EARTH ARE REGULATED.

Agriculture Is the Basis of All Subsistence, but Yet the Most Thickly Settled Spots Are Not by Any Means the Most Fertile. Java's Population.

How much room is there still on the earth for mankind? This is a question which is often raised and which is answered in a great many different ways. As all food is either directly or indirectly derived from the vegetable kingdom, and the plants need the light and the heat of the sun, the question as to how the light and heat are distributed is an important one. If we assume (which is true) that only 60 per cent of the heat of the sun reaches the earth, the remainder being absorbed by the atmosphere, then latitudes 20 degrees north and south will receive 92 per cent; 40 degrees north and south, 68 per cent; 60 degrees north and south, 40 per cent, and the poles only 17 per cent of the heat received at the equator. Therefore the countries which on account of the amount of heat received are in the most favorable circumstances to produce a great amount of vegetable food lie in the tropics, provided the other condition of plant life is found—that is, dampness.

In Europe people were particularly impressed with the information communicated by Humboldt, on his return from his American journey, concerning the great amount of food furnished by the banana in tropical countries. It was later proved, however, that the distinguished naturalist was mistaken, first, in ascribing so high a state of productiveness to the banana, and, second, because the banana is not generally suitable to be used as the principal food for man. As the grains are cultivated wherever agriculture is advanced, in the damp parts of south and east Asia we find rice, in the dry parts of India and the greater part of tropical Africa, millet and sago, and in tropical America, principally corn.

The banana is even less fitted to furnish the staple food than the potato. As an accessory, however, like the potato in the wealthy countries of Europe and North America, it is very important. As a dense population is only possible where there is a certain amount of cultivation, we must keep in mind the experience of many thousand years and accept the grains as the base of nourishment.

The Little Antilles and Mascareme islands are of intense fertility and export a great deal of sugar and import not only industrial products, but a good deal of foodstuff. The ground, therefore, does not directly nourish the population. Several parts of India export foodstuffs, and there is no trustworthy information as to the interior commerce in these products. Tonquin has too lately been annexed to France to obtain trustworthy statistics. Java, with Madura, is alone suited to our statistical necessities.

This country is sufficiently large, it furnishes good statistics of agriculture and commerce, and the imports and exports are carefully registered. The population is about as dense as in Belgium and Saxony, but life is supported under very different circumstances. Saxony and Belgium import foodstuffs and export mineral and manufactured products. Java imports a very small amount of rice and salt fish and exports many more agricultural products. It not only supplies its own people with food, but finds it possible to buy mineral and manufactured products. It might be supposed that this immense population would be divided in a certain proportion on the island, and either that its increase would be small, as in France and Belgium, or else there would be a large emigration, as from Great Britain or Germany.

Neither case is true. Emigration is scarcely known. The population increases at the rate of 1 per cent a year, and its distribution varies so greatly that in the eastern portion there are fewer people than in the swampy province of Minsk, in Russia, and in the central part there are almost twice as many people as in Belgium and Saxony, and yet 80 per cent of the population in this part of the island live by agriculture. Rice is the staple, and the statistics give 288 kilograms to each inhabitant. Only about 15 per cent of the surface of the island is devoted to the culture of rice. This is still in a very primitive state, but the government has taken it up, and the production will be greatly increased. Java is a mountainous country, but these mountains are not high, and the rainfall is great, and rice can be cultivated on 30 per cent of the surface for the first crop and 10 per cent for the second. We have therefore a possible extension of the cultivation of rice to 5,200,000 hectares. An average crop to this amount of acreage would support 9,000,000 people.

The surface of Java could be divided in this manner: Thirty per cent of the water surface would produce rice, vegetables, breadfruit and agricultural exports. Fifteen per cent, not watered, would produce breadfruit and agricultural exports; eight per cent, not watered, coffee and tea plantations; two per cent, watered, sugar cane. There would then be left 45 per cent for forests, gardens, meadows, waters, roads and dwellings. The people of Java need not then be condemned to live on rice alone. Fruits are very important and necessary for health, and in Java alone are found 100 different kinds. Cattle can be easily raised, and the superabundant numbers of water plants, insects and worms that are found in tropical countries furnish an easy means of feeding fish and fowls. We find therefore that in this country 800 men could find support on one square kilometer, or more than four times as many people as are now there.—Alexander Wolikof in Breslau Deutsche Revue.

Disproving an Old Adage.

A certain newspaper claims to publish nearly 100,000 "want ads.," and yet we are told "Man wants but little here below."—Truth.

The Folly of "Showing Off."

There is nothing so aggresively unpleasant as the tendency some women exhibit at all times and places to show off. It is a trait not confined to the very young, and is indulged in by rich and poor alike. From observation the Brooklyn Citizen is disposed to believe that it is a sort of fever which cannot be controlled, for women who are usually the most sensible of their sex will, without any apparent cause, be led into it. It generally attacks them in some public place, such as the street cars or a ladies' restaurant, and rages fiercely as long as there is any one around to hear them. What their object is will never be discovered, for no one is in the least deceived by it or led to think any more of them for it. It may be that they use only their "company voice," which is employed for the benefit of strangers alone, and is so palpably affected that one realises the instant it is heard that the "gallery" is now being talked at. This method is usually distinguishable by the use of "cawn't" and "shawn't" which drops into "can't" and "shan't" directly the stranger for whose benefit it has been employed has vanished. Other women do not go in so much for pronunciation as for facts, and dilate largely on their servants, the plural number always being employed so as to give the listeners the idea of a large retinue. The younger members of society discourse glibly about their admirers, their ball gowns and their german favors, when, judging from their appearance, it would be safe to say that one man would be a godsend, and their knowledge of ball gowns and german favors derived from the perusal of novels whose writers knew even less. Oh, girls, do be natural! Oh, women of families, do tell the truth. What satisfaction is there in making up these pretty fictions for outsiders who have no interest in you or your affairs, and who only laugh as soon as you are out of sight, at your little affected airs and graces and your tales of grandeur that have no foundation in fact?

Medical Don'ts.

Do not forget that "any woman is too tightly dressed that cannot raise her arms straight above her head and clasp her hands; who cannot stoop to tie her shoe, or pick up a pin, without heightened color." And that "the more a woman's waist is shaped like an hourglass, the more it shows us that her sands of life are running out."

Acting through the blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla not only cures scrofula, salt rheum, etc., but gives health and vigor to the whole body.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the suffering becomes warm in bed. No sensation is the itching that frequently it is impossible to prepare sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously rubbing and scratches the parts until they are sore—blood and matter from the moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet the effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The most intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment sets like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

FACULTY OF PROPHECY.

INTUITIVE SENSE AS DEVELOPED IN BUSINESS MEN.

John M. Smyth's Foresight—When Everybody Went in for Boom Times He Became Conservative With the Very Best of Results—Why Did He Do It.

The intuitive faculty is strongly developed in the mind of the successful business man. Perhaps, if I put it in another way, the force of this declaration, which is not made in an off-hand manner, but as the result of some careful observation, will be more keenly felt by the casual reader. Let it be recorded, therefore, that the business man who is not endowed with the faculty of intuition is rarely successful, and never except as the result of chance.

John M. Smyth is a great merchant and a very wealthy man. He is also a logician. His name is familiar to every man and woman, and pretty nearly to every child, in Chicago. It is a name that stands high in this community. His business methods are not only irreproachable, but admirable. He possesses the intuitive faculty to a remarkable degree. He is under no obligations to chance. He has never speculated, and in all probability never made a haphazard move in his life. His reasoning force would not permit him to do so. I have personal knowledge of one instance which illustrates his method of dealing with business problems. We all remember how the spring of 1893 opened up in Chicago. There was a rose-colored tint in the atmosphere. The sun, moon and stars revolved around this city. The earth, and all that was beneath the earth, and all that was above the earth, was ours, or would be ours, before the year closed. We had only to reach for what we wanted. If there was anything we wanted that we did not see, all we had to do was to ring for it. Every man had a scheme. Most men had two or three. It was going to be the greatest year Chicago ever saw—the greatest year for everybody. Even the ordinarily conservative business man was planning for extraordinary expansion. Those who failed to hit upon any other means of making a fortune invariably went into the hotel business. The world would be here and the world would need some place to sleep and some place to eat. It wasn't a difficult thing to build a hotel—a world's fair hotel. A stock company, so much per cent. paid down, so much per cent. paid in advance to the contractor, and a promise to pay so much per cent. in the future—and there you were! You had the hotel. The next thing to do was to furnish it. That would be easy enough. All you had to do was to go to some great furniture establishment—J. M. Smyth's for instance—select what you wanted, pay a portion of the bill down and promise to pay the remainder in instalments, and—there you were, again! It so happened that nearly all the world's fair hotels, good, bad and indifferent, were completed and ready for furnishing at the same time.

It was late in the afternoon of that day before Mr. Smyth entered his store. He had been making business calls downtown. There was nothing unusual in the appearance of things as he passed through the swinging doors. He was, as usual, perfectly cool, and he glanced around with the expression of confidence begotten of a well-founded belief in the system and discipline which prevails in his establishment. He was seen to converse with a few persons, awaiting him, in the main lobby. Then it was noticed that he appeared to be in deep thought. This lasted but a few moments and then he went into his private office. He knew absolutely nothing of the demands made upon the resources of the house by the hotel managers. After the lapse of about five minutes he summoned his principal assistants and heads of departments. Without making any preliminary remarks he addressed them in about these words: "We will dispose of sixty of our delivery horses to-morrow. We shall not need the number of wagons we have been using for some time to come. We will suspend all orders upon the factories except those necessary to keep the stock complete. All orders looking to the increase of our stock must be countermanded. I desire that no accounts be opened with world's fair hotels. Do no business with this class of customers except on a cash basis. During this year we will confine ourselves more strictly than ever to our legitimate line—the furnishing of homes. We are going to have a period of great depression. I don't care to cut down the force, but this would be an excellent time to give our employes vacations. Their vacations may be arranged for in the different departments so that our interests will not suffer. I want more than ordinary care exercised in our credit department." That was all. It was not thought necessary nor deemed expedient by the assistants or heads of departments to discuss or argue the matter with their chief.

The world's fair managers, except in a few instances, where their standing was unquestionable, did not have their orders filled. The letters, cablegrams and telegrams to factories were recalled. The sixty horses were sold. The clerks were granted vacations. There was a general cutting down of expenses and a more rigid inquiry into the character of applicants for credit. All these things occurred while the business boom of '93 was at its height, and long before the collapse came. What was it that told John M. Smyth to take this course? Some people will call it business instinct. No, it was more than that. It was the faculty of looking into the future—the faculty of intuition. It was that strange mental faculty which enables the truly successful business man to look behind appearances for realities; to control the emotional, to subordinate everything to reason.—Chicago Herald.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognised in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

AUSTRALIA'S RESOURCES.

A Whole County of Fertile Lands for Every Inhabitant.

There is an area equal to an English county for every man, woman and child in the Australias, absolutely unoccupied and undeveloped, asserts Mr. Edmund Mitchell, of Victoria, in the Engineering Magazine.

No amount of word-painting or piling up of statistics can give even a faint idea of the vast potential wealth of Australia. Full revelation only comes when one travels over the country and, seeing in patches here and there what the soil is really capable of, finds the land a veritable wilderness with no sign of human occupation except for a few sheep fences. The mallee scrub of Victoria, extending for tens of thousands of square miles, has only to be rolled, burned off, and tickled with the stump-jumping plow to produce harvests of wheat that cannot be beaten in any other part of the world. The vast, perfectly flat area lying between the Murray and the Murumbidgee Rivers has a soil rich as that of a garden, but it is given over to sheep, running about one to the two acres and producing about seven shillings' worth of wool per annum. In Queensland, upon the savannahs stretching hundreds of miles in every direction, the traveler rides through natural herbage reaching to his buggy-poles or his saddle-girths, and in a day's journey sees only a few hundred sheep or a few score of cattle: population in the proper sense of the word there is none.

The unbounded productiveness of these virtually waste lands is proved by actual results. Australia can grow meat, butter, cheese, wine, fruit, and wheat for the whole world. From a few butter factories in Victoria, for example, a single steamer has recently taken away £35,000 worth of chilled butter, and shipments are proceeding upon this scale weekly for three months each season, although it is only within two years past that the export trade in this article was commenced. Victorian brandy has been pronounced by the British medical journals to be equal in quality to the finest French cognac. The results already achieved in Australia show almost unlimited possibilities for wine-making. The fruit trade also has an indefinite future, grapes, apricots, peaches, oranges, lemons, pears, apples, plums, pineapples and almost every other known variety capable of sea transport flourishing as in the sunniest corners of France, or Spain, or Italy.

Then, even the already important pastoral industry is capable of expansion, for an immense area of country is still unstocked, and in the wool-growing districts a system of small farming, with cereals and stock dividing the attention of the agriculturist, would vastly increase the productiveness of the sheep runs. The fattening of sheep and cattle for export in the frozen state to the markets of Europe is an enterprise as yet merely in its infancy. The primeval forests in many regions are rich in valuable timbers, but their silence is still unbroken by the ring of the woodman's axe. Instead of the 3,000 camels now in use in the arid regions of Central Australia there might be a hundred times that number, opening up pastoral country as yet incapable of occupation through the impossibility of getting up station supplies, and enabling gold reefs to be worked where men cannot now subsist for scarcity of water.

Only a pinch of the mineral wealth in the bowels of the earth has yet been extracted. In Tasmania is the biggest tin mine in the world, Mount Bischoff; in New South Wales the silver mine in the world, the Proprietary; in Queensland the biggest gold mine in the world, Mount Morgan; in South Australia one of the biggest copper mines, Moonta; around Newcastle, New South Wales, are the most extensive coal measures anywhere to be found. But, though hundreds of millions of pounds sterling worth of minerals have been raised in Australia, it is certain that thousands of millions remain to be won.

Making the Most of His Chances.

The family tutor was invited to a grand dinner party by his employers and surveyed with intense satisfaction the half dozen wineglasses arranged in front of his plate. The footman came round with the wine. The young man presented the smallest of the glasses.

"It is vin ordinaire," observed the waiter.

"Ah, precisely," replied our ascetic philosopher. "I am reserving the larger glasses for the finer sorts."—Chronique Bourgeoise.

A TERRIFIC HEADER.

A LONDON PERFORMER DIVES NINETY-FIVE FEET.

The Latest Thrill Which Titillates the Blood of Old Londoners Amid a Mass of Flaring, Bewildering Lights--How the "Header" is Done.

London's latest thrill is derived from the feat of a man who dives down ninety-five feet from the roof of the Westminster aquarium into a narrow and comparatively shallow tank of water, set in the floor of the building, says a writer in the New York Sun. The exploit calls for an astounding combination of nerve and skill, and is far more noteworthy than any of the bridge-jumping acts which have been so tiresomely frequent of late years. The diver is Thomas Burns, who has acquired considerable notoriety as a diver from bridges and as an expert swimmer, and not a little fame from his having saved no fewer than thirty-two lives during his career. He is a sturdily built man, some 26 years of age. He has frequently dived from bridges over a hundred feet high into rivers, but his dive at the aquarium is a very different affair. He stands on a tiny platform suspended among the iron girders of the roof, ninety-five feet above the floor, and sees below him, instead of a broad, deep river, a mass of flaring, bewildering lights, a sea of upturned faces, and in the wooden floor of the stage what seems from that height to be a mere slot, the tank which he must surely land in. The tank is eighteen feet long, eight feet wide and seven feet deep. The diver actually dives, takes a header, and does not drop feet foremost, after the manner of the bridge jumpers. The marvelous precision required to land in the tank is easily appreciable, as is also the fate that would befall him should he miss his mark.

Burns is hoisted up to his aerial perch by means of a rope and pulley. The spectators can barely discern him through that distance of perpendicular space. They see him peer over the platform edge, then they see his toes project over, he crouches down, and then he glides off the platform head foremost, and comes plunging down with stiffly outstretched arms, and hands meeting in front of him in regular "header" fashion. But when little more than halfway down his feet fall over his back toward his head, he turns almost completely over, and before the murmur of excitement and horror that is the usual accompaniment to the dive has voiced itself he strikes the water with his shoulders and back with a prodigious thud. He skims just under the surface of the water, seeming barely to enter it, and comes up face upward. He scarcely breathes hard after the tremendous exploit, and goes off immediately to give an exhibition of fancy swimming in another part of the building. The wonderful skill, the superb pluck and the unmistakable element of danger involved in the feat, together with the not remote prospect of a horrible catastrophe, bring crowds to behold this latest sensation.

Fatal to Cholera Bacilli.

The imperial health office in Berlin has issued an announcement to the effect that oranges and lemons are both fatal to the cholera bacillus. Placed in contact with the out surface of the fruit, the bacteria survive but a few hours. They remain active for some time longer on the uninjured rind of the fruit, but even then they die within twenty-four hours. The destructive property as regards the cholera bacteria is supposed to be due to the large amount of acid contained in those fruits. In consequence of this quality the health officer considers it unnecessary to place any restriction on the transit and sale of these fruits, even if it should be ascertained that they come from places where cholera is prevalent at the time. Not a single instance was noted in which cholera was disseminated by either oranges or lemons.—New Orleans Picayune.

BEHRING SEA SEIZURES

Claims of Canadian Seal Fishers Discussed in the Imperial House.

NEGOTIATIONS TO BE RESUMED

Unless an Extra Session of Congress is Called Nothing Can Be Done Until December—Secretary Gresham Expresses Regret at the Delay in Settling the Claim.

London, March 8.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner, was summoned to Westminster yesterday, to discuss a matter of serious interest to Canada, if the halo of mystery thrown about the proceedings may be taken as an indication of gravity. Sir Charles refused to impart any information and positively declined to mention the subject under discussion. From the composition of the meeting, however, it is surmised that Sir Richard Webster's question in the House touching the delay in settling the claims of the Canadian fishermen for seizures made by the United States in Behring Sea, had something to do with it.

Much satisfaction is expressed at the Government's statement in the House of Commons regarding the Behring Sea claims.

Sir Edward Grey on behalf of the Foreign Office, gave the House a full assurance that the United States executive deeply regret the unfortunate position of affairs and would gladly do all that was possible to maintain the good faith of the United States towards Great Britain.

In replying to Sir Richard Webster and Right Hon. Sir George Baden-Powell, Sir Edward Grey said that the agreement between the United States and Great Britain that the United States would pay $425,000 to the Canadian sealers was dated 21st August. The suggestion that Her Majesty's Government advance the said sum to the sealers should be addressed to the Colonial Office, he said. Continuing, Sir Edward declared it was a fact that the House of Representatives rejected the proposed appropriation, and it was also a fact that the legal questions submitted to the Paris arbitration regarding the justification of the seizures were determined in a sense adverse to the contentions of the United States Government. The Canadian Government, in order to avoid delay, consented to accept $425,000 in settlement. No representations have yet been received from the Government of the Dominion as to the present condition of the question, but the delay in the payment of the claims must necessarily be felt to be a cause of disappointment and loss. Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister at Washington, had at once enquired whether the negotiation for the settlement of the claims, which was in progress when the United States proposed a lump sum, would now be resumed. Mr. Gresham, the American Secretary of State, replied that this necessitated submission to the Senate and confirmation by a two-thirds majority and this could not be done until December. Mr. Gresham expressed on behalf of himself and the President deep regret at the position of affairs and the impossibility of preventing the unfortunate delay in discharging an international obligation of the United States respecting these claims.

Deficiency in the Postal Revenue.

London, March 8.—An examination of the estimates submitted to the House of Commons for the operation of the British postal telegraph department for the year ending March 31, 1895, shows a growing deficiency. The actual deficiency for the previous year was $2,400,000. This amount included $1,500,000, the annual interest charges on stock credit, or the purchase of telegraphs. The deficit for the currency year including the same charges, is estimated to be $2,700,000 for an increase of $300,000, although the gross receipts from telegrams are expected to show an increase of $450,000.

Liberals Nominated.

Yarmouth, N.S., March 8.—At the Liberal convention yesterday T. B. Flint was unanimously chosen as Liberal candidate in this county at the approaching election.

Halifax, March 8.—At a Liberal convention at Sable River yesterday Frank G. Forbes, M.P., was chosen as the Liberal candidate for Queens and Shelbourne, N. S., representation being reduced to one in next Parliament and these two counties being united.

Watford, March 8.—The Reformers of East Lambton have selected Mr. John D. Fraser, of Petrolea, as their candidate in the coming Dominion election.

St. John, N.B., March 8.—The Liberals of Queens and Sunbury have nominated G. G. King as their candidate at ensuing elections.

THE VALLEYFIELD MURDERER.

He Denies That There is Any Trait of Insanity in His Family.

Beauharnois, Que., March 8.—Shortis is evidently weakening and the air of bravado has left him. He seems to be peculiarly sensative of newspaper criticism and would only talk on the assurance that he would not be misrepresented.

He said: "The United States and Canadian press have treated me fairly well and I wish to thank you for your impartiality."

In answer to a query as to whether there was any hereditary trait of insanity in his family he replied: "No, not that I know of." He said he of course preferred the open air to the confinement which he was subjected to, but hoped that it would not be of long duration. He reflected severely on the remarks made by the clergy of Valleyfield last Sunday and said that instead of speaking of him harshly it was their duty as ministers of the gospel to comfort him in his trouble and sorrow. He is perfectly indifferent as to where he is tried and seems to have little thought of the future and the enormity of his crime. He expects his father and mother to come from Waterford, Ireland, and assist him in his defence. Opinions vary as to age, his statements being somewhat contradictory. Should he be under age, as some claim, it may complicate the case. It is thought that insanity will be the plea in his defence.

Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat asthma, bronchitis, etc.

THE AGED POOR.

A Whitby Jury Believes that Their Confinement as Vagrants is an Outrage.

Whitby, March 8.—Another instance of the cruel custom of committing people to county jails as vagrants simply because they are unfortunate enough to be poor, is afforded in the death and coroner's inquest at the jail of Margaret Allan, aged 85, a respectably connected widow from Columbus in East Whitby. Everything possible under the jail regulations was done for her as the evidence showed, but deprivation of liberty and loss of society unhinged her reason and her system broke down under the strain. She died on Saturday. The jury were of the opinion that the commitment to jail of such indigents who have committed no crime is an outrage and believe that other means should be provided for the care of the poor. In this particular case, as there are no other females detained in the jail, such commitments mean solitary confinement. One of the severest possible punishments, under circumstances which are not infrequent, is the equally outrageous treatment of indigents by association with prostitutes as the alternative of solitary confinement.

It is understood that about $110,000 will go to the Ontario Government as its share of the fortune left by the late Col. Allan Gilmour.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 8, 1895.

The local grain market is firm notwithstanding another decline in wheat in the Chicago market. The supply in Canada is not large and grain men think there will be an advance in wheat here. No. 1 white wheat on the street brings 63 to 64c; goose 61½c; barley 48c; oats 37 to 38c; dressed hogs are very firm, owing to an active demand for all kinds of hog produce. Choice hogs in car lots are selling as high as $5.70

No. 1 Canada barley on the Buffalo market is quoted at 65c; No. 2 at 63c; No. 3 extra at 60 to 61c.

Receipts of new-laid eggs are more liberal than for a number of days previous, but before there will be any material break in prices the supply will have to become decidedly liberal.

At East Buffalo yesterday cattle closed a shade easier. Hogs closed about 5c lower, late sales yorkers being at $4.40; good mediums sold at $4.50 to $4.55, all being sold. Sheep and lambs closed 10 and 15c lower for good lambs and all not sold; one deck choice sold at $5.05.

Perhaps the largest exports of any special crop at the present time is potatoes. Cincinnati, Philadelphia and New York are buying largely in Canada and the entry of Canadian potatoes at Niagara Falls and at Buffalo is now the chief feature of the customs.

The Buffalo egg market suddenly went to smash yesterday morning. Last Saturday the grocery men were buying eggs at 29 to 30 cents per dozen in bulk. Monday values were at 28c and by yesterday the market had steadied down to a 25 cent figure. But at the opening of the market values dropped in a chunk to 20 cents and later in the day sales were made at 18c with the possibility that even lower prices will be made. These values are for strictly fresh eggs, state, and near-by Canada.

THE TWO EXTREMES!

HATS and BOOTS

Early Styles for Spring Trade.

25 cases of New Goods for the coming spring have already been opened out, consisting of 10 cases of the latest styles of English and American Spring Hats, and 15 cases of Solid Comfort Boots, Shoes and Slippers, from the best makers in the world.

At the HEAD to Stay!

Words are weak in attempting to describe our range in everything that goes to make up the smartest HAT STOCK to be found. We aim to get every first-class idea for the "top" extreme, and we are sure to please, as we we are always—"AT THE HEAD TO STAY."

WIVES, SISTERS, MOTHERS, do you like that Hat your Husband, Brother or Son wears? Send him to a Hat Store where they fit Hats to THE STYLE OF THE MAN. What looks well on some folks may not look well on him. We have a happy knack for head dressing. Don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece—look like prosperity. We have the pick of the styles from such famous English makers as Stanley & Co, Jackson & Co and Wilkinson & Co; and we have the celebrated American EAGLE brand of Fur Hats, union made. The prices won't scare you, either. If you buy your Hats at GOUGH'S you'll soon find out that you save just 20 per cent.

At the FOOT to Lead!

People who wear our Shoes say they enjoy as much solid comfort as the old-timers who wore sandals. But ours are handsome as well as comfortable. We sell easy fitting, durable Shoes, with all the style put on to them that such artistic makers as Slater & Son, of Montreal, can invent. We have all intermediate makes, as well as the cheaper grades from Lower Canada, where they don't pay much for making—sometimes nothing at all.

LADIES are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.00 and $4.00 we mark at $2.00 and $3.00. Cheaper lines run from 75c to $1.50.

GENTLEMEN are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.50 and $5.00 we mark at $2.50 and $3.90. Cheaper lines run from 90c. to $1.75.

It's the same way with Misses, Boys and Children's Boots and Shoes—the goods and prices will do the talking bette han anything we can say.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

The Inland Fisheries Question to be Referred to the Supreme Court.

WHAT THE PATRONS WILL DO

The Work of the Session to be Pushed Through as Rapidly as Possible—Meeting of the Public Accounts Committee—Some Important Bills.

Toronto, March 9.—The sole topic of conversation at the Legislature yesterday was the stand the Patrons took in voting solidly with the Government on the fees system on Thursday night. The Conservatives are in high glee and feel confident that the Patrons have killed their movement so far as the coming Dominion elections are concerned. Mr. Haycock says that his course was perfectly consistent. He said in reply to the speech from the throne that his party would wait to hear the report of the Fees Commission and contends that having made that promise the Patrons voted with the Government without violating any of their principles. He says that after the report comes down the Patrons will act in the fees question themselves and that if the action of the Government does not meet their view then they will introduce legislation along the lines of their platform laid down before the elections.

The Reformers held a caucus yesterday afternoon and decided to push the work of the session through as quickly as possible so as to be able to take a hand in the Dominion elections.

Mr. Haycock gave notice that on Tuesday next he would move that after the expiration of five years Government House should be abolished.

Some Important Bills.

Mr. Wood introduced a bill to amend the Act to prevent the spread of noxious weeds. The bill provides that mixed turnip seeds may not be sold and provides penalties for any person caught selling packages containing mixed seed. He also introduced a bill to amend the Municipal Act which provides that statute labor commissioners may collect taxes.

Mr. Stratton introduced a bill which will permit a man leaving money to any cemetery company to be expended annually in keeping his grave beautified and also prevents his heirs from selling the land or tombstone.

Mr. Haycock moved his bill striking at the Medical Council.

A New Election Law.

Mr. Hardy introduced a bill entitled an Act respecting the election of laws. The Act repeals the Act respecting voters' lists in unorganized territories and substitues the following: That as soon as possible after June 1st in each year the officer charged with the preparation of the voters' list shall post up certain forms provided for.

Standard time shall in future govern in all elections. The Ontario Court of Appeal is made final in Ontario election matters.

Of Interest to Lawyers.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved the first reading of a bill entitled an Act relating to leases, sales and mortgages of settled estates. The Act if passed will make the Ontario law in accord with the English law on the subject.

The Government Not Decided.

Mr. Howland asked whether it was the intention of the Government to provide for the temporary renewal of licenses in townships under the Local Option Act, pending the final decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on the validity of that Act.

Mr. Harcourt said that the Government had the subject under consideration.

To Unite Cornwall and Stormont.

Mr. Bennett asked if it was the intention of the Government to unite the License Districts of Cornwall and Stormont and dispense with the service of one of the License Inspectors.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt said that the Government had not yet decided what they intended doing in the matter.

The Fishery Dispute.

Mr. Cleland asked if the Government had concluded arrangements with the Dominion Government for the settlement of the question of jurisdiction between the Province and Dominion in the matter of the fisheries in the border and inland lakes. If so, when is the matter of such jurisdiction to be settled and in what manner?

Sir Oliver Mowat replied. He said that arrangements had been completed with the Dominion Government and that the case would be argued before the Supreme Court in a few weeks.

How Much for Registration?

Mr. Haggerty moved for an order of the House for a return showing the number of registrations in each municipality in the County of Hastings. The number of registrations during the last ten years in the riding of North Hastings, in the different municipalities, together with the registrations during the last ten years in the township of Hungerford. The registration fees during the year 1894 in the riding of North Hastings and the township of Hungerford. The motion carried.

Rainy River Roads.

Hon. Mr. Harty moved the second reading of his bill respecting road allowances in Rainy River survey. It would appear that the original survey had been made by the Dominion Government and roads laid out 99 feet wide. Settlers complained of this and wished the roads made 66 feet wide and the difference added to their lots. The bill passed the second reading.

The Fight Begun.

The first meeting of the Public Accounts Committee was held yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large number of members, including Messrs. Marter and Haycock. Mr. N. Awrey was elected chairman. Mr. Matheson gave notice that he would move a resolution calling upon the Government to see that the public accounts were in future given in detail in as full a manner as the Dominion Auditor-General's annual report. The committee adjourned to meet on Tuesday next.

An Interesting Report.

Hon. Wm. Harty, Commissioner of Public Works, presented his annual report. It contains some interesting facts. For instance it shows that previous to Confederation there were but 1,447 miles of railway in Ontario, while to-day there are nearly 5,000 miles and 139 miles in course of construction, the largest stretch under operation being from Ottawa to Scotia, a distance of 135 miles. The report shows expenditures last year on capital account as follows: Brockville Asylum, $304,773; Kingston Asylum, $39,177; Central Prison, $35,330; Mimico Asylum, $17,174; Hamilton Asylum, $15,435; Toronto Asylum, $12,754; Agricultural College, Guelph, $12,189; School of Practical Science, Toronto, $11,496; London Asylum, $11,313; Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, $10,244; Normal School, Ottawa, $9,675, and various other smaller amounts making a total expenditure for 1894 on capital account of $427,607.

Beoudette River Drainage.

A deputation from the counties of Dundas and Glengarry composed of Messrs. W. B. Lawson, reeve of Chesterville, and A. W. Arthur, of Alexandra, waited upon the Government yesterday. They asked for an amendment to the Drainage Act, whereby the Beoudette River drainage scheme and the Butternut Creek drainage scheme would be assisted by Government and municipal grants. The Government promised to consider the matter.

THE BOYCOTT IN BIDDULPH.

A Farmer Almost Murdered by the Friends of an Evicted Tenant.

London, Ont., March 9.—Brutal doings are again reported from the Roman line in Biddulph. The boycott seems to be in effect there as strongly as it ever was anywhere and the result was nearly a murder on Tuesday night. The victim was Mr. Herford, who came here from northern parts a few months ago, and about a week ago he completed negotiations with the Dominion Savings and Investment Society for the rental of lot 28, concession 7, of Biddulph township. This is the farm on which the unfortunate Edward Bowers resided, and from which he fired the shot that killed William Cain. It will be remembered that Bowers' defence was based upon an alleged very peculiar state of affairs. The accused had rented or bought the farm from the Dominion Society, and thereby earned the hatred of his neighbors. The farm was taken from the man who previously occupied it because of his failure and refusal to meet the payments, and for this reason the friends of the evicted tenant resolved to make it an expensive matter for the company and for whoever dared to live upon it. Bowers' life was said to have been threatened many times and this is said to be the reason why he fired the shot that took Cain's life. Mr. Herford moved some of his effects out to the farm on Tuesday and, suspecting no trouble, was taking things quietly when he was startled by being confronted by a crowd of masked men who attacked him with fists and clubs, knocking him down and brutally kicking him. That his life was not taken seems to have been owing to the cooler heads of some of the masked villains who shouted to their comrades "Don't kill him now." When the attack ceased Herford was warned never to appear on the place again or his life wouldn't be of long duration. Yesterday morning Mr. Herford visited the office of the Dominion Company, and desired to give up his lease of the farm. The farm in question adjoins the Donnelly farm, and the spot where that family were brutally slaughtered is but a stone's throw from the house.

A Circular Saw Bursts with Fatal Results.

Chatham, March 9.—Simeon Gagneau was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by the breaking of a circular saw which he was attending in Sheaff's mill in Dover township, six miles west of this place. Other men working near by had a narrow escape. An inquest will be held to-day.

Major Beattie to Oppose Mr. Hyman.

London, Ont., March 9.—At the Liberal-Conservative convention here last night Major Thos. Beattie was unanimously chosen to contest the city in the coming Dominion election.

Four Candidates in East Simcoe.

Orillia, March 9.—It is rumored that Ex-Mayor McCosh, of Orillia, intends offering himself as an Independent candidate for East Simcoe. This would make four candidates in the field.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

Mr. Speaker Peel Wishes to Relinquish His Office.

BRITISH IMPORTS FROM CANADA

Report of the Grand Trunk's Commissioner to Canada—The United States Claim That No Disease Has Been Noted in Cattle Landed in France.

London, March 9.—The Times learns that Speaker Arthur Wellesley Peel has intimated to Sir William Harcourt and Mr. Balfour his intention to relinquish his office as soon as the post can be filled. His main reason is that his health is unequal to the strain. The impending marriage of his daughter, however, will deprive him of his chief assistant at his many compulsory social functions.

Report of Grand Trunk's Commissioner.

London, March 9.—The Grand Trunk Board of Directors are carefully weighing the report of Mr. Barker, who was appointed by a deputation of dissatisfied stockholders to enquire into the accounts of the company in Canada. The contents of this report are not definitely known, but there are rumors on the market that Mr. Barker has found that there is a large floating debt. The tumble in Grand Trunk yesterday is ascribed to this report.

The Times to-day says: As regards Mr. Barker's report on the accounts of the Grand Trunk railroad we have reason to believe that although the accounts reveal a very unsatisfactory state of things the position of the company is not so bad as current rumors allege. For instance the report that the assets include more than half a million worthless Chicago and Grand Trunk coupons is untrue.

Heavy Fall in Imports from Canada.

London, March 9.—There has been a heavy fall in British imports from Canada. During the month of February they declined from £49,457, the figures of the corresponding period of last year, to £28,966. For the two months of this year the decline has been from £239,506, to £108,366. The largest declines in February were in fish and wood, the former dropping £6,200 and the latter £15,200 as compared with last year. Cheese, however, increased £6,000.

The French Cattle Embargo.

Paris, March 9.—Mr. Eustis, the American Ambassador, has presented an energetic protest against the order prohibiting imports of American beef. He affirmed that not a single case of disease had been noted either when the cattle were embarked or when landed in France. The United States think the prohibition is a purely protective measure and the question of disease was raised because it alone would justify the prohibition.

The Rebels Demoralised.

Madrid March 9.—The news given out here as to the Cuban insurrection is still favorable to the Government. The rebels are demoralised by the lack of arms and leaders. Even the peasantry do not support them and only two out of thirty known insurgent leaders of the last war now residing in Santiago have joined in the uprising. The others are trying to restore peace.

The Canadian-Australian Bill Unopposed.

London, March 9.—The Canadian-Australian customs bill was read a second time in the House of Commons after midnight and still remains unopposed.

Shooting Affray on Cornwall Island.

Cornwall, March 9. — Frank Easterbrooke, jr., a lad about 16 years of age, was brought over from Cornwall Island last night and locked up in the police cells, charged with shooting an Indian during the afternoon. The particulars of the shooting as far as can be learned are that the Indian, whose name is Mike Oak, was cutting wood on Easterbrooke's farm and the young man ordered him off. Upon his refusing to go, he levelled his gun and shot him, the bullet taking effect in the side. The Indian's condition is considered serious. The Easterbrooke's are the only white people on the island and there has always been considerable trouble between them and the Indians. It has turned out since that the shooting of Oak was not done by Easterbrooke, but by Wm. Carpenter, his hired man, and was done after Easterbrooke and himself were attacked by the Indians.

Father Paradis' Repatriation Scheme.

Ottawa, March 9.—Rev. Father Paradis states that the Government have intimated their intention of assisting the French-Canadians to settle in Nipissing but not to the extent of 4,000 all at once. It is probable that 25 families will go up this spring and that the Government are willing to assist that many. Father Paradis had an interview with Mr. J. R. Booth yesterday afternoon, who owns the limits on the site selected for settlement, but as it is "burnt country" and there is no timber there of any value no difficulty is anticipated from the lumber men.

Train Derailed by a Misplaced Switch.

Macon, Ga., March 9.—The Florida vestibuled train, south bound, was wrecked at Scotland, Ga., about five o'clock yesterday morning by a misplaced switch. The train consisted of three Pullmans, first and second class coaches, mail and express car, every one of which was derailed, the Pullmans and the first and second class coaches being thrown on their sides. One of the coaches was occupied by the Roland Reed theatrical company, the other having a full complement of passengers. Two passengers were killed and ten wounded.

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1895.

THE Globe scores a good point against the Government organs and supporters, who are gibing at the deficits which occurred during the Liberal administration. Such deficits resulting from low taxation are easy matters to mend. But a deficit of five or six millions, such as we have this year after the people have been squeezed dry by taxation, is a serious matter. There is a big difference between a deficit under a yearly taxation of $17,-814,000 as in 1877 and an annual taxation of $27,579,000 in 1894. The deficit of '94-5 is not caused by tariff reduction. The percentage of taxation on imports was in 1892—3 only three tenths of one per cent. higher than in 1893—4. A reduction in taxation of three tenths of one per cent. is a mighty small favour to be thankful for. In spite of the high rate of taxation, extravagant and incompetent administration and a loss of prosperity, has caused a deficit of between five and six millions.

THE Empire should have postponed its absorption by the Mail long enough to see that its demand for a special session to ascertain if the Mowat Government had a majority in the House was justified. It would be quite satisfied on this point by the majority in favour of the Government of 37 in the first test vote of the Legislature.

EXTENDING THE ARMA OF TAXATION.

Proposal to Tax Telegraph and Telephone Lines.

A bill introduced into the Local Legislature on Thursday by Mr. German, provides that telegraph and telephone lines and lines for the transmission of electric light and power be assessed as personal property. To a reporter he said that telegraph lines paid taxes in England, and he didn't see why they shouldn't do so here too, as they received the same protection as did other kinds of personal property. But Mr. German's bill goes even farther than this, for it includes within its scope gas mains, and also street railway rails, which the mover thinks should also pay taxes. The fact that the measure is seconded by Mr. Haycock, indicates that it may have the support of the Patron element in the House.

BOSTON'S CONTRIBUTIONS.

How They are to be Disposed Of—Appalling Distress Reported.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 9.—The clerical relief committee met yesterday in the general post office with Dr. Jones, the Anglican bishop of Newfoundland, in the chair. Mr. Fay read an authorization from Boston to hand over to the committee the relief goods when arrangements for the satisfactory disposition of the same had been made. Bishop Jones then read a description of the system now in use in St. Johns and explained it. Under this system the census of the Island was taken and a pro rata proportion was allotted to each religious denomination. The Boston relief goods, as well as all other donations are valued by the committee. The Boston relief contribution was valued at $19,000. For every $1,000 the Church of England receives $348, the Methodists $365, the Roman Catholics $323 and the other churches $94 and on every $1,000 distributed the secretary and the Rev. G. W. Siddal receive $50 for their churches. The plan was accepted without alteration. Universal satisfaction is expressed at the judicious handling of relief contributions, the outposts getting their shares from clergymen in the capital. Impositions and frauds are very few—in fact, are scarcely known. The committee are assisted by a sub-committee of five hundred ladies in St. Johns. The demand for relief is very much greater than the supply. There are discovered daily people who would rather starve than make their desperate situation known. Many of this class are members of tradesmen's families who have always hitherto had plenty of comforts. Letters are being received daily telling of the appalling condition of affairs in Holyrood, about fifty miles from St. Johns. According to these letters 1,000 persons in the place are actually starving.

Further Contributions.

Boston, March 9.—A special meeting of the directors of the Boston Merchants Association was held yesterday morning and as a result the association is to contribute $950 to the fund for the relief of Newfoundland sufferers. It was also voted that each member of the board contribute $5 and that all members of the association be asked to make an individual contribution of a similar amount. Contributions for the Newfoundland relief fund are still coming in slowly. They now amount to more than $6,100.

She Tipped the Duke.

Not very long ago the Duke of Norfolk, while walking through the streets of London, happened to see an old lady in evident distress. She wanted a cab and could not attract the cabman's notice. His grace called a vehicle and saw her into it safely. To his surprise he found three coppers slipped into his hand, and the old lady said, "There you are, my man; go and get yourself a glass of beer!"

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

People Make Money by Using Diamond Dyes.

In every section of Canada, Diamond Dyes are blessings and enable people to save money and make money. One user of Diamond Dyes says:

"I have been using your Dyes for seven years. I can only say that they are the best on the market. I have made as high as $24 a week in dyeing and could not give satisfaction unless I used Diamond Dyes. I would not be without them, for when I am without Diamond Dyes I consider I am without money."

Another user says:—"My wife has thoroughly tested the Diamond Dyes, and they are better than any we have ever used. She used them according to directions, and when have washed the goods in strong soapsuds, exposed them to the piercing winds of our cold winter, and afterward to bright sunlight, and they retain their beautiful fresh colour."

THE HENDERSHOTT MURDER TRIAL.

The Crown Endeavoring to Prove the Guilt of the Prisoners.

St. Thomas, March 9.—Mr. Osler, in addressing the jury in the Middlemarch murder trial yesterday, said the Crown would undertake to prove that the death was not caused by the tree, but by an axe or some such instrument in the hands of a man, and would endeavor to connect the prisoners therewith. He touched upon the circumstances of the taking out of large insurances upon the life of the deceased Hendershott in favor of his uncle the prisoner, John Hendershott, and that evidence would be forthcoming to prove suspicious circumstances connected therewith, and that the elder prisoner had made many incriminating statements in reference thereto.

George Craig, formerly employed by Chas. P. Welter as a farm laborer, was examined, but nothing of importance was brought out.

Jas. A. Bell, county engineer of Elgin, described his visit to the woods and the making of plans of the scene of the tragedy, which will be used at the trial.

At the afternoon session Edward Wardell, a neighbor of the prisoner Hendershott, testified that in his opinion the patches of blood in the vicinity of the tragedy were as fresh as that found under the body.

John Lyle also gave evidence as to the freshness of the blood stains and although he was subjected to a severe cross-examination by the defence his testimony was not shaken.

The next witness was John Jones, the Englishman who disappeared on the day after the tragedy. It was expected that he would be an important witness in the case but he could only testify as to the position of the body when found.

Daniel Crocker and Robert Stephen gave corroborative evidence.

INSUFFICIENT DANGER SIGNALS.

The Verdict of the Jury in the Weston Railway Accident.

Weston, March 9.—The inquest into the railway accident which took place here on the 8th of February was concluded here last night. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that the accident was caused by the rules and regulations of the Grand Trunk Railway not definitely enforcing the block system, the present rules leaving too much discretion to despatchers, agents and operators, and that the danger signals now in force are not sufficient, especially when snow scrapers are being used.

Trade in the Dominion.

New York, March 9.—Bradstreet's says that there is no improvement in general trade reported through the Canadian Dominion or in Newfoundland, where large amounts of paper fell due on the 4th instant and were fairly well met. The movement of spring goods in Nova Scotia has not begun. Montreal business situation awaits the re-opening of navigation. A large proportion of the paper falling due there March 4 was met. Trade at Toronto has been checked by bad country roads and their effect on the produce market. Settlements due March 4 were better than expected. The outlook is favorable for spring trade. Business failures in the Canadian Dominion number 53 this week against 44 last week, 69 in the week a year ago, 38 in the week two years ago and 40 three years ago.

A Fish Duty Re-Established.

Halifax, N.S., March 9.—Advices have been received here to the effect that probably owing to the treaty between Spain and Norway and Sweden having been abrogated the duty on fish from Canada to Cuba and Porto Rico has been reestablished. By this treaty it was free between these nations and Great Britain's possessions came into it under her "most favored nations" agreement. The duty, which is in effect from 1st of March, is $1.38 per 100 kilos. Admission free was of great advantage to our fishing interests.

A MATTER OF DISCUSSION.

Mr. Kent's Case to be Investigated by Ottawa Doctors.

Ottawa, March 9.—It is expected that the question of the marvellous recovery from Bright's disease of Mr. G. H. Kent of this city through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills will receive attention at the hands of the medical society and will probably be fully discussed at their next meeting. The case is of peculiar interest to doctors as tending to overthrow all the accepted theories on the subject, and already the rigid scepticism at first expressed is beginning to weaken. There seems to be no reason to suppose that any attempt at deception has been practiced, the facts having been openly chronicled in the newspapers and a full investigation having been made by them, besides the well known probity of Mr. Kent, who has most unhesitatingly ascribed his recovery to the above mentioned medicine, is considered by all unprejudiced persons as ample guarantee for the truth of the statements.

NEW MEN! NEW WOMEN!

Made so by Paine's Celery Compound.

The Great Spring Medicine That Gives New Life and Strength to Sick and Diseased People.

New men and new women—renewed and recreated beings—every day bless the memory of the great medical genius who gave to the world the wonderful health restorer, Paine's Celery Compound.

To-day, thousands of nervous, dyspeptic, rheumatic, neuralgic and broken-down men and women are using Paine's Clery Compound in preference to all other medicines. Why is this? Simply because it possesses virtues and health-giving properties that are unknown to ordinary remedies. Hundreds of thousands in our fair Dominion are ready to affirm that Paine's Celery Compound "makes people well."

Mr. A. McGruer, of Dixon's Corners, Ont., says, "Paine's Celery Compound made me a new man." His letter reads as follows:

"About six months ago my condition of health was alarming and I suffered very much. I was laid up three days out of every week, and I often said to my friends that it would be better, if it was the Lord's will, that I should be called away. Three of the best doctors attended me, but could not relieve me in any way. It was then I was advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, which brought relief at once. After using this great remedy I find myself a new man, and feel just as bright as a boy of eighteen years. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world, and would strongly recommend it to all who suffer."

Live Stock Notes.

Early maturity in all kinds of stock is of prime necessity if we grow for profit.

The cow that is regularly groomed will eat less feed and give more milk than just as good a one, by her side, that has not this attention.

The cow is made for good or bad when she first comes into milk. Temper depends altogether on the treatment, and yield in a large measure on the care bestowed on her in milking.

Because some colts that were foaled crooked became noted horses is no sign that colts of that kind are desirable. History only tells of the few that became famous; it says nothing of the thousands that never sold for enough to pay for the feed their dams ate while carrying them. If you have a mare that throws crooked foals sell her.

Expensive Bibles.

The three most valuable Bibles in the world are to be found at the British Museum, the National Library in Paris, and the cloister of Bolemia, near Lisbon. The first is in manuscript, written by Alcuin and his pupils, and in the year 800 was presented to Charlemagne on the occasion of his coronation. The Paris Bible was purchased in 1527 and dedicated to Leo X. by Cardinal Ximenes. One of the three copies, printed on vellum paper, was sold to England in 1783 for 12,000 francs. The Bolemia Bible is in nine folio volumes and is written on parchment. Louis XVIII. made the Portuguese Government a present of the volumes.

A Good Duelling Method.

A good method of meeting a duelling challenge was one which was employed on a certain occasion by a French statesman against an illiterate bully. The statesman received from him, for no reason whatever, a challenge to fight a duel. The writer was a densely ignorant man, and nearly every word in the challenge was misspelled. The statesman responded with the following letter: "Dear Sir—You have called me out without any good reason. I have, therefore, the choice of weapons. I choose the spelling-book. And you are a dead man." The duel was never fought.

THE OLD-TIME FIRE.

Talk about your buildin's
That's het up by steam—
Give me the old oak fire
Where the old folks used to dream.

The rickety dog-irons
One-sided as could be
The ashes banked with 'taters
That was roastin' there for me.

The dog on one side, drowsin',
Or barkin' nigh the door;
The kitten cuttin' capers
With the knittin' on the floor.

An' me a little tow head
By mammy's side at night;
With both my cheeks a-burnin'
From the red flames leapin' bright.

These steam-het buildin's make me
Jest weary for the blaze
That was heap more comfortable
In my childhood's nights and days.

An' I'd give the finest heater
In the buildin's het by steam
For the old-time chimbley corner
Where the old folks used to dream.

WHAT YOUR WATCH IS.

A Spring Motor That Embodies the Inventive Genius of Centuries.

The modern watch of any good make embodies the inventive genius of centuries. The pocket watch of to-day is one of the most accurate of all instruments of precision. Briefly defined, mechanically, it is a spring motor of most delicate construction of parts, controlled by an automatic regulating device that is a marvel of precision. It is designed to measure accurately and record the hours, minutes and seconds of the mean solar day. A watch, keeping time to a minute a week, varies from true precision only 1-100th of one per cent. The act of winding, so called, is that of storing up energy in a spring. By this act of winding the hand, in the interval of about fifteen seconds, stores up energy enough to keep the motor in motion and to supply the maximum of power required for a period of twenty-four hours, and with a reserve in the modern watch of about sixteen hours; or, in other words, a modern watch will run for a period of forty hours from the energy that is stored in it by the hand in fifteen seconds of winding. The storage of power in such a standard is effected by means of a ribbon of steel of a width and thickness proportionate to the size of the watch, and which is contained in the first wheel, called in technical parlance the barrel, which is in the form of a cup. The size of this cup is governed by the size of the watch, being nearly one half the size or diameter of the frames of the watch. This spring is from eighteen to twenty-five inches long. It is coiled up in the barrel, with its outer end secured by means of a pierced hole fitting over a suitable hook or stud, projecting inwardly from the barrel. Its inner end is secured by a similar hook to the hub of a wheel called the first or main wheel. By the act of winding this spring is wrapped around this hub, and the wheel is caused to revolve. The tension imparted to the spring in winding about this arbor, when freed from the factor of friction, will be the force tending to drive this first wheel of the watch. This force will be equal, on an average, in the "gentleman's size" watch, to a pull of five ounces troy on a wheel of 1-inch radius. The action of the spring in performing its duties in the watch will be readily understood.

Never Give Up, But Keep Kicking.

Once upon a time two frogs who had been living in comfort and ease in a cool pool of water were accidentally scooped up by a pious milkman in a bucket of water which he poured into his can in order to give his milk more body and thereby increase his revenue. The frogs were astonished to find themselves in an unknown element, in which it was not possible to support life, and they had to kick vigorously in order to keep their heads above the milk. One of them, being disheartened by being shut up in the dark element entirely new to him, said, "Let's give it up and go to the bottom. It's no use kicking any longer." The other said, "Oh, no. Let's keep kicking as long as we can and see what the outcome will be. Maybe things will change presently." So one frog gave up and went to the bottom. The other kept kicking, and when the pious milkman got to town and opened his can, behold! the frog had kicked ont a lump of butter large enough to float him, and he was sitting on it very comfortably. Moral—In hard times never give up, but keep kicking.

What Nonsense Is.

Nonsense, says Hudibras, is that which is neither true nor false. These two great properties of nonsense, which are essential to it, give it such a peculiar advantage over all other writings, that it is incapable of being either answered or contradicted. In a word, there are greater depths and obscurities, greater intricacies and perplexities in an elaborate and well-written piece of nonsense than in the most abstruse and profound tract of school divinity.—Addison.

An old book quaintly says that "when the whole system is pervaded by well-oxygenated blood, vigorously propelled, life and activity are copiously communicated." Which means that when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, perfect health is the result.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To those who use South American Nervine

A Lady of 80 Years Permanently Cured by this Wonderful Medicine.

Three Doctors said "Old Age was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODY, Flesherton, Ont.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age, beautiful and free." These are conditions that come to the man or woman, though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of life to-day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does someone tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch is the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoody, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for forty years. No person in the town and country side around is perhaps better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sad lot to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoody. She supposed her end had come. She lingered for one year with three doctors, and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age and [illegible] one, nor any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show her that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is to-day completely cured of that breaking-up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in the fact that Mrs. Dinwoody would proclaim to the thousands of old people throughout this broad land, that with old age does not necessarily come decline, decrepitude and disease. Why should we not live into the eighties and nineties, and cross the border of the century?

South American Nervine, whether the person be young or old, gets at the nerve centers, and when they are kept in proper condition the system is as well able to withstand disease at eighty as at thirty. With this prospect in view who would not live to an old age and enjoy the pleasures of family, friends and society, and take a part in watching the marvelous progress and developments of these closing days of a wonderful century, which marks as not the least of its wonderful discoveries, the discovery of South American Nervine.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With absence enough for burial fees,
He lingering was poor Pa's disease.
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Around us gladly never came to want
And generally brothers talked the best,
A favor still dearer than the rest.
They said they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd presents from Uncle Hugo,
To push us forward when of age.
So many times home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, in scented ne'ness,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma told us, if you are poor,
A bride will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

The Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association has advertised a reward of $1,000 "for the apprehension and conviction of the party or parties who caused or procured the burning of The Globe building, Jan. 6, the Osgoodby building, Jan. 10, or the Simpson building, March 3."

Our Retail Branch will occupy Bentley's Old Stand, No. 340 George Street, until repairs are made at our own stand.

THE GEO. MATTHEWS CO'Y, (Ltd).

Will Petition the Council.

The proprietors of the various pool and billiard rooms in town will petition the council to repeal the Saturday evening early closing bylaw. The petitioners assert that the closing of the rooms at seven o'clock is tantamount to imposing an extra license fee on each of from $150 to $200 per annum.

The Poor are Always With us.

A number of children are begging on the streets of Peterborough, and while some of them are deserving of aid, there are also a number who are not. In order that the sheep may be distinguished from the goats the Children's Aid Society will, upon application, provide the deserving poor with certificates. The public is warned against giving in charity to any others.

An Excellent Programme.

Arrangements have been fully completed by the members of the Emerald Beneficial Association for the holding of a grand concert and lecture on Monday March 18th. Mr. C. R. Devlin, of Aylmer, will make an interesting address on a live topic of the day, after which a most excellent programme of vocal and instrumental music will be rendered. The concert will be held in Sandford's opera house, and will be one of the best of the season.

Get up a load and drive out to Lakefield next Thursday evening. March 14th, to the Grand Choral Society Concert. The chorus of 100 voices will be a treat to hear. G. W. Mulligan will conduct the music. St. Andrew's choir will assist; Miss Hendren and Mr. Miller will appear in solos. The Temple Quartette will be one of the chief attractions. Don't miss the last drive of the season.

Deborning Cattle.

The first case of deborning cattle in this country, says the Cobourg World, with modern implements, was performed by Mr. D. A. Moore, of Cobourg, and his assistants, recently, at Mr. Thos. Hoskin's, near Grafton. Some thirty head were deborned with neatness and dispatch, by the use of a deborning clipper, with no unnecessary cruelty. A few seconds only is required to perform the operation. Timmine persons should never allow the saw to back off cows' horns after seeing how apparently painless and quickly the work can be done with the proper tools. Mr. Hoskin's cattle are all doing well.

WILL HOLD AN EXCURSION.

The District Orange Lodge Will Not Hold a Demonstration on the 12th.

At a special meeting of the District Orange Lodge last evening the advisability of holding a demonstration on July 12th received consideration, and after some discussion it was decided that an excursion be held instead.

The following resolution was passed:

Resolved, that this L. O. District Lodge in special session assembled, in view of the fact that a determined effort is being made by the Romish hierarchy and its friends to induce the Federal Government to force on the people of Manitoba the curse of Roman Catholic Separate Schools against the wish of an almost unanimous majority of the province: be it therefore resolved that if necessary we will, with our moral and material aid, assist the people of Manitoba in their endeavour to maintain their rights in this matter, and call on all Orangemen and Protestants in the County of Peterborough to vote for representatives only who will pledge themselves not to interfere with Manitoba in this question.

J. J. Turner & Sons, Tent and Awning Makers.

This celebrated firm are not satisfied with doing business all over Canada, but have just sent a large shipment of tents and camp beds to London, England, the first goods of the kind that have ever been sent to the Old Country from Canada. Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons ought to feel proud of their honour and the town of Peterborough ought to feel proud to have such men in their midst, as this firm advertise our town more than any other firm. Their goods are to be seen everywhere and the brand of Peterborough on them.

A Deserved Tribute.

Conductor Richard Boundy, who had charge of the train in the smash-up and snow-up on Feb. 8th, at Agincourt, was met at the Walker House, Toronto, last Saturday, and presented with a beautiful illuminated address. The address was signed by twenty of the passengers. The tribute is one which Conductor Boundy richly deserved. But the recognition would have been more complete if it had included the other train officials, especially Mr. J. Weighill, parlour car conductor, who was particularly indefatigable in his exertions on behalf of the comfort of the passengers.

Saturday's Market.

The market to-day was only fair, but eggs and butter were brought in in such large quantities as to force the price of the former as low as 12½ cents per dozen and from this figure they ranged up to 18 cents. Butter went down to 16 and 18 cents, at which price almost any quantity was obtained. Turkeys were very plentiful, but the price stayed up to from 75 cents to $1.25 according to size. Geese were scarce at from 55 to 65 cents, and there were very few chickens to be picked up at 50 and 60 cents. Little or no celery to be had at any price. Potatoes brought half a dollar a bag and apples from 75 cents to $1.00, according to quality.

The Golden Rule.

A good story is told of a certain Sunday School teacher not a hundred miles from Lakefield, who had consented to teach a Sunday School class in a neighbouring town where he was visiting. The first question put by the youthful teacher was, 'Who can repeat the golden rule?' and receiving no reply she thought she would help them out by giving the first word, "Do," but unfortunately she repeated it twice, when one bright little fellow suddenly "caught on," as he thought he knew what the teacher wanted and shouted out, "I know it," and repeated, to the consternation of the young lady, the first stanza of the song, "Do, do huckleberry do, be careful what you do do," etc.

TORONTO GRANITES POLISHED OFF AGAIN.

THE CHAMPIONS CONFIRM THEIR CHAMPIONSHIP.

A Great Game of Hockey—A Large Attendance—Brilliant Play on Both Sides—Peterboroughs Win Hands Down—A Summary of the Struggle.

When it was announced that the Granite Hockey Club, of Toronto, would be here last night to play the Peterborough club, little else was talked of in sporting circles, in fact every citizen was interested in the success of our team and between 600 and 700 made it a point to be there and cheer the boys on to victory, and a grand victory it was, the Peterborough club defeating the Queen City septette by a score of nine goals to four.

It was shortly after nine o'clock when the referee, Mr. Polly Strickland, whistled the teams into line. The following was the personnel of the teams:—

Peterboroughs.		Granite II.
Dickson	goal	Carlisle
Montgomery	point	Lilly
Parsons	cover point	Somerville
Davidson	forwards	Crawford
Phelan	forwards	Dixon
King	forwards	Lilly
Wonham	forwards	Johnston
W Stocker	umpire	R Burgess
Polly Strickland		Referee
C LeBrun		Time-keeper

THE GAME.

It was easily seen that this was not the same team that Peterborough played against in Toronto, but was one made up of both seniors and juniors, but it made no difference to Peterborough. They played their old time game and won this match with their old time steadiness and brilliancy of play.

At ten minutes past nine the puck was faced off and Phelan secured it, and soon had it down in Granite territory. The playing kept on until King and Wonham got the front of Toronto open and by some very clever passing, King scored first blood for Peterborough. Toronto followed a few minutes later scoring the second game in about the same time. Dixon on their forward line doing great work. The next few games were scored by Peterborough, and the fine combination work of our team was loudly applauded. Once that Wonham secured the puck it went without saying that either he or King would put it through. When the score stood 2 to 2 in Peterborough's favour the Toronto boys began to wake up and they managed to get it down to the Peterborough goal quite often. Then was seen the perfection of Peterborough's defence. What Parsons did not stop "Monty" would, and if it passed him it did not pass Dixon, who time after time stopped some magnificent shots of the Toronto players. Crawford and Dixon did the star playing on Toronto's forward line. Their rushes were well judged but they when the puck would go down to their goal by fine shots from either Montgomery or Parsons. Roger Davidson played well; his passes were sure and well judged, and he scored one game for Peterborough by the grandest shot of the evening.

GOT JUST SO FAR

During the playing Lilly, Toronto's point, fouled Lionel King, who was quick to return the compliment, and both players were ruled off for the half. Walter Phelan was tripped up once by a Toronto player, and he got a twist in his side resulting in a short delay in the game.

The summary of the games was as follows:

Won by.	Scored by.	Time.
Peterborough	King	7 min.
Toronto	Dixon	2 "
Peterborough	King	5 "
"	King	1½ "
Toronto	Dixon	2 "
Peterborough	King	5 "
"	Wonham	6 "
"	Davidson	2½ "
Toronto	Crawford	1½ "
Peterborough	Phelan	4 "
"	King	3½ "
Toronto	Johnston	½ "
Peterborough	King	½ "

Peterborough, 9—Toronto, 4.

NOTES.

The crowd, last night, was the largest that ever witnessed a hockey match in Peterborough.

The ladies brought all sorts of instrument for making a noise, from a cow bell to a kazoo.

The Granites' cry could be heard during the evening.

During a hockey match, there ought to be another light over the skating ice.

The Fire Brigade band escorted the visitors to the rink and furnished music during intermission.

The Granite team were served refreshments after the game in the hockey club rooms.

Good playing on the part of the visitors—and there was plenty of it—was frequently greeted with "well done Toronto."

"FORGIVENESS," THE THEME OF THE EVANGELIST.

A Most Eloquent Discourse, Which was Fully Appreciated.

A congregation of exceeding large dimensions assembled, last evening, in St. Paul's church, to take part in the evangelistic services, which are each day, apparently, becoming more interesting and wielding a wider influence throughout the community.

Rev. Mr. Moore took as the text for his evening's discourse the words, "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered."—Psalm xxxii, 1.

"Forgiveness," was the theme of the discussion, and was spoken of under three different heads:

Time.
Conditions.
Methods.

The sermon was one of the most eloquent which the gifted evangelist has delivered since his appearance in Peterborough, and was fully appreciated. The singing of Mr. Whyte, occurring at intervals during the service, was deserving of the highest praise. The evangelistic services in George street church begin to-morrow evening and continue every night for the following week.

Like a Miracle

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 39 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

FIBRE CHAMOIS

Better and Cheaper Than Haircloth.

Fibre Chamois Is now being recognized by all leading modistes as the only proper support for Puffed Sleeves, being far superior to anything else for this purpose.

A Garment interlined with Fibre Chamois cannot be injured by careless packing or crushing, as it will at once resume its correct form upon being lightly shaken.

Fibre Chamois is also of inestimable value in skirts and sleeves to be worn at the seashore, because it is not affected by damp air, as are materials deriving their stiffness from starch or glue.

Fibre Chamois does not cut through the bottom of skirts and ruin the boots.

THE DOG NUISANCE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in yesterday's DAILY EXAMINER a letter signed "A Tired Mother" regarding the dog nuisance—the greater part of them nothing but mongrels which are allowed to run at large and disturb people from sleep. I understand there are about 700 of these nuisances in this town. The idea of some people, living in the centre of the town, keeping two or three dogs is preposterous. I think the only remedy is to place a higher tax upon them which would reduce the number. Why not have half the quantity and a better breed? I am sure our wise town fathers would oblige many citizens in Peterborough if they would raise the tax to $5.00 on dogs and $10.00 on bitches. I own a dog myself, but see that none of the neighbours are disturbed at night and other people should be forced to do the same.

Something should also be done to protect pedestrians from being frightened by the huge mastiffs which are allowed to roam about the streets. Should one of these brutes turn upon a person and injure him whereby fatal results might follow, the dog's master's responsibility would be of no use. This dog nuisance matter should be attended to at once and my way is to lessen the number of the useless curs.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your space,
I remain,
Respectfully yours,
A RATEPAYER.

MILITIA INSPECTION.

The Militia Department has now compiled the results of the annual inspections of the various battalions. They show that the Halifax regiments score higher than those of any other parts of the Dominion. In Ontario the honours are carried off by the 13th of Hamilton, with 125.25 points. Peterborough, as will be seen, has 81.7 points to its credit. The averages for the various regiments are as follows:—

Halifax 63rd Battalion	143.73
Halifax 66th Battalion	142.78
Montreal 3rd Battalion	129.88
St John 62nd Battalion	126.50
Hamilton 13th Battalion	125.25
Toronto 2nd Batt., Q O R	125.25
Montreal 5th Batt	122.50
Montreal 6th Batt	118.98
Quebec 8th Batt	104.50½
Sherbrooke 53rd Batt	103.19
Toronto 48th Batt., Kilties	102.13
Montreal 50th Batt	96.78
Toronto 10th Batt, R G	96.21
Kingston 14th Batt	93.21
Ottawa 43rd Batt	84.88
Peterborough 57th Batt	81.7
Quebec 9th Batt	79.
Brantford 38th Batt	69.28

Ottawa Foot Guards	62.20
London 7th Batt	43.75

WHAT WOULD HAVE BEEN SAID.

The Toronto Telegram points out that if the horrible double murder at Valleyfield had been committed by a poor boy sent to Canada from the Barnardo home or some other institution of the kind, there would be a great howl against such importations. But the crime was committed by a young man brought up to a good position in life. So was Birchall's crime. Perhaps if the matter could be traced out fairly, the waifs and strays sent to Canada by the Barnardo "homes" would prove to have quite as good an average record here as the young immigrants of good birth and education.

BOOKS AND READING—READING FOR RECREATION.

A palace is measured from north to south or from east to west, but a book is measured from earth to heaven.—Joubert.

I am sometimes disposed to think that the greater readers of the next generation will be, not our lawyers and doctors, shopkeepers and manufacturers, but the labourer and mechanic.—Sir John Lubbock.

Reading, in our day, has become an occupation almost as universal as eating, and the need of books almost as great as the need of food. Reading satisfies the appetite of the mind, as eating that of the body, but as all foods are not equally beneficial, nor to be taken in equal quantities, as some are positively injurious, and some to be taken sparingly; so some kinds of reading are better than others, some are harmless to one, but harmful to others, and some are to be eschewed altogether.

Fifty or sixty years ago hopes, that the event has shown were extravagant, were entertained of the results of universal education. "Virtue," it was said, "is the child of knowledge, and vice of ignorance; therefore universal education will destroy vice, and virtue will reign alone.' But virtue is not dependent ALONE upon knowledge, nor vice upon ignorance. The famous burglar, Charles Peace, was not only a highly educated man, but also one of refined tastes. But it will be generally admitted that knowledge is an auxiliary to virtue, and ignorance to vice.

Reading, then, as much as eating, demands for the fulfilment of its object, discrimination, self-knowledge, moderation. To devote all one's time to what is called heavy reading, as science, philosophy, or theology, will make a man pedantic, and cuts off his sympathies with real life, for even good people are not all theologians, nor wise people philosophers, nor learned men scientists. To revert to our opening figure of speech, to give the mind nothing but heavy reading would be similar to giving the body nothing but solid meat.

On the other hand, to read only novels, as it is to be feared is the custom of many,

IS AS INJURIOUS TO THE MIND

as to live on pastry would be to the body. "Moderation in all things, even in passnips," as dear old Uncle Leesur, says in that delightful little book, "Vesty of the Basina."

The legitimate objects of reading are various.

1. First of all most of us read for recreation. After a hard day's work behind the counter, or the plough, in the office or the surgery, what can be more delightful than to forget all one's cares and sorrows, disappointments and worries, in the interests of a volume of romance, of travel, of biography, or of history. We create for ourselves a new world, and albeit in romance it is an imaginary one, because we are endowed with imagination, we live in it, and become a part of it, grow interested in it, laugh at imaginary humourous situations, weep over imaginary sorrows, and rejoice in the good fortune of an imaginary hero. Our minds, over-wrought with the performance of duty, are diverted from business, and being directed to new objects they find rest; and rest to the mind is as necessary as rest to the body.

Of the truth of this, the lives of many great men (and if we knew of them, of myriads of lesser men) afford frequent illustration. Mr. Gladstone used to find rest and recreation from the cares of the State, in the study of poetry and theology. His works on Homer and the Bible, his innumerable articles on all sorts of literary subjects

ARE THE WONDER OF THE WORLD.

He possesses the great gift (one which all can cultivate) of giving his whole mind to the subject in hand, and when that is dealt with, of entirely banishing it from his mind and devoting himself to some new subject. Lord Beaconsfield wrote more novels than some professional literary men. Mr. Balfour is a philosopher and theologian. Lord Salisbury is a great student of science, so also is Sir John Lubbock, a banker by profession, and many other examples could be given of men, who, far from being distracted by reading and study from their proper duties, have been supported and strengthened in the performance of their great life-works.

But if reading, regarded as a recreation, be a highly profitable occupation in its own proper time, it does not follow that any kind of reading will do. There is good literature and there is bad. It is not always easy to distinguish between the two, but there are two tests we can all apply to books. First the test of authority. Books that have received the praise of men qualified to form a true and just judgment, whose author's names are held in high esteem, may be safely read by most people. Secondly, there is the test of the effects of reading upon our own minds and hearts. Has our love of truth been stimulated, have our resolutions to good-living been strengthened, has our abhorrence of evil been increased, have our best emotions been aroused, have our sympathies been enlarged, have we gained any and higher aims of life? One book can scarcely afford all these, but if, whilst interesting or amusing us, it has accomplished one or other of these ends, it is a good book. Of course there are people who are harmed by some good books, but that is their own fault.

On the other hand bad literature is that which tends, it may be but slightly, it may be but slowly, to lower our spiritual ideals, to blunt the edge of our perception of moral distinctions, to pollute our minds, to render us dissatisfied with our duty. It may inflame our passions, or enlist our sympathies in what is false. It may, and in its commonest forms does, present us with unreal pictures of life and action; and what is false must be bad.

This subject of books and reading is a very large and not less important one. We shall therefore return to it in future letters, and conclude this one with one or two illustrations of the good or bad literature, which we read for recreation.

Of humorous reading take Dickens as a type. We sit down and read the "Pickwick Papers." Our interest is aroused, we often laugh; after we have finished the characters of Sam. Weller, of Mr. Pickwick, of Bob. Sawers and many another lingers in our minds. Now, let us analyze the effects of this reading. First it has been really resting and recreative to the mind. We are refreshed and strengthened, and return to our tasks with cheerfulness. Secondly, the humour has been kindly, and has to our friends and neighbours, for in that imaginary world, to which reference was made above, we have been living with simple, hearty, well disposed people, and through the channel of our imaginations something of their spirit has been imparted to us.

MADE US FEEL MORE KINDLY-DISPOSED

TURN FROM DICKENS TO THACKERY.

Many people find him too satirical, and there is justice in the criticism. But he is a great moralist. His shafts of sarcasm are directed against the follies and foibles of worldly people. There are, too, many beautiful characters in his books, and Colonel Newcome, in "The Newcomes," is held by many people to be the most perfect and yet natural and attractive character in the whole range of fiction.

On the other hand, the stories that are published in a large number of a low class of periodical literature, and are widely read by young men and young women, whose tastes are thus early polluted, are pernicious in the extreme. In these books idleness is concealed and glorified under a showy robe of romance, impossible situations are described, love is degraded into passion, virtue is transformed into a mock heroism, So far from supplying encouragement, the reader is discouraged, if not disgusted with his or her humdrum life, good temper yields to discontent, a helpful spirit gives place to selfishness. To get through the hated daily duty as quietly and in as slip-shod fashion as may be, to strive to create romantic situations, such are some of the evil effects of bad reading.

The good citizen will not be indifferent to the character of the books which either he or his family enjoy. He will take some pains to cultivate his own tastes, and then those of his children, that in this as in all things they may be useful, and happy members of society.

A couple of matches in the Innes cup series were played off at the rink last evening with the following result:—

The Belleville Intelligencer, in commenting on the Peterborough Colts' victory, says: "A friendly match was played here last night by the Colts of the Peterborough Curling Club and those of the local club. The game, which consisted of twenty-two ends, was during the greater part of the game, closely contested, but the Peterborough men finally won by 12 shots. Many times the score was tied on both rinks, but after half game the visitors began to draw ahead, and have a small majority, when a six end near the close on No. 2 rink gave them a commanding lead, which they held to the end. There was good, bad and indifferent curling, but we have seen the seniors play an inferior game to that which the juniors put up.

After the match was over, the players and a few of their friends adjourned to the Hub hotel, where supper was partaken of. Mr. W. H. Biggar, M. P. P., occupied the seat at the head of the table, Mr. J. F. Willis the vice chair. After supper had been partaken of, a number of toasts were proposed and responded to by the greater number of those present. Songs in the interval were rendered by Messrs. F. Lewis and S. Lennox. The handsome cup which was given for competition between the colts teams of Belleville, Campbellford and Peterborough, and which was won this year by the latter club, was upon exhibition and greatly admired. During the evening, Mr. Biggar presented the cup to the winners, making an appropriate address. Mr. Geo. Horkins, in accepting the cup on behalf of Peterborough, said they highly appreciated it and would endeavour to keep possession of it.

The party broke up at an early hour after spending an enjoyable evening."

HOCKEY.

The Whitby Collegiate Institute team arrived on the G.T.R. noon train to-day and registered at the Grand Central Hotel. The team is composed of a burly aggregation of young athletes, all tall, well-made fellows. In speaking of the game, which they play, the Whitby boys are not at all backward in saying that they are in championship form and perfectly fitted to battle with the Peterborough Collegiate team for the privilege of being considered the best school team in Canada.

The puck was faced at about 1.30 p.m. and the two teams lined up as follows:—

Peterborough.		Whitby.
J Hamilton	goal	Lapham
C Poussette	point	K Campbell
S Adams	cover point	D Campbell
R Davidson	forwards	Barnes
B Bellegham		Smith
L King		Birrel
W Crossley		Stewart

Whitby scored the first goal on a very odd shot, which rose straight up in the air out of a scrimmage in front of the flags and which no goal-keeper could have judged. In another minute the Peterborough Collegiate boys evened the score. When the game was concluded the score stood 7 to 3 in favour of the town Collegiate boys.

The Whitby team plays in Lindsay to-night.

The Volts went to Lindsay last night to play the return match with the team of that place. The game is described as being a rough one, a player being carried off the ice in a fainting condition, with a gash over his eye of such proportions as to require six stiches in it. The Volts were victorious by a score of three goals to one.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox's Husband.

Mr. Wilcox, the husband of the poetess of passion, is a common sense business man, with one big piece of sentiment in his disposition—that is his love for his wife. On one occasion, when he was traveling, he placed six or seven photographs of his wife on the mantel of his room in the hotel. The pert chambermaid, whisking them off with her feather duster, electrified the loving spouse by exclaiming: "My! What a lot of girls you've got!"

New Rules of Whist.

Rule 1—Never return your partner's lead; half the fun is in seeing him play against three.

Rule 2—If your partner calls for trumps, let him call, you just snick r.

Rule 3—Always trump your partner's trick. What right has he to take it? He takes it to mulliate you and show your insignificance in the game.

Rule 4—Always lead from a sneak and watch the outlook of contempt on your partner's countenance.

Rule 5—Always throw away from your long suit so that your partner can't blame you for not trumping your opponent's trick.

Rule 6—Engage in conversation across the table and ascertan the high cards played in the suits.

Rule 7—Revoke occasionally, as it tends to shorten the game by giving your opponents two extra tricks.

Rule 8—Insist on looking at the last three tricks and call your partner's attention to what has already been played.

Rule 9—After each hand is played get up a "post mortem," and show what might have happened if your partner had played differently.

Rule 10—As whist is supposed to be played in silence, be as hilarious as possible, so as to keep the minds of the players off the game,

Rule 11—If you have friends in the room, it is expected that they should look into the hands of your opponents and prompt you what to play.

Rule 12—In dealing wet your thumb in your mouth as often as possible, so you can enjoy the feelings of the more cleanly players.

Rule 13—If you have an ace and queen only always play out your ace first. It is only good for one trick and your adversaries ought to be allowed to take a trick with their king.

Rule 14—Play second hand high on first round and if you lose the trick be thankful you are rid of a doubtful card.

Rule 15—Always assist your adversaries in getting up a "see saw;" it is fun to see them scoop in the tricks.

Rule 16—If your partner is strong in trumps weaken his hand by forcing him to trump. He won't take as many tricks as he expected.

Rule 17—Any mistake that is made by your partner should be treated as downright stupidity; while your errors are only errors of judgment.—Henry Miller in Brooklyn Eagle.

Better Left Unsaid.

A certain young poet is equally famous in the world of letters as an author and among his friends for his blunt candor that is forever betraying him into one of the things one would have preferred to say differently, as Du Maurier puts it. On his last birthday he was given a charming dinner by his doting parents, at which he was bitterly disappointed by the regret of several notables. Thus, when a society girl said to him at the close of the evening, "What a delightful time we have had!" he exclaimed from the fullness of his heart: "I'm glad it hasn't seemed dull to you. We invited some awfully clever people, but not one of them came!"—Philadelphia Press.

A Clansman Dead.

Norman Macleod, chief of the Clan Macleod and, indeed, one of the last great Highland chieftains, is dead at Paris. He was the twenty-second chief of that name, and for no less than sixty years he administered, through every variety of fortune, one of the few great Highland properties which still remain in the possession of the ancient Highland families. He lived in early life in Dunvegan castle, Isle of Syke, and no man in Scotland was more beloved among the followers who delighted to do him honor in the ancient Scotch fashion.

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

HOW IT WAS FOUND BY A LANARK COUNTY LADY.

She had Suffered for Years From Weakness and Pains in the Back—Sciatica Complicated the Trouble and Added to her Misery—Her Health Almost Miraculously Restored.

From Brockville Recorder.

On a prosperous farm in the township of Montague, Lanark county, live Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood, esteemed by all who know them. Mrs Wood was born in the village of Merrickville, and spent her whole life there until her marriage, and her many friends are congratulating her on her recovery to health and strength after years of pain and suffering. When the correspondent of the Recorder called at the Wood homestead, Mrs. Wood, although now not looking the least like an invalid, said that since girlhood and until recently, she was troubled with a weak back which gave her great pain at times. As she grew older the weakness and pain increased, and for nearly twenty years she was never free from it. About a year ago her misery was increased by an attack of sciatica, and this with her back trouble forced her to take to bed, where she remained a helpless invalid for over four months. Different doctors attended her and she tried numerous remedies said to be a cure for her trouble, but despite all she continued to grow worse. She was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but she had dosed herself with so many medicines that her faith in the healing virtues of anything was about gone. At last a friend urged her so strongly that she consented to give the Pink Pills a trial. Before the first box was all used she felt a slight improvement, which determined her to continue this treatment. From that out she steadily improved, and was soon able to be up and about the house. A further use of the Pink Pills drove away every vestige of the pains which had so long afflicted her, and she found herself again enjoying the blessings of perfect health. Eight months have passed since she ceased using the Pink Pills, and in that time she has been entirely free from pain or weakness, and says she is confident no other medicine could have performed the wonder Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her. She says "I feel happy not only because I am now free from pain or ache, but because if my old trouble should return at any time I know to what remedy to look for a release."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to women. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and eradicate those troubles which makes the lives of so many women, old and young, a burden. Dizziness, palpitation of the heart, nervous headache and nervous prostration speedily yield to this wonderful medicine. They are sold only in boxes, the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

TRICKS IN ALL TRADES.

Why the Furniture Man Did Not Allow the "Sold" Sign to Be Seen.

"John," said a furniture salesman, the other day, to the mover whom he had summoned, "this bedroom set is sold, but it is not to be delivered just yet. Move it out of the salesroom at once and store it somewhere until I want it."

"What's the use of moving it until you send it up to me?" asked the purchaser, idly. "Why don't you leave it where it is?"

The salesman uttered a queer little laugh and said:

"It is evident that you were never in the furniture business, or you would not ask that question. If I should mark that set 'sold' and leave it here in the salesroom in plain sight it would probably lose us several good sales."

"How so?" asked the purchaser, with an unbelieving look.

"It illustrates a universal weakness of human nature," laughed the salesman. "Everybody wants what he can't get, and there is nothing quite so attractive to the average buyer as a piece of furniture that somebody else has bought before he came around. If I left that bedroom set out marked 'sold' half a dozen persons would say before night that it was exactly the set they wanted, and when they heard there were no duplicates they would fuss around enviously and nothing else in the establishment would satisfy them.

"Eventually they would go off discontentedly and buy elsewhere, though the chances are that if there were no 'sold' tag on the set none of them would give it a more than a passing glance, while a fair proportion of them would purchase other sets. It is a little human weakness, that is all.

"So arises one of the tricks of the trade. When a dealer sells a piece of furniture of which he has no duplicates he hustles it out of the salesroom as quickly as he can, lest it lose him other trade. But when he sells a piece of furniture of which he has duplicates he puts a big 'sold' tag on it and leaves it in open sight as long as possible for a bait for others."

Fishing Tackle.

The daughter was going over her father's fishing tackle, straightening it up for him to be ready for the spring campaign, when she came across a corkscrew.

"Why, mamma," she exclaimed, "what's this for?"

"Um," sniffed mamma, "I guess that's a hook to catch bait with."

How Money Grows.

Peter B. Brigham, a native of Vermont, long resident in Boston, died eighteen years ago bequeathing $1,000,000, the principal and interest at the end of twenty-five years to be used in erecting and maintaining a free public hospital in Boston. The fund now amounts to $2,500,000.

BLOODHOUNDS BEATEN.

THE UNTEACHABLE AND LAZY AUSTRALIAN AS A TRACKER.

Wonderful Ability of the Race in This Peculiar Line—Even When the Trace was Practically Lost They Have Found It In Spite of All.

It is a fact that it is hard to teach the Australian aborigines anything useful. They are naturally lazy and indolent, unsettled and of a roving disposition, says a writer in the California. They will not stay long at any place, and if raised from their degraded position into more comfortable conditions, necessitating the breaking with their natural mode of living, they will almost invariably return to it at their first opportunity, and the same may be said of the halfcastes, who otherwise are far superior to their sable parents and other relatives. It is an oft-repeated occurrence in Australia that a half-caste child has been removed, when 8 or 10 years old, to the surroundings of civilization, has been given an education equal to any white child of the better classes of the community, and, notwithstanding this, upon coming into contact with his own race, has returned to the black fellows camp, ignoring book learning, fine linen, and the comforts of civilized life. In two capacities the black fellows have been found satisfactory—as trackers and in the native police. I can only find a correct expression for their power of tracking by calling it instinct. I have been with them searching for men whose every trace had been practically lost, but the black tracker had found them in spite of all. They are more sure than bloodhounds. When the track ceases, through some mysterious agency they seem to know where to find it again. In the native police they are very useful as trackers. This police consists of small troops of mounted, uniformed black fellows under the command of European officers. They act as gendarmes in the outlying districts and are principally used for the purpose of bringing marauding blacks to account. It is not uncommon that the upcountry blacks spear the cattle on the station, or murder travelers or settlers, and it is principally in such cases that the native police becomes useful.

The manner in which they surprise a camp of savage aborigines is characteristic. Having ascertained that they are near a camp some of them dismount and strip to the skin. Then they fasten their carbines to their ankle by means of a piece of rope or a chain, and, trailing it through the long grass, approach the camp. The unsuspecting blacks come to meet their sable brothers, when, quick as lightning, the trooper stoops, brings his carbine to a level and sends death and destruction into the camp. The aboriginal thinks a good deal more of his dogs than of his women. Dogs are always found about the camp in large numbers. They are of a mongrel breed, and generally starved to ferocity. The black fellow in most places is a polygamist, and his wives are used for carrying everything, from their babies to their husband's weapons—including all their camp paraphernalia, rations or whatever else they may wish to transport—while the lordly master marches along with perhaps a waddie or a boomerang as the only burden to impede his progress. But if, as in many instances, the blacks be savage, the white men with whom they come into contact are no less so. The life of a black fellow is counted as nothing and the depredations perpetrated on them by settlers are numerous and often particularly cruel. The spearing of a few head of cattle on a station, where thousands are grazing on the runs, has often cost the lives of many black fellows and I know of several instances where the camp had been raided and the women carried away by white men, while it is a fact that there are settlers who have made it a point to shoot any black fellow found on their vast domains, to avenge some murder committed in the first place by the blacks.

Pensions For Workingmen In Austria.

Under the provisions of the Austrian poor law, at 60 years of age a man may claim from his native town or commune a pension equal to one-third of the daily wages which he had received during his working years. The amount varies from 2 to 6 florins a month. In Vienna alone there are 16,000 persons who receive these pensions from the city.

HOW TO FEED HORSES

FOR THE BEST AND CHEAPEST RESULTS ON THE FARM.

Some Mistakes That are Made Through Thoughtlessness—How to Avoid Them—Horse Labor the Heaviest Expenditure on the Farm—How to Minimize It.

Not many farmers take into account what it costs to winter the horses necessary for their farm work. If this and other items that go to make up the expenditure in keeping up a fairly well equipped working stock were minutely detailed, there are few that would not be surprised at the result. Certainly the proper management of horses on the farm is one of those particulars which demand serious attention. There is a large proportion of horses worn out on the farm. If we take a percentage of the loss thus incurred, it is one of the departments that adds materially to the drain on the credit side of the ledger account. For instance, a farmer buys a pair of already broken young horses, which do his work to his satisfaction, and, consequently, if they are good he values them much more highly than any buyer is likely to offer; he therefore keeps them on until they are too old for sale and are worth considerably less money for any commercial purpose than the price paid. He still asks a high price, and the upshot of the matter is he either wears them out or sells them, when nearly done, at a figure not exceeding twenty-five per cent. of first cost. On the other hand farmers breed their horses, and after they are sufficiently educated the same course is pursued. Now in both these instances there is a yearly loss on account of depreciation in value. Spring is usually the best time to sell this stock. Work that will not stand delay is close at hand, and rather than sell them at their value and run the chance of replacing them they are retained. The difficulty is partly due to farmers not keeping their horses in condition for sale. When the winter season comes the feed is taken off and horses are fed hay without grain in order to curtail the expense, as well as to prevent further trouble from feeding horses that have not sufficient exercise. The grain ration is stopped short, or so lessened that a hearty horse has to satisfy hunger by filling up with more hay than is good for him, and which he generally has dealt out to him ad libitum. He consequently spends his idle hours in gorging himself with hay, the value of which his owner does not take into consideration. If the yearly value of keeping a horse in proper shape is taken into account, it is found to make the horse labor one of the heaviest expenditures on the farm. In these days, when hand labor is not attainable, the only resource is to keep a sufficient number of horses of such a stamp that may be required to horse the improved implements of the day. In fact, at present a fully equipped set of implements and machines in which horses are utilized is the only solution to the farm labor question, therefore how to feed horses cheaply and always have them in saleable and good working condition will have to be made more and more a study of.

The opinion that hay and oats are the only kinds of feed suitable to the every day horse ration has been so well handed down by old writers that it is in a measure dangerous to suggest a substitute. The convenient form of both these articles, and their well-known suitability for horses that have to perform arduous work, also have the effect of keeping these two standard staples in continued use. But the fact that this condition is only suitable for hard worked horses must not be overlooked, and that the farm horse of necessity must stand idle for a large proportion of the winter.

In order to economize, and at the same time provide suitable diet, the mixture that all practical horse breeders use in their breeding studs is much in advance, and although all do not quite agree as to what sort of grain is best and cheapest, they all agree that cut feed, hay and straw, bran and ground grain can be fed with much greater advantage and at about half the cost. If a feed room is provided in which water does not freeze, the mixing can be done by wetting the chaff and adding the bran and ground grain; and if mixed twelve hours previous to feeding all the better. Another good plan is to heat the grain and bran or meal and bran in a chaldron, and then mix with whatever chaff is intended to be fed. It then forms a most savory and nutritious food, and at very little expense and trouble after the required appliances are once in place. By either of these methods not only are all the nutritious elements in the ration made the most of, but in this form it is much easier on the digestive apparatus than when long hay and whole oats are fed. At the same time this mixed food is not as heating to the blood of horses not being worked.

Everyone knows that pork and fat meat of any kind is both relished and conducive to health in the case of a man at work out of doors, but place the same man on the same diet inside in an office, without exercise, and he would quickly suffer. Exactly the same principle applies to animals on the farm, and by studying and testing the different modes only the best methods may be practically worked out. What in this case applies to the idle work horse is still more applicable to young colts, as a properly balanced ration, properly prepared as above, will develop them more quickly, and at the same time keep them in the best possible state of health.—Farmer's Advocate.

Fattening Sheep and Lambs.

In fattening sheep and lambs it is greatly important that we have food of a suitable character on which to feed and fatten them. Here again much will depend upon conditions. The most suitable food for our country might not be the most suitable for another; first because of the greater cost of production, and second because of its decreased adaptability to the requirements of the climate. At the same time it would probably be correct to say that food factors about the same in character would be suitable for the states occupying the northern half of this great republic, and all the cultivatable portion of Canada. The most suitable pasture foods for sheep in summer, in those latitudes, are succulent grasses fine and varied in character, rye, English rape, and white and yellow-fleshed turnips.

The most suitable soiling crops include vetches and oats, or vetches, peas, oats, and corn. The most suitable winter food includes fine, well cured hay, clover in character, well-cured pea straw, field roots, and corn ensilage, and oats, peas, bran, corn, wheat and oilcakes, fed in suitable combinations.

In fattening sheep it is greatly important to know how to give them such food and in a way that will best secure the desired end. To do this most effectively, we would almost require to raise up a new generation of feeders on this continent, superior in this respect to their fathers, for, in the production of mutton as in the making of beef and pork in finest form, a patience is required and an attention to details, which does not seem to exist in a marked degree in the impatiently progressive character of the average North American. We would be better producers of mutton if this impetuous haste were tempered with that patience and painstaking which has placed the pure Celtic races in the foremost positions as feeders in the world.—From Address by Prof. Shaw, Guelph, at Columbus, Ohio.

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

ATTAR OF ROSES.

Six Billion Damask Buds Gathered Every Year to Make It.

Since the emancipation of the Balkan Provinces the manufacture of attar of roses has become a great industry in Bulgaria, and has been taken up on a large scale in Germany. We have all been accustomed to connect the fabrication of attar of roses with Persia and Syria, and even now India and Constantinople furnish probably the largest markets for it; but, although the art of making it was discovered in Persia, the manufacture has now nearly or quite died out, and the centre of the business is now the country about Kazanlik, on the south slope or the Balkans, close to the Shipka, or Wild Rose Pass, famous in the history of the Russo-Turkish War. The rose-growing belt is situated at an average altitude of 1,000 feet above the sea, and extends to a length of about seventy miles, with an average breadth of ten miles. On this ground are produced annually from 5,000,000,000 to 6,000,000,000 rose blossoms.

The number of varieties cultivated is very small. Ninety per cent. of all the blossoms are taken from a bushy variety of the Rosa Damascena, or damask rose, known to our gardners mainly as the ancestor from which the infinite variety of hybrid perpetual roses derive a large part of their blood. Of the remaining ten per cent. a part are gathered from the white musk rose, which is frequently planted as a hedge around the fields of pink Damascena, while the rest are furnished by a dark red variety of Damascena. Other sorts of roses have been tried, but some yield no attar at all, and others give an essence having the perfume of violets, or pineapples, or hyacinth, rather than of roses.

DISASTER ON THE OHIO.

A Steamer Strikes a Pier and Literally Crumbles to Pieces.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 9.—The handsome packet Longfellow, which plies between this city and New Orleans, struck the channel pier of the Chesapeake bridge about 7 o'clock yesterday morning and in three minutes sank in about thirty feet of water. She had on board over 100 people. It is believed that the total number of dead and missing will not exceed eight or ten. The vessel was heavily laden with a large shipment of reapers and mowers for the south. There was a dense fog prevailing at the time but it is thought that the real cause of the disaster was owing to the fact that the vessel was so unwieldy that she became unmanageable and the pilots were unable to control her. After the collision the steamer seemed literally to crumble to pieces, the bow of the boat sinking and the cabin and stern floating away. The tug Carrel, which had Longfellow in tow, rendered every assistance possible. Most of the passengers and crew who escaped jumped from one boat to the other. The Carrel remained in the neighborhood for about ten minutes, but finding that nothing more could be done steamed back to the company's wharf, where the passengers were placed on shore. They were cared for by the company's agents and sent to their different destinations.

The pier upon which the Longfellow struck has been a constant menace to river men whenever the water is above its normal station. A thorough investigation of the disaster and causes leading to it will be made by the Government authorities. The general supposition is that the bodies of the missing are in the cabin. The loss on the boat is estimated at $35,000, fully insured.

THE GING TRIAL CONCLUDED.

Harry T. Hayward Found Guilty of Murder in the First Degree.

Minneapolis, March 9.—"Guilty as charged," was the verdict rendered yesterday at the close of the trial of Harry T. Hayward for the murder of Catherine Ging on the night of December 8 last. The jury took one ballot and found him guilty of murder in the first degree. When Hayward appeared he was faultlessly dressed as usual and apparently as cool as ever. When the verdict was presented every eye was turned to Hayward as the clerk started to read the paper. There was nothing in his face to indicate that he had heard a word of it. He threw his head back as the "guilty" was pronounced but it was only to adjust his collar band. He did not change color in the slightest. Sentence will be pronounced on Monday.

Whaling for Bone Chiefly.

Dead as whaling is on the Atlantic coast it is sufficiently lively on the Pacific, though the most valuable product of the voyage is no longer oil, but whalebone. The crude bone fetches in San Francisco from $4 to $6 a pound, and a great many hundred pounds may be taken from the mouth of a single whale. The demand is steady, and much of the bone is used in the manufacture of rich and heavy silks. No substitute has been found for it here, though other things are used for corsets and stays. Dressmakers make the use of real whalebone the excuse for charging especially high prices for their work, and the genuine article is vastly more durable and satisfactory than any substitute.—New York Sun.

Suspended Matter in Flame.

Professor Stokes, the eminent scientist, has in a most ingenious manner lately demonstrated the presence of suspended matter in flame. The way this is optically proved is by condensing sunlight on the flame, and the light is then scattered by the solid particles in an extremely thin layer, both where the beam enters the flame and where it leaves it. It is polarized in the flame of reflection—an effect, however, which is not found in all flames—it being absent, for instance, in that of a Bunsen flame tinged with burning sodium. In the latter case this seems to be due to the fact that the sodium is in the form of vapor, not of solid particles.

BEHRING SEA CLAIMS

Senator Morgan Says There is a Mistaken View of the Matter.

LIABILITY OF UNITED STATES

He Claims That the Total Amount That Can Possibly Be Recovered By British Subjects is $70,924—Speculative Profits Not to Be Included.

Washington, March 9.—The interrogatories addressed to Sir Edward Grey in the House of Commons on Thursday relative to what the United States proposed doing in the matter of paying the Behring Sea seizure claims, and the answer made by the Under Foreign Secretary, it is thought here, might have taken a widely different turn had the Senate permitted Mr. Morgan, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and one of the arbitrators on the part of the United States at the Paris tribunal, to have stated the account between the two Governments as he had prepared it and as he sought to publish it in the record during the closing hours of Congress. Mr. Morgan asked to be permitted to print in the record an account which he said showed that the claim for damages made by the British Government for the capture of sealing vessels in Behring Sea was greatly excessive, but objection was made. Explaining his action Mr. Morgan said: "A very mistaken view of this matter is entertained. The agents of the two Governments agreed upon a state of facts which the tribunal of arbitration found to be true and entered it on record. That statement of facts included only the names of 20 sealing vessels that were seized by the United States. The tribunal had no authority to pass upon any questions touching the liability of the United States Government for having made such seizures. The United States has not a right to arbitrate any such claim or demand and has never admitted any liability to Great Britain connected with any such claim or demand. It was only agreed to negotiate respecting it expressly reserving the question of such liability as the subject of such negotiation."

Mr. Morgan then gave in detail the names of the vessels and the claims made on their behalf which was the statement he desired to include in the record but which was shut out by Mr. Turpie's objection. The statements showed that the amount claimed by Great Britain with interest was $549,169.26; the amount proposed to be allowed by Secretary Gresham was $425,000. Mr. Morgan estimated that the excess proposed to be allowed by Secretary Gresham was fully $182,000. He added: "The above figures and comparisons are based entirely upon the supposition that every vessel included in the schedule of claims submitted by Sir Julian Pauncefote was owned by a British subject. It appears, however, from the United States counter case submitted to the Behring Sea tribunal of arbitration at Paris, that 10 vessels were in fact owned by citizens of the United States." He figured up the general result as follows: Total amount claimed by Great Britain $549,169.42; total amount of claims of United States citizens presented $359,858.89. Balance resulting being amount claimed by British owners, $182,315.53. But of this amount claimed by British subjects speculative damages are included to the amount of $111,891, thus leaving the amount claimed by British subjects, less speculative damages, $70,324.53.

The total amount of claims of British subjects which, as Mr. Morgan contends, could possibly be recovered amounts in all to $70,924. But even this sum, which is $471,244 less than the British claim presented and $354,076 less than the amount that the Secretary of State proposes to give in settlement, is undoubtedly excessive. Of that amount $34,636 is for "personal claims" and in all probability some of these claimants are citizens of the United States or some other country, which fact has been established by investigation. Deducting the "personal claims" from $70,924 there is left, as Mr. Morgan says, $36,289. Of this sum $16,560 appears as the claim of the Henrietta (less speculative damages). The Henrietta was seized in the Behring Sea in September, 1890, under the provisions of the modus vivendi and therefore no claim is allowable.

Senator Morgan therefore concludes that Great Britain claims the sum of $542,109 and that the amount due with interest is but $36,102, making an excess in the claim over the amount due with interest of $446,026. The Secretary of State proposed to allow $425,000, which is according to Senator Morgan's figures $388,897 in excess of the total amount due British subjects with the interest computed.

"When the Government of the United States," said Mr. Morgan in conclusion, "has made no agreement and no admission of any indebtedness to Great Britain on account of these claims and has not admitted any principle on which the claim of Great Britain is based I must insist that these matters should be discussed in negotiations that the two Governments are bound to conduct. I could not agree that speculative profits or damages or personal claims should be included in the accounts unless that is in accordance with the laws of nations. Such a precedent would soon develop into the most bitter and violent contentions between nations."

Resigned from the Club.

Hamilton, March 9.—The directors of the Hamilton Jockey Club met yesterday and transacted routine business. It will not be necessary for President J. M. Loftridge to resign from the club, as he threatened to do on account of the glove contest which took place at the club house last Sunday. At yesterday's meeting all the members who were implicated in last Sunday's affair, including Reginald Moreton and Mayor A. D. Stewart, the secretary, sent in their resignations.

R. A. Gunn, M.D., of New York city is known to the medical profession and to the public throughout the entire land. He has had an opportunity of seeing people's needs, both as Professor of surgery in the U. S. Medical College and in his extensive practice. In speaking about one of his patients who was afflicted with the most terrible of all modern maladies, Bright's disease of the kidneys, he said:—

"A chemical and microscopical examination of the patient's urine revealed quantities of albumen and granular tube casts, confirming Bright's disease. After trying all of the other remedies in vain, I directed him to use Warner's Safe Cure. I was greatly surprised to observe a decided improvement within a month. Within four months no tube casts could be found, and only a trace of albumen, and, as he expressed it, he felt perfectly well."

Dr. Gunn's experience only confirms what other physicians and millions of people have known for many years; that for all female troubles, all kidney difficulties, and even Bright's disease itself, there is but one standard one well known remedy in the world, and that is Warner's Safe Cure. If you are suffering from any symptoms, such as pain in the back, occasional nausea, pains in the muscles, bearing-down sensations, or any of those unmistakable signs which indicate the coming on of this great trouble, you should not delay a moment, but be warned in time.

American Trade Report.

New York, March 9.—Bradstreet's today says: The general business situation shows more improvement. Gains are shown in improved demand for lumber and other building materials and in receipt of larger orders for structural iron and steel, together with the absorption of available stocks of Bessemer pig-iron. The tendency of prices remains as heretofore, an advance being reported in shoes, which has checked the volume of business for fall delivery in cotton, due, as alleged, to a spread of confidence in the prospect for a reduced cotton acreage; pork, lard, refined sugar, Indian corn, live hogs and leather, the latter having advanced sharply. Bessemer pig-iron is unchanged, despite the market being cleared of available supplies, and lumber, while nominally unchanged is firm, with an upward tendency. Cotton goods are weaker and print cloths once more down to 2½c. for 64s. Wheat and oats have each reacted, as have butter and eggs and live cattle. The reduction in the price of steel billets at Pittsburg is a surprising feature. Exports of wheat, both coasts of the United States, this week have increased sharply, aggregating 3,272,000 bushels, against 2,689,000 bushels last week, 2,851,000 bushels in the week a year ago, about the same quantity in the week two years ago and as compared with 3,754,000 bushels in the first week of March, 1893. Business failures have increased somewhat within the week, the total for six business days being 269 against 234 in the previous week and 233 in the week a year ago.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER

Prospects of the Liberal Party in the Coming Elections.

THEY ARE OF THE BRIGHTEST

Sir Donald Smith Declares He Will Not Again be a Conservative Candidate—The Ottawa Government's Milk and Water Policy Shown Up.

Ottawa, March 11.—Sir Donald Smith, M.P. for Montreal West, was in the city on Saturday and had an interview with Sir Mackenzie Bowell. It is said that he is thinking of coming out in opposition to the Government for the St. Antoine division of Montreal. At all events he has declared that he will not run as a Conservative candidate, although he has supported the Conservative Governments of Sir John Macdonald and Sir J. J. C. Abbott. He is president of the Bank of Montreal and one of the directors of the C. P. R., and as a business man he probably recognizes that the financial affairs of the country require the strong hand of an able administrator, and as the receipts of the C. P. R. continue to decrease at the rate of $1,000,000 a year he probably sees no hope of Canada relieving herself of the present depression, unless there is a change of policy.

Mr. E. A. D. Morgan, of Sorel, is here trying to fix things so that he can carry the county of Richelieu in the Government interest at the approaching election. He was their candidate in the bye-election in 1891, but was defeated in a straight fight by Mr. Bruneau, the young Liberal member, who is again in the field, and Mr. Morgan feels that unless he can secure a barrel of money or something equally powerful with which to bribe the electors he has no chance with Mr. Bruneau in a general election. In fact the information from the Province of Quebec is that Mr. Laurier will come to Ottawa with a majority of twenty in that Province, and possibly more.

A gentleman from Manitoba who is here and cannot be described either as a Liberal or a Conservative, says that out of the seven seats Manitoba has in the new Parliament, the Liberals, he thinks, will carry five. At present they only hold one. The Liberals in Marquette, Man., have selected Mr. R. H. Myers, M.P.P., the popular local member, as their candidate for the Commons. In Macdonald, Dr. Rutherford, M.P.P., has consented to bear the Liberal standard, and against him Mr. Boyd, the present member, has no chance. So weak are the Conservatives in Manitoba that they have no candidate in two of the constituencies, and do not intend to have one, namely Selkirk and Lisgar. In Selkirk there is a Patron and also in Lisgar. Strong Liberal candidates are out in both constituencies, Mr. Macdonell in Selkirk and Mr. McLaren in Lisgar. Mr. C. W. Speers, a young farmer, has been nominated against Mr. Daly, the Minister of Interior, and there is also a Patron in the field.

In the Northwest Territories the Liberal prospects are as bright as in Manitoba. Mr. Frank Oliver has just consented to run as the Liberal candidate in Alberta, and he is probably the strongest man in the Northwest, so much so that the Conservatives are begging Premier Haultain to resign and run against him. Alberta is therefore as good as won for the Liberals. In Eastern Assiniboia, the present Conservative member, Mr. Macdonald, has a strong Opposition candidate running against him, and in Saskatchewan they have nominated the Liberal leader, Mr. Lauriер. Mr. Davin, in Western Assiniboia, will have a hard fight for his seat, and it is not an over statement to say that out of the four seats in the Territories now held by the Government, they will be lucky if they retain one.

Reports from British Columbia predict the return of three Liberals out of the six members from that Province, including the certain election of Mr. Templeman, the editor of the Victoria Times, who is one of the two Liberal candidates for that city. There are seventeen parliamentary seats west of Lake Superior, and of these the Liberals only hold one at the present day. The probabilities are that in the new Parliament the Liberals will have at least eleven of those seats and perhaps thirteen.

Two illustrations of the tendency of the Government to make trouble for themselves and harass trade between the people will show the petty character of the men now in power. Finding that booms employed in towing logs between Ontario and Michigan were being entered on both sides of the line free, as the booms were towed back and forth constantly, the Canadian Government imposed a customs duty on the booms and chains every time they were returned to Canada, though they were for the most part owned in Canada. That is one illustration. Milk is on the free list in the United States tariff. Welland County farmers have a large market for milk in the City of Buffalo for all the milk they can supply, and the Buffalo dealers furnish the cans free, but the Department of Customs has decided that if the United States cans are used they will have to pay a tax every time they are brought into Canada equal to about 6c. on each 10 gallon can. Make the cans in Canada, says the Controller of Customs, and then they can come in free, but the Welland farmers reply that the Buffalo milkmen already have the cans and only want the milk. This illustration number two. So ridiculous a policy can only be maintained for a short while, and the Government have been compelled to declare booms for logs free, and the chains by which they are attached. With regard to the milk cans, that is a case on all fours with the New Brunswick huckleberries, which crop gave employment to a large number of New Brunswick poor people and was sold to fruit dealers in the United States who furnish the packages in which the fruit was transported. The Ottawa Government exacted a duty on the packages the moment it was brought to their attention, but this policy raised such a storm of indignation that it was speedily repealed. Make your packages in Canada, they said, but what did the poor berry pickers want with manufacturing packages when they were supplied by the dealers in the United States free of charge, and so it is in the case of milk cans in the Niagara district. The whole thing may be appropriately described as a milk and water policy.

THE COILS TIGHTENING.

Damaging Evidence Against the Prisoner Hendershott.

St. Thomas, March 11.—The Walter and Hendershott trial for murder was continued on Saturday.

John Begg testified that he saw blood spots extending from where the body was found lying to the stump of the tree, and pools of blood in other places.

Charles Joiner swore positively that different large spots of blood found were connected by trails of blood on leaves and sticks.

Walter Wardell testified to finding hair on a stump 140 feet away, which corresponded with the deceased Hendershott's hair.

Neil Campbell described the location of the third axe when found.

Henry Crouse testified to fitting the notch in the blade of the axe to a similar notch in the tree, which tallied exactly.

Albert Chivers corroborated this evidence, which proves that the last axe found was used in chopping down the tree lying upon the body of the deceased Hendershott.

J. Fortner identified the handle of the axe as being his manufacture and that he had sold it to John Hendershott two years ago.

Mrs. Duncan Hendershott testified to washing two shirts and a pair of suspenders of the deceased. The shirts were stained with blood on the neck, shoulders and cuffs.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Emily McConnell and Mrs. Ann French, two cousins of prisoner Hendershott, gave evidence to the effect that Hendershott had told them that he said he did not intend to work hard all his life and that he was going to take out insurance on the lives of several persons and pay the premiums and that if none of them died soon enough it would be an easy matter to get rid of one of them. The Chief Justice reserved his decision until to-day on the admission of the testimony given by the prisoners at the inquest. The medical men of the city and vicinity met at the office of Dr. Lawrence and it is currently reported that after careful consultation they have unanimously come to the conclusion that the wounds found upon the skull of the dead man Hendershott could not have been produced by the limbs of the tree and that they were inflicted by some sharp instrument. Also that the blood marks which were found upon axe number three had been submitted to a chemical analysis and found to be human blood.

A POPULAR VERDICT.

Luella Lacey Acquitted of the Charge of Poisoning Baby Frank Wilbur.

St. Catharines, March 11.—Luella Lacey was on Saturday acquitted of the serious charge of poisoning Frank Wilbur, the infant son of Mr. T. Pearson, of North Grimsby. The court house was crowded to its fullest capacity. Mr. M. C. Cameron, of Toronto, conducted the Crown's case while E. A. Lancaster, of this city, looked after the interest of the accused child. The evidence of four physicians was corroborated. Each was of opinion that death was caused by carbolic acid. Mr. Lancaster brought forth evidence to show that Mr. Harry Hurst, brother of Mrs. Pearson, was the last person that handled the bottle previous to the child's death. The jury retired at 11.20 and returned to the court at 11.40 with a verdict of "not guilty. His Lordship expressed his satisfaction with the view the jury took in the case. The crowd in the court room gave vent to their feelings by incipient hand clapping.

THE HYAMS CASE.

Another Adjournment — Charge Against the Pillows Withdrawn.

Toronto, March 11.—Crown Attorney Curry on Saturday formally withdrew the warrant for conspiracy against the two Pillows, who were arrested in Montreal a few days ago in connection with the Hyams murder case. The two defendants had been discharged from custody when Mr. Curry went to Montreal.

The Thirteenth are Jubilant.

Hamilton, March 11.—The Canada Gazette announces the returns of the comparative efficiency of city battalions of infantry. The 13th Battalion of Hamilton with 126.25 carried off the much coveted prize—the Gzowski cup. The Queen's Queen's Own Rifles came uncomfortably close behind with a record of 126 points. The officers and members of the 13th Battalion are greatly elated at their success in again winning the Gzowski cup. It is probable the 13th Batt. will send a team to Bisley next summer. The 13th has four men in the Dominion team and by sending two more men at its own expense it will be eligible to shoot in the battalion match, the teams in which number six men.

THE IRISH LAND BILL

May Turn Out to Be a Measure of Great Importance.

SPEAKER PEEL'S RETIREMENT.

The Government's Naval Policy Highly Satisfactory—The Widespread Ravages of the Influenza—The Prince of Wales Said to be Seriously Ailing.

London, March 11.—Last week the Government produced their great measure of the session. No one expects the Welsh Disestablishment bill to become law, and the same remark applies to the local veto. The conciliation bill for settling labor disputes is voluntary, not compulsory in principle. But the Irish Land bill may turn out a measure of great importance. It is based largely on the recommendations of the committee appointed last year and contains concessions to the Unionists, in the hope that the Irish landlords in the Upper Chamber may be conciliated. Nevertheless the bill embodies proposals which were once repudiated by Mr. Gladstone, and which the present Lord Chancellor denounced as revolutionary. The provisions of the bill dealing with improvements are exceedingly drastic, and give the tenant more advantages than the landlord in the estate. Every improvement is virtually assumed to be the tenant's, unless the contrary is established. While the Opposition are as a whole not unfavorable to the bill, the Irish factions are divided in opinion respecting it. The orthodox, or anti-Parnellites, accept the measure with enthusiasm and their newspaper organ declares it will deal a death blow to landlordism. These views are sufficient to provoke the Parnellites to adopt the opposite view. In the course of Mr. Morley's description of the chaotic condition of Irish land legislation he stated that the cost of the land commission since 1881 had exceeded a million sterling, while the remissions secured under the fair rent clause but slightly exceeded that sum. One principal feature of the new land bill will relate to evicted tenants. The Government propose to re-enact the thirteenth clause of Mr. Balfour's land purchase bill, which was intended to encourage voluntary agreements between landlords and tenants who had been evicted. That object was not achieved, owing largely to the advice of Mr. Dillon, Mr. O'Brien and others, who recommended tenants to remain by the roadside until the Gladstonians came into office. Possibly Mr. Morley relies upon a modification of Mr. Balfour's proposal, which will largely destroy the voluntary principle, for the operation of the bill will place the landlord at the mercy of the land commission in regard to the purchase price. This hampers the freedom of action of the landlord while imposing no similar restriction upon the tenant. There is so strong a desire on the Opposition side and among the Ulster Unionists to accept the bill that possibly some compromise will be evolved.

Mr. Peel's retirement from the Speakership does not occasion surprise. He is reckoned as the strongest speaker since the late Lord Eversley, and his control over the turbulent spirits in Commons was complete. In all things he was dignified, but was not without hauteur, which was sometimes resented. He will, of course have a peerage. It is remarkable that this honor was declined by his father, the great Sir Robert, who also forbid his widow and heir to accept any such distinction.

The naval programme of Lord Rosebery's Government is regarded by most adverse critics of the Ministerial policy to be highly satisfactory. Sir William Harcourt has yielded to the general demand for a large increase in the naval defences on the lines laid down by Lord Salisbury and the Unionist party when in office. The plans are far in advance of anything expected from the present Ministry. They have shown France—for it is against her aggression that all these preparations are made—that where she builds one ship Great Britain can build two.

The influenza still prevails and with increasing virulence. It has left its mark upon society, and the death rate of the metropolis has distinctly increased. In fact, speaking roughly, the mortality of London is about double the normal figure. The Countess of Warwick is lying dangerously ill at Warwick Castle. Lady Salisbury is a victim. The Turkish Ambassador is very seriously ill. Lord Rosebery, too, has narrowly escaped from the clutches of death and will have to give up all official business for some weeks. His condition has been more grave than the newspapers have indicated. While all the world is thus suffering, Mr. Gladstone escapes. He has had a touch of cold at Cannes, but this young man of eighty-five climbs hills, walks out daily, and his last recreation has been to publish a commentary upon the psalter.

Mr. Labouchere is rejoicing in "Truth" over the discomfiture of his enemy, Mr. Cecil Rhodes, who has been blackballed at the Traveler's club. No one seems able to explain why such a man as Mr. Rhodes has been pilled. As a consequence, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Fife, Sir Robert Herbert, Earl Grey and others who had backed the nomination have retired from this exclusive club.

Reports to the contrary notwithstanding the Prince of Wales is greviously ailing through some trouble with the veins in his legs which has associated itself with previous varicose manifestations in his lower limbs. These varicose symptoms have developed very much recently. In consequence of his trouble it has been arranged that he make a prolonged stay in the Riviera.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY—HOW IT CAN BE IMPROVED.

Better Methods Give Better Results—The Necessity of Cheapening the Production of Dairy Articles.

Written for the Examiner.

The dairy industry of our country has become of much importance. Our Government has recognized this fact and has done much to assist us in its progress. Some years ago Prof. Jas. W. Robertson was appointed dairy commissioner, the right man in the right place, and we owe him much for the way he has made use of his practical ability and judgment in our interests. This did not satisfy the demands, hence two dairy schools have been organized, also much other assistance in the way of travelling dairy, grants to the Associations, and last, but not least, a big cheese at Chicago. All this has assisted much in making the cheese side of the industry famous. But this is only the one half, and since we have done so nicely with the one-half, we should feel encouraged to improve the butter side of our industry. Some very practical steps have been taken; still much remains to be done, and let us go right at it just now. That is what the "Warsaw Cheese and Butter Company" intend to do. Now my mind goes back about two decades. I find that the export of cheese for 1868 for the Dominion was valued at $630,543 and it has increased to $13,407,470 in 1893 and the price has continued very uniform during that time. I think there was in 1868 scarcely one factory in this county till about 1875; now there are about which board for about two weeks make, during June, in the neighbourhood of 4,000 boxes or about 280,000 lbs., which, at 9½c., would bring into these counties $26,000, and yet it's hard times. What would it be if we had not reached this point? and what would it be if we were shipping only one-half of that amount in butter too? By the report we only ship 1/13 of the value of butter that we do of cheese. I remember when farmers thought they had did well to get 100 lbs. of butter per cow some 15 years ago. Some of our patrons said they could not get each of their cows to produce 3,000 lbs. of milk when the factories first started; now they are producing equal to three tubs of butter of 100 lbs. each, or, in 6 months in the factories they supply, in some cases, 4,700 lbs. of milk for each cow. Driving through the country one does not now see so many inferior cows badly housed and fed. Farmers who have been giving their business thought, have a much improved condition of things, and it has become a pleasure to visit the cow yard of the farm and see their animals enjoying some of the benefits of civilisation.

FIFTY IN PETERBOROUGH AND VICTORIA

Any farmer who contemplates putting up new buildings should build a good, substantial, and handy building for milking cows, raising calves and so on during the winter months.

WARM, WELL-LIGHTED, WELL-VENTILATED

Good advancement has been made in the past, but shall we rest now upon our oars? I know many are saying this winter dairying is all nonsense. This is because they are not looking at what others are doing in this business. My knowledge of the facilities of other countries for producing dairy products is comparatively small, yet we may easily learn that the United States are now in many cases running their factories twelve months of each year and milking their cows ten months, establishing dairy schools in almost every state and putting forth much effort to gain a few steps in advance. Australia is giving a bonus to encourage the industry in that country. New Zealand has engaged one of our best men to instruct her in the art of dairying. Thus when we look abroad and see all that is being done, we cannot expect to continue to receive the good prices for cheese that we have been receiving. I was talking to some of our Peterborough merchants some few days ago and they say thousands of dollars have been lost on cheese bought last season for ten cents. The difficulty is at our door now possibly. What are we going to do? Produce a pound of cheese for one-half of what it now costs! That is not so easily done many will say, but

LET US TRY AND TRY AGAIN,

and the result will be surprising. If we could make our cows yield about as much again as they are doing now, we could afford to sell for half the price. Many could do this, as you will find among the patrons of our factories some sending 4,500 lbs. per cow and others sending only one third of that amount. It often surprises me to see the results of different lots of cows on the same road and only a few lots apart. No other class of men could afford to be so far behind their contemporaries in either ideas or results and hang on so long as the farmer, upon whom all live, not according to will but by preordination. Prof. Jas. W. Robertson says that in Holland they had during a few years reduced the expense of manufacturing a pound of dairy product to about one half, and increased the output per cow to about double. Now, if Hollanders can do this cannot Canadians go out in the same line. It is said that some of their factories handle the milk of 1500 cows, and if their cows give so much more than does ours their factories must have an enormous capacity.

We

not on less food but on good and abundant food which has been produced more cheaply. If two bushels can be produced where one is now, this can be done. Silos will assist much to cheapen the food of cows, also to give them summer conditions from which we may, and may only, expect summer results. Keeping only the best cows, good milkers, skilled feeding, treating the cow kindly because she can give or withhold her milk, and you must be on the best side of her WILL in order to obtain the best results. Plenty of good water, access to salt at any time, in fact attention to all the details of the business, for from any one detail all the result cannot come. It is the man or woman who can watch the details of business best who gets the best results. "The little foxes spoil the vine" has the idea in it. Anyone can see a cow in the grain field, but it is only the one who is looking for it who can see the many, many little things that are far more destructive.

We may notice that the expense of doing anything is a first demand and someone must and shall foot the bill; true it is not the one that ought to always. If each of your cows cost $16 per year for their keep, and only return $10 worth of dairy products, it will take a lot of such cows to pay $200 rent or interest. Again, if a cow costs $30 per year and yield dairy products to the amount of $40, twenty of such cows would pay the amount mentioned above. It is from what we may feed a cow over and that all the profits must come, hence the more well fed above the cost of living, the more profitable will the cow become. This principle applies to all lines of work as well. If it costs $10 to cultivate, seed and reap an acre of land, and what you get off it sells for $9, one hundred such acres would put you into bankruptcy at the rate of $100 per year; but again, if you add $3 worth of some fertilizing element to your soil and it then costs you $15 per acre to cultivate, seed and reap, etc., and you gain only one dollar per acre, or what it yields sells for $16, one hundred such acres would give you a net gain of $100 per year, and you would in forty years have $4,000 past to retire upon, and would possibly be called a good farmer into the bargain. It is very evident that farmers of to-day need more science and intelligence than they did some thirty years ago. Some time ago, the virgin soil was full of fertility and hard work would clean it off, and generally secure a good crop, but hard labour will not have the same results to-day, except this be accompanied by right direction along lines that yield profits now. Some work hard, but don't think hard and again some think hard, but are not not willing to work hard, the first class make much the better people; among the second class are all the successful villians and rogues. It is clear thinking and work combined in the one individual that makes success inevitable.

We have already noticed the possibility of us getting into the rear of our business by

OTHER COUNTRIES' COMPETITION.

This world moves much faster than a century ago. Electricity and steam have brought us closer together. In a practical sense, New Zealand and Australia are our next door neighbours. We know what they were doing only a few days ago and they also know what we are doing very soon and soon again we are side by side with our waggons backed up to the great markets of the world. This is what tests the quality of things. When they come side by side every little thing counts sometimes far beyond its real cost or its real value, still people are willing to pay for what they want and it is likely to remain so; hence, we must keep the want for Canadian dairy products up, and gain the want in the feelings of our obtainable customers for Canadian butter too.

STEWART R. PAYNE.

A CHANGE IN TONE.

The Stand Taken by Doctors on the Kent Case Beginning to Weaken.

OTTAWA, March 11.—It is safe to say that the statement made under oath by Mr. G. H. Kent, of this city with regard to his wonderful recovery from Bright's disease through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills has definitely decided the question as to whether he owes his recovery to this valuable medicine, and has been accepted as a final settlement of the debate. While however, there is now no objection raised to the statements there is still a strong feeling in the city and neighbourhood with regard to the cure, and those who at first combatted the idea as incredible are now loud in their expression of astonishment that what has been considered an incurable disease should succumb so quickly to a remedy and in their praise of the remedy itself.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S DESTINY.

Its Occupation by a Foreign Power Would Destroy the Safety of Canada.

New York, March 11.—A correspondent of the Tribune at St. Johns, Nfld., decries the idea of annexation with the United States and believes it impracticable even if the people were unanimously in favor of it. England would never permit one of her colonies to break loose and unite with another state. As a naval station it is without a rival in North America. The power that possesses it holds the key of the gulf of St. Lawrence. To permit its occupation by a foreign power would be to destroy the safety of the rising Dominion of Canada. The "manifest destiny" of Newfoundland is to unite with Canada. Sir William Whiteway, with a strong Government, once more occupies the seat of authority. He has now to decide the destiny of the country. With a people impoverished by the recent financial convulsion, and a declining revenue, he is unable to find ways and means for carrying on the Government and paying interest on the large public debt which has been piled up. Personally, Sir William has always been in favor of confederation; and there can hardly be a doubt that he will now bend all his energies to consummate a union. Confederation is by no means popular among the masses; but gradually they will learn that they have only "Hobson's choice." When the Legislature meets the probability is that a deputation will be sent to Canada to negotiate terms of union. This union will save the credit of the colony, but we have got to work out our own industrial and commercial salvation. Three Canadian banks are now established here and will supply our wants.

Suicided While Delirious.

Windsor, March 11.—Wm. Abbott, a farmer, aged 50 years, was run over and fatally injured by a train on the Lake Erie road east of Windsor early Saturday morning. One leg was cut away and his skull fractured and without recovering consciousness the unfortunate man died at 9 o'clock. Abbott, who lived on a farm near Jericho, had been ill with a fever for several days. During the night he must have become delirous, for without arousing the household he left his bed, removed his shirt and after donning a pair of drawers and socks he fled across the fields. The engineer of the 6.40 train was startled to see the half-naked man standing on the track some distance ahead. When the whistle was sounded to warn him, instead of getting out of the way, Abbott deliberately lay down on the track and the train passed over him.

THE KINETOSCOPE.

RECENT USES OF THE INVENTION IN THE STUDY OF DISEASE.

Edison's Part in the Perfection of the Wonderful Machine—What May Be Accomplished by His Other Inventions in Similar Directions.

The invention of the kinetoscope, which is at present attracting a large amount of popular interest, resembles some of Mr. Edison's inventions in being really an improvement on or an adaptation of discoveries of other men. This in no way implies that the fame of the American inventor is undeserved. On the contrary, it is due to his genius that mere experiments of scientists have been converted into things of real and lasting benefit to civilization. Sir Humphrey Davy discovered that carbon could be rendered incandescent in a current of electricity, and that oxygen consumed the carbon; but it remained for Edison to exclude oxygen and to give the electric light to civilization. The main essentials of the phonograph were in use before Edison conceived the idea of making a practical use of the machine. The Muybridge photographs were the forerunners of the kinetoscope.

It has been proclaimed, says the Boston Advertiser, that the time is now at hand when books and theatres will become rarities, and the average citizen will be content to use the phonograph and the kinetoscope for his pleasure. Such a prediction is over-sanguine, as yet, for the reason that these inventions are not yet perfect. The beauty of concerted music or of rare singing is still marred by the electric whir and the false sounds that issue from the phonograph's diaphragm. The splendid color and dazzling luster of the opera's stage are yet beyond the grasp of the kinetoscope. Perhaps these things may come some day, but they have not come yet, and in the meantime the present generation is concerned chiefly with the things of to-day. The telephone, for instance, is of more immediate use to civilization than are the phonograph and kinetoscope combined.

Science has already found certain uses for Mr. Edison's later inventions, however. The phonograph counterfeits permanently many sounds that are useful to therapeutics; the normal and unsound heartbeats, "rales" in the lungs, certain vocal sounds depending upon special conditions of the throat and tonsils. It is of decided benefit to science to have permanent records that can always be of easy access without recourse to a special patient. In the same way the kinetoscope promises to be of great utility to medical science by reproducing physical action that can be studied in detail or comprehensively as the student desires. In this city some effort in that direction has already been undertaken, and more will be developed from time to time, especially in nervous disorders that bring on certain physical action that is often so voilent and vigorous as to baffle any attempt at close study by means of the unaided eye.

The Muybridge photographs showed some years ago that the eye was unreliable for the detection of the absolute details of rapid animal motion. Instantaneous photography alone gives a correct representation of the different attitudes taken by men or animals in rapid action, and it is quite possible that medical science may achieve fresh discoveries by the help of the kinetoscope. Thus, in studying the muscular action that results from certain nerve disorders, it may be possible to trace the nerves which are affected. Even in less complicated cases, like lameness, a surgeon may be able to reach conclusions with great quickness and certainty by securing the details of muscular action of the affected limb, as the speed of the kinetoscope may be regulated at will. Altogether, then, while the reproduction of grand opera for the multitude may be a matter of the remote future, the kinetoscope is something of more use to civilization than a mere pictorial toy.

Riches in the Hawaiian Islands.

The Hawaiian Islands have been found to be richer in animal life than was formerly supposed. As a result of a year's investigation by the British Association, through its committee, it has been found that of birds there are 78 species, of which 50 are peculiar to this group. All the land and fresh water shells are peculiar, and of 1,000 species of insects 70 are not found elsewhere. It thus seems that these islands have by no means been populated from the continent, but have been centers of independent creation.

DANGER IN WRITING.

EXPERTS SAY THAT SLANTING SCRIPT CAUSES DISEASE.

A Movement In Favor of Vertical Script Backed by the Highest Medical Authorities—Results of Extensive Experiments With School Children.

The method of writing taught in modern schools and practiced by 99 people out of every 100 has been declared dangerous and unhealthful by experts. By the time the next generation matures it will probably have been wiped out. The script then will be vertical instead of slanting, and writers will sit square and upright before their work instead of sideways and stooped, as at present.

The idea of this prospective reform originated in Germany and overspreads England while reaching this country. The following resolution was adopted not long ago by the international congress of school hygiene in London by a vote of 229 against 1:

Whereas, The hygienic advantages of vertical writing have been clearly shown and established both by medical investigation and practical experience, and

Whereas, Its introduction obviates those pernicious positions of the body which entail rachitic diseases and myopia,

Resolved, That we recommend the introduction of vertical writing in the schools of the people.

The effect of so serious an action in a country esteeming proper physical conditions as England esteems them is readily to be imagined.

The corresponding movement in the United States is led by Dr. Burnham of Clark university. His investigations have brought the conviction that the ordinary position in writing is among the foremost conditions of school life and methods of training which must be changed in the interest of health. The vertical script, therefore, is strongly recommended. From 80 to 90 per cent of lateral curvature of the spine is found to be caused in school life, the curvature in a large per cent of these cases being toward the right side, as a result of a defective position in writing, and the eyes at the same time are seriously injured by this slanted writing.

The practical advance of the newly approved system in this country is illustrated in the Worcester normal school and the Workingmen's school at Fifty-fourth street in this city, directed by Professor Adler, where the vertical writing is used in the lower grades and now carried on to the fourth and fifth grades.

The observations of foreign physicians showing that the prevalence of myopia and spinal curvature is regularly increased in the advance through the school grades are supplemented in this country by work on novel lines. An energetic course followed by Dr. Shaw of the University of the City of New York has given additional proof that the cause of the difficulty is to be attributed to the desks which are generally in use, and more especially to the bad position in writing, the opinion being held with apparent unanimity by investigators in this country as well as abroad that all but two positions to be taken in the school practice of writing are improper. One judged to be correct is the oblique central position and the other the straight central position, between which in reference to final choice the controversy in Germany is said to be fierce.

The advocates of reform observe that the child writes vertically when he first goes to school, and that the teacher has to work for the slant. The vertical writing and the central position at the desk are alike naturally indicated. At this stage the controversy has led to the conclusion that the height of the desk and that of the seat must be equally adapted to the growth of the pupil. In some of the progressive schools, as Felix Adler's and at South Orange, N. J., adjustable seats are being used.

The point in Dr. Shaw's recent experiments, made with the aid of several assistants on more than 1,300 pupils in the New York and suburban schools, has been to see whether, with the paper directly in front of the pupil and with the eyes closed, there could be any tendency toward vertical writing. The pupils were first requested to take the customary position in writing, and to write in the ordinary manner the sentence, "John is flying his paper kite." This form of exercise was selected on account of the number of long letters which it contains, and as being one also that is easy for the child to remember. After having thus written the sentence, the pupil was directed to take the straight central position, dip his pen in the ink and with his eyes closed to write the same again.

The closing of the eyes was to eliminate from the child's mind the consciousness of the slant. The angle of slant in all the long letters in the test papers was carefully measured, the angle of slant in the usual writing in each case being also found with the same precision. The measurements and the calculations ran up to 8,600 items, and among other issues of the work was the invention by a lady of a machine for making the measurements.—New York Press.

Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidence of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, because the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakeable cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relatives spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
Would promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
Also said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa.
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Give Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Spring Arrivals.

It may seem early to talk about spring goods in February, yet the fact is, we prefer to be ahead of time than behind.

April Weddings.

June weddings have become a proverb, but if Dame Rumor speaks truly April, and not the month of roses, is to witness several very happy events in the matrimonial way in which pretty nearly all Peterborough will be interested. People have not very much else to talk about just now, for the observances of the Lenten season are a fairly effectual extinguisher of social functions.

A Pastor Endorsed.

At the February meeting of the Broadway Methodist Tabernacle official board, Toronto, held a few days ago, the much-esteemed pastor, Rev. J. C. Speer, was complimented upon the excellent work done during the present year, and was, by a standing vote, unanimously invited to remain during the next conference year. Mr. Speer thanked the Board and accepted the invitation. Rev. J. C. Speer is a brother of Mrs. R. A. Hamilton, town.

The Rush on Saturday Night.

The demand for magazines and periodicals on Saturday night at the Peterborough Bookstore was so great that by ten o'clock we were sold out. We have placed an order for another complete supply for this week and have arranged for an extra stock for Saturday night, so that customers may not go away disappointed. We want to make you a regular customer. A. H. STRATTON & Co., Peterborough Bookstore.

Sweet Violets.

Have you noticed the pretty little bunches of violets that the girls wear nowadays? Look quite natural, do they not? And yet they come not from the not-house but from the millinery store. Never mind. The violet's perfume may be lacking, but otherwise the artificial flowers "fill the bill" at this season when real flowers are expensive. The artificial flower is away ahead of the porcelain rose—but which obtruded its brick-red petals from many a button-hole a few months since. Some young women, of course, overwork the innocent little fad, and break forth into clusters of violets on hat and jacket and dress. They forget the chief symbolic meaning of the little flower whose "counterfeit presentment" they are wearing, is modesty.

Easter Mementos.

Very dainty Easter mementoes have been received by the town merchants. The cards are most chaste and beautiful in design this year and there are some very pretty trifles in the jewellery line which will be most popular. Amongst the latter might be mentioned the neat little book marks of blue ribbon with a trio of small bangles in silver attached. The bangles are designed as crosses, anchors, hearts, etc. Quite the nicest thing out, however, is a novelty in the shape of a handkerchief pocket of knitted silk, in any shade, with trimmings of sterling silver, intended to be attached to evening dresses. Dainty little sterling silver watch pockets, also to be appended to the evening dress, promise to be most popular.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Mr. White, the evangelist, sang several most pleasing solos in the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday morning.

The Women's Auxiliary of George street Methodist church will hold an open meeting on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

A male trio, composed of Messrs. Steers, Davis and Squires sang "Nearer to Thee" with good effect in the Charlotte street church last night.

Master Harry McKee sang the solo "How Much Owest Thou" in exceedingly good voice in the Murray street Baptist church last night.

The anthem in the Charlotte street Methodist church last night was entitled: "Zion Awake" and was rendered in pleasing harmony.

Mr. George Sneyd, of Garden Hill, a student at McMaster University, conducted services most satisfactorily in the Park street Mission, yesterday.

Mrs. Hunter took the solo in the anthem "When the Mists Roll Away" in an exceedingly pleasing manner last night in the Murray street church.

The members of the George street church Epworth League meet to night to hear the reports of the delegates who attended the Young People's convention in Toronto.

A solo sung by Mrs. Jones in St. Andrew's church yesterday morning was greatly appreciated, the pronunciation being especially clear. Mr. Mulligan's baritone solo was also most effective.

Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, delivered a most instructive sermon to a large congregation in the Murray street Baptist church yesterday morning. Dr. Torrance's pulpit was occupied by Rev. Mr. Young, pastor of the George street church.

Next Sunday evening, Rev. Father Scollard will preach a sermon in the Cathedral under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. The collection on this occasion will be devoted to charitable purposes. It is expected that a special reference will be made by Father Scollard to the anniversary of St. Patrick's Day which occurs on that date.

Yesterday morning Evangelist Moore preached in St. Andrews church to a fair congregation. His text was II. Timothy, 1-12, "For I know whom I have believed," etc." His discourse was on "Assurance," and was much appreciated. In the evening the congregation was very large. The pastor took for his text 1st John, 2-1, "We have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." The sermon was clear, practical and stirring. The music as usual was appropriate and good. The Y.P.S.C.E. held a very interesting meeting at the closing of the service, a large number attending.

Rev. J. J. Rae, the pastor, conducted both the morning and evening services in the Charlotte street church Sunday. In the evening he spoke on "The boy that stayed at home"—the brother of the Prodigal Son, and severely critised the motives which induced the elder brother to stay at home. It was not love, he thought, which led him to follow this course, as no mention of love in the matter is mentioned in the Scriptures. Mr. Rae was of the opinion that he remained at home to gain his own ends—to enjoy a comfortable home with the prospect of future succession and characterised the elder son as one of the meanest and most contemptible characters portrayed in the Scriptures.

TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL.

It May not be Re-built in Port Hope After All.

A meeting of the corporation of Trinity College School, Port Hope, was held on Saturday afternoon in Toronto, for the purpose of considering what steps should be taken to find a new home for the institution, which has been homeless since the disastrous fire last month.

It is understood that the actual loss sustained through the conflagration was $90,000, against which there is about $60,000 insurance, and in view of the splendid site, covering twenty acres, and the fact that the gymnasium, principal's residence and other buildings are still intact, there is a strong feeling in favour of rebuilding on the old location. The great obstacle is the insufficient water supply and fire protection. The college pumped its own water by means of windmills, and often the supply was barely enough for ordinary consumption and wholly inadequate in case of fire. Owing to the distance from the town the municipal waterworks system did not extend to the college grounds, and the civic authorities still appear disinclined to run out their pipes. If they will do this the probabilities are all in favour of the school remaining on the old site, but if not the corporation have before them an alternative scheme, which is favourably thought of by many of the governors.

The old buildings of Victoria University, at Cobourg, are still vacant, and the citizens of that pretty and progressive town are keenly alive to the advantages that would accrue to securing the settlement in their midst of such an institution as Trinity College School. It is said that substantial inducements may be offered to effect this removal, and much will depend upon the counter inducements Port Hope is prepared to present for the consideration of the governors. There are many lots in Peterborough, which would make excellent sites for the school.

LAST NIGHT'S ECLIPSE.

It Was Watched With Interest by Many Citizens.

During Sunday there was some fear among the local astronomers that the weather would not be propitious for observing the eclipse of the moon last night, but the weather authorities said that the barometrical indications were favourable for a clear atmosphere and reassured them.

Towards evening it became colder, and shortly after the full moon had arisen there was hardly a cloud in the sky. Exact to scheduled time the eclipse took place, and thousands of people watched its progress. Just before the totality the colouring of the western limb of the moon was exquisite. There was a similar fine shading at the eastern limb at the closing of the totality. Close watch was kept by more than one through telescopes of various sizes, to detect any suspicion of an existing lunar atmosphere. Some said last night they had not noted the least glimmer of anything that could be construed into an atmosphere, however meagre, at either of the moon's limbs. The duration of the entire eclipse occupied five hours and 25 minutes, all but a few seconds.

One old gentleman who was meandering home at a late hour, and who had not read his almanac, thought that the moon had turned to blood, and that the end of all things had come.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM CARMICHAEL.

He was Formerly Connected With the Local Branch of the Bank of Toronto.

The many friends of Mr. William B. Carmichael, formerly with the Bank of Toronto here, will learn with regret the particulars of his death in London on Sunday.

A despatch from London says:—"A sad fatality occurred on the Rectory street crossing of the Grand Trunk railway today. The victim was Mr. Wm. B. Carmichael, collection clerk of the Bank of Toronto here, and one of the brightest of its junior officials. He was an enthusiastic athlete, and the captain of the London Bankers' Hockey Club. The club played the Woodstock bankers in that town on Saturday, and boarded the Grand Trunk train for home at three o'clock this morning. Carmichael got off at the Rectory street crossing while the train was going at a fair speed. Nearly an hour afterwards, at 4.45, he was found lying beside the track by the conductor of a way freight from Toronto. His skull was terribly crushed, and he had lost large quantities of blood. He was removed to the general hospital where he died at 4 p.m. His brother of the Bank of Commerce, Woodstock, arrived before his death, but deceased did not regain consciousness. It is supposed that he was stunned by his fall from the train, and was struck by the east-bound express, which left London shortly after. Blood stains were found on the pilot of the latter. Carmichael was about 22 years old. He was the son of a widow, living in Markham, Ont."

The family formerly resided in Norwood, and the deceased was in the local branch of the Bank of Toronto on two separate occasions. It is about eighteen months since his last removal from Peterborough, where he was a great favourite in social and athletic circles.

THE CHAMPIONS OF THE PROVINCE WILL PROBABLY BE HERE.

Peterborough has Challenged Queen's to a Game on the Local Ice.

The hockey team of Queen's University, Kingston, are now champions of the Province of Ontario, having beaten the Trinity team of Toronto. Arrangements are being made to-day to bring the champions to Peterborough for a game with the champions of the junior series. In this connection the Kingston Whig says:—"Some Peterborough citizens are proposing to the hockey club the idea of securing the Queen's I team, of Kingston, senior champions, there for a match with the Peterboroughs. Queen's met in the finals with Trinity and were successful, Peterborough defeated Trinity easily, and it is predicted by many that the boys would give the collegians all they could do. Well, well! What swelled heads the Peterboroughs have! Peterborough had all it could do to whip Kingston's third-rate team, and now it airs itself as able to pluck the first team!"

The Whig is making a huge mistake if it imagines the Peterboroughs were playing their game in Kingston. On the contrary, the boys were in poor shape on that evening, or they would have given the Athletics such a walloping, ringers and all, as had never been seen before on Kingston ice. As the Whig says, the Athletics may be a third rate team, but everyone knows, or should know, that a few first class ringers will at times make a brilliant showing—how about Knowles and Murphy?

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Fibre Chamois Is now being recognized by all leading modistes as the only proper support for Puffed Sleeves, being far superior to anything else for this purpose.

A Garment interlined with Fibre Chamois cannot be injured by careless packing or crushing, as it will at once resume its correct form upon being lightly shaken.

Fibre Chamois is also of inestimable value in skirts and sleeves to be worn at the seashore, because it is not affected by damp air, as are materials deriving their stiffness from starch or glue.

SUNDAY SERMON BY EVANGELIST MOORE.

HE SPEAKS ON THE GRACE OF THE SPIRIT.

The Spirit More Nearly Connected With Man Than Either the Son or Father —Its Specific Work.

Rev. Mr. Moore and Mr. Whyte inaugurated the week's evangelistic services in the George street Methodist church, last evening, where the congregation was so large in attendance as to necessitate the use of the draw seats.

AFTER SPECIAL SINGING

by the full choir and Mr. Whyte, Mr. Moore delivered an instructive sermon on the grace of the Spirit, taking as his text the 28th and 29th verses of the 10th chapter of Hebrews:—

"He that despised Moses law died without mercy under two or three witnesses."

"Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who both trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the spirit of grace."

In dealing with his subject Mr. Moore opened by calling the attention of the congregation to the fact that seldom, if ever, were there heard any remarks concerning the grace of the Spirit. Comments were often made on the grace of God and the grace of Jesus Christ, and the exceeding richness thereof formed the theme for many sermons, and yet it had been the lot of few to ever hear a sermon delivered on the subject of

THE GRACE OF THE SPIRIT.

What was true of the grace of the spirit was, he stated, equally true concerning the love of the spirit. Few sermons were ever preached without reference being made to the love of the Saviour, and yet he thought he was perfectly safe in saying that no one present had ever heard of even a mention made of the great love of the Spirit. Why such a state of affairs should be in existence he did not attempt to explain, but earnestly assured the congregation that there was just as surely a Spirit of love as there was a God of love.

In the Scriptures reference was frequently made to

THE WRATH OF GOD

or the wrath of the Lamb, but no mention was ever made to any wrath of the Spirit, which was suggestive of the fact that the spirit was even more a Spirit of Love that God was a God of Love.

The Spirit, the evangelist thought, had more to do with man at present than either the Father or the Son. It was the work of the Spirit to convince the unconverted of his sin and to lead him to the foot of the throne. After the sinner came to God it became the work of the Spirit to dwell daily with him.

AS A PROOF TEXT

concerning the work of the Spirit, Mr. Moore quoted the Scripture verse "No man can come unto Me except through faith." Another proof text was found in the words: "When he (referring to the Spirit) is come he will convince the world of righteousness and judgment." Another was found in I Corinthians xii, 3, "Wherefore I give you to understand that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus accused; and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord but by the Holy Ghost." Still another was found in the words, "No man can claim kinship with God except through the Holy Ghost." Again Mr. Moore pointed out

THAT A FURTHER ILLUSTRATION

concerning the subject of his discourse was to be found right in the beginning of the Old Testament, where in the second verse of the first chapter of Genesis it is mentioned that during creation "The Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters."

Many, he continued, were of the opinion that the Spirit came upon the earth at the Day of Pentecost and remained, therefore there was no need of being anxious, but he was most solemn in his assurance that though the Spirit was upon earth it would not be present unless the door of the heart

WAS THROWN OPEN TO IT.

In closing his sermon Mr. Moore, with deep earnestness, explained warningly that the Spirit at that moment might be pleased to enter into the heart of any who chose to welcome it. Yet postponement was dangerous in the extreme, as was it not written "My Spirit shall not always strive with man." The awful seriousness of the words "too late" was, he assured his hearers a fearful reality to contemplate.

Both before and at the conclusion of the sermon, Mr. White sang several solos most effectively and also made a short address at an after meeting, which was held and which the majority of the congregation remained to attend. This evening, the service will begin at twenty minutes to eight, when a short service of song will precede the devotional exercises and sermon, in the George street church.

HOCKEY.

The Collegiate Institute team will play the Whitby Collegiates, in Whitby, on Friday afternoon, and on Saturday afternoon will defeat Port Hope.

To-night at the rink at 9 o'clock the Bank of Montreal hockey team will face the Ontario Bank hockey team in a deadly contest. This will be a brilliant match in more ways than one. The respective teams look very pretty in their uniforms, and will cut quite a figure on the ice. A mere mention of this match is sufficient to crowd the rink.

The teams which will represent the Review and the EXAMINER to-morrow evening will be composed as follows:—

Review.		Examiner.
H Fredenburg	goal	W Dredge
G Heap	point	Roly Glover
S Taylor	cover point	F Hubbs

Or the Volts,
But
As I said before
The Peterboroughs

THE DOG NUISANCE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I heartily agree with what "A Tired Mother" writes in Friday night's EXAMINER. The dog nuisance she complains of is, unfortunately, general, and one almost dreads the approach of warmer weather when more of the canine species can remain out of doors the night through. It is bad enough now as it is to have to put up with having a neighbour's dog bark perhaps by the hour in an unrestricted manner, to the annoyance of probably dozens, and seriously interfering with their sleep, and annoying sick ones. Then, again, how often are one's garden, flower beds and shrubs irretrievably damaged in many ways by dogs that with or without their owners, visit your garden or lawn. Now this should not be allowed in a well regulated community, and the nuisance could be done away with to a great extent were the dog bylaw, as it should be, impartially carried out, for it is a notorious fact that for years this has not been done, although every spring sundry alarming (?) posters are stuck up here and there in our streets, warning owners of dogs that their tag-less pets shall be after a certain date destroyed if found without the regulation ornament. There the matter seems to end. I sometimes have thought if dogs could read how they would smile upon reading what the terrible consequence would be if found without a tag, although it takes or did take several attempts at shooting to despatch one poor wretch.

How many dozens, yea scores of dogs, are to be seen on our streets and corners without tags? It is true some hundreds of dollars are annually and properly paid into the town treasury for tags, the majority of which, I am no doubt safe in saying, never adorn the necks of the brutes, but are consigned to the pockets of the owners and the police are supposed to find out and learn by heart that this, that and the other dog belongs to so and so, and as he has bought a tag it must be "hands off."

While there are many fine specimens of dogs in town, which are well worth the usual tax, there are innumerable snapping, snarling mongrels allowed to wander about to the annoyance of pedestrians, and race after every sleigh or carriage, frequently frightening horses and damaging sleigh robes.

I hope the new council will attend to the enforcement of the by-law at once, so that the nuisance complained of may be remedied, and hundreds will be thankful to them.

Yours truly,
ANOTHER ONE.

TO PASS AN ORDER THIS AFTERNOON.

CABINET TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Has Called a Full Meeting of the Cabinet for This Afternoon.

(Special Despatch.)

OTTAWA, March 11.—It is learned to-day that Premier Bowell telegraphed for Sir Frank Smith to be present at a full meeting of the Cabinet for to-day, when it is intended to pass the remedial order asking the Manitoba Government to restore Separate Schools to the Roman Catholics of that Province.

Ontario Conservatives maintain that while the Government has to make a pretence of doing something in the matter that there is no intention on the part of the Dominion Government to give Separate Schools to Manitoba. They say that there is no harm in asking the Province to do so, because Premier Greenway will not act, and the Dominion will throw upon him the blame for not complying with their request. This, says Ontario Conservatives, will end the matter. Those who know the sort of material the Ontario Tories are made of and remember the series of fights they have made against Oliver Mowat on the School Question, know that they will never consent to any remedial legislation upon the subject. They are perfectly satisfied, although what assurance they have got is not known, that the government is only using the school question as a drawing card in Quebec, while the Orange lodges in Toronto are telling their brethren in Manitoba that they will have their assistance and aid in preventing Separate schools being forced upon the province.

If necessary, the Senate is to be utilized to stop any remedial legislation should any wicked man, like Mr. Tarte, attempt to introdnce it in the Commons. Sam Hughes, M.P., and a number of other prominent Orangeman were here to-day, and they are in no way apprehensive of the result as far as the present Manitoba schools are concerned. There is one thing certain, and that is if the matter is not settled before the general elections the present government will have nothing to do with its settlement.

On the other hand, prominent members of the Cabinet think that the best thing that could happen the party would be defeat at the polls. The legacy they would leave Mr. Laurier in the School Question and the series of deficits which the country have got to meet would be similar to what Mr. Mackenzie was saddled with when he got office, so that it would be no bed of roses for the incoming administration. In this way is the Government preparing for their downfall. The only card left them, so they think, is the race and religious cry, which they are evidently about to stir up to their advantage.

Referred Him to the Bible.

The physician was young, so was the patient the case was strange, none of the symptoms corresponded with any known disease, the physician was perplexed, he came every day, the patient grew worse, nothing seemed of the least use, says the London Queen. Presently the physician began to suspect something; the trouble was mental, perhaps—of the heart, perhaps. He watched and waited; his suspicions grew stronger, at last he charged the patient with the thing. "I believe," he said, "that there is nothing in the world the matter with you but that you are in love." With blushes and tears the patient confessed that this and nothing else was devouring her, so that she was growing worse and worse daily. "And does the man know?" "Alas!" she replied, "he does not even suspect." "Can you tell him?" "Never." "Will you tell me, then? I might at least advise." She hung her head and hesitated. "Come," he said, with kindly encouragement, "tell me all; make a clean breast of it. It will do you no harm and may do you good. Besides, a physician is a father confessor." "Since you have asked me," she replied with some confusion, "come to-morrow. Then * * * perhaps—if I can—I will tell you." On the morrow he arrived. The patient placed in his hand a slip of paper and left him hurriedly. He opened the paper and read—2 Sam. xii., 7. This text you may look up, unless you know the story already.

his life was not self-conscious?

"The story attracted my friend's attention away from la grippe, but it did not instruct him. He told me a story within his own knowledge of a dog that had run away because he had heard his master say that he was going to shoot him. He who does not know that self-consciousness is one of the attributes of the lower animal has never paid attention to the lower animal.

"But does the lower animal reason?" I asked.

"Unquestionably," answered Mr. Adams. "An old gentleman fell into a hole in the ground made by a tree which had lain for years and rotted away. He so fell that his arms were held by the sides of the opening to his sides. He cried out. Nobody heard him. Nobody? Yes. His dog heard him, and did something rational. The master lay in the hole with his head down hill. The dog got below him, worked his head under the head of the master, then his head and shoulders under the master's back, until the master was so raised that he could use his hands and so help himself to his feet. Could a man without arms and hands have gone about saving another man situated as this one was in a more rational way? No. The dog employed means to an end—definite means to a definite end. He reasoned."

"Do you believe in the immortality of the lower animals?" I asked.

"I will answer you as I answer all who ask me that question. I hope for the immortality of all sentient creatures—for the immortality of the sentient universe. I don't want to put myself on the level of a dog. No need of that. Then I know some dogs which I would not want to put on the level of some men I know. But some one else says:—'I do not want to have mosquitos and other disagreeable bugs and things in heaven with me.' The most disagreeable things here may be agreeable there. Then I never heard of but one person, and he was a very foolish young man, who committed suicide because the flies bothered him. But as mosquitoes are not everywhere in time, they may not be everywhere in eternity. Though the dogs are within immortality, St. John the Divine says that they are without heaven, together with some other disagreeable persons. I have no doubt that St. John means bad dogs. I know some dogs that deserve heaven more than some people I have known."

A Good Defence.

Mr. Sergeant Wilkins once defended a breach of promise case for a singularly ugly little man, which case he told the defendant, after reading his brief, must be "bounced" through. And the Serjeant did bounce it through.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, at the close of a most eloquent speech, "you've heard the evidence for the plaintive; and, gentlemen of the jury, you have admired that most bewitching lady, the plaintiff herself. Gentlemen, do you believe that this enchanting, this fascinating, this captivating, this accomplished lady would, for one moment, favor the advances or listen, with anything save scorn and indignation, to the amorous protestations of the wretched and repulsive homunculus, the deformed and degraded defendant?"

His client looked up from the well of the court and piteously murmured:—

"Mr. Sergeant Wilkins! Oh, Mr. Sergeant Wilkins!"

"Silence, sir" replied the Sergeant, in a wrathful undertone. "Gentlemen," he continued, bringing his fist heavily down on the desk before him, "do you think that this lovely lady, this fair and smiling creature, would ever have permitted an offer of marriage to be made to her by this miserable atom of humanity, this stunted creature, who would have to stand on a sheet of notepaper to look over twopence?"

Instant verdict for defendant.—Titbits.

FOR PARIS' BIG FAIR.

MANY NOVEL PLANS ARE SUBMITTED FOR APPROVAL.

More than One Hundred Candidates Compete for the Honor of Being Architect—Description of the Three Designs Which Were Awarded First Prizes.

Paris has already commenced preparing for the gigantic Exposition Universelle which is to usher in the twentieth century and to be the apotheosis of the nineteenth. The site was decided upon some time ago. It is to take in the Champ de Mars, with the addition of the grounds of the Palais du Trocadero, the Quai d'Orsay, the Esplanade des Invalides, the Quai de la Conference, the Cours la Reine and the Palais de l'Industrie, with the space in the vicinity that is comprised between the Place de la Concorde, the Avenue d'Antin and the Cours la Reine.

The next thing was to decide upon a plan for the buildings to contain the marvels which will be shown in Paris in the year 1900. A competition was therefore arranged to take place. Eighteen prizes were offered—three of the value of 6,000 francs each, four of the value of 4,000 francs each, five of the value of 2,000 francs each and six of the value of 1,000 francs each—in all 50,000 francs, or $10,000. The government did not pledge itself to use any one of the designs which might prove successful. The award of a prize simply indicated that the selected plan contained some meritorious feature, some idea that might with advantage be incorporated in the design that should be finally selected, and that the architect had been successful in evolving an artistic plan within the rules that governed the competition. Those rules gave the designers freedom to remove the Eiffel tower and the machinery building from the Champ de Mars or to leave them standing and to utilize them in their various schemes.

When the competition was thrown open 664 architects, engineers and draughtsmen signified their intention of submitting plans to the committee of awards, presided over by M. Alfred Picard, commissaire general of the exposition.

For months a feverish activity has reigned in the studios of the principal French architects. The chance of directing the construction of a huge exposition does not occur every day, an exposition, moreover, that is to surpass those of 1855, which left the Palais de l'Industrie; of 1878, which is marked by the Trocadero, and of 1889, of which the Eiffel tower forms the monument. The results of that activity have been recently displayed in the Palais de l'Industrie. There an exhibition has been held of something like 750 designs, submitted by the 108 individuals who adhered to their declared intention of competing.

Most of the competitors have retained the Eiffel tower in their designs, seeing that the cost of its removal and the indemnity to the company which owns it would amount to about $8,000,000. Many others have, however, arranged for its tearing down in their plans.

The three first prizes were awarded to Messrs. Girault, Henard and Paulin.

M. Girault utilizes in his design most of the buildings in existence upon the site. The space between the pillars of the Eiffel tower and the first platform is utilized by a palace of horticulture, which extends beyond the tower on each side, parallel to the Quai d'Orsay. This building is to be entirely of iron and glass, and adds a light and graceful air to the tower. To the Palais de l'Industrie M. Girault has added an immense dome, and he has embellished the principal entrance to the exposition, near the Place de la Concorde, with a delicate column that forms a very picturesque mark in the design. Most of the exhibition buildings in this plan are made to front upon the Seine.

In M. Henard's project all the existing constructions are swept away. He suggests the razing of the Palais de l'Industrie and prolonge the Boulevard des Invalides to the Avenue des Champs Elysees. Upon each side of this new avenue are to be constructed two palaces—one upon the side of the Avenue d'Antin, to be a Palais des Beaux Arts, and intended to serve as a locale in which can be held the annual exhibitions of paintings, after the closing of the exposition, and the other to be devoted to the use of the sciences and belles-lettres. Upon a monumental bridge, which crosses the Seine, M. Henard has placed a symbolic statue of La France. The Palace of Electricity is installed upon the Esplanade des Invalides, and a floating exposition is to be moored before the Quai d'Orsay. One of the features of this project is the establishment of a movable platform from the Esplanade to the Champ de Mars along the river bank, which travels at a speed that will permit would be passengers stepping on to it while in motion. M. Henard changes the Champ de Mars by demolishing the dome and other parts, and by modifying the aspect of the Galerie des Machines with a cupola in the centre, 100 meters in diameter. The Eiffel tower he alters almost beyond recognition by the adding of an immense belfry upon the third story. Not far from the tower is to be a Palais of Illusions, composed of a vast hexagonal-shaped hall with mirror-lined walls, which will multiply the effects of illumination. Around this building M. Henard proposes to erect five or six dioramas, representing the most curious phenomena and the most picturesque scenery in the world, while in the basement will be reproduced the most celebrated grottos.

The last of the first prize winners, M. Paulin, devotes considerable attention in his design to the arrangement of the Trocadero for the characteristic exhibition of colonial life and produce, and to the construction of floating Japanese and Chinese cities along the Quai de Billy. Mr. Paulin preserves most of the existing erections, though he transforms them in various ways.

ODD THINGS IN REAL LIFE.

These People Did Some Things Far Out of the Ordinary.

In 1846 when bands of outlaws were a constant menace to life and property in Hungary, the widow of a wealthy magnate was living in a lonely castle not far from the principal route between Buda and Vienna. This lady received one morning a polite note requesting her to provide supper at 10 o'clock that night for twelve gentlemen! There could be no doubt as to the character of her self-invited guests; but she realized the futility of sending to town for help, as every road would be watched and her courier waylaid.

At 10 o'clock that evening up rode an armed band of twelve men. The castle gates were thrown open and the mistress herself stood at the entrance to receive them, richly appareled, as if to welcome honored and invited guests. She took the arm of the chief and led the way to the dining-hall.

There a goodly feast was spread, the tables and sideboard being covered with a magnificent display of gold and silver plate, the accumulation of many generations.

The leader of the robbers stared in surprise, but quickly recovered himself and acted the part of a well-bred gentleman during the feast. At its close he said:

"Madam, the happiest moments of my life have been the shortest. In appealing to my honor as you have done to-night you have saved me from the commission of a crime. Bad as I am, no one ever appealed to my honor in vain. As for you," looking sternly around with his hand on his pistol, "whoever takes anything from this house dies."

Subsequently the name of the robber was discovered. He was an impoverished younger son of one of the noblest families in Hungary. His fate was sad enough; he was captured a few months after the above incident and ended his life under the hands of the common hangman.—Youth's Companion.

How a Doctor Was Fooled.

A very eminent physician had cured a little child of a dangerous illness. The thankful mother turned her steps toward the house of her son's savior. "Doctor," she said, "there are some services which cannot be repaid. I did not know how to express my gratitude. I thought you would, perhaps, be so kind as to accept this purse, embroidered by my own hands." "Madam," replied the doctor, roughly, "medicine is no trivial affair, and our visits are only to be rewarded in money. "Small presents serve to sustain friendship, but they do not sustain our families." "But, doctor," said the lady, alarmed and wounded, "speak; tell me the fee." "Two thousand francs, madam." The lady opens the purse, takes out five bank notes of 1,000 francs each, gives two to the doctor, puts the remaining three back in her purse, bows coldly, and departs.—Amusing Journal.

Divorced From a Dead Man.

A year ago Mrs. Laura Thurber applied at Chippewa Falls for a divorce from her husband, George W. Thurber, on the ground of desertion, but Judge Marshal refused it. She recently applied at Eau Claire and Judge Baily granted the decree. Since going to the double expense of getting her divorce she now learns, beyond reasonable doubt, that her husband committed suicide over two years ago in Montana.—Eau Claire (Wis.) Special.

A Knitting Party for Men.

A little euchre party was given recently by a hostess who felt that there were not enough guests present to bestow prizes. So she hit upon a happy alternative. Each of the men, after the series of games were over, was given a half knitted stocking. He was told that he must finish a row just begun, and that a specified girl was to show him how. The merriment over this was excessive, and the first prize and that for the booby were bestowed among shouts of laughter.

LETTERS 3 000 YEARS OLD.

Correspondence of Ancient Egyptians Which Has Been Preserved in Stone.

A number of students of the woman's college and a few outsiders gathered in the chapel of the First methodist episcopal church, Baltimore, the other afternoon to hear Professor Robert W. Rogers, Ph. D., of Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa., lecture. His subject was: "A Bundle of Letters Thirty Centuries Old." Dr. Roberts is described by the American as an energetic speaker, his manner being such that, while it entertains, it at the same time impresses the meaning of what is said in a way that is lasting. After stating the fact that letters were mirrors of the times and countries in which they were written, and that both literature and history depended a great deal on the letters of the prominent men in all ages, Dr. Rogers declared that the history of ancient Egypt, Assyria and Babylon would be made much clearer if there were letters in existence written by the kings and other officials in those ages. Continuing, he said: "Some of these pages of history are a matter of conjecture, and the finding of letters written by two of the Egyptian kings some thirty centuries ago are rejoiced over by historians and archæologists throughout the world. These letters were written in the Babylonian language on clay tablets. The characters were pressed into the clay with a small wedge-shaped instrument and the tablets were then placed in a fire and baked. In this form they have lasted in a way which all the writings of modern times could not do." He then went on to state how the letters were found in a mound near the Nile by a couple of peasant women; how an agent of the British museum purchased all of them, 318 in number, and left instructions to have them sent down the Nile, but on going down he met another scientist, who told him of the find. The agent hurried back to the mound and discovered that the letters had been resold. The result was that 181 of the tablets are now in the Royal museum, in Berlin, 81 in the British museum, 54 in the hands of the government of Egypt and 80 in the possession of private parties.

In order to show what the letters related to, Dr. Rogers then gave a slight resume of the history of King Amenophas III. of Egypt, particularly of the fact that he had a number of Semitic wives from his dependencies in the valley of Mesopotamia. By the chief of these wives, or the queen, he had a son, who became Amenophas IV. The latter became a heretic in the view of the adherents of the Egyptian religion of those days, and tried to establish the faith of the Semitics. The priests, however, drove him from Memphis, the capital of Egypt, and he founded the city of Khunaten, which on his death was destroyed. In the ruins of Khunaten the tablets were found.

Dr. Rogers said that the tablets are of different sizes and are in the shape of pillows. He said: "It is a curious fact that the letters in the British museum follow those in the Royal museum in Berlin. They are a part of the correspondence between both the Amenophas and their allies in the valley of the Mesopotamia and the governors of the provinces. They are very neatly inscribed, and those written in Egypt are as fine as those written in Mesopotamia. The introductions of all of them are models of letter-writing, and no finer examples of graciousness could be found to-day even in the Orient. One of them, written by Dusratta, king of Metanri, after the introduction, gets right down to business, and, in answer to one written by Amenophas III. asking for the hand of his daughter, says: 'My daughter is not pretty.' A rather blunt statement of fact. The same one says that his sister, whose hand was given by his father to Ameuophas III., has not been seen by anyone since that time. That letter closes without any delay. Amenophas sends in answer to it one which I would not have believed could have been written in days much later than 1466 B.C., which is the date it bears. Amenophas takes up the negotiations from the beginning and carries them down to the letter which I have just read. He says that Dusratta's sister is in his palace, enjoying the best of health, and can be seen by anyone Duaratta chooses to send. The letter concludes with almost a demand for the hand of Dusratta's daughter. Duaratta replies that his daughter is ready at any time that Amenophas may choose to send for her."

Odd Observations.

Every man has 240 bones. Except the minstrel corner-man, who have 244 each.

The lungs contain one hundred and seventy-five million cells. This is what makes man a practical joker.

A man's brain weighs three and a half pounds. A woman's is somewhat lighter, but of finer quality. That is what enables her to taste lard in her neighbor's pastry.

The heart in its normal condition beats 75 times a minute, but when a young man meets a pretty girl at a party and steps tremblingly up to proffer an escort home, the number of beats—heart beats—instantly mounts up to 169 in the shade.

Looked Like a Natural Sequence.

A queer coincidence occurred in one of the city churches last Sunday. During the service one of the ushers notified a physician in the congregation that a call had been made for him in the vestibule. The doctor bounced out with hat and overcoat, and was soon on his way to see a patient. About ten minutes later the usher walked down the aisle until he came opposite a well-known undertaker. There was a whispered word or two, and the undertaker hurried out. It was not the same case, but he followed the doctor, and a broad smile floated out over the congregation.—Atlanta Journal.

The speediest and most reliable remedy for all derangements of the throat and lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This wonderful preparation checks coughing, induces refreshing sleep, and affords great relief, even in the advanced stages of consumption.

Coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

GREAT WALL OF CHINA.

THE ENORMOUS DIFFICULTIES OF ITS CONSTRUCTION.

Incredible Stories Told of the Work—Skilled and Unskilled Workmen Employed—An Engineer's Wonder Increases as He Studies It—Interesting Statistics.

The Chinese say that one-third of the whole population was forced to work on the wall, but that means, of course, the population adjacent to the wall, says a writer in the Engineering Magazine. Another story—that it was completed in ten years—is incredible, though it has been carelessly accepted by some historians. When we regard the character of the work we see as usual two classes of laborers employed—the skilled and unskilled. The carrying of materials was probably done entirely by men and women, and an immense amount of this crude labor was needed for making brick, mixing mortar and tamping. Achievements like this are not wonderful in China, which was a thickly populated country twenty centuries ago. History says that an army of 300,000 or 400,000 men were sent to drive the northern barbarians back and was retained in the country for the purpose of building the wall. No doubt the available local population was also pressed into the work.

Such dispositions explain the provision of crude labor, but since my experience in China I have always wondered where the skilled workmen came from. Aside from four square feet of rock surfacing for the foundation there would be from thirty to forty square feet of squaring and facing on granite for each foot of the wall. I have had this work done in China. My engine foundations were of granite got out of river boulders, as the wall blocks undoubtedly were, and after an experience of the tedious slowness of Chinese workmen I look at the wall with great respect. It must have been a tremendous task to collect men enough to do this work. China is distinctly a country of mud and brick habitations. Stonework in dressed materials is by no means common, and I should say that at the present day there are not stonecutters enough in China to make a visible impression upon 230 miles of new wall in ten years.

In brick making my wonder took another direction. The large bricks used in the wall, containing nearly one and two-thirds cubic feet each, required not only the best skill, but the best clay. The labor could be obtained, but my experience in the country of the great wall taught me that supplies of proper clay were few and far between. Several months passed before we could find any available clay nearer than thirty miles from the mine and the supply obtained there was too poor for making large brick. The makers of the wall must have been hard pushed to find what they wanted and it is probable that the whole great bulk of the brickwork was transported overland, principally by human carriers, for distances of at least thirty miles, besides its distribution along the wall.

The quantities of material used in the wall are not remarkable when compared with modern railroad building, but the expenditure of labor probably surpassed anything we know. We have almost eliminated labor from transportation, brickmaking and lifting to the top of the growing wall. With the Chinese every one of these tasks called for an army of men. The provision of say 20,000,000 yards of earth filling was probably the least part of the task. Nowadays no engineer would hesitate to contract for 500 miles of railway embankment in China, and he would lay it up with the basket and hoe just as the wall builders did. Lime-burning and mixing, laying up the wall, and tramping the filling were by comparison the minor divisions of the work, though they, too, would call for an immense number of men.

The provisioning of all these non-producers was a task for a general. The quantity of food consumed by a vegetarian is immense, and the neighborhood of the wall is not a fertile region. With only 1,000 men to provide for I had to send 100 miles for grain, and I doubt extremely if 500,000 men, in addition to the ordinary population, could be maintained to-day along the line of the wall on supplies obtained within 100 miles of both sides.

Custom Founded by Sun Worshipers.

How many can tell the origin of the habit of closing the eyes in prayer? Far back in the past the sun was the universal object of worship. As it rose above the horizon the devotee thanked it for its return to bless the world. As it set in the west he implored its early return. His face was always toward the sun in prayer, and his eyes were closed to prevent blindness. The habit has passed down from father to son for thousands of years. Though the object of worship has been changed, the custom survives. —Progress Thinker.

An Echo From the Past.

A curious fact in the history of pins is that when they were first sold there was such a demand for them that a code was passed permitting their sale only on two days in the year.

Result of a Neglected Cold.
DISEASED LUNGS
Which Doctors Failed to Help,
CURED BY TAKING
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.
"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then Consulted a Doctor who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured."—A. LEFLAR, watchmaker, Orangeville, Ont.

General Booth and His Projects.

London, March 11.—General Booth has returned, filled with enthusiastic confidence in the future of the Salvation Army and of its industrial projects in Canada. He seems to have more doubts about the United States. About the Dominion, though, he has no reservations. He believes that he is going to astonish the globe by the magnitude of his achievements there and apparently his plans are all cut and dried for beginning an exodus of emigrants from this side which will be one of the most remarkable of our time. He is very sanguine too about keeping these 10,000 colonists in Canada after he has got them there.

The Railroad War is On.

Philadelphia, March 11.—It was announced by an official of the Lehigh Valley Railway Saturday that the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central Companies have jointly agreed not to accede to the Reading's demand for an increased share in the joint through rate on shipments of anthracite coal from the mines to this city and intervening points. This means that the fight is on, and that the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central will be driven out of the markets in Reading lines, but it does not follow that they will be forced to abandon the Philadelphia market altogether.

The Financial Crisis in Newfoundland.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 11.—The banks will not accept any compromise from firms indebted to them and are closing business houses all over the city. Five of the largest mercantile houses here were closed on Saturday in consequence of this relentless policy. One hundred offered to pay 70 cents on the dollar but the offer was refused. There is great indignation over these harsh proceedings, which entail the shutting out of at least 7,000 more men, to join the already great crowd of unfortunates here in search for bread. The Boston relief contributions are doing immense good.

Rich Iron Ore Find in Newfoundland.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 11.—There has recently been discovered at Conception Bay, a dozen miles from St. Johns, a bed of ore which contains, it is said, 600,000,000 tons and an analysis of this proves it to be the finest hematite iron ore, containing 69½ per cent. of iron. The Ferrond Iron and Coal Company, of New Glasgow, N. S., has got possession of the deposit and preparations for working on an extensive scale are now going on.

The Revolution About Over.

Havana, March 11.—Joaquin Pedersa Carlos and Jorge Aquirre, conspicuous members of Maraga's insurgent band, have surrendered to the authorities. Maraga and Mateo are the only conspicuous members still at large and they will probably be captured soon.

Addington Petition Withdrawn.

Toronto, March 11.—Mr. Justice Osler has consented to the withdrawal of the petition against James Reid, member-elect for Addington in the Local Legislature.

Saturday's Nominations.

Lindsay, March 11.—The Conservative convention for South Victoria was held on Saturday afternoon in the town hall here. Mr. Chas. Fairbairn, the present member, received the nomination. The town is full of farmers.

Lindsay, March 11.—At the adjourned convention of the Liberal party held in Lindsay on Saturday, Mr. Geo. McHugh, received the unanimous nomination to contest the South riding of Victoria. Mr. J. D. Edgar, M.P., addressed the electors at the close of the convention.

Windsor, March. 11.—The Conservative convention for North Essex met in Tara hall Saturday afternoon. A committee was appointed to wait upon Judge McHugh and tender him the nomination. The convention then nominated Judge McHugh unanimously.

Cobourg, March 11.—Dr. George Waters, of Cobourg, was unanimously tendered the nomination of the West Northumberland Liberals on Saturday. The candidate is a brother of Mr. John Waters, ex-M.P.P. for North Middlesex.

Whitby, March 11.—South Ontario Liberals met in convention here on Saturday and nominated Leonard Burnett as their candidate.

ARMENIAN ATROCITIES

Survivors of the Sassoun Massacres Relate a Horrible Tale.

A PRIEST'S EYES GOUGED OUT

Turkish Soldiers Take Children by the Feet and Dash Them Against Stones—Other Details Too Horrible to Print.

London, March 11.—The Daily Telegraph has a despatch which was telegraphed from Kars yesterday saying that a deputation of the survivors of the Sassoun massacres have appeared before the commission of enquiry and have narrated the whole story of the butchery. They presented a written statement of which the Telegraph will print a copy. The statement mentions that a cross and Bible were flung at the feet of an Armenian priest who was ordered to trample on them. He refused and thereupon the Turkish soldiers gouged out his eyes and flung him into a pit with others who were dying. Of the 800 persons who were taken at the same time with the priest, only one, a merchant named Avak, escaped. He saved himself in an almost miraculous manner. The correspondent says that the statement has impressed the delegates powerfully but does not mention the day on which it was presented. Another despatch dated at Kars yesterday gives the testimony of Kurds who saw Turkish soldiers take children by the feet and dash them against stones. "A Turkish sergeant," says the despatch, "bound an old Armenian head downward to some branches and slowly cut his throat with an axe. The same Kurds say the soldiers take pregnant women, offer bets on the sex of the children and then cut the women open. The money was paid to the man who guessed correctly." The Telegraph will say that it has received other details too horrible to print.

A third despatch dated at Kars names forty-one villages which Turkish soldiers have burned but does not give the dates. These fires have been recorded in the evidence before the commission. The Telegraph will not print the dates on which the despatches mentioned above were sent from Kooah.

Killed on the Railway Track.

London, Ont., March 11.—The London Bankers hockey team played a match in Woodstock on Saturday night and while the train was passing the East London station about 4 o'clock yesterday morning one of the members of the team, W. B. Carmichael, a clerk in the Bank of Toronto, was seen to step out on to the platform of the car. This was the last seen of him by his friends. It is supposed that the young man, for the purpose of reaching home more quickly, jumped and was rendered unconscious by the fall. His body lay on the track and was knocked off by the east bound express. The injured man was discovered about 5.30 a.m. and removed to the hospital, where he afterwards died from the injuries sustained. Carmichael's home is in Markham.

The Voters' Lists All in But One.

Ottawa, March 11.—Saturday's Canada Gazette says 201 voters' lists have been received, so that there is one still missing. This announcement caused quite a stir here among politicians, the majority of whom concluded that the missing list would necessitate an election, as the Government could not legally receive it after February 28th. A special Act of Parliament will have to be passed for the reception of that list, and the feeling consequently is that a session will be held.

Shortis Removed to Montreal.

Montreal, March 11.—Sheriff Laberge arrived at Bonaventure station on Saturday morning with Cuthbert V. F. Shortis, whom they placed in Montreal jail. The Valleyfield murderer was dressed in a tweed suit and had a red sash tied around his waist. This is not a change of venue and he has been brought here simply for safe-keeping. Hugh Wilson is doing well and begins to talk clearly of the tragedy and recollect details that he had forgotten.

Acquitted of Incendiarism.

Montreal, March 11.—John Robertson, who was charged with having set fire to the Mechanics' Institute building on the evening of January 28, he having a week previously been discharged as caretaker, and having threatened vengeance, and acted very suspiciously on the evening the library was destroyed, was on Saturday acquitted in the Court of Queen's Bench. Judge Baby charged strongly against the accused.

J. D. Ronald Acquitted.

Belleville, March 11.—John D. Ronald, of Brussels, Ontario, manufacturer of steam fire engines, has been acquitted on the charge of offering a bribe to Robert F. Houston, reeve of the village of Tweed, to induce him to vote in the council for the purchase of a steam fire engine of his (the accused's) manufacture. A similar charge as to Frank Campbell, a member of the council, was decided in the same way.

Half Calf, Half Bear.

Wiarton, March 11.—A farmer named Sam Wilson, living six miles south of here, has a cow which gave birth to a freak a week ago last Friday. It was half calf, half bear. The hind legs and feet are a bear's also the nose and some other parts while the rest of the body is like a calf. The color is red and white. It died last night. The cow has been in the habit of feeding in the woods.

Want a New Franchise.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 11.—The Electric Light Company at Niagara Falls, Ont., wants a new franchise from the town for ten years although the one it has now will run three years yet. If it is granted the new franchise the company agrees to furnish arc lights for the municipality for $98.50 each per annum instead of $85 as now.

A Valuable Dog Imported.

Watford, March 11.—The celebrated rough coated St. Bernard Scottish Leaders Jr. has been secured by the Watford kennels. The animal is the best bred dog of the kind in Canada and weighed 197 pounds when 20 months old and is greatly admired by all who have seen him. The highest price was paid for him of any dog imported to Canada.

Club Rule in New York.

I was somewhat shocked last week while sitting in the Knickerbocker club, where I was busily engaged in alternately gazing on those tiresome wall paper bouquets and garlands and in keeping up a desultory conversation with the only two men of my acquaintance left in town, to see a man whom we all knew nod to us as he passed the club window, although accompanied by his wife. This is certainly very bad form. A man should show more deference to his wife than to any other woman. Of course he knew better than to bow. One is supposed never to recognize a woman acquaintance from a club window. Otherwise we approved of him.—Vogue.

New Office Requisite.

Visitor—Why do you have that dog sitting on your writing desk?

Clerk—I have mislaid my sponge, so I am getting him to lick my postage stamps for me.—Sobremesa.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

Brantford, March 11.—Fred. Charles, aged 40, married, farmer, living one mile north of Burford, was engaged in drawing and cutting timber in the bush Saturday. A tree fell on him, killing him instantly.

Telegraphic Taps.

Dr. A. S. Thompson, of Strathroy, was on Saturday gazetted as a coroner for East Middlesex.

Gen. Harrison's condition is much improved and his physician is hopeful of his rapid recovery.

The Dominion dairy station at Belleville has shipped ten tons of winter made butter to England during the season now closing.

The tug Grace, seized and condemned by the Canadian authorities for illegal fishing and imprisoned in the harbor of Port Colborne, has been released.

The Government have decided to assist Rev. Father Paradis' expatriation scheme to the extent of $1,000, which amount they have ordered to be forwarded to the Colonization Society of Montreal.

The skipper, of a trawler, that arrived at Lowestoft yesterday, says that he raised in a net a decomposed body, which was identified by papers on it as that of Matzan Vanezas, who went down with the steamer Elbe.

A great surprise in commercial circles is the assignment of the old firm of W. B. Clark & Sons, general storekeepers and wharfingers of Sarnia. The firm was rated for about $100,000 and was supposed to have assets away above that figure. Trade debts amount only to $17,000. The creditors are chiefly in Glasgow.

The past week has been marked by the death of three very aged ladies, who spent the greater portion of their lives in Bowmanville, namely: Mrs. Catherine Stewart, in her 103nd year; Miss Nancy Jane Bates, aged 81 years; and Mrs. Eliza Anne Macnab, aged 84 years, relict of the late venerable Alex. Macnab, D.D., rector of Darlington over 40 years and honorary canon of the diocesan cathedral of St. Alban the Martyr. The last two were buried here to-day.

Canada country barley made 85 to 90c in New York on Saturday. Buffalo maltsters have sufficient on hand to keep them going for some time. Nearly 5,000 bushels of No. 1 Canada sold in Buffalo at 64½c, and more could have been sold at the price. Sellers are firm in their views on desirable lots. No. 1 Canada is quoted at 65c, No. 2 at 63c and No. 3 extra at 60 to 61c.

THE TWO EXTREMES!
HATS and BOOTS
Early Styles for Spring Trade.

25 cases of New Goods for the coming spring have already been opened out, consisting of 10 cases of the latest styles of English and American Spring Hats, and 15 cases of Solid Comfort Boots, Shoes and Slippers, from the best makers in the world.

At the HEAD to Stay!

Words are weak in attempting to describe our range in everything that goes to make up the smartest HAT STOCK to be found. We aim to get every first-class idea for the "top" extreme, and we are sure to please, as we we are always--"AT THE HEAD TO STAY."

WIVES, SISTERS, MOTHERS, do you like that Hat your Husband, Brother or Son wears? Send him to a Hat Store where they fit Hats to THE STYLE OF THE MAN. What looks well on some folks may not look well on him. We have a happy knack for head dressing. Don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece—look like prosperity. We have the pick of the styles from such famous English makers as Stanley & Co, Jackson & Co and Wilkinson & Co; and we have the celebrated American EAGLE brand of Fur Hats, union made. The prices won't scare you, either. If you buy your Hats at GOUGH'S you'll soon find out that you save just 20 per cent.

At the FOOT to Lead!

People who wear our Shoes say they enjoy as much solid comfort as the old-timers who wore sandals. But ours are handsome as well as comfortable. We sell easy fitting, durable Shoes, with all the style put on to them that such artistic makers as Slater & Son, of Montreal, can invent. We have all intermediate makes, as well as the cheaper grades from Lower Canada, where they don't pay much for making—sometimes nothing at all.

LADIES are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.00 and $4.00 we mark at $2.00 and $3.00. Cheaper lines run from 75c to $1.50.

GENTLEMEN are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.50 and $5.00 we mark at $2.50 and $3.90. Cheaper lines run from 90c. to $1.75.

It's the same way with Misses, Boys and Children's Boots and Shoes—the goods and prices will do the talking bette han anything we can say.

GREAT BRITAIN SLANDERED

The Minister of Justice Denounces the Mother Country in One Breath and in the Next Asks a Heavy Favor —Opportunity for a Serious Quarrel.

Ottawa, March 11.—A Cabinet Council was held on Saturday and another to-day (Monday), but no decision as to the policy or programme of the Government has been given out. The men now in office have no political principles to guide them and are therefore at sea on everything. The principle of provincial rights for example has been a guiding star for the Liberals ever since Confederation because it was the basis upon which Confederation was built up. If the Government possessed even that one principle it would be invaluable to them in deciding their course on the Manitoba school question.

How the Tariff Was Arranged.

Even on the greatest issue which divides the two great parties in Canada—the trade question—the Minister of Finance told Parliament last session that the tariff was governed by no principle but simply a haphazard attempt to protect a number of favored manufacturers. How the tariff of 1894 was arranged is told in the annual report of the secretary of the Manufacturers' Association, read at the meeting in Toronto the other day. It seems that the manufacturers named a committee to go to Ottawa and dictate the direction the changes in the tariff should take, and of their success the secretary boasts in these words: "It is but an act of justice to the committee to direct attention to the large number of changes made in the tariff along the lines suggested in the recommendations and that in many instances the language used in both is substantially identical. This is particularly noticeable as regards the iron schedule, the duties upon textiles, the duties upon drugs, chemicals, alcoholic preparations, etc., as well as upon an extended list of miscellaneous articles, and large and most important additions to the list of non-dutiable articles. In many instances where we suggested no changes no changes were made."

Not a Free Parliament.

Here is a bold and barefaced boast of the triumph of a section of the manufacturers over a Parliament supposed to be free and to represent the people at large. No stronger indictment against the present Administration has ever been drawn up than this official report of the committee of the Manufacturers' Association. How could the changes made relieve the people of the exactions of the protectionists and the monopolists and combinesters when the changes and the absence of changes were dictated by a handful of men who drew up the bill and then ordered Mr. Foster to submit it to the House of Commons? Is it any wonder, when so many articles for the use only of manufacturers were made free, and iron, woollen goods, cottons, and rice and coal oil taxed all the way from 30 to 95 per cent., that the new tariff is worse than the old and falls short of raising a revenue? It is so arranged too, as to bear much more heavily on the goods used by the poorer classes than on those used by the richer.

Tupper's Abuse of England.

The Government continues its abuse of Great Britain and its accusations of bad faith and misconduct. First they declared that Great Britain was pursuing the policy of forcing her goods at the point of the bayonet on savage and semi-barbarous tribes because free trade had forced her out of the civilized countries of the world. The Liberals showed that this was a foul slander, because Great Britain was selling more goods to Germany, France and other great nations to-day than ever before. Now, Sir Hibbert Tupper, the new Minister of Justice—who, Mr. Dalton McCarthy says, never held a brief—is charging all sorts of horrible things against Great Britain in connection with Behring Sea and says that in the Paris award and the regulations for sealing England is "sacrificing Canada's interests to those of her own in the United States." All that can be said about these charges—and Tupper makes many more—is that he himself and his Government consented to the Paris award and declared that Canada had come out ahead in them. Notwithstanding that Tupper charges England with "ignoring the cruel wrongs done to British subjects"—as if England did not always protect her subjects—he is at the same time asking England to advance half a million dollars to pay damages to the British Columbia sealers. Never before did a minister of justice denounce England in one breath and in the next ask for a heavy favor. More than that Tupper is also asking England to quarrel with the United States over this very half-million dollars which the United States declines to pay until a commission investigates the claims of the British Columbia sealers for those damages. The Paris award provides for a reference of these claims to a commission of arbitrators, and because Congress insists on the terms of the award which Tupper agreed to he is calling on England to suspend or ignore the sealing regulations for this season, thus opening the door to a serious quarrel. Mischief making politicians of the Tupper type are unfit to hold office.

An Absurd Policy.

It is announced that an attempt is to be made to increase our trade with Cape Colony, Africa, and according to a statement in a Government paper it can be done without subsidizing a steamship line by the simple process of each colony abolishing the tariff upon the products of the other. This is simply free trade, and yet we are told that a policy of this kind would be followed by "a tremendous increase of trade." This is the very thing that the N. P. was designed to prevent, because if the N. P. does its work it will keep out the products of other countries. But how absurd to spend time trying to make a "dicker" with a far away colony in Africa whose chief product is diamonds! We would take off the duty from diamonds, but if any proposition is made to take the duty off agricultural implements or coal oil, or rice or reduce it on flannels or blankets or clothing it is rejected as interfering with the National Policy. The Bowell Ministry evidently believe in paying expensive subsidies to try and increase by a few thousand dollars trade with distant countries like Australia and Africa, but they will not move one step to try and let loose the enormous trade between New York State and Ontario, which is fettered and bound down by tariffs on both sides of the line.

THE DEFENCE MAKE A POINT.

The Depositions of the Prisoners Before the Coroner Not to be Admitted.

St. Thomas, March 12.—At the opening of court yesterday morning Justice Meredith gave his decision debarring the evidence given by the prisoners Hendershott and Welter at the coroner's inquest, previous to their arrest.

J. W. Ostrander testified to the prisoner showing him on the day of the killing two policies amounting to $11,000 upon the life of deceased in his (John Hendershott's) favor. Hendershott asked witness to say nothing about the policies.

John Ketchabaw, who lives near Eden, and to whom the telegram was sent, told how Hendershott said it must be his nephew who was killed, as he was a clumsy boy and the tree must have fallen upon him.

Calvin Gregory testified to finding pools of water deeply tinged with blood on the Sunday after the dead man was found.

Several witnesses were examined, but no new points were brought out up to time of adjournment for lunch.

In the afternoon David Hendershott, father of the dead man, told about the conversations he had with his brother John. He was subjected to a long cross-examination by the defence as to his past record, with a view to discrediting his testimony. Nothing very damaging to his character was elicited, however.

Mrs. Bancroft, of the Penwarden House, testified as to the meeting of Welter and John Hendershott in the hotel after the killing. She said that the two men did not speak to each other for some time after they met.

Axe number three and a collection of leaves with blood upon them, which had been sent to Prof. Ellis, of Toronto, for analysis were put in evidence and the professor took the stand to tell the results of his examination. He said that while no man was able to swear positively as to human blood when compared with that of some animals, yet his tests all pointed to this being human blood.

Mrs. Smuck gave evidence as to seeing two men felling a tree in Wardell's woods on the afternoon of the tragedy, but said she could not recognize either of them.

The Canadian I. O. F. in Illinois.

Chicago, March 12.—In Judge Gibbons' court yesterday the fight between the Independent Order of Foresters of Canada and the Independent Order of Foresters of Illinois was renewed. A year ago the State Superintendent of Insurance refused a license to do business to the Supreme Court of the Canadian order on the ground that it was an illegal endowment plan of insurance. A petition for a mandamus was filed after the superintendent had refused a license for a second time, the Supreme Court promising to conform to the law. Judge Gibbons said a mandamus should issue, but as a matter of fact it did not and the case came up again. The Illinois order asked leave to intervene but Mr. Moloney, attorney-general, resented the interference. The case was taken under advisement.

Brockville Farmers' Institute.

Brockville, March 12.—The Brockville Farmers' Institute held a very interesting session in Victoria hall last night. Prof. Fletcher, of the experimental farm, delivered an address on the care and culture of house plants, and their relation to the house. Prof. Craig talked on the fertilization of orchards and the pollination of flowers. Addresses were also made by D. Derbyshire, W. H. McNish and other local speakers.

Doesn't Want His Girl Wife Now.

Mono Mills, March 12.—The old man Kidd who recently gained so much notoriety by marrying a 16-year-old girl, has been very sick for the last few days and is at present sinking very fast. His wife now wants to come back and live with him. He told her that he did not want to have anything more to do with her and he is being attended by members of his own family.

FIRE IN A MINE SHAFT

Started by a Lighted Pipe in a Miner's Pocket.

POWDER EXPLOSION AVERTED

Two Miners Dead and Eight Others So Badly Suffocated That They May Die—Twenty Others Abandoned to Their Fate.

Winnipeg, March 12.—The Sultana mine shaft house at Rat Portage took fire in the drying room last night. Two miners are dead and eight others were almost suffocated. The fire is supposed to have been started by a pipe in the pocket of a coat hanging on the wall. Foreman Johnson, noticing the fire, called men to assist in putting it out, but all ran, being afraid of explosives in the drying room. Johnson rushed into the burning room and removed two boxes of powder and then tried to save the building. The fire started at nine o'clock at night and until half past one this morning no effort could be made to assist the men in the shaft. As soon as the ruins were sufficiently cooled it was found the timbers lining the shaft were blazing and water was then directed on these timbers. Help arrived from Rat Portage and the flames were soon extinguished. Motley Bell, assayer at the mine, and Foreman Johnson descended the shaft and found six men on the first level apparently all suffocated. They descended to the lower level and found three more but they were in a better condition than the others and efforts were begun to revive them. The first three raised were resuscitated after a short time. The fourth was John Lagire, who was very low when brought to the surface and died shortly after. The others were in a critical condition when brought up but all recovered except Rudolph B. Erickson. William Prinn was badly burned. The building was completely consumed, but the loss is covered by insurance. The fire did not affect the mill proper and work continues. Four of the imprisoned miners have been taken from the mine by the rescuing party but all were so suffocated that they will die. All hope of reaching the remaining twenty has been abandoned.

ATTEMPTED TRAIN WRECKING.

Narrow Escape of a Grand Trunk Express Train Near Windsor.

Windsor, March 12.—What appears to have been an attempt to wreck the 1.20 a.m. Grand Trunk east bound express on Saturday is being investigated. At midnight a freight train pulled out and just below the Little Creek bridge, about five miles from Windsor, it ran into an obstruction. Owing to the slow rate at which it traveled no serious damage was done. Engineer Calder found that a thirty-foot steel rail had been thrown to the side by the pilot. Foot prints of a man in the snow and marks of the heavy rail having been dragged to its place were seen. Detectives have followed the boot marks about a mile, where the men had evidently taken a buggy and driven towards Windsor. An official of the Grand Trunk said every indication is that the men had arranged to hold up the midnight express and passenger train, as the freight train was a special and luckily saved the express train, which arrived but a few minutes afterward.

PHIL SLATTER DEAD.

The Well-Known District Passenger Agent Succumbs to Heart Failure.

Toronto, March 12.—Philip J. Slatter, for the last twelve years state and district passenger agent of the Grand Trunk railway, was found dead in bed at his residence, 458 Gerrard street, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The cause of his death was heart failure. Mr. Slatter was a well known citizen, and in his important position had made many firm friends. He was born in England 45 years ago.

Supreme Court Judgments.

Ottawa, March 12.—The Supreme Court has rendered judgment in the following appeals. Those dismissed were: Imrie v Archibald, Fortier v Lambe, Armstrong v Wright, Osgoode v York, Ferguson v Innes, French River Tug Co. v Kerr Engine Co., Headford v McClary, Cornwall v Derrice, McDonald v Cummings and Queen v Fillon. Those allowed were: Armstrong v Mason, Armstrong v McLelland, Tooth v Kittredge, M. C. Ry. v Weallens, Gooderham v Toronto and Murdoch v West. This disposed of all but five on the list, one of the latter being the Dominion-Provincial arbitration award.

Fishing Nets Seized and Destroyed.

Brockville, March 12.—Last week game protector James Northrup, of Alexandria Bay, made a haul of nets at the mouth of Mud Creek, foot of Lake Ontario. He went there with an assistant and succeeded in capturing twelve hoop nets. They were drawn out on the ice and burned. The nets were owned by four men, who were arrested and pleaded guilty. They settled by each paying $25 and costs.

Shot Himself Through the Head.

Smith's Falls, March 12. — Abraham Coad, an old man who has just returned from the western states on a visit to his brother William, a farmer a few miles from here, shot himself yesterday morning three times, one bullet entering behind the ear and coming out the top of the head. Coad is still alive but cannot recover. The old man has been subject to fits of depression.

ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER FRANCHISE BY-LAW.

The Full Text of the Bylaw—How the Council has Safe-Guarded the Public Interests.

As our readers will have observed, the bylaw, to grant a franchise of the streets of the town to Messrs. Carnegie and Dennistoun, for the purpose of erecting poles for electric light and other purposes, was passed at the last meeting of the council. Considering the importance of the matter, space is given to-day to print below the text of the bylaw as a matter of interest to the ratepayers. A reading of the bylaw will show that the council in preparing it, has made adequate provisions for safe-guarding the public interest. The EXAMINER contendes., solely on behalf of the public welfare, that the granting of the franchise should be surrounded with such provisions and conditions as would secure competition and prevent a combination; and to the lay mind the bylaw covers these conditions as well as others of minor importance. The members of the council deserve credit for having dealt with this matter in a public spirited manner. The following is a correct copy (sub-headings excepted) of the bylaw in question:

A by-law to authorize Messrs. Carnegie and Dennistoun to erect poles and wires for electric light and other purposes in the town of Peterborough. Passed the fourth day of March, 1895.

School Board meeting next Monday evening.

Miss Ethel Turner and Mabel Sperry, Peterborough, are the guests of Mrs. D. A. Fraser.

Miss Ruby, daughter of Mr. H. G. Buck, is seriously ill.

Mr. A. Hutchinson, Detroit, is visiting friends in Norwood.

The New Age Comedy Co., billed to show in Norwood, Saturday evening, failed to make an appearance.

Rev. Dr. Carman, General Superintendent of the Methodist church, will preach missionary sermons in the Methodist church, on Sunday, March 17th.

A meeting of the patrons of Norwood cheese factory was held last Saturday afternoon, to arrange for the season's business. The following officers were re-elected:

President—W. G. Patterson.
Secretary—W. Brethen.
Salesman and Treasurer—W. Buck.
Directors—W. R. Howson, D. Campbell, Chas. Nicoll, M. O'Keefe, D. Hurley and W. Howson.

Arrangements were made with Hugh Spence to manufacture cheese at 12c. per lb. This season, the patrons will receive payment for their milk at the end of each month. J. W. Oakley will again be cheesemaker. Mr. Oakley has made the cheese at this factory for several years and has not, during this time, lost a cent from cheese which did not reach the standard. The outlook for this year has been very promising. It is expected that there will be an increase of about 200 in the number of cows, whose milk is brought to Norwood.

The regular meeting of the village council was held in the town hall last Monday evening, all the members being present. The minutes of the last regular and special meetings were read. Reeve Pearse then rose and in a few well chosen words thanked the council for the resolution of condolence passed at the last meeting. A detailed statement of the receipts and expenditure for the past year was read and discussed. Moved by Councillor Reynolds seconded by Councillor Stuart, that the detailed statement be received, and that the clerk notify the auditors to make out an abstract statement, and as soon as same is prepared that the necessary copies be printed—Carried. The following accounts were ordered to be paid: Jas. Jotcham, running snow-plough, $3.85; J. Woods, shovelling snow, $1.25; J. Kellet, quarter's salary, $5; C. J. Searight, 100 chairs, $40. A number of tenders for plank, etc. were laid on the table and on motion they were received. A special meeting will be held next Monday evening to let the contract of supplying the lumber.

THE PORK PRODUCE MARKET.

There was a better demand for pork products last week. This was owing to the scarcity of dressed hogs and the high prices asked for them. The offerings of dressed hogs have been very small lately, partly owing to the bad state of the country roads interfering with farmers deliveries. Packers are holding more money for hogs, and are indifferent about sales of the product. Orders for cars received at Toronto at a slight advance over previous prices were not filled. There is no accurate information at hand as to the hog crop this season and the number of hogs that still remain in the country. Reports are somewhat mixed. From some quarters, where it was supposed there were very few hogs left, a good many are offering, and in the district where it was supposed the supply was not nearly exhausted the offerings are very small. The local packers are expecting an increased delivery when the weather gets milder, and are looking for lower prices.

MARCH!

Month When 'Tis Easiest to Regain Health.

GET STRONG BEFORE DEBILITATING SPRING COMES ON.

Feed the Worn Out Brain With Paine's Celery Compound.

LET CHANGING SEASON FIND SYSTEM IN HEALTH.

Take the Great Remedy That Makes People Well.

A perfectly healthy body has its parts completely nourished and its nerves constantly refreshed and stored with energy from the vigorous blood that all the time bathes it.

But to do this important work of conveying sufficient nutrition to the tissues, the blood must be kept rich and full of red corpuscles.

The only trouble with two-thirds of the men and women whom the coming spring will claim for its victims, is a pitiful lack of proper nerve food. What these weak, nervous people need is a more general feeding and storing of their blood and tissues with fresh, highly vitalized material. There is undoubtedly nothing that can compare with Prof. Phelps' remarkable discovery, Paine's Celery Compound, for restoring health and strength.

The great body of physicians throughout the United States, England and Canada, believe profoundly in it, and prescribe it in all cases of nervous weakness and debility. In preparing this greatest of all nerve tonics and blood renewers, the eminent professor of Dartmouth College, Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., had in mind the countless men and women with brains overworked and nerves unstrung by worry and lack of proper nutrition.

Clerks, their employers, lawyers, doctors, mothers of families, hard-working men and women in every county and province, and hosts of brain workers — the most intellectual part of the community — are to-day taking Paine's Celery Compound with the happiest results to relieve themselves of rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous exhaustion, dyspepsia, sleeplessness and low spirits. Paine's Celery Compound cures diseases of the important organs of digestion, circulation and excretion by purifying the blood, by regulating the entire nervous system, and supplying the body with strength to combat disease.

Paine's Celery Compound makes people well. It takes away all the tremor and irritability from the nerves, and gives that calm, strong feeling of assured health that invariably accompanies a perfectly nourished bodily system.

Get rid of languor, clear the muddy, unhealthy skin, plump out the body and get back to a normal, vigorous condition with Paine's Celery Compound, and begin now.

THE CHEESE SEASON.

(Montreal Herald.)

There is every indication of an early opening.

The first signs of the new season last year were noticed about this time.

Several factories opened in New York State, and news of active preparations for the opening in Ontario was received.

The Herald of April 2nd, last year, said:—"Reports from the cheese-making districts indicate an early opening of the factories. As it is, several in the Kingston, Napanee and Ingersoll districts are opening to-morrow."

There is every indication of an equally early opening this year, notwithstanding the comparative lateness of the season. Satisfactory accounts of present conditions have been received from many of the leading districts, and to say that factorymen are encouraged by their great success of last year, is putting it mildly.

Regarding prices, the question has been asked: "Will they be higher?" Existing circumstances unmistakably warrant a negative answer. The cable is just 8s lower than it was a year ago. Of course changes may transpire between the present time and the opening sales, but it is hardly reasonable to expect the cable to reach last year's level during that short period.

The course of the cable is seldom similar two years in succession, but its run during late March and early April a year ago may prove of interest. On March 8th the cable was 57 shillings, it fell to 56s 6d on the 14th and advanced to 57s 6d on April 6th. On the 19th of April the quotation was 59 shillings.

The Board at Brockville opens the first Thursday in May, and the Peterborough board, May 7th.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St. John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

SHALL WE DINE ON AIR?

SHALL THE BREAD WE EAT BE MADE OF SAWDUST?

The Possibilities for the Epicures of the Coming Century—Nutritive Vapors With Savory Mouthfuls and Other Features of Gaseous Bills of Fare.

Two new inventions have recently come to the front in Europe which perhaps may revolutionize the modern science of eating. They certainly open up great possibilities.

Timid people who shudder at the ills which may lurk in lobsters, mushrooms, candy and in restaurant cooking, will be glad to learn that a Scotch physician, Dr. MacLewan, has invented a process which will enable them to live upon nutritive air, and thus defy adulterated foods and their concomitants, indigestion and dyspepsia.

Dr. MacLewan asserts that he has discovered a method of reducing sustenance to its simplest expression, a nutritive vapor, which he extracts from solid foods by means of an ingenious apparatus of which he is the inventor. Thanks to this, a repast may soon become nothing more than a series of savory inhalations. This frugal regimen is designed for the present to aid worn-out stomachs only, and the doctor does not claim it would satisfy a hearty eater, but he will not deny the possibility in the near future of a dozen bons vivants lounging about in easy chairs and dining sumptuously upon nutritive gases.

The principal advantage which this new discovery seems to offer is the suppression of kitchens and cooks. A great nutritive vapor company will probably be organized to distribute elaborate mains about cities by means of pipes similar to those which now conduct water and gas. All that will then be necessary will be to take the tube between one's teeth, turn the key, and leisurely inhale one's dinner. It is to be hoped that the meters of this company of the future will be more above suspicion than those of the gas companies of the present. Perhaps future suicides, instead of turning on the illuminating gas, will find it more agreeable to be wafted across the Styx by the continued outpour of some gaseous menu, many times repeated.

"Wooden bread," the second of these new dietetic inventions, seems unreasonable and not to be thought of, but in Berlin there is a factory which produces at present about 2,000 pounds of it per day. It is made by allowing sawdust to ferment, after which it undergoes numerous chemical manipulations. It is then mixed with one-third of its bulk of rye flour and baked like ordinary bread. Just now only horses are nourished by this product, and the street-car companies of Berlin, who are the largest consumers, are enchanted with its effects. The horses, though, have not yet expressed their opinion, nevertheless they seem to thrive on it.

The manufacturers declare that this wooden bread would make an equally satisfactory food for man, whose stomach, it is claimed, is quite as capable of digesting it as is the stomach of the horse. Such Berlin scientists as have been approached in the matter say it is quite as digestible as the bread in ordinary use.

From a scientific standpoint there seems nothing improbable in this. Horses can assimilate wood even without its being submitted to chemical preparation. It has often happened that horses have been shut up in a mine by a cave-in, and have been deprived of all provender for days, even weeks. Nevertheless they have been found alive—emaciated, mere skeletons, phantoms of horses, it is true, but alive. They had been able to sustain themselves, after a fashion, by gnawing the wooden supports of the galleries.

It is not impossible that chemistry may succeed in rendering digestible and nourishing for man this cellulose of wood that horses are capable of assimilating in its natural state. It is well known that wood can be converted into sugar, not like that obtained from the cane or the beet root, but sugar, nevertheless, which may be used to sweeten coffee, for the lack of something better.

With wooden bread, butter extracted from petroleum and chemical cutlets and steaks, that dire date may be put off more, perhaps, which the merciless mathematicians have lately fixed for the extinction of the human race, showing that in three centuries the world will no longer be able to nourish its teeming millions, and they will then have to face the alternative of methodical extermination or eating one another.

These new discoveries are no stranger, moreover, than many dishes in vogue in other countries than ours. Shark fins are considered delicacies in China, sea worms in Samoa, ostrich eggs, elephants' feet and the marrow of the leg bone of the giraffe in South Africa. The Mandingoes luxuriate on crocodiles' eggs, fried locusts and alligator and hippopotamus steaks. The great delicacy of the Barris, a tribe of the Upper Nile, is ox blood mixed with flour. Once whale steak with green peas was an English favorite, and extract of whale is said to be as nourishing as extract of beef, and one cetacean will furnish 500 pounds of extract.

No Sign of Regret.

A drill sergeant of a volunteer regiment, in drilling a squad whom he was instructing in the funeral exercise, said: "Now, lads, I want to see how well you can do it. I'm going to walk through the ranks, and I wish you to suppose I'm the corpse."

He ordered the squad to rest on their arms reversed and stand at ease. Then he walked through the ranks and addressed them as follows: "Your arms are all right and your feet are all right, but there is one thing wanting, my lads—you hadn't that look of regret on your face that you ought to have when a corpse walks past."—Tit-Bits.

It is not to be wondered at, that Ayer's Pills are in such universal demand. For the cure of constipation, biliousness, or any other complaint needing a laxative, these pills are unsurpassed. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and every dose is effective.

To search out impurities and drive them from the system is the work of Burdock Blood Bitters; thus B.B.B. cures dyspepsia, constipation, bad blood, biliousness and all diseases of the stomach, liver bowels and blood.

ALD. A. F. STAGG, OF BROCKVILLE, ONT.

Restored to Perfect Health by South American Nervine.

Had Tried all the Local Doctors, but Failed to be Benefited.

Visited Massena Springs, but Returned in Despair—To-day Enjoys Perfect Health After Taking Nervine.

ALD. A. F. STAGG, BROCKVILLE, ONT.

A citizen whose influence carries a good premium in the growing town of Brockville is Ald. A. F. Stagg, an extensive stock dealer in that section of the province. For over fifty years he has carried on business in Brockville. The people know the man. How much he has accomplished during this half century in building up the municipality is known to them, and they have been ready to show their appreciation of these labors by making him a town father. Mr. Stagg, however, failed just where so many other men of active and aggressive temperament fail, namely, in exceeding his strength. About two years ago his nervous system became broken and shattered, and he was unable to do work of any kind. This was a serious blow to a man of so active a temperament, and with the volume of business he had on hand. He did, as any one else would do, and which is the natural thing to do, sought the assistance of the local doctors of the place. He tried not only one but all of them. Whatever the trouble was they seemed unable to master it, and did him no good. He went to Kingston, hoping to find greater medical skill in the Limestone City. He was no better off for his trouble. A friend influenced him to visit Massena Springs, it being believed that the peculiar charm that surrounds that spot would have the effect in giving back to Mr. Stagg his lost health. But it was simply a case of history repeating itself everything failed, and he remained home in utter despair, seeing nothing but early death before him. His neighbor, a Mr. Johnston, who had been using Nervine with great success, recommended him to try a bottle. It cannot be said that he did so with any bright hopes of being benefited. To his great delight, however, he found almost instant relief. After taking several bottles he to-day says, in his own words, that he enjoys perfect health. To those who do not know the particular virtues of South American Nervine all this may sound like a miracle. Here was a man whose condition was known to every one in Brockville, for everyone knew Ald. Stagg, who was completely broken up in health, and whose disease the best medical skill could not relieve, much less remove, and yet a few bottles of this wonderful discovery, Nervine, gives back to him the health that two years previous he had completely lost. This is what Nervine will do in every case. Physicians fail usually because they doctor, as it were, on the surface. Nervine succeeds in every case because it immediately acts upon the nerve centers of the body, from which, as science has unmistakably demonstrated, flows the life blood of the system. When these nerve centers are kept in healthful condition disease that may exist in any part of the body speedily becomes an unknown thing.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers balked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
With promises from Uncle Pete,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss.

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

A Sermon on the Nature and Necessity of Confession by Rev. Mr. Moore.

George street Methodist church was well filled last evening with those anxious to hear Evangelists Moore and Whyte deliver the Divine message. Mr. Moore took his text from Daniel ix, and verse 4: "I prayed unto the Lord my God and made my confession." The theme for the instructive discourse consisted in the nature and necessity of confession, and the speaker forcibly argued that the need of the hour was a confession of sin on the part of Christian people. He drew a strong picture of the moral needs of the town and urged all to fit themselves to help in bettering its condition. An urgent appeal was made to all whose lives are in harmony with God to confess their sin and be saved.

At the close of the sermon Mr. Whyte sang with good effect "O Hearts that are Broken," and many responded to an appeal for immediate decision.

The after meeting in the enquiry room was characterized by a large measure of manifest spiritual power to which many personally attested.

The evangelistic meetings are making most thorough progress, and steadily increasing in effectiveness.

Rumours of a Return of Mr. Kent's Illness Without Foundation.

Ottawa, March 12.—There is no truth in the rumour current to-day that Mr. Geo. H. Kent, employed here by the British North American Bank Note Printing Company, whose recovery from Bright's disease through the medium of Dodd's Kidney Pills has been so extensively chronicled by the press, has suffered a relapse. Mr. Kent is still in the enjoymene of the health which he has regained and is able to attend to the somewhat trying work in which he is engaged without inconvenience, and states most emphatically that he is in no fear of a return of his dread malady as long as he is within reach of a drug store, and is able to procure the same means for the alleviation of his sufferings.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

On Monday, March 6th, a paragraph appeared in the WEEKLY EXAMINER in reference to some damage that it was alleged had been done to school property in school section No. 1. Miss Clarke, who is in charge of the school, called on the EXAMINER to state that no damage such as alleged had been done to the property in this section. Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

SHOULD STRIVE TO LEAD AND EDUCATE.

SUCH, MR. DENNISTOUN THINKS, IS THE MISSION OF THE PRESS.

An Interesting Discussion at the Meeting of the Fortnightly Club Last Evening — Remarks by Mr. Dobbin, Mr. Drope, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Schofield.

Mr. Dennistoun's paper read last evening was one of rare excellence, and deserved every word of the high praise bestowed upon it at the meeting by Mr. Edwards. It aroused a great deal of discussion, but it was manifest that the sympathy of nearly all the members was strongly with Mr. Dennistoun's position. His view is that some legislation should be adopted that would place newspapers in the same position as the individual, and that would hold them criminally responsible for the publication of nauseous and revolting details of crime, when such publication was not in the public interest. It was not his objection that newspapers recorded crime, but that they searched out these matters, served them up to the people in and gave them the most prominent place. It was not the public interest they had in view, but the gratification of the lowest public taste. Instead of trying to lead and educate their readers, they carefully studied the wishes of all, and gave each just what they liked most, whether good, bad or indifferent. As further reference is to be made to this subject next Saturday, in the "Fortnightly Club Column," no more need be said just now.

THE MOST SENSATIONAL FORM,

Mr. Dobbin admitted the force of all that had been stated, but argued that it was impossible for any ordinary newspaper to do otherwise than meet all varieties of taste, and that, as a matter of fact, the objectionable news referred to was read by the more respectable portion of the community, and was demanded by it. The enterprising journal that undertook to cultivate a higher taste, and left out would, he held, soon lose its subscribers, for there were plenty of papers ready to supply everything. The only remedy lay with the people; it was for them to demand legislation. This, of course, was Mr. Dennistoun's view; he did not blame individual newspapers as severely as the public mind. Mr. Dobbin also referred to to the hardships of the libel law, which, he held, was not yet sufficiently protective to the innocent journalist. He thought there should be some authority to decide, in the first instance, whether the complaining party should be allowed to bring his action, and on what conditions. The newspapers leave out much more objectionable matter than they print, and they should, he stated, have some credit for that.

THOSE OBJECTIONABLE FEATURES

Mr. Drope, like Sir Roger de Coverley, thought "there was a good deal to be said on both sides." His speech made a good appendix to the lecture. He traced the history of the

from the time of Henry 8th to the present day, and showed how the press had steadily gained its freedom, and has been stronger than king or parliament.

Mr. Burnham was inclined to take the side of the newspaper, and considered that there was a good purpose served by a full disclosure of crime and immorality. He thought that any interference with the liberty of the press was an interference with the liberty of the individual.

Mr. Edwards questioned Mr. Dobbin's accuracy in his statements regarding the libel law, it being in some particulars more favourable to the newspaper than he had stated. In his opinion a newspaper should, and safely could, be more than a commercial venture, and that they should and could suppress these objectionable details more than they did, and that instead of sailing as close to the wind as possible in these matters, they might well aim at something higher than the meeting of every taste.

Mr. Schofield referred to, and read from, an article in the last Canadian Magazine, dealing with the style of journalism in Newfoundland, which just now as to call forth a strong condemnation from the pulpits of the Island. He made some apt remarks, based on the article, and suggested, as a matter for consideration, that the pulpit of Ontario might take the question up in a like fashion.

IS SO ABUSIVE AND SCANDALOUS

Mr. Dennistoun in his reply expressed the opinion that the grand juries ought rather to deal with the evil, and that a strong statement from them would have great influence with the Legislature. One grand jury, at least, had referred to the subject. Mr. Dennistoun did not have much to answer, as his position was not seriously attacked.

The members of the club very heartily applauded Mr. Davidson's testimony to the good qualities of the local press, and their sympathy with all right effort in the community. The trouble is that they also yield (of necessity, they say) to the demands of the lower element; but they are not alone in that, and as Mr. Davidson well pointed out, the fault lies primarily at the door of the readers.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, April 1st. Programme: Paper—Other Worlds Than Ours, by Mr. J. W. Garvin, B.A. Special speakers, Mr. Peck, Mr. Drope and Mr. Innes.

FROST FLOWERS.

The frost-spirit breathed on the window-pane,
And traced with an icicle keen,
And the flowers that sprung 'neath his magic touch
Were fairer than earth's, I ween.

He dipped his pen in a moonbeam chance,
That broke in a tremulous pool,
And caught the tint of a peeping star
To sharpen his glittering tool.

Like witchcraft sprung each leaf and fern,
And the lily's fragile grace;
There were delicate sprays and buds half blown,
And a rose in a silver vase.

The flowers dreamed on the window-pane,
And the midnight stars peeped through,
While the artist brushed the petals frail
With a wash of crystal dew.

He hastened to give the finishing touch
And hide his name in the leaves;
Then over his shoulder threw a glance,
And hung his pen from the eaves!

Flowers From the Riviera.

From the Riviera there arrive every morning about 500 packages of freshly plucked violets, narcissus, jonquils, anemones, roses and other welcome messengers from the sunny South. Most of the consignments remain in London, but some of them proceed to Manchester, Liverpool and even across the Irish Channel before being opened. These flowers preserve their fargrance to the last, and are much esteemed at a time of year when our own climate is unkind to floriculture. But this branch of our import trade may some day find a formidable rival in the Queen's Australian dominions, whence flowers have recently come, with all the appearance of recent culling, embedded in solid blocks of ice. The immediate drawback of the antipodean produce is that the ice, which is necessary to its lasting beauty, can hardly be worn in the button-hole or carried in a bouquet.—London Telegraph.

TO THE ORANGEMEN AND PROTESTANTS OF CANADA.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Will you be good enough to give space in your columns for the following letter, and oblige,

Yours truly,
WM. GRAHAM.

Smith, March 12th, 1895.

BRETHREN,—As you are aware, the government of Manitoba in 1890 passed an act for the abolition of separate schools in this province, and established in their stead one public system for all. No doubt the action was to a great extent the outcome of the Jesuit estate act of Quebec, passed two years previously.

You will remember that a few years ago the Roman Catholics appealed against the act, and the Dominion Government paid the expenses of their appeal to the Queen's Privy Council. The highest court of the realm decided that Manitoba had full power and control over all educational matters within the province.

The Roman Hierarchy still persevered in their efforts to break up our public school system, which has been in satisfactory operation for the past five years. By a most extraordinary and apparently inconsistent decision of the Privy Council it was lately decided by that body that the Dominion Governmnnt has the power to grant remedial legislation for Roman Catholics and none others.

To uphold the government and people of Manitoba in their struggle for public schools, we conceive to be the solemn duty of every Orangemen and patriotic man in Canada; no matter to what political party he may belong. To the report of the attempted interference of the Dominion with either our schools or school funds His Honour the Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba was made to say in his speech from the throne at the opening of our Provincial Legislature yesterday: "Whether or not a demand will be made by the Federal Government that that act shall be modified is not yet known to my government. But it is not the intention of my government in any way to recede from its determination to uphold the present public school system which, if left to its own operation, would in all probability soon become universal throughout the province."

We need not remind the Orangemen of Canada that separate schools are a curse to our fair heritage, and that one public school for all is sound doctrine on this continent, and that Protestants have consciences as well as Roman Catholics, and that the pretensions of the followers of Pius the IX who said "Our church (Roman Catholic) is God's church and not accountable to either state or country," should be met by a determined respone of NO SURRENDER. Manitoba has dared to strike for her right, and as sure as there is a God in Heaven, she will maintain it. We only want equality before the law—in education as all else—and in our humble opinions it is for the Orangemen of Canada to insist upon the feelings, wishes and consciences of the majority of this province being respected—come what may.

While willing to extend the same rights and privileges to all others that we enjoy ourselves, we shall continue to battle for patriotism, for the propagation of Protestant principles according to our light and with whatever force we may be able to command. We believe Orangemen can only be true to their principles by being Protestant first, last and all the time. We will fight on these lines unmindful of hasty or hostile criticism our actions may invite.

We fully realize that the Hierarchy of Canada in politics is powerful, and that unless we get the assistance from you, and the Protestants of Canada, which we have a right to demand, little Manitoba will be found fighting her battles in favour of public schools against fearful odds.

We sincerely pray that at your annual meetings and in your lodges you will unmistakably express your determination to give us your prayers, countenance and unqualified support; and when the proper time comes, your independent vote.

Yours fraternally,

CURLIANA.

Two draws in the Innes' medal series took place between the following rinks:

RINK NO. 1.

RINK NO. 2.

In the Kendry Cup semi-finals the following rinks played:

H R H Kenner,	J Wylie,
C N Brown,	E B Clegg,
G J Horkins,	D Davidson,
S Ray, skip 9	W G Ferguson, skip .. 18

The rivalry existing between skips Ed. Brown and Harry LeBrun on the curling ice seems to grow apace, as the season is drawing to a close. Yesterday afternoon, the most exciting game of the series of these famous matches was played and today skip Harry is all smiles for did he not administer to his old time rival a most thorough drubbing to the tune of 18—8! Nothing daunted, however, skip Brown has already issued another challenge to Mr. LeBrun and the outcome is awaited with interest.

HOCKEY.

There was lots of fun at the rink last night when representative teams from the local branches of the Banks of Montreal and Ontario came together to contest for the supremacy in the bank hockey series.

At about a quarter past nine the two teams lined up as follows:—

Ontario.		Montreal.
Crane	goal	Benedict
Montgomery	point	H Lewis
Thompson	cover point	Parsons
Parker	forwards	Wonham
McGill		N Lewis
Hamilton		Hudson
Nelson		Taylor

H Lefevre, referee.

As will be seen Montgomery was practically unsupported, as the Ontario Bank med, though some of them are clever skaters, never take a hockey stick in hand unless it be on some such festive occasion as this. For the Montreal team there were Wonham and Parsons from the Peterboroughs, and two clever stick handlers in the Lewis brothers. It was therefore and uphill game for the Ontario men, but they worked hard and only accepted defeat after a gallant struggle.

Mr. W. D. Parker captained the Ontarios, and the result of his clever generalship shone forth brilliantly at times. It is true that Captain Parker did not get the puck very often, but then, what successful general was ever known to enter personally into the fray? On the contrary, Napoleon Bonaparte, Wellington and all such men are said to have invariably directed the movements of their armies from afar. Capt. Parker is never so anxious about his "balance" at the bank as he was on the ice.

Captain Benedict, of the Montrealers, sprung quite a new idea in hockey circles by chasing the puck on all fours. The scheme has many advantages as there is little or no danger of a fall and in a scrimmage where there is considerable danger involved in bending over to look for the puck, it is really quite easy to spy out the gypsum from Mr Benedict's favourite position.

The first game went to Montreal out of a scrimmage in front of the goal, Hudson doing some strong work and Crane in goal, making some good stops, Wonham finally "did the necessary."

A comical incident occurred during this game, when half a dozen of the players were in a confused bunch, struggling with might and main and with hockey sticks flying in every direction and the puck lying unnoticed at least twenty feet away. It was such incidents as these which made the many ladies present grow almost hysterical with laughter.

Wonham scored again for Montreal, though Thompson fought hard in front of the flags and relieved splendidly several times.

Captain Parker at this juncture held a consultation of war with his supporters with the result that Montgomery went out on the forward line, Thompson taking his place at point and Nelson going to cover point. The change was a good one for Montgomery took the puck from the face-off and rushed it straight through the Montreal flags, scoring the first game for the Ontario's. Hudson tried hard to stop "Monty's" rush and made quite a depression in the ice where he fell. Captain Benedict cautioned Mr. Hudson against making any more holes in the ice on pain of being ruled off and explained that this was not the proper way to play the game. It might do for Mr. Nelson or Mr. Crane to put up such schemes, but the Montreal men should be above it. Mr. Hudson looked as though he was about to make the remark about the pot and the kettle, but he thought better of it.

In the next game Crane made so good a stop as to call for cheers from the spectators, and Thompson relieved so brilliantly as to convince all that even if he did freeze his feet at the last game, he was taking enough exercise just then to prevent a recurrence of the accident.

Montreal and Ontario each scored another game before half time was called.

When the puck was again faced, Wonham scored almost immediately for Montreal, but a few seconds later a goal went to the Ontario's, McGill doing some good work.

It was very funny to witness young Norman Lewis taking the puck away from a strapping big banker. Mr. H. Lewis played a strong game throughout.

Montreal again scored, then Ontario, then Montreal and Ontario again, Montreal always keeping one game ahead. Just at the close, Montreal scored two more goals and thus won the match by a score of eight goals to five.

The bankers announced, much to the sorrow of the spectators, that they would play no more matches this season. In the way of fun-makers it would be hard to find the equal of the personnel of the two teams and last night, during the whole course of the game, one peal of laughter from the spectators succeeded the previous one so quickly that the building was kept ringing with the sounds of merriment for the full hour which it took to play the game.

To-night a rare combination of skill and bull-headed luck—hockey "pi"—will be seen at the skating rink, when sevens representing the EXAMINER and Review will try to play hockey. The game will last from ten to eleven—the players with that philanthropic spirit of consideration for the feelings of others, common to printers, having decided to spare the feelings of the public by playing when all good citizens are in bed. N.B.—The game "goes to press" at ten o'clock sharp. That system so dear to the printer—the dead-head system—will prevail. No admission fee will be charged. Money is expected to be coined, however, by charging 50 cents a head to get out after the spectator has seen a few minutes of the game.

A telegram was received last night from the Montreal hockeyists thanking the Peterboroughs for their invitation to play here and regretting their inability to come, having decided to play no more matches this season. A strong effort is being made to bring the teams of either Queen's or 'Varsity for a game on Thursday or Friday as a close to the season.

A letter was received by Manager Harley from Port Hope this morning asking for a game with Peterborough and offering to entertain the club and pay hotel expenses. The invitation will not be accepted as Peterborough would gain nothing by winning from a team like the Port Hopes, which has not proven its worth. When Port Hope has won from such teams as Trinity, which played in the finals with Queen's for the senior championship, or with the crack Bank of Toronto team from Toronto or the Granites or Kingstons, it will be time enough for them to challenge Peterborough. The Collegiate Institute II will probably give them a game.

AN EGG FAMINE.

Toronto commission men who have studied the egg situation for the past few weeks, believe that we are in for an egg famine, or something very near it. The large shipments of eggs to the United States that have been going on for some weeks have pretty well exhausted supplies of fresh and limed eggs held in Ontario, and as the weather and the bad roads have been against any material increase in the offerings of new-laid eggs, supplies are now lower than they have been for many months. In Montreal there was a jump of five cents a dozen in the price of limed eggs, and the market at Toronto is now higher than it was at the opening of the week, and is likely to advance still more. The situation is now entirely at the mercy of the capricious hen. If the supplies of new-laid eggs increase in the next week or ten days prices may be prevented from making any further sharp advance. But there is just this to be taken into consideration—the demand for new-laid eggs in the Lenten season is generally very active, and as soon as the new-laid stock begins to offer in any quantity, it may develop a new demand that will prevent new-laid eggs from cutting any figure in the situation for some time. A New York report says: The current arrivals continue exceedingly small, and with the stocks of held fresh and limed eggs about exhausted the market is more bare of eggs than at any time yet, and little hope of any relief for a few days to come, but advices indicate increasing collections in many sections. Stocks are offered for delivery the last of next week at decidedly lower prices, and there is a feeling of uncertainty as to what a day will bring forth, and while there is not enough stock here at the present for the actual requirements of the trade, still there is no disposition to crowd prices any higher, holders being disposed to piece out their small receipts quickly on arrival, and make them go as far as possible.

OH! MOTHERS.

Your Responsibility Is Great.

Baby's life depends upon its food, and you are responsible for the selection of the proper one. Over twenty thousand physicians and hundreds of thousands of mothers and nurses have tried Lactated Food, and proved it to be without an equal.

If your darling babe is not bright, cheerful, happy and contented, rest assured the trouble lies with the food you are giving it. If you continue with a food that retards digestive vigor, that impairs health and growth, sickness and death will be the result.

Lactated Food nourishes, fattens, strengthens and gives true vitality to weak and puny babies.

Lactated Food truly "Saves Babies' Lives."

CATTLE SHIPMENTS.

The First Big Shipment of Cattle Made.

The first consignment of cattle and hogs this year, and really the first winter shipment of live stock ever made from Manitoba, left the C. P. R. yards, Winnipeg, on Wednesday last. The shipment, which comprised 200 head of cattle and 400 hogs, arrived in Montreal, Monday, and will be shipped to Great Britain, via Halifax. Messrs. Gordon and Ironsides are the consignors.

The English market at present is not in the most inviting shape, but a gradual improvement has been marked lately and it seems likely that the foregoing consignment will land on a good market.—Herald.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

was granted the use of the town hall for the evening of April 18th, on motion of Councillors Rutherford and Smith.

ARCHITECT W. BLACKWELL

submitted the following report, which was received: "As requested, I examined the town hall in Ashburnham and found central walls between shops fractured. I could not find anything to prove outside walls have settled any; moreover, knowing foundations to be good and masonry well built and bonded at right angles, which is proved by fractures taking a diagonal direction from outside walls.

"The central walls not having the weight on them that the outside walls have, they must have heaved owing to severe frost and lack of drainage.

"You will find when frost leaves ground the walls will go back to very near the original position, and if building is drained there will be no further trouble."

COUNCILLOR SMITH

did not think the fault lay in the drainage, but in the manner in which the building was erected. He had measured the cracks in the walls as they widened and as the frost went out of the ground they grew larger instead of diminishing in size.

The reeve did not think the frost had started to go out of the ground yet and advised leaving the matter in abeyance for a month or so, to give the building a chance to re-adjust itself.

MR. DAVID LAW

addressed the council, stating that Mrs. McNairn had been living at his residence for some time and although the council gave her occasional assistance, he did not feel disposed to allow her to remain in his home. When she first came there, it was on the understanding that it was only for a few weeks. He asked the council to take some action in the matter of providing Mrs. McNairn with a home and also in regard to recouping him in connection with the expense he incurred in keeping her.

While the council was debating the advisability of placing Mrs. McNairn in the Peterborough Protestant Home, Mrs. Jos. Curtis asked permission to address them. She also was sorely in need of help, having five children towards whose support her husband refused to contribute.

Councillor Calcutt suggested to the reeve that it wouldn't be a bad idea to give her Mrs. McNairn for a boarder. The reeve fell in with the idea at once and it was agreed that Mrs. Curtis should receive $5 a month and her firewood for the support of Mrs. McNairn. The latter old lady is unable to work, but quite capable of remaining in the home and looking after the little ones of Mrs. Curtis, while their mother is away washing or ironing.

On motion of Councillors Smith and Calcutt it was decided to David Law was awarded $9 for keeping Mrs. McNairn, on motion of Councillors Smith and Rutherford.

The council then adjourned.

BABY CARRIAGES.

—:o:—

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of tyles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

See our stock before placing the baby on wheels.

MADILL'S EMULSION

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request by physicians in other cities and towns of Canada.

CONTRADICTORY.

The little bills of daily life,
They vex our spirits sore,
And make existence oftentimes
A nuisance and a bore;
For everywhere, on every side,
These small tormentors rise—
These tantalizing little bills—
And stand before our eyes.

The butcher's bill, the baker's bill,
The bills for gas and coal,
The memos from the grocery,
Oh, how they vex the soul!
And yet how strange the fact that these,
Our worst tormentors, please;
For who was ever known to frown
At little bills called Ys?

THOMAS CARLYLE AND THE QUEEN.

An Unpublished Letter Describing His Interview With Victoria in 1869.

The subjoined account was written by Carlyle to his sister Jean, the wife of the late Dr. Aitken, of Dumfries. For sufficient reasons it has hitherto been withheld from publication:

Chelsea, March 11, 1869.—Dear Jean: Mary, I find, has inserted for you a small letter along with the one that belongs to the doctor. I have nothing of my own in the form of news beyond what that "child of nature" will have said.

All busy here—March winds "anel!" as possible (one's new cape not useless), but not unwholesome; fine, dry, and cold, instead of the wet, tepid puddle we have long had, and, in consequence, sleep a little better than then.

But my present business is to tell you exclusively of the Queen's interview, for which great object I have only a few minutes. Swift, then, if my poor hand but would! Interview took place this day gone a week. Nearly a week before that the Dean and Deaness (who is called Lady Augusta Stanley, once Bruce, an active, hard, and busy woman) drove up here and, in a solemnly mysterious, half-quizzical manner, invited me for Thursday, 4th, at 5 p. m.—"must come; a very high, indeed highest, personage has long been desirous," etc. I saw well enough it was the Queen's incognita, and briefly agreed to come. "Half past 4, come you," and then went their ways.

Walking up at the set time I was ushered into that long drawing-room in their monastic edifice. I found no Stanley yet there; only at the further end a tall old yeur pole (!) of a Mrs. Grote, the most wooden-headed woman I know in London, or the world, who thinks herself very clever, etc., and the sight of whom led me to expect Mr. too, and perhaps others, as accordingly in a few minutes fell out. Grote and wife, Sir Charles Lyell and ditto, Browning and myself; that I saw to be our party. "Better than nothing," thought I; "these will take off the edge of the thing, if edge there be"—which it hadn't, nor threatened to have.

The Stanleys and we were all in a flow of talk, and some flunkeys had done setting coffee pots and teacups of a sublime pattern, when her Majesty, punctual to the minute, glided in, escorted by her dame-in-waiting (a Duchess dowager of Athol) and by the Princess Louise, decidedly a very pretty young lady, and clever, too as I found out in talking to her afterward. The Queen came softly forward, a kindly little smile on her face, gently shook hands with all them three women, gently acknowledged with a nod the silent bows of us male monsters; and directly in her presence every one was at ease again. She is a comely little lady, with a pair of kind, clear, and intelligent gray eyes; still looks almost young (in spite of one broad wrinkle which shows on each cheek occasionally); is still plump; has a fine, low voice, soft; indeed, her whole manner is melodiously perfect. It is impossible to imagine a politer little woman; nothing the least imperious; all gentle, all sincere, looking unembarrassing—rather attractive even; makes you feel, too (if you have any sense in you), that she is Queen.

After a little word to each of us—to me it was, "Sorry you did not see my daughter" (Princess of Prussia), or "all sorry," perhaps so; which led us to Potsdam, Berlin, etc., for an instant or two. To Sir Charles Lyell I heard her say "gold in Sutherland," but quickly and delicately cut him short in responding. To Browning, "Are you writing anything?" (who has just been publishing the absurdest things). To Grote I did not hear what she said, but it was touch and go with everybody—majesty visibly without interest, or nearly so, of her own.

After this, coffee (very black and muddy) was handed round, Queen and three women taking seats, Queen in the corner of a sofa, Lady Erasmus in opposite corner, Mrs. Grote in a chair intrusively close to majesty; Lady Lyell modestly at the diagonal corner; we others obliged to stand and hover within call.

Coffee fairly done, Lady Augusta called me gently to come and speak to her Majesty. I obeyed, first asking, as an old, infirmish man Majesty's permission to sit which was graciously conceded. Nothing of the least significance was said nor headed; however my bit of dialogue went very well. "What part of Scotland I came from?" "Dumfries (where Majesty might as well go sometimes). Carlisle, Caer Lewel, a place of about the antiquity of King Solomon (according to Milton)," whereat Majesty smiled. Border Ballads and old James Pool slightly alluded to, not by name, Glasgow, and grandfather's ride thither, ending in moss-troopers, and streets vacant at 9.30 p. m.—hard, sound Presbyterian root of what has now shot up to such a monstrously ugly cabbage tree and hemlock tree; all which Majesty seemed to take rather well; whereupon Mrs. Grote rose good-naturedly and brought forward her husband cheek by jowl with Majesty, who evidently did not care a straw for him, but kindly asked: "Writing anything?" and one heard: "Aristotle, now that I have done with Plato" (but only for a minimum of time). Majesty herself (and I think apropos of some question about my shaky hand) said something about her own difficulty in writing to dictation, which brought forward Lady Lyell and husband, mutually used to the operation; after which, talk becoming quite trivial, Majesty gracefully retired with Lady Augusta, and, in ten minutes more, returned to receive our farewell bows, which, too, she did very prettily, and sailed out as if moving on skates, and bending her head to us with a smile.

By the underground railway I was home before 7 and out of the adventure, with only a headache of little moment.

Froude tells me there are foolish myths about the poor business, especially about my share of it; but this is the real truth, worth to me in strictest truth all but nothing, in the myths less than nothing.

Tell the doctor I intended writing him, but it is already (horrible to think!) a quarter past 4. Adieu, dear sister. Yours ever, T. C.

The Pea-Vine.

The large or pea-vine is not so much grown now as it was a few years ago. When it is thought desirable to get a large early growth to be plowed under the mammoth clover is to be preferred. But for feeding the large clover is too coarse. Besides, it gets down, is hard to cut close to the ground, and in the lodged places the leaves will fall off, making the hay nothing but a pile of coarse stems, which stock will not eat readily even when cut up. We grew some mammoth clover once, and concluded that common red clover was good enough for us. The medium red clover does not seed until its second crop. The mammoth clover seeds in the first crop of its second year, and does not make as much second growth as does the ordinary red clover if the first crop seeds well. It might be thought that this would be a good crop to grow with timothy, but the mammoth clover makes so large a growth that it crowds the timothy out. If you want to have clover and timothy grow together it is better to sow alsike clover. This will not at all injure the timothy growth, and after the alsike has been cut, a second crop of pure timothy grass may be cut, the same year, if the land is good. The effect of any clover is to increase fertility and make the grass seeded with it hold longer without running out than it would if the grass were sown alone.

A Powerful Antiseptic.

Extensive researches made upon corrosive sublimate by Dr. McClintock of London show though the substance is not a valuable germicide—germs withstanding its action for some time—it proves to possess, of all substances, the greatest antiseptic power, so that a germ treated with the article, unless perchance it gets into the blood or is exposed to very exceptional conditions, is powerless to grow—that is, it is probable that a spore of subtilis or anthrax treated with sublimate, 1 in 1,000, and then thrown on the soil or into water, will not germinate, owing to the fact that the capsule of sublimate surrounding it is not removed.

It is found that corrosive sublimate forms with cellulose, as cloth, filter paper, etc., with silk, with albuminous bodies, with some part of bacteria, probably the envelope, a chemical compound that cannot be removed with any amount of washing in water. Thus sublimate when acting on a germ forms a capsule around it that protects the germ for a time from the further action of the sublimate and in turn forms an impenetrable barrier to the growth of the organism unless removed. This barrier may be removed with salines.

The Prince as a Horse Breeder.

A lot of shire horses bred by the Prince of Wales was sold recently at Wolferton, and this is how it was done: A big tent was set up, in which free lunch was served, over 1,000 people coming to it by special train from London. The Prince himself presided, and proposed the health of the Queen. With him were his two daughters, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince Christian, and a sprinkling of the nobility. After luncheon the bidding began, and fifty horses were sold for $97,500.

THAT'S THE AMOUNT INVESTED IN ENGLISH CO-OPERATION.

The Societies Now Number 17,000, and Are the Direct Outcome of the Rochdale Pioneer Movement—What Has Been Done—Principle Underlying the Work.

Such success as the co-operative principle has been met in Canada has been confined chiefly to building and loan associations and cheese factories. In England, on the other hand, the principle has been employed most successfully in the conduct of retail and wholesale stores. But even in England the operation of the system has not been universal, having been confined for the most part to the northern and midland regions, having met with little success in London. In December, 1344, twenty-eight weavers of Rochdale established the Equitable Pioneer Society, with a capital of $140, raised by assessments of 2d and 3d a week. They were chiefly Socialists of the Owen school and Chartists. One of them went to Manchester and bought at wholesale a supply of flour, sugar, butter and oatmeal, from which stock each co-operator bought what he needed at the current price. The experiment was repeated, and it soon became necessary to hire a room, which was open only in the evenings, the weavers taking turns as salesmen. Then came a time when it was necessary to employ a manager and assistants. The first year there was a profit of $160 to divide among the members, the second year one of $360, and the third year one of $400. This year the society celebrated its jubilee by making a gift of $5,000 to the Rochdale Infirmary.

The example of the Rochdale pioneers was followed elsewhere, until to day there are 17,000 co-operative societies in England with 1,800,000 members, an aggregate capital of $90,000,000, an annual business of about $250,000,000, and annual profits of nearly $28,500,000. In 1864 the societies established a wholesale store in Manchester, and in 1869 another in Glasgow, from which most of the rental societies procure their stocks. More than 1,000 societies, with 825,000 members, have subscribed to the stock of the wholesale society, and its sales for 1893 amounted to more than $47,500,000. It owns seven ocean-going steamers, which bring home its purchases from abroad, and its agents sometimes buy the entire product of a fruit-growing district or island. It has boot and shoe factories at Leicester, soap works at Durham, woolen cloth works at Batley, etc.

The societies are conducted practically as that at Rochdale began fifty years ago. To become a member one has to subscribe £1 or, in some cases, £2, to the capital stock. Purchasers pay the current prices for goods and at the end of the quarter receive a dividend based on the amount of their purchases. Non members receive dividends, but generally about 25 per cent. less than members. Business is conducted on cash principles, and it is managed by a committee elected annually by the members. The dividends may be allowed to remain on deposit, up to the amount of £200, and they draw 5 per cent. interest. Many of the societies maintain reading-rooms and libraries for their members, support free lectures and evening schools, and pay the fees of the children of members who desire to attend technical classes. The movement originated with the working classes and has been managed entirely by them. Since 1869 national congresses of co-operative societies have been held annually, and since 1871 the "Co-operative News" has been maintained as the organ of the co-operators.

Kept Prisoner on an Island.

Held for over a year a prisoner on an uninhabited island, starved and treated as a slave, is the story revealed by Mrs. Ella Triplett in a petition for divorce against her husband of Youngstown, Ohio. While Triplett, who is a detective, was employed there in hunting down a gang of barn burners he met the plaintiff at East Lewistown, and they were married. Later at Canton, Ohio, she caused his arrest for adultery, but the case was settled. Triplett took his wife down the Ohio River to an uninhabited island, where he kept her for a year, visiting her occasionally. Through a friend's visiting the island she escaped to Bienneriassett Island, and later reached her relatives in the county. Since then she has never seen Triplett, and now desires a divorce.

Editor of the Rappel.

Auguste Vacquerie, journalist, poet and dramatist, died in Paris a few days ago. He was a follower of Hugo and Musset and was one of the founders of L'Evenement. His brother Charles was married to Leopoldine Hugo, the great poet's daughter, and died tragically soon after. Vacquerie was, together with Charles and Francis Victor Hugo and Paul Menrice, a founder of the Rappel in 1865, and after the downfall of the Empire he became its chief editor.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

BIG FORTUNES IN FURS.

AN ENGLISH FURRIER GIVES SOME DETAILS OF HIGH PRICES.

The "Splendid Pauper" Coats of Fur That Cost $5,000—Altered Every Year to Suit the Fashion—Fine Wardrobe of Fur Worth $75,000.

Speaking of the $4,000 fur coat stolen from Lady Warwick, in connection with her description of herself as a "splendid pauper" under the new English tax laws, a furrier says to the Westminster Budget:

"As a matter of fact, $4,000 for a lady's fur coat is absolutely nothing out of the way in our experience. On the contrary, it is rather a low price for a fur coat of a lady of means and social position. There are large numbers of such ladies who wear fur coats of about $4,750 to just over $5,000 and now and again, not so very rarely, we make a coat up to $7,500."

"What kind of fur are these coats lined with?"

"There are three kinds of expensive fur—Russian sable, natural black fox and sea otter. But it is not the lining only that makes the coat expensive. The trimming is another very valuable—often the most valuable—part. Take a set of Russian sable tails; that alone costs $40,000, nor is this surprising, since we pay $400 for one tiny skin as it comes to us straight from Russia, in an undressed state."

"Then what constitutes such a set?"

"Simply a plain front, collar and cuffs and a deep garniture round the coat. But remember how many tails go to such a set and remember also, that this is the most beautiful fur that could possibly be had."

"I suppose a coat like this lasts forever?"

"It does last for many years, unless ladies are careless with it. But if you give them very hard wear and neglect them, it is only natural that they should soon be spoilt."

"But what about your changes in fashion? Is the $5,000 fur coat worn whether it is made fashionable or not?"

"Oh, no; a great number of these coats come back to us every year to be altered according t the latest fashion."

"Are your customers of this class very fastidious and troublesome about these costly garments?"

"No, not in the very least. Of course, there may be exceptions occasionally, but, on the whole, these ladies are far easier to please than many. They have confidence in us; they know that the firm would supply nothing but what was thoroughly good and genuine. It is the people who want an ancient sealskin jacket altered, or something of that kind, who often prove the most troublesome. They seem to think that we can put the fur back on the animal, and turn it, from being worn and rotten, into new material. We do anything which it is possible to do; but to turn old fur into new is beyond the limitation of even the cleverest furrier."

"To turn to the 'splendid paupers' fur. What constitutes a complete wardrobe of furs?"

"A long coat, a short one, perhaps a third, trimmed with fur, and a muff and cape. Such a wardrobe is worth several thousand, and you would be surprised to know how many ladies have such a wardrobe. They look upon their furs as upon their jewels, it seems. I know one customer of ours whose wardrobe of fur is worth $75,000, and only the other day we made a coat for $10,000, and the trimming for the coat of another lady cost $5,000."

"Then about fur coats for men. It looks as if they were becoming more popular. Is that so?"

"It is, indeed. Even six or seven years ago Englishmen seemed ashamed to wear fur coats, and if you saw a man in such a coat you set him down at once to be either an actor, an artist or a foreigner. That is no longer so, although there are still a good many men who are a little shy about the matter. They want a fur coat, but they don't want it to be recognized as such. So they have a coat lined with fur, but they don't have a fur collar or cuffs. And since we have made it for years a special feature to make fur coats fit, it is quite possible for a man to wear a fur lined overcoat that looks exactly like an ordinary overcoat.

"The majority of men, however, do not mind it being noticed that they wear fur coats. And why should they? Surely a man who goes out to his club or to dinner at night, in evening dress, which is much thinner than the clothes he wears during the day, requires a fur coat. But men's coats are far less expensive than ladies'. We make them up to $2,500 or $3,000, but we also sell good coats, lined with muskrat (which is the best fur for wear), at $50. That is our cheapest coat. The average price a man pays is from $250 to $500, but there again the collar and cuffs form an important part of the value."

Keen Appreciation of Wit.

Father Healy, the celebrated parish priest of Killiney, was a true wit. Mr. Balfour, while he was Chief Secretary for Ireland, once asked Father Healy if the Irish hated him as heartily as the newspapers declared they did.

"If they only hated the devil half as much as they hate you," said the honest father, "there would be no work left for us to do."

Once he sent a sort of Mr. Malaprop to England to buy a horse for him.

"I didn't buy him," said the man on his return, "because he had a touch of the vernacular."

"Then you should have bought him," said Father Healy, "for he must have been a lineal descendant of Balaam's ass."—Youth's Companion.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as General Harrison Out of Danger.

Indianapolis, March 12.—Gen. Harrison passed another day of absolute rest and made continued improvements. Dr. Jamieson said last night that his condition was absolutely free from the dangers of the first stages of the attack which developed a week ago when the ex-President had a narrow escape from pneumonia.

The Trial of Josephine Begin.

Sherbrooke, Que., March 12.—In the murder case before the court here yesterday the looked-for evidence of the prisoner herself was introduced. She took the stand after the defence had finished with the medical men, whose examination was decidedly in favor of the prisoner. The poor girl was exceedingly nervous. She was examined by her lawyer, Mr. Belanger, who drew out the history of her acquaintance with the deceased. The jury and everyone in court were visibly affected by the revelations which she made. Her examination was postponed until to-day.

A Millionaire Maltster Fails.

Buffalo, March 12.—Ex-Mayor John B. Manning, the maltster, and the firm of John B. Manning & Sons, maltsters, made a general assignment yesterday morning. The assignment has created considerable excitement in business circles. Mr. Manning is one of the largest maltsters and dealers in Canada barley in western New York. His property is estimated to be worth $5,000,000. Mr. Manning says that he hopes to be able to continue his business as usual.

Arrested for Desertion.

Providence, R. I., March 12. — Mrs. Thomas Jameson, of Johnston, sent her husband to Quebec two weeks ago to transact business in her name. Jameson received $775 for her and started for home and, as he failed to reach here, it was supposed that he had deserted his wife. It now transpires that Jameson, who was once an able seaman on H.M.S. Pandora, was arrested in Quebec by an officer of that vessel and has been held to await court-martial in England, having deserted the Pandora at the Barbadoes.

Wants The Company Wound Up.

Halifax, March 12.—F. A. Farrar, of Boston, vice-president of the South Shore Railway Company, has filed a petition in the Supreme Court asking that the company be wound up and a receiver appointed. An order has been granted restraining creditors from entering up judgments until the petition is heard.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 12, 1895.

Dressed hogs are firm at $6 per cwt.

Barley is quiet on the Buffalo market with demand only for Canada barley and on the figuring between buyers and sellers there is a descrepancy of about one cent in their views. No. 1 is quoted at 65c, No. 2 at 63 to 63½c, No. 3 extra at 60 to 61c.

Wheat opened firm in the speculative markets and advanced a little, but declined slightly again in the afternoon. Toronto sales for red and white run at 69c. No. 1 hard grinding in transit at Sarnia is quoted at 82c.

Exporters are paying 57½c for peas. They are the outside. European cables were lower.

Mixed oats are 33c west.

In Chicago May wheat fell off ¾c yesterday on account of the showing made in the Government crop report while cash was firm and ½c higher. Provisions were higher.

Canada stockers were quoted yesterday at $2.75 to $3.25 on the East Buffalo market. Sheep and lambs were dull and weak. Choice 90 to 100 lb. wethers brought $4 to $4.70; export wethers $4.75 to $5; culls $1.50 to $3.25 and fair to choice lambs $4.25 to $5.90.

Eggs have still further declined in Buffalo, the shipments of Canadas received last week costing 16 to 20c in the home market were sold off at a decided loss. New York is glutted and all Eastern points report demoralization in values. Yesterday strictly fresh sold on the lower market here in crates at 15c and grocers are unable to get 18 to 20c at retail. On the local market there is a decline of 6 to 8c per dozen as they are coming in freely. Prices: Newly laid, 16 to 17c; limed, none.

Coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

THE G.T.R.'S FINANCES

Mr. Barker Makes His Report to the Dissatisfied Shareholders.

NO WORSE THAN EXPECTED

Deficits in the Earnings of the Toledo, Saginaw and Muskegon Road Made Up Out of the G. T. R. Gross Earnings—Advances to Other Roads.

London, March 12.—At the last half yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway a committee of dissatisfied shareholders asked for an investigation of the road's accounts. This was agreed to and Mr. Barker, formerly of the Great Western, was chosen for the work. Various reports with reference to Mr. Barker's report have been in circulation, stating that a floating indebtedness had been found, etc. The report is addressed to Mr. Price and other leading stockholders who formed the deputation that insisted on the examination. It is strictly an accountant's enquiry, and is highly technical. It makes no comments. The deputation complains that the board has not issued with the report a detailed statement without which it is difficult to understand the report. The deputation, therefore, are also circulating an abstract of chief statements and are inviting the proprietors of stock to forward their names with a view to a conference of the largest security holders. Mr. Barker's report to the committee of dissatisfied shareholders says that the authorized loan and capital are correctly stated in the board's report as bearing an annual interest not exceeding £1,374,690, of which £45,000 are unexercised. The advances made on account of Chicago and Grand Trunk are £321,877. The deputation's analysis of Mr. Barker's report shows that besides this £377,614 advanced to the Chicago and Grand Trunk included in the company's asset of accounts due, £143,236 have also been advanced and do not appear in the Grand Trunk balance sheet as an asset or as debited to Chicago and Grand Trunk. For these advances the Grand Trunk hold coupons amounting to £697,074, yet in the report for December, 1893, the board said the suspense accounts had been wiped out. The delegation deduce from the report that between May 1888, and June, 1894, the Grand Trunk Company took out of its gross earnings £37,561 to make up a deficit on the interest of the Toledo, Saginaw and Muskegon road. These advances do not appear in the Grand Trunk accounts as a deficit against the Toledo road, but the Grand Trunk holds the unpaid coupons of the road for these advances. Yet during the same period there was credited in the Grand Trunk net balance statement as interest on the Toledo bonds £38,207, nearly the whole of which had been deducted from the Grand Trunk's own gross earnings. In addition to the £13,735 shown in the Grand Trunk balance sheet as accounts due to the company, the other advances to and obligations of the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee roads amount to £219,531. Mr. Barker finds that the board obtained to June 30, 1894, temporary loans of £350,000. The deputation says that Mr. Barker shows that it has apparently been the custom of the Grand Trunk to include in the deduction of interest on acquired bonds and obligations on controlled lines the whole of the interest on the bonds owned by the Grand Trunk as if it had been collected in cash.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

The Points That Will Be Discussed at the Peace Commission.

London, March 12.—The Times correspondent in Pekin says: China has agreed that the points to be discussed at the Peace conference with Japan shall include the independence of Corea, the cession of territory, the payment of such an indemnity as the envoy may determine. No imperial edict relating to the war has appeared in a month and no reference to the peace negotiations has been published. There is ostensible harmony among the high officials here as to China's attitude towards Japan, for the abandoning of the war policy is now generally recognized as the only possible course. Li Hung Chang will leave Tien-Tsin on March 14 to fulfil his mission. There is great doubt whether or not he will succeed in reaching an agreement with the Japanese as to the terms of peace.

The Man Dressmaker Dead.

Paris, March 12.—Worth, the famous dressmaker of Paris, is dead. M. Worth was born at Bourne, in Lincolnshire, in 1825, and the King of Fashion was therefore not, as generally supposed, a Frenchman, but an Englishman. He was employed for some time at a well known firm in Oxford street, London, and thence proceeded to Paris. M. Worth has made dresses for all the Queens of Europe, with the single exception of Queen Victoria.

Desperate Juvenile Offenders.

Chicago, March 12.—A fire in the state home for juvenile offenders broke out yesterday morning. Girls were screaming and stamping up and down the passages, tearing their clothes and cursing and reviling those in charge. Six of the girls were arrested. They complain that they are starved and imprisoned in a dungeon for trivial offences and that the fact that they are sentenced to the home until they become of age nerved them to desperation.

An Unusual Closing Ceremony.

Indianapolis, March 12.—A bitter quarrel occurred between Lieut.-Gov. Nye and Gov. Matthews shortly before noon yesterday. This was the last day of the Legislature and the Lieut.-Gov. took advantage of his constitutional right to pass no bills. Gov. Matthews demanded the passage of the prize fighting bills. Nye refused. The governor left in a rage and blows were narrowly averted.

Considering a Plan of Confederation.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 12.—The Newfoundland Government is daily holding caucuses for the purpose of considering a plan of Confederation with Canada. There is considerable opposition among the party to Confederation but it is expected that a delegation from here will go to Canada by the next steamer to solicit terms from the Dominion.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. G Gumpricht is in town. Orders may be left at Messrs Taylor & Mcdonald's or at the Peterborough Whitestore.

THE UNIVERSITY TROUBLE.

A Commission Will be Appointed in a Few Days to Investigate.

Toronto, March 12.—The Local Legislature sat but little over half an hour yesterday, during which time the important matter of the University trouble was aired to some extent. Mr. Whitney moved for a return of copies of all correspondence between the Minister of Education, or any member of the Government, and the authorities, or any of them, of University College relating to the matter at issue between the students and the authorities of the College, and also for a return of copies of all letters received by the Minister of Education and by other members of the Government since the first day of January, 1891, recommending persons for positions on the staff of University College and of the School of Practical Science.

He said that the subject was one of great interest and had been agitating the public mind for some time. He wished to be very careful in his references because of the strained relations which existed between the students and the faculty. He simply wished to draw the attention of the Government to the fact that there was a feeling of unrest among the 800 students and it was thought by many that there must be some cause. In 1891 he had introduced a bill in connection with the length of the University terms. Complaints were made at that time with some of the teaching staff. A year ago similar complaints were made. The public mind had arrived at the conclusion that there must be something wrong. He trusted that the enquiry would not stop until the root of the whole matter had been got at.

Hon. Mr. Ross thanked Mr. Whitney for the moderate manner in which he had introduced the matter. Within a few days the commissioners who would be charged with the investigation would be named and a careful inquiry would follow. The motion was carried.

County Council Grants.

Mr. Little asked how many county councils in the Province have accepted the offer of a grant of $4,000 from the Government of the Province towards erecting houses of refuge for the poor in their respective counties; the names of the counties, if any, that have accepted the grant; are the houses of refuge, so established, under Government inspection, and if so, are the reports which are furnished the Government satisfactory and in favor of this system of maintaining the poor.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said that the counties of Wellington York, Brant, Lincoln, Norfolk, Waterloo, Welland, Elgin and Oxford were in receipt of the grant, having complied with the conditions. Buildings were being erected in Huron, Haldimand, Lambton, Leeds and Grenville. The institutions were under the supervision of the Government only to the extent of inspection.

Deer Season Changed.

Hon. Mr. Gibson in reply to a question by Mr. Barr said that it was evident from the number of petitions sent in to the Government that the change of the open season for deer killing, to between October 20 and November 15 made three years ago had not been in the interests of deer protection. The Government was therefore seriously considering the advisability of reverting to between November 1 and November 15 as the only period during which deer may be killed. About the dogs he could not say this session.

Why Was He Appointed?

Mr. McLaren moved for an order of the House for a return of copies of all correspondence relating to the appointment of Alfred Knight as clerk of the First Division Court of the counties of Lennox and Addington. The motion carried.

Who They Are and Where.

Dr. Ryerson wants to know the name and address of every license commissioner who has been appointed in the Province during the past three years. The Government will supply the information.

Farmers Restricted.

Mr. Richardson moved the second reading of his bill to empower municipalities to forbid farmers selling on the market before 9 a.m. in summer and 10 a.m. in winter. The motion carried.

A Municipal Change.

Mr. Gamey moved the second reading of his bill to enable county treasurers to make returns on non-resident lands to the municipalities on September 15 instead of July 1. He also moved the second reading of his bill making it optional in the case of a vacancy in a reeveship after certain dates whether an election be held or the members of the council appoint his successor for the balance of the term. Both bills passed the second reading.

A Female Factory Inspector.

Dr. Ryerson gave notice that he would introduce a bill providing for the appointment of a female factory inspector.

Cabinet Meeting Called.

THE TWO EXTREMES!

HATS and BOOTS

Early Styles for Spring Trade.

25 cases of New Goods for the coming spring have already been opened out, consisting of 10 cases of the latest styles of English and American Spring Hats, and 15 cases of Solid Comfort Boots, Shoes and Slippers, from the best makers in the world.

At the HEAD to Stay!

Words are weak in attempting to describe our range in everything that goes to make up the smartest HAT STOCK to be found. We aim to get every first-class idea for the "top" extreme, and we are sure to please, as we we are always—"AT THE HEAD TO STAY."

WIVES, SISTERS, MOTHERS, do you like that Hat your Husband, Brother or Son wears? Send him to a Hat Store where they fit Hats to THE STYLE OF THE MAN. What looks well on some folks may not look well on him. We have a happy knack for head dressing. Don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece—look like prosperity. We have the pick of the styles from such famous English makers as Stanley & Co, Jackson & Co and Wilkinson & Co; and we have the celebrated American EAGLE brand of Fur Hats, union made. The prices won't scare you, either. If you buy your Hats at GOUGH'S you'll soon find out that you save just 20 per cent.

At the FOOT to Lead!

People who wear our Shoes say they enjoy as much solid comfort as the old-timers who wore sandals. But ours are handsome as well as comfortable. We sell easy fitting, durable Shoes, with all the style put on to them that such artistic makers as Slater & Son, of Montreal, can invent. We have all intermediate makes, as well as the cheaper grades from Lower Canada, where they don't pay much for making—sometimes nothing at all.

LADIES are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.00 and $4.00 we mark at $2.00 and $3.00. Cheaper lines run from 75c to $1.50.

GENTLEMEN are reminded that all the best Boots marked at other stores to sell at $3.50 and $5.00 we mark at $2.50 and $3.90. Cheaper lines run from 90c. to $1.75.

It's the same way with Misses, Boys and Children's Boots and Shoes—the goods and prices will do the talking better than anything we can say.

PROTECTION VS. FREE TRADE

The Revised Tariff of 1894 Has Not Relieved the Consumer of Any Taxes—The Protected Manufacturers Not Giving Out Any More Employment.

Ottawa, March 12.—The Citizen, the Government organ here, notices a discussion which is going on in the eastern press as to the following recent declaration of the views of Sir John Macdonald on the question of protection vs. free trade: "Sir John was timid unto death of protection, had to be bullied into it, committed to it by others. But when he thought it grown he used it as a bridge to reach the power he liked to wield. And when his hosts had followed over they cried: 'Behold the bridge Sir John has built.'" This testimony is attributed to Sir Hibbert Tupper, but the Citizen very truly points out that it was only an ordinary Conservative member of Parliament who bore the testimony. It is quite true, however, if we are to believe all the evidences, including the testimony of Mr. Dalton McCarthy and Mr. Goldwin Smith. The latter, who gave great assistance to Sir John Macdonald prior to 1878, says that Sir John Macdonald on being warned that the Conservatives were being lead into protection said: "You won't catch me in that hole." Sir Charles Tupper has never to this day believed in protection. While criticizing the budget when Sir Richard Cartwright was Finance Minister, Sir Charles used the following language, with reference to the proposal to increase the customs duties from 15 to 17½ per cent.: "The policy of the new Government would be burthensome to the working classes of the country. Nothing could have been more detrimental to the shipping interests of Canada. The whole policy of the Government was the thin edge of the protectionist wedge." Sir Mackenzie Bowell is the first leader the Conservatives have had since Confederation who is, as one of his colleagues recently described him, "A dyed-in-the-wool protectionist." Judging by all the signs he has very few followers.

High Taxation.

One of the reasons why Sir Mackenzie Bowell will have few followers on this question is that people are not going to consent to be taxed 65 and 70 per cent. on their rice, a wholesome article of diet especially used by the poor. There are only two rice cleaning factories in Canada, employing less than 50 hands, and yet the tariff enables the owners of these two factories to make the enormous sum of $193,000 a year at the expense of the consumers of rice. Nor will the consumer willingly continue to be taxed 95 per cent. on his coal oil.

A False Revision.

To show that the revised tariff of 1894 has not relieved the consumer of any taxes, it is only necessary to refer to the official trade returns for the last six months compared with the corresponding six months in 1893, when the old tariff was in force. The dutiable imports entered for home consumption for the six months ending December 31st, 1893, amounted to $98,845,718, on which a duty was collected of $10,198,850, an average duty of 31.3. This was under the tariff before it was revised last session, and, as Conservative stump orators will say, also reduced. Let us see how much it was reduced. The total dutiable imports entered for consumption for the six months ending December 31st, 1894, were $98,046,705, on which a duty was collected of $8,701,135, an average duty of 31.2. This was under the revised tariff, and the reduction in the rate of duty amounts to the enormous sum of one-tenth of one per cent. Taking some of these months by themselves, the rate of duty under the revised tariff is higher, while in others it is a little lower, and for the half year just about the same. Any assertion, therefore, that the revised tariff compels the people to pay any less in duty falls short of the truth, according to the official figures published in the official Gazette. Some people must wonder once in a while what has been accomplished by the strenuous efforts of the Government during the past 17 years to protect a certain class of manufacturers from outside competition. The manufacturers have not shown any great degree of gratitude because they have made the predictions of the supporters of the National Policy utterly fall of realization. They are not giving employment to the unemployed, nor are they paying any wages higher than the market price of labor. They have not even accomplished the biggest prediction of all, that they were to extend their trade into foreign countries until Canada became known as a great manufacturing nation. The exports of Canada in manufactures for the ten years of 1873 to 1883 amounted to $41,892,897, and for ten years of the N. P. period, 1886 to 1893, the exports amounted to $42,530,211. Here is a paltry increase of eight millions in ten years, and per head of the number employed, a decided increase in our exports of manufactures. The industrial census claims an increase in the number of employees in manufacturing establishments of 112,000 during those ten years, and if these figures were not mere moonshine, got up for political purposes, surely the labor of these 112,000 extra employees would be seen in the export of manufactured goods, but instead of that there are the poor results shown above.

Tory Tactics.

The presence of Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., as the prosecutor in the celebrated murder trial in Elgin county recalls the announcement published shortly after Mr. Bowell became Premier, in the Conservative press, as follows: "There is a possibility of B. B. Osler, Q.C., one of the brightest legal minds of Canada, joining the Bowell Cabinet as Minister of Justice. Mr. Osler was formerly a Liberal, but their shilly-shally trade policy sickened him, until to-day he is in thorough harmony with the Liberal-Conservative policy. He will be a tower of strength to the new Ministry." This is amusing reading now, and particularly in light of the fact that a recent news item states that Mr. Osler may be offered the Liberal nomination in East Grey for the House of Commons.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

Mr. Whitney's Motion is Ruled Out of Order By the Speaker.

Toronto, March 13.—Affairs took rather an unexpected turn in Parliament yesterday. The order paper for the day promised nothing of interest. Several private bills were introduced and read, three Government bills were read a first time and Sir Oliver, anticipating that the House would go into supply and regular routine, rose from his place and proceeded to his office. He had only got outside the door when Mr. Whitney moved an amendment to the motion to go into supply. He moved that after five years the Government should refuse to contribute to the expenses of Government House. His amendment practically covered the same ground as that covered by Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, who gave notice last week that he would move a resolution upon the same lines.

Hon. Mr. Hardy objected to the amendment and quoted from parliamentary authorities to show that Mr. Whitney was out of order in moving an amendment the substance of which was contained in a matter already upon the order paper. Sir Oliver Mowat agreed with Mr. Hardy. The Speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Marter then moved an amendment condemning the present system of purchasing supplies for public institutions and demanding that all supplies should in future be purchased only by tender and contract.

The whole afternoon was spent in discussing the question pro and con. Hon. G. W. Ross moved the adjournment of the debate.

Public Accounts.

Mr. Matheson, the new Conservative financier, who takes the place of Mr. Clancy, at the meeting yesterday called for all accounts in connection with the mining development of 1894. He wishes to know more about the purchase of the diamond drill. The Government evidently consider the matter of some importance since a shorthand reporter is to be engaged to take down the discussion at the next meeting.

Hamilton Bills Considered.

Hon. J. M. Gibson was elected chairman of the Private Bills Committee yesterday. After considerable discussion bill No. 14, to confirm by-law 755 of the City of Hamilton, by which a bonus of $285,000 was voted to aid the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Co. was passed and ordered reported to the House. The other Hamilton bonus bill granting $75,000 and $60,000 for the promotion of iron and steel smelting works was held over until Wednesday next. Objection was taken to the clause which gave the company power to operate street cars and expropriate land.

Ontario Separate Schools.

Dr. Ryerson will on Thursday next ask the Government whether, under the recent decision of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council, the amendments to and the changes in the Separate Schools Act in Ontario passed since Confederation can be repealed by this Legislature.

And whether in the event of the repeal of any such amendments an appeal will lie to the Governor-General or the Governor-General-in-Council under the 93rd or other section of the B. N. A. Act.

Clerk of Forestry.

Dr. Willoughby will ask the Government next Thursday if they have appointed a Clerk of Forestry and if not do they intend to appoint one.

The Fees Commission.

Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, will ask the Government next Wednesday when the report of the Commission appointed to enquire into the method of appointment and payment of officials will be laid before the House.

Women Lawyers.

Mr. Wood gave notice that he would introduce a bill to provide for the admission of women to the study and practice of law. At present women are admitted as solicitors only. This bill if passed will also allow them to practice and appear before the high courts.

Inspection of Building Societies.

Dr. McKay gave notice that he would introduce a bill providing for the inspection of building and loan societies on the same plan as insurance companies are inspected.

Government Measures.

Hon. Mr. Hardy introduced a bill providing that jurymen shall be paid for Sunday work and that notices shall be placed in jury rooms informing the jurors as to the law about tampering with them.

Sir Oliver Mowat introduced a bill to prevent convictions under the municipal law being quashed because of technicalities regardless of the merits of the case.

WHITES AND NEGROES

Bloody Riot in the Streets of New Orleans.

NO QUARTER GIVEN THE BLACKS

The Negroes Taken Completely by Surprise—The Scene Like a Battlefield—No Arrests Made—Rioting All Over the City—Trying to End the Trouble.

New Orleans, March 13.—Another bloody riot occurred along the Levee yesterday morning. The scene of the conflict was on the river front between St. Ann and Dumaine streets. Three men were killed outright while a number were wounded. The killing was done by a mob of white men numbering about 200, who were armed with pistols and Winchesters. The negroes were about to begin work on the steamer Engineer, lying at that point, when the white men approached from all directions. All were armed and many took positions behind box cars and poured volley upon volley into the negroes. The negroes were given no quarter and were shot down like dogs, several innocent persons also suffering. As near as can be stated the shooting occurred a few minutes after 7 o'clock yesterday morning. There was a dense fog prevailing and this afforded the whites an excellent chance to do their bloody work. At the time there were only six policemen on the scene and there were no arrests made, as the police were as badly frightened as the negroes. They had just raised the tarpaulin off hatch No. 2 when the attack was made. They were taken completely by surprise and their cries were pitiful. Many sought refuge aboard the ship while some ran down the wharf and made their escape. One negro, it is stated, jumped under the wharf. After the shooting the men hurried off as fast as they had come. The mob fired recklessly on all sides, not caring who they shot.

Capt. Wood, of the Engineer, had just risen when the shooting occurred. He hurriedly dressed himself and came on deck and saw most of the conflict. He says that there was firing from all sides and the scene was like a battlefield. Captain Wood denounced the shooting as an outrage and when Mayor Fitzpatrick appeared on the scene the captain paid his compliments to his honor.

Mayor Fitzpatrick was much disappointed when told that there were no arrests made. He called the police together and read them a lecture on the importance of arresting the men who did the shooting.

It is said that the reason that there was not a sufficient force of police on hand at that hour was that the hour to begin work was 7.30 o'clock and the police had received orders to report at that time. The wharf at the point is almost totally covered with freight and near by are a number of box cars. The majority of the men in the mob concealed themselves behind these obstructions.

There was trouble yesterday at other points in addition to that above related. At another wharf a dozen negroes on their way to work were attacked by two gangs of white men who came out of Philip and Scrapatus streets, and before anybody knew what had happened several shots rang out. One negro staggered and fell and the rest of the band ran in terror in every direction. The whites who had done the shooting did not pursue the fleeing negroes. As soon as they had fired and the wounded man had fallen they quickly disappeared in the direction whence they had come. Doubtless a number of other negroes were slightly wounded but ran away and cannot be found. All the commercial bodies are in session with Gov. Foster present, to devise some means of ending the trouble.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S DELEGATES.

Will be Detained for a Couple of Weeks Because of the Grip.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 13.—Messrs. Whiteway, Bond and Emerson had intended starting on the steamer Grand Lake for Canada yesterday to arrange terms of confederation, but both Messrs. Whiteway and Bond are ill with la grippe and the former is confined to his bed. In consequence the delegates will not sail for Canada for a couple of weeks. The programme of the delegation was to get Canada's terms. They would then ask for a plebiscite in Newfoundland on the question, and if favorably received would go to the country on it, but not otherwise.

Nominations in Middlesex.

Cayuga, March 13.—The nomination for the bye-election to fill the vacancies in the Local House caused by the disclaiming of the seat by the member-elect, Mr. John Senn, was held here yesterday afternoon in the court house. Hon. Dr. Baxter was nominated in the Liberal interest and Mr. Senn re-nominated by the Patrons of Industry. The nominees made half hour speeches, after which Mr. Aylesworth addressed the meeting in behalf of Mr. Senn and was followed by Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Provincial Secretary, on behalf of Dr. Baxter. Mr. Charles Walker, of North Cayuga, and Mr. McNish, of West Elgin. The indications point to a week of bitter fighting before the election on the 19th inst.

Funeral of the Late Rev. Mr. Annis.

Hamilton, March 13.—The funeral of the late Rev. J. W. Annis, of London, took place yesterday afternoon from the G. T. R. depot to Hamilton cemetery. The funeral was very largely attended, the deceased minister being well known here. The members of the official board of the First Methodist church attended in a body, and many city ministers were present. Rev. John Kay conducted the services at the grave. The interment took place in the Thomas C. Watkins vault.

MILITARY VS. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The Farmers' Sun in its latest issue makes a rather interesting comparison between the expense of the Royal Military College at Kingston and of the Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph. From the latest published official figures the annual expenses appear to be as follows :—

Royal Military College	$70,584 72
Ontario Agricultural College	22,178 74

An idea of how part of the difference is made up is given by the list of salaries paid to the respective teaching staffs. In the Royal Military College, the list is as follows :

General Cameron, commandant	$ 3,185
Major Maynes, salary, etc	2,613
Capt Van st-aubenzie	2,000
Capt English	2,427
Capt Hanaisson	2,640
Prof Marris	2,709
Prof Martin	2,000
Prof F Day	2,000
Prof Duval	1,000
Lieut Morea	1,150
Lieut-Col. McGill	1,469
Prof J Waddell	2,000
Prof C L Worrell	2,000
Capt Wurtele	1,200
	$26,962

The staff of the Ontario Agricultural College is paid on a much more modest scale, thus :—

Prof Mills, principal	$2,000
Prof Panton, geology and natural history	1,200
Prof Shuttleworth, chemistry	1,600
Prof Dean, dairy husbandry	1,400
Prof Reid, veterinary science	200
J B Reynolds, assistant, resident master	1,000
G E Day, lecturer in agriculture	800
H L Hutter, lecturer in horticulture	800
R Harcourt, assistant chemist	600
W Clark, drill and gymnastic instructor	300
F C Harrison, librarian and natural history	1,200
A Putnam, shorthand, etc	800
	$12,916

In other respects, it is intimated by the Patron organ, the Military College is conducted on an unnecessarily extravagant scale in comparison with the Guelph institution, and it holds naturally that the education of expert farmers is of much greater importance to the country than the education of soldiers. Then the seventy thousand dollars expended to benefit only about one-third as many students as attend the Agricultural College, and who, although three times as many, cost more than three times less—a little over twenty thousand dollars. This is an emphatic object lesson of the greater economy (with an equal, if not greater efficiency) that characterizes an institution under the control of the Mowat Government. The disparity becomes much more emphatic when the objects and relations of the two institutions. The primary object of the Agricultural College is to teach the sons of tillers of the soil to make the earth more productive. The primary object of the Military College is to teach the art of destruction. While one need not go so far as to say that the Military College is an unnecessary institution, it must be admitted that there is no comparison as to the relative benefit which the Military and the Agricultural College confers on the community. And no one will be found to say that there is any excuse for such institution doing less work and less useful work than another at over three times the expense. Extravagance seems inseparable from any public undertaking managed by the Dominion Government.

The Montreal Gazette is just now giving some attention to the fact that Mr. Laurier is, in his speeches, strongly condemning the corruption which has been so manifest in Conservative circles of late years. Such reference is naturally very unpleasant to any Conservative organ. But we must give the Gazette credit for honesty in its criticism. The Gazette says :

"The Conservative record in regard to this crime, it is regrettable to say, is not an enviable one. Men prominent in the Conservative ranks, members of Parliament even, trusted officials, foremost workers in the party cause, have not only been charged with corruption, but have had the charges against them proven. Since 1891, there has been a succession of scandals, almost everyone of which besmirched some Conservative and humiliated the party as a whole. Mr. Laurier has ground for his railings."

We told you so.

The Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, under the economical management of the Ontario Government costs a little over $22,000 a year, while the Royal Military College, Kingston, under the management of the Dominion Government, doing less work and teaching fewer students, costs over three times as much per year or over $70,000. The former is maintained in the interests of a class, the farmers, which in Canada, according to Conservative claims, produces one hundred million dollars for the home market and over fifty-three millions for export to which cheese, which the Agricultural College has done more than any other agency to foster, contributes over thirteen millions.

At Napanee on Friday Mr. Haycock, Patron leader in the Ontario Legislature, refuted the statement that the N. P. was so framed as to have the taxes fall lightly on the necessaries of life and heavily on the luxuries. Coal oil, the light of the poor man, was taxed 100 per cent.; clothing, that the law compelled a man to wear, was taxed from 30 to 80 per cent., while diamonds were admitted free.

At the adjourned convention of the Liberals of South Victoria Mr. George McHugh was nominated for the Commons. The Conservative candidate for South Victoria is Mr. Charles Fairbairn. Has Mr. Fairbairn got another promise from Hon. Mr. Bowell of a grant to the Portyprest, Lindsay and Bobcaygeon Railway?

The finances of the church are in a good condition, as considerably more has been raised the last two years than is required from this part of the mission.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING.

The After Effects of Acute Diseases Often More Serious Than the Original Trouble—How They Can be Avoided.

The after effects of acute diseases, such as fevers, etc., often produce more disastrous results to the system than the original disease. An apt illustration is the case of Mrs. J. E. Griffin, of White Head, N.B. Mrs. Griffin, says : "Twenty two years ago I contracted typhoid fever, which left in my system the seeds of disease which all these years have caused me much suffering and inconvenience. The trouble appeared to be mainly in the form of hip disease, making me very lame. This in time produced severe nervousness and frequently I passed sleepless nights. I tried many remedies but always without any marked benefit until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I have used in all ten boxes of this grand medicine, with the result that my lameness has disappeared, the feeling of nervous despondency is gone and I now always get sound, refreshing sleep. I feel very thankful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me and I now always recommend them to my friends who may be ailing."

Those who are recovering from fevers, la grippe, or acute diseases of any nature require a tonic and blood builder to fully restore the system to its normal condition and in such an emergency no other remedy is so successful as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly and promptly on the the blood, giving it a strong, healthy tone, and in this way brace up the whole system, giving the patient renewed health and vigor. Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail, hence the marvellous popularity of this medicine. Refuse all imitations and substitutes.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Our Keene boys are infected with hockey on the brain.

There is good ice in the skating rink at present and lovers of the amusement are taking advantage of the ice and never fail to escort the treasure of their heart to her home.

The eclipse on the moon Sunday night was witnessed by all our citizens with the exception of those who were too tired and sleepy to gaze towards the horizon.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. James Kane, who has been in poor health for several months, is still in a very dangerous condition.

The annual missionary meeting in connection with the Presbyterian church was held here on Monday night and proved a success both financially and other ways. Missionary lectures were ably delivered by Rev. Mr. Andrews, pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. Mr. MacWilliams, of Peterborough. The church choir rendered suitable music for the occasion.

The members of the Y.P.S.C.E. held a meeting in the basement of the church on Sunday evening. The lesson was expounded by Rev. Mr. Andrews in a very impressive manner. The prayer meeting was conducted by Miss Ella Londerville. The active members very punctually and reverently took part in prayer. We cannot refrain from expressing our gratitude to the young people of Keene for their untiring endeavours to advance the interests of this noble society.

SONS OF ENGLAND GRAND LODGE.

The Twentieth Annual Meeting Opened at Woodstock.

Woodstock, March 18.—The twentieth annual meeting of the Supreme Grand Lodge of the Sons of England met here yesterday afternoon, Wm. Hancock, Hamilton, presiding. After the opening ceremonies the credential and press committees were appointed and the lodge adjourned for an hour to allow the credential committee to prepare its report. Before resuming business Reeve Knight, in absence of Mayor Cole, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the town. The Grand President suitably returned thanks for the courtesy extended on behalf of the town. The Grand Lodge then resumed in secret session, when an address of welcome was tendered from the local lodge and telegrams of greeting read from several outside lodges. The credential committee presented their report, showing that 140 delegates presented credentials, representing 110 lodges. A large additional contingent, however, arrived on the evening train and there will be probably 200 delegates present to-day. Fraternal greetings were ordered to be sent to Orange Grand Lodge of British America, in session at St. Catharines and to the Sons of Scotland. The reports of grand officers were then laid before Grand Lodge. The Grand President's report detailed results of a visit made by himself and the Grand Vice-President last summer to the Maritime Provinces, which resulted in considerable extension of the order in that part of the Dominion. In reference to a proposal to institute district or provincial grand lodges, the Grand President expressed doubts as to the present necessity for such a change. He commended the work of local hospital boards and called attention to the extension of the order in South Africa and Australia.

The Grand Vice-President in his report noted a slight decrease in the average of new lodges opened. He strongly recommended the appointment of a travelling organizer to extend the order into new territory and strengthen the lodges that have already been instituted. He further urged the securing of a Dominion charter.

Grand Secretary Carter reported that 19 new lodges had been instituted during the year, making 208 lodges in actual operation. Over 2,000 members were initiated during the year, making at present a total membership of 12,546. Total cash to credit of subordinate lodges after meeting all liabilities, $50,042.90, an increase of over last year of $6,354.04. In beneficiary department $25,651.20 has been paid to heirs of deceased members during last year and there is a credit balance of over $4,000 on hand. In the juvenile department there are 20 lodges with a membership of 726 and a cash balance of $1,551.04.

Grand Treasurer Hinchcliffe's report showed that expenditures had somewhat increased in some departments.

The Grand Auditors' report noted on the other hand that the credit balance had improved in cash department.

During the discussion which followed the reception of the reports considerable interest was shown in the question of seeking Dominion incorporation. This proposal has been twice approved by the Grand Lodge and by a large majority it was decided to take preliminary steps for such purpose at once. The lodge held a night session which was spent in further consideration of the reports. Among the delegates present are some from Calgary, Victoria, B.C., Charlottetown, P.E.I., Fredericton and Moncton, N.B., Winnipeg and Brandon, Man.

The lodge will be in session until Friday night when a complimentary banquet will be tendered.

MAIL CARRIER ASSAULTED.

Claims He Was Set Upon by a Stranger and Stabbed With a Big Knife.

Bowmanville, March 18.—On Monday night as William Burrows, the baggageman, was returning from the station with the night mails he was overtaken by a stranger at the Rag Castle corner about a quarter of a mile from the station. The stranger said "good night" and then jumped on the sleigh and struck the driver a blow with a big knife on the left breast, but fortunately, while it cut through the two coats and vest that he wore, it did not inflict a wound on his body. The mail carrier grabbed the knife with one hand while with the other he gave the would-be robber a blow with the butt end of the whip which knocked him off the sleigh. Burrows then applied the whip to his horse and soon reached the town in safety and reported to Policeman Allen. The trunks of a commercial traveller were on top of the mail bags, otherwise they might have been snatched from the sleigh. The mail carrier escaped with a deep gash on the head. The point where the affair took place was not lonely as there were quite a number of houses in that vicinity and the moon was shining very brightly so that Burrows thinks he would identify the man if he saw him again. Some are inclined to doubt his story but he declares solemnly that the affair actually transpired as narrated.

The Need of Acids.

When there is much fat meat eaten, there will be a demand for acids. This is a genuine call of the system, but there is no special call for strong acids, such as lemons and pickles, if one has from day to day the proper supply of moderately sour fruit. It is a common mistake to use fruit only for "sauce" on the table, or encased in a rich crust or pie for dinner. No more healthful fruit can be eaten out of hand than apples, qut remember the old saying: "Apples are golden if eaten in the morning, silver if eaten at noon, and lead at night." Much sickness would be prevented if apples were freely used as an article of food.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St. John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

NATIVE TO TROPICAL AMERICA.

What is Known as the Vanilla Bean is Really the Fruit of an Orchid.

The so-called vanilla bean is not a bean at all, says Garden and Forest, but the fruit of a climbing orchid, Vanilla planifolia the capsule or pod of which is about three-eighths of an inch in diameter and from six to ten inches long and has certain resemblance to the so-called Catalpa bean. The plant in its native home in Mexico and tropical America climbs over trees and shrubs by means of slender rootlets sent out from the joints of the stem. It is not a true epiphyte, however, but always maintains its connection with the soil. In its wild state it climbs to a height of twenty feet but in cultivation it is kept within bounds so that the unripe pods are not injured when the others are gathered. A late number of popular Science News contains an interesting account of the method of growing the vanilla in which it is stated that in Mexico the plant is propogated by cuttings and then trained over some rough-barked trellis work in partial shade. When the plants were first introduced into the West and East Indies they grew vigorously and produced an abundance of flowers but no pods. It was discovered that the particular moth which fertilized the flowers in Mexico was absent from its new home and artificial polenation was resorted to after which the flowers produced abundantly. With a long splint of bamboo the lip of the flower is lifted away and the pollen is transferred from the pockets and applied to the stigma. The work is so easily done that one person can fertilise 1,000 flowers in a morning. The pods require a month to reach full size and six months more to ripen.

The process of curing is long and complicated and the aroma of vanilla is said to be produced only by fermentation. In the Island of Reunion in the Indian Ocean where the plant is grown extensively the pods are placed in a basket and plunged for half a minute in hot water then placed on a mat to drain and exposed between woolen blankets to the sun for six or eight days and kept in closed boxes during the night to promote a slight fermentation. When the pods are perfectly cured they are a dark chocolate color palable and free from moisture. When finally prepared the pods are tied up in bundles packed in air-tight boxes and when in prime condition they are covered with a frosting of needle-like crystals of vanillic acid which when pressed between the fingers gives off the characteristic odor. The supply sent to New York is produced in Mexico and is regarded as the highest quality. The amount imported is something like 150,000 pounds a year while in our Pacific coast a portion of the supply is derived from the Island of Tahiti although the quality of this is much inferior. The supply of London comes largely from Mauritius and Seychelles and the greater part of the vanilla imported into France comes from Reunion. Three years ago more than 500,000 pounds were imported into France from this island which was twice the amount produced in all the rest of the world.

WEAR ERMINE EVERY DAY.

The Toilet of a Lapland Woman Also Includes Whale Oil and Ornaments.

A fat old woman toddled down to meet me her broad face shining with whale oil, dress inside out to keep it clean, her husband's hair in a bunch on top of her head, her toes turned in and her elbows turned out—I felt that I fully realized my ideal, says a writer in Outing. With convulsive giggles she grabbed my hand firmly with one of hers with the other she patted me affectionately on the shoulder. Evidently I impressed her as presenting an utterly absurd appearance, for, after looking me all over, she would shut her eyes, shake her head from side to side and go off into a fit of laughter. Soon afterward another woman joined her, the wife of one of the chiefs. She was really pretty; her teeth were even and very white, her hands and feet shapely, her eyes of a dark hazel color, and a pretty tinge of red showed through the clear olive brown of her cheeks. Her black, heavy hair was plaited on each side of her head in a short, doubled braid, and she had a huge knot on top of her head that looked like a handle. This is made from the hair from the crown of the husband's head, which is saved periodically and collected to add to the wife's top-knot. This woman wore a beautifully sewed and elaborately trimmed dress, made of reindeer skin with the hair on it. It consisted of a skirt, reaching to the middle of the thigh, and trousers and shoes made in one garment, the trousers of the white, short hair of the legs of the deer; and shoes or moccasins of dressed sealskin. The upper garment was trimmed with bands of white deerskin and strips of wolverine fur, and the immense hood, in which the babies are carried, was edged with wolf's fur. An ermine skin, with head and claws still on, and an eagle's feather were attached to the hood as ornaments. From her waist was suspended a cord of whalebkin, to which were fastened needle case, seam presser, a shuttle for making nets—all of walrous ivory—and little thimbles of sealskin shaped like the end of a glove, with the side seams opened and fastened to the forefinger by a loop of the skin.

The Earliest Electric Launch.

The earliest passenger boat propelled by electricity is believed to have been that of Professor Jacobi, of St. Petersburg, Russia. It was 23 feet long, 7 feet wide and carried fourteen persons. The electric motor was operated by means of 320 Daniell cells. This was in 1838, on the River Neva. The earliest passenger car propelled by electricity is believed to be that of Alexander Davidson, of Edinburgh. It was in operation October, 1842.

ALD. A. F. STAGG, OF BROCKVILLE, ONT.

Restored to Perfect Health by South American Nervine.

Had Tried all the Local Doctors, but Failed to be Benefited.

Visited Massena Springs, but Returned in Despair—To-day Enjoys Perfect Health After Taking Nervine.

ALD. A. F. STAGG, BROCKVILLE, ONT.

A citizen whose influence carries a good premium is the growing town of Brockville is Ald. A. F. Stagg, an extensive stock dealer in that section of the province. For over fifty years he has carried on business in Brockville. The people know the man. How much he has accomplished during this half century in building up the municipality is known to them, and they have been ready to show their appreciation of these labors by making him a town father. Mr. Stagg, however, failed just where so many other men of active and aggressive temperament fail, namely, in exceeding his strength. About two years ago his nervous system became broken and shattered, and he was unable to do work of any kind. This was a serious blow to a man of so active a temperament, and with the volume of business he had on hand. He did, as any one else would do, and which is the natural thing to do, sought the assistance of the local doctors of the place. He tried not only one but all of them. Whatever the trouble was they seemed unable to master it, and did him no good. He went to Kingston, hoping to find greater medical skill in the Limestone City. He was no better off for his trouble. A friend influenced him to visit Massena Springs, it being believed that the peculiar charm that surrounds that spot would have the effect in giving back to Mr. Stagg his lost health. But it was simply a case of history repeating itself everything failed, and he remained home in utter despair, seeing nothing but early death before him. His neighbor, a Mrs. Johnston, who had been using Nervine with great success, recommended him to try a bottle. It cannot be said that he did so with any bright hopes of being benefited. To his great delight, however, he found almost instant relief. After taking several bottles he to-day says, in his own words, that he enjoys perfect health. To those who do not know the particular virtues of South American Nervine all this may sound like a miracle. Here was a man whose condition was known to every one in Brockville, for everyone knew Ald. Stagg, who was completely broken up in health, and whose disease the best medical skill could not relieve, much less remove, and yet a few bottles of this wonderful discovery, Nervine, gives back to him the health that two years previous he had completely lost. This is what Nervine will do in every case. Physicians fail usually because they doctor, as it were, on the surface. Nervine succeeds in every case because it immediately acts upon the nerve centers of the body, from which, as science has unmistakably demonstrated, flows the life blood of the system. When these nerve centers are kept in healthful condition disease that may exist in any part of the body speedily becomes an unknown thing.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
So lingering was poor Pa's diseases,
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They told what home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Pego,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one a kiss,
Also said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

WEST RIDING LIBERALS.

As announced in our advertising columns, a meeting of the Liberals, of the West Riding, interested in the success of the sound policy of the Liberal party, will be held in the office of Messrs. Stratton & Hall, Hunter street, Peterborough, on Friday evening, March 15th, to take into consideration matters in connection with the representation of the West Riding with reference to a convention of the Liberals of that riding to be held at an early date. It is obviously desirable that there should be as large attendance as possible in order that any action taken be as representative as can be. Every Liberal, who takes an active interest in the promotion of the welfare of that party, as associated with the welfare of the country and of the representation of this riding will can make it possible to attend, is urged to be present on Friday evening next. There seems to be no time to be lost. We do not know the date of the elections. The Dominion Government seems unable to emerge from its tangle of indecision, vacillation and disregard of the public interests sufficiently long to summon courage to announce the date of dissolution. It therefore behooves the Liberals of this riding to be ready for the contest whenever the Government's cowardice will permit them to announce it. Let there be a good attendance at the preliminary meeting next Friday night.

CATTLE REGULATIONS.

The Grand Trunk Railway, through the Vermont Central Railway, has succeeded in inducing the United States Government to so far relax the quarantine regulations as to allow of live stock being shipped to Britain via Portland, undergoing American Government inspection at Island Pond. Formerly sheep were allowed to be put aboard ship at New York, Philadelphia, Boston or Portland; under the new regulations they must be shipped from Portland only. These arrangements give the railways mentioned a monopoly of the land-carrying trade at Portland; as a result they charge 20 cents per head for cattle from Toronto to Portland, whilst their rate from Chicago to Portland, well nigh twice the distance, is only 28 cents. This is creating some grumbling among dealers here. One good effect of the new regulation will be the cheapening of ocean rates, because of the competition between vessels sailing from Halifax, or Montreal and Portland. Dealers claim that some agreement for more considerate rates should be come at if the idea is to have Canadian cattle go through to the old country via Portland instead of by Halifax.—Globe.

COMMANDANT BOOTH'S WIFE AT THE ARMY.

SHE ANSWERS THE CRITICS OF ARMY METHODS.

The Barracks Crowded With an Audience Anxious to Hear the Commandant's Gifted Little Wife Speak on Army Topics—A Banquet Tendered Her.

Mrs. Commandant Booth was at the Salvation Army Barracks and spoke to a large audience principally on her work in rescuing fallen girls from the slums in London, and on the subject of the various unkind criticisms which were directed against the methods pursued by the Army in its work.

Mrs. Booth is a little woman

OF MOST PLEASING ADDRESS

and appearance, and is the possessor of a voice which seems particularly adapted for Army singing. The several songs which she rendered before delivering her address were greatly appreciated.

In opening, the Commandant's wife stated that she was a soul winner and was proud of it. The Salvation Army was an army of soul-winners, whose one aim was to go into the darkest depths of degradation and pluck brands from the burning. Mrs. Booth loved the Army, she stated, because it gave the women a chance. The women were too much hampered in this world, they should be given a free rein. A properly sanctified woman could do much to help others. In speaking of women the speaker was reminded of a very rude question once asked a woman by a man. He queried as to how it was

WOMEN WERE SUCH FOOLS.

The clever answer was that she didn't know, unless God made them so to match the men.

By some the methods adopted by the Army were characterized as extraordinary, but Mrs. Booth thought the Army was justified in doing extraordinary things if thereby extraordinary sinners were reclaimed.

Others again found fault with the organization for the lack of decorum found in its ranks. This criticism was answered by the question as to whether the poor women in Toronto who were in the top stories of the buildings which were on fire recently, thought of decorum when they sprang from the windows in their night clothes. The urgent need allowed of no thought

FOR DECORUM OR CEREMONY.

So it was with the Army. The members realized the awful peril which menaced sinners and stopped not to think of conventionalities, but plunged into the rescue work. It was far better to be a little too noisy than half asleep.

A few people carped at the Army uniform, but Mrs. Booth thought it better to have a craze for the simple Army blue than for neckties and shirtfront like some women. The Army woman could devote her whole time to work. She need never be troubled about styles, for her bonnet was just as suitable for her at eighteen, as it would be at eighty-eight. Again the uniform served as a protection. Lone women in the Army regalia could go safely into the lowest slums in London—such slums as it would cost to enter. No insult was ever addressed to a Salvation lassie in these places. On the contrary, they were frequently met with the compliment, "Here comes one of those angels." In such clothes as they wore the Army people were able to do more for the Master than otherwise, as people knew at once who they were, and what was their object.

The Army was frequently subjected to attack on the ground that many of the converts became backsliders. In explanation of this point Mrs. Booth stated that all the Army could do was to bring to the sinner a realization of his guilt—bring him into contact with the cross and lead him to the foot of the Throne. The Army could not keep them there. It could bring them to Jesus, that was all.

After a brief reference to the social work the meeting was dismissed.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen. —Curling and Hockey.

HOCKEY.

The braves from the EXAMINER and Review staffs met at the rink last night for a friendly game of hockey, the expressed stipulation being that none but bona fide employees of either paper were to play. This condition was made by the Review, and so forcibly was the point dwelt upon that the EXAMINER changed the personnel of its team at the last moment and decided that a couple of good men whom they intended to play were pehaps not, strictly speaking, eligible, not being constantly employed in the office, but only at intervals. In view of these circumstances it was somewhat of a surprise to find the Review actually resorting in sport, as it does in politics, to subterfuges and intrigue, for when the teams lined up on the ice, a full blooded "ringer" blossomed into view in the person of young McWilliams. Being a clever player, his presence so encouraged and strengthened the Review team, that it was enabled to win the game handily.

The EXAMINER men were light, very light, and when their opponents took advantage of this fact and went in for heavy body and cross-checking, the ice was strewn with the wrecks of the EXAMINER boys, who at times narrowly escaped being thrown over the seats on to the cutting ice.

The game was of so gory a nature that Referee Lionel King declined to perform its duties on the ice, and watched the match from a safe position on the side seats.

Before the first goal was scored the game was very even, the puck being first at one goal and then at the other. Dobbin in goal for the Review was a veritable stone wall, his lacrosse experience standing him in good stead. The two McWilliams brothers both played star games, and for the EXAMINER Glover did some brilliant work at times. The two teams were composed as follows:

Review.		Examiner.
F Dobbin	goal	W Dredge
S Taylor	point	Roly Glover
G Heap	cover point	Alf Terrill
B Gorrans	forwards	F Hubbs
L McWilliams		D Costello
H Goldie		W Knapp
L McWilliams		W Milne
W Stocker	umpire	F Nesbitt

L King—Referee.

The return match will be played early next week when, if the Review plays none but bona fide employees, a closer game may be expected. Hockey, not shinny, will then be played, and all offsides called. There will be other things called too—cross-checking for example will not be tolerated. There was a Heap of it last night.

Heap was heard to remark last night before the match started that slugging was going to be his game, and truly he kept his word. Never before did a hockey gathering witness such brute force, and from the appearance of some of the boys to-day he did his work well. His conduct was beneath the respect of the spectators.

THE WHEEL.

The Globe says: "Peterborough wants this year's meet of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, and wants everybody interested to know of that desire. A neat circular setting forth fifty facts about the town, and giving reasons why the big gathering of wheelmen should be held there, has been sent to all the clubs, and the race is now on. Waterloo and Peterborough are the only entries so far."

DR. BOUCHER ON FOOD.

Second Lecture in the Course on Hygiene Delivered in St. Luke's School House.

St. Luke's school house was comfortably filled last night with an attentive audience gathered to hear Dr. Boucher lecture on the subject of "How we Digest our Food." The chair was taken by Mr. John Burnham, M.P. The lecture was an able one, free, so far as possible, from technical medical terms, so as to be within the comprehension of all. The subject of food and digestion is undoubtedly one of prime importance, for, as Dr. Boucher said, indigestion means malnutrition, leading not only to those maladies of the digestive organs, which patent medicine advertisements prove to be almost universal, but to a weakening of the system of such a kind as to cause its break-down at any weak point.

Digestion, said the lecturer, is that process by which the food taken into our mouths is transformed into such a shape that it can be taken up into the system. This process takes place in the alimentary canal, lined throughout with the muscous membrane and with blood and lymphatic vessels in various parts, which absorb the nutritious portions of our food. Various glands open into the alimentary canal and supply liquids aiding in digestion. Digestion itself begins in the mouth, where the solid food is broken up by the teeth, and mingled with saliva. It is of the utmost importance that food should be thoroughly masticated before swallowing, especially in the case of those whose digestive organs are naturally feeble or have become impaired. The stomach is the chief organ of digestion. Here the food is turned about, and mingled with the gastric juices becomes chyme, when this process is completed the chyme passes into the intestines, where it is acted upon by other fluids, as the bile from the liver, and the pancreatic juice, and is transformed into chyle. In its slow passage along the intestines all the nutritive portions are taken up with the blood and conveyed by the blood vessels into every part of the body.

Food is divided into three classes:

1. Nitrogenous, or tissue building.
2. Carbonaceous, or heat-producing.
3. Inorganic minerals, salts, etc.

A mixed diet is the best, although the climate is to be taken into consideration. In cold climates the heat producers, fats, etc., are required in large quantities; in warm, fruits and vegetables.

At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. H. T. Strickland, seconded by Mr. G. Stephens, and carried with applause. After singing the evening hymn the meeting dispersed.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Continued Large Attendance and Earnest Interest.

The meeting last night was fully up to any former meeting in interest and power. Mr. Moore's sermon was a faithful declaration of the consequences of wrong doing, and an earnest invitation to all to come to the Saviour from sin. Mr. Whyte sang with more than usual effectiveness. The after meeting was most earnest and thorough and was full of good results.

Meeting to-morrow afternoon in the Charlotte street church at 3 o'clock.

As Well as Ever

After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cured of a Serious Disease.

"I was suffering from what is known as Bright's disease for five years, and for days at a time I have been unable to straighten myself up. I was in bed for three weeks; during that time I had leeches applied and derived no benefit. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised in the papers I decided to try a bottle. I found relief before I had finished taking half of a bottle. I got so much help from taking the first bottle that I decided to try another, and since taking the second bottle I feel as well as ever I did in my life." GEO. MERRETT, Toronto, Ont.

FIBRE CHAMOIS

Better and Cheaper Than Haircloth.

Fibre Chamois Is now being recognized by all leading modistes as the only proper support for Puffed Sleeves, being far superior to anything else for this purpose.

A Garment interlined with Fibre Chamois cannot be injured by careless packing or crushing, as it will at once resume its correct form upon being lightly shaken.

Fibre Chamois is also of inestimable value in skirts and sleeves to be worn at the seashore, because it is not affected by damp air, as are materials deriving their stiffness from starch or glue.

Fibre Chamois does not cut through the bottom of skirts and ruin the boots.

THE PETER HAMILTON ILLUMINATED BUSINESS CARD.

Well Worthy of this Great and Progressive Establishment.

The Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company has issued one of the most beautiful, most comprehensive and neatest advertising cards ever issued by any industrial establishment in Ontario. It is in the form of a sheet 28 x 32 inches, and its trade designation is an "illuminated lithographic hanger." The ground work is of a rich blue, shaded with purplish mottlings. The centre of the card is the representation of a medallion containing a life-like picture of the Hamilton Light-Steel Binder at work, drawn by a spanking pair of bays, and tossing off the bound sheaves of the golden grain. Surrounding this central disc are eight other medallions, between five and six inches in diameter, each containing a splendid picture of the principal machines and implements, including the "Rival" Mower, and the "Crown" Mower, the "Ideal" Seeder, the "Elastic" Seeder and the "Elastic" Cultivator, "Spring-Toothed" and "Diamond" Harrow, and the "Improved Tiger" Hay Rake, Ensilage Cutter and Turnip Pulper, Hamilton's "General Purpose" Plough and "Star" Gang Plough. The pictures of all these machines and implements are in colours and so arranged as to give a capital view of their working parts in steel colour, while the frame work and heavy gear are in a vivid scarlet. The group of medallions is surmounted by two beautiful female figures, representing agricultural pursuits, while within the spaces between the medallions is filled rich ornamentation and above and below are disposed life-like representations in the natural colours of clusters of clover and timothy. The whole card, which is the work of the Toronto Lithographic Company, is artistically conceived and executed, and is in every way worthy of the great agricultural manufacturing entrenched, which is not only solidly established in the Midland District, but is pushing its way by the force of the merit of its products to all parts of the Province and the Dominion. Peterborough has good reason to be proud of the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company as that establishment has reason to be proud of the most beautiful and effective advertising card ever displayed in this or any other district.

SELWYN.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

On Thursday evening, of last week, a township Endeavour rally of the local societies, of the township of Smith, was held in the Presbyterian church, Mr. Jas. Roberts presiding. A good programme was successfully carried out. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Mr. Green. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Martin, of Peterborough, on Missions; Mr. Kennedy, of Peterborough, on Temperance; and Rev. A. R. McDonald, of Lakefield, on "How to maintain the Christian Life," which were interspersed with music furnished by the church choir. Mr. Croll, of Peterborough, sang a fine solo in good voice. The election of officers, of the local union, for the ensuing year, resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Rev. A. C. Reeves, B. A., Lakefield.
